WAITING IS WASTING

If your warm air furnace heats slowly . . . if you have one or more rooms that are always chilly . . . and you know the furnace produces enough heat to warm the house, but does not deliver it to the rooms above, you have the same heating problem that is common to many warm air furnaces . . . a problem which has been solved in many Columbus homes by the addition of an Electric Blower or Furnace Fan.

Electric Blower or Furnace Fans Can Be Purchased From Any Heating Contractor.

Waiting until cold weather before deciding to do something to make your furnace heat better is a waste of valuable time. Get READY NOW . . . be prepared for those first cold days and enjoy added comfort all winter.

The LOOKOUT

HIS OWN BACK YARD

A week ago, five local gentlemen, Doc Baker, Ote Leonard, Tim Chambers, Gail and Tim Henery, went fishing down on the Muskingum river. Bites of the mosquito variety were registered. Several colds were caught. But no fish.

A day later, Chet slipped out to Big Darby and landed a fine mess of bass. And the rest are mumbling something about "green fields far away."

"Journal Night Green," shouted newsboys on the corner in the glare of city lights. And a little lad, unused to city ways and methods, misunderstanding the cry, lamented almost tearfully: "No more ice cream!"

DIDN'T FOOL HIM

You should hear Jim tell about it, to get the full wallop. But it happened a month ago, just after he and his wife were married. They registered at Hotel Penn in Pittsburgh, and Jim, signing the register, paused and after much effort and re-grasping of pen, finally got Mr. and Mrs. James Matheny writ.

Looking up, he enlightened the onlooking clerk with the information that it was the first time he had ever written the names in that manner.

"I know it," cracked the clerk.

According to figures compiled by an insurance company, taking a bath is seven times as hazardous as flying in an airplane, and we suppose that'll give many people the excuse for which they've been looking for taking the dip only on Saturday nights.

AN OLD TRICK

It happened when the "old heads" of the Tri Mu class met the younger Glenwood M. E. team in a Hilltop Church League game. Watts was pitching for the youngsters and Gosnell Layman was perched on third base, with the winning run.

Curt Wilcox, coaching at the hot corner, claimed Watts was doctoring the ball, and called for the pitcher to throw it to him. And Watts did, Curt deftly side-stepping as the ball approached, and Layman skipping home with the winning tally.

FISHERLADY

To appreciate it fully, you should witness the gestures that go with Mrs. George Melvin's story of her husband's fishing efforts. It seems that she and her brother, Dick Royer, along with George, were angling at Indian Lake.

As she tells it, she was just along in the boat, while George laboriously tossed out the artificial bait (he had a dozen varieties), with no luck. For lack of something better to do, and entirely unconsciously, she says, she was fooling a rod to which was attached an artificial fly. Just watching the sunset.

"Bang, it went; and I screamed." Edith relates. And George unhooked a fine bass, once again returning to his casting efforts.

And Edith, who had laid the rod down, picked it up, the fly skipping the top of the water, and another bass struck viciously. George unhooked that one, and another five minutes later. "And I wasn't even trying," says Edith. "While George spent the entire evening and didn't get a bite."

So the fishing artist and fisherlady went home.

Nina Shank and her four-year-old cousin, Joan, were sitting on the Shank front porch, the other torrid evening, when into Nina's head popped the idea that she'd like an ice cream cone. Not to cause trouble, she spelled her desire out to her father, to hear from the alert Joan: "I want one too."

Baby Injured

When a cut of freight cars struck the auto in which she was a passenger with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Burridge, 490 Wrexham Ave., eight month-old Terry Burridge suffered minor injuries. The accident occurred Tuesday night at the Big 4 crossing on Grandview avenue. She was treated at Mt. Carmel hospital

Sisters In Crash

Three sisters, Mary, Waneta and Dorothy Weaver, of 33 S. Harris Ave., sustained minor injuries Tuesday afternoon when the car in which they were riding skidded from Georgesville road near Sullivant avenue. The three were treated at Mt. Carmel hospital.

Championship At Stake Again As Reds Meet Hoge

Close Game Forecast As Church Teams Prepare to Do Battle Tonight in Second Fray.

Once again, on the Westgate diamond, the evenly matched Hoge Memorial and Hillcrest Baptist Reds will attempt to decide the Hilltop Church League title once and for all. The game, a playoff of last week's bitter 8 to 3 struggle, will begin promptly at six o'clock.

George Owens will again toil for the Presbyterians, with Holycross behind the bat. The Hillcrest battery will probably be Kent and Crosier, with Whetstone, regular receiver, nursing a bruised hand, performing at third base.

In a bitterly fought game, marked by spectacular fielding, timely hitting, close decisions and militant enthusiasm of almost 250 spectators, the Hillcrest Reds and the Hoge Memorial Presbyterians battled it out for the championship of the Hilltop Church League, Friday night on the Westgate field only to have darkness intervene with the score knotted at three all.

Eliminated

Both Hilltop entries in the city church league finals were eliminated in games played Monday. Hoge Memorial, drawing the favorite Calvary Presbyterian nine, dropped a tough three to nothing decision, despite Owen's excellent hurling. The game was played on the C. and O. grounds.

The Hillcrest Reds were unable to withstand the attack of Hildreth Baptist on the King Avenue diamond, losing 6 to 2. The winners played sparkling ball afield, while the locals were sluggish on the defense.

Fighting bitterly for every point, it was the Presbyterians who drew first blood, in the second inning. Hardy scoring from third on an infield out after punching out a single and advancing via a wild pitch and a long fly.

It was the same Hardy who slashed a three-base knock to left center in the fourth with two mates aboard to place the Hoge team well in front. In the seventh frame, Moss scored from third on a fly ball back of second base to count the first tally for the Baptists. Paul Kent's triple with Reynolds on first produced another marker in the seventh.

In the ninth, with two out and the bases empty, the Reds staged a spectacular rally to knot the count. Todd poked out a single to race to third when Blum's hit back of second was thrown wildly to first, the latter taking second. Moss strolled and Wolfe's hit to left plated Todd, but Fulton's accurate throw nailed Blum at the counting station. Umpire Fox then called the game.

Paul Casey to Coach West Side A. C. Team

Paul Casey, former West High football star, will again coach the West Side A. C. grid team this fall, according to announcements this week. The squad held its initial workout on Wednesday at McKinley field.

According to present plans, the club will open its season Sept. 17, with an opponent yet to be announced. Central Ohio teams are asked to get in touch with Casey at 83 S. Hague Ave., or RA. 2808.

Otto Magly Begins 26th Year At West

When the doors of West High school open next Tuesday morning, Otto H. Magly will be watching his twenty-sixth class file in and register as seniors. For since West High has been West High, Otto H. Magly has been principal, and he has watched 25 classes come and go. And now, he's teaching the children of students he taught years ago.

When the old West High on Central avenue, first became a high school in 1908, Mr. Magly was named principal and he still remained the head of the school when the the building on Powell avenue was entered in 1929.

He graduated from Baldwin & Wallace college in 1895, having studied for the ministry, but he immediately took up the profession of teaching, at East High. There he organized the commercial department and coached the baseball squad—the performances of which he still fondly recalls. His team not only copped the high school title, but also defeated the Ohio State university nine, and the Columbus professional squad refused a game with the team.

Mr. Magly will begin his thirty-ninth year of service in Columbus Public schools with the opening of classes Tuesday. He observed his sixtieth birthday last May.

First Football Rehearsal Today

Cowboys to Undergo Preliminary Workouts Under Coach Wise This Afternoon.

Having held the usual preliminary meeting of West High football candidates Thursday evening at the school, Coach Harold E. Wise will send his proteges through a light workout this afternoon in the first out-of-door rehearsal of the year.

Setting up exercises and drills in fundamentals will probably complete the menu, with heavier work scheduled to get under way next week. Drills will be of a light nature, however, during the hot weather.

Wise, who returned to Columbus from Athens late this week, could not be reached for a pre-rehearsal announcement, but rules regarding closed practices will probably prevail as in former years. Spectators will probably be admitted to only Monday evening workouts throughout the season.

Wheeler Miller, head janitor at West, has the gridiron in excellent shape, and with the first game on the home lot yet six weeks away, the plot of green is likelyto be in the best condition in history for the 1933 season.

The Cowboys' opening game is with Dayton Steele, Friday night, Sept. 22.

Playgrounds Close Seasons

Successful Year Noted By Local Centers; Many Improvements Prove Popular.

Hilltop playgrounds, Holton, Westgate and Glenwood, closed successful seasons this week prior to the opening of school classes again next Tuesday. Despite the fact that they were operated this year under limited conditions due to financial stress, one of the best seasons in years was noted.

Improvements at all three centers made the grounds comparable with any in the city. The purchase of additional ground at Holton, along with many improvements; the construction of a shelter house and three new ball diamonds at Westgate; and improvements of the shelter house at Glenwood proved popular with many.

The development of a church baseball league, in the community, playing its games on the Westgate grounds, was also one of the outstanding features of the summer. Ten teams participated in the circuit.

Besides the various tennis and horseshoe pitching tournaments, a playground baseball league was also operated. Glenwood finally taking the pennant. Glenwood shelter house will also be utilized this coming winter for basketball games in the West Church League and various girls' loops.

Farmer Rescued In Movie Style By Local Fireman

It was a regular movie act, without the cameras, which Jack Wright, 212 N. Ogden Ave., participated in the other day on the farm of Clarence Stout on Wilson road. Mr. Wright, a fireman at Engine House No. 17, was standing on the farm house porch when from out of the pasture came mingled yells and bellows and roars, and looking out that way, he saw a roaring bull, pawing the earth and roaring, while Mr. Stout stood paralyzed behind a small tree—waiting, as it were, for the onslaught.

It's hard to tell what might have happened had not Wright acted right then and there. For the sapling was small of stature and the bull would have passed quickly through had he so desired.

But the local fireman jumped in his auto, drove out through the field, opened the door and picked up the stranded gentleman in the field, and rode safely away. And the bull galloped in a wide circle about the field, with an air that seemed to say: "You got there just in time, Mister. I was purty wrought up."

Mr. Stout is a brother of Vernon Stout, assistant postmaster at the Hilltop station.

Last February, he was forced to call an assistant, Rev. Luther Wilkes, due to ill health. Rev. Wilkes has conducted services since that time.

'ROUND ABOUT THE HILLTOP

Why Edna Swickard, Bill Bell didn't leave anything to do with your name appearing here issues ago. . . . Rev. Henry Koch's profile resembles that of Franklin Delano Roosevelt. . . . Gozzell Layman will bet 10 $ that he can beat Howard Kent in a 100-yd. dash . . . Don't hurry, fokes, he's bin took up. . . . Cabbages to that local troop who informed the public that it copped first place in a statewide camparall. . . . Another Col's. troop scored 26 more points. . . . I've never met Lawrence Tracy's wife. . . . A local fan observes that Warren Nazarene rooters might have patterned their sportsmanship after that of their pitcher, Emerson Reese, which verifies an account scribbled here wks. ago. . . . Those two local women standing amid Broad-Hague traffic—just gossipping. . . . And a cop, on the same corner, running to catch a car—dropt his pistol (but it didn't go boom). . . .

Flash: Ed Laur successfully landed a five-inch blue gill with a net at Buckeye Lake Saturday, although the critter part nigh slipped through the meshes. . . . Mendel Thompson, I think, has never spoken an ill word of any man. . . . There are a couple of guys you never heard of going to make you jabber at West football games this fall. . . . According to report: Herb Beems and Ray Hauntz share pancake eating title with 23 each Labor Day breakfast. . . . No obvious commotion at West Broad or West Jr. on opening day of school—everything in place like books in a library. . . . A female fan says of George Owen's base at the ball game: "He could smoke a pipe in the rain, and it would never go out." . . . What ever became of the inspirational Rudy Lutz? . . . Hub Jones, with a pipe, gives the collichoomer idea of a college man. . . . That local chap, with no knowledge of economics, who claims the NRA bunk, bot a new car recently. . . . Personal nomination for the healthiest looking guy in the community: Jack Williams. . . . Someone suggests that we run a high school pillah—which is a little better. We've been accused of scribbling kindergarten stuff for so long. . . . No one analyzes situations with the verbosity of Wheeler Miller. . . . That local lady, planning to go horseback riding for the first time, tested her ability to straddle by donning her brother's boyscout pants and sitting astride a cedar chest. . . . You'll lamp it in the more delinquent rags, but the dope is here first. The announcement, I mean, of Elizabeth Raether's engagement to Ray Hill. . . .

Wins Contest

The size 42 shoe displayed in Mechem's window last week, and apparently filled with lima beans, contained only 907, it was announced this week. The person guessing the correct number, or the nearest correct number, was to have been presented a pair of shoes.

And William Reardon's 900 guess proved the winner. He lives at 151 S. Burgess Ave. One extravagant guess was numbered at 20,000,000.

Residents Asked To Change Spouts In Sewer Project

First Step Launched In Effort to Relieve Unsanitary Sewer Conditions in Community.

More than 2300 Hilltop residents received letters this week from Service Director W. P. Halencamp asking their co-operation in disconnecting roof spouts from sanitary sewers as the first step was launched by the city in eliminating the flooding of Hilltop basements with household sewage with every heavy storm.

Health authorities have declared the local situation to be one of the worst menaces in the city, and efforts to alleviate the problem have been delayed several years, much to the discomfort of many Hilltop homes. The connection of roof spouts with parallel storm sewers is the first step in a project that is to be climaxed with the construction of a $1,007,000 relief sewer system.

The labor for the jobs will be provided by the city from its relief ranks. The cost of materials to each property owner will be about 10 dollars.

According to an ordinance passed by city council in 1927, the city has a right to disconnect the sewer service of all who refuse to connect roof water with the storm sewers.

Each year, after heavy spring and autumn rains, Hilltoppers have complained to the city futhers regarding the situation, and now, in an effort to meet their demands, Council is now turning to the offer of the Federal government to give cities up to 30 per cent of the cost of essential projects. And on Nov. 7, Columbus voters will be asked to authorize $1,007,000 relief sewer item among the 12 million dollar projects on which they will be asked to authorize the issuance of bonds.

Teams Battle Tonight After Two Tie Games

Hillcrest Baptist Reds and Hoge Memorial in Third Try for Hilltop Church Title.

For the third time in as many weeks, the Hoge Memorial Presbyterians and the Hillcrest Baptist Reds will do battle for the championship of the Hilltop Church League on the Westgate diamond tonight. Twice before the squads have attempted to settle the argument, only to have darkness descend on the field of battle with the score knotted, last week at five all.

Last week's game was featured by a brilliant rally in the ninth by the Presbyterians, recalling a similar rally of the week before on the part of the Baptists. Holstein was the hero last Friday, cracking out a single to plate Bob Trott with the tying run. But with the bases full and two out, Mason's hard smash back at Kent was gobbled up by the Hillcrest hurler and the floet Presbyterian tossed out.

Tonights fracas is scheduled to start at 5:45 with an umpire yet to be named in charge. Owens and Holycross will constitute the Presbyterian battery with Kent and Whetstone again performing at the points for Hillcrest.

Cowboy Gridders Must Be Able To "Take It," Coach Informs Coach Harold Wise Opens Rehearsals With Vigorous Scrimmage; Squad Small But Beefy, Drills in Fundamentals Next Week.

"Before many moons you'll hear the clash of arms. We're going to learn who can 'take it' before fundamentals are even considered. If you can gain 10 yards standing on your head—do it, or if you can stop a drive in a like manner—do it. But you've got to be able to 'take it.'"

Such was the brief but pointed lecture that greeted 46 football candidates at West High school in the initial meeting of the year last Thursday evening. And Friday morning, on the dew washed gridiron, Coach Harold E. Wise sent his proteges through a vigorous scrimmage. And all week long, the Cowboys have been driven at top speed. For the team that represents the local school this year is going to be able to take it on the chin.

Next week, drills in fundamentals will begin. But by that time, only the fittest will have survived. Big or little, the men who start learning fundamentals this week, will be scrapping for the team as a whole.

Although Coach Wise was greeted by a smaller number of candidates this year, they are of the beefier variety. Forty-six provided with equipment Friday were augmented by the addition of eight more Tuesday when the first bell for school sounded. With the cutting of the squad in the near future, weekly drills will feature instruction in fundamental football for a spell.

As was the policy last year, the public will be admitted to rehearsals only on Monday afternoons, according to a statement from Coach Wise.

Among those present when the total list of candidates will be available, will be 11 lettermen from last year's team. These are: Michaelis and Deubler, tackles; Latham and Kellar, guards; Abbey at center, and backfielders Boye, Francis, Jividen, Mathews, Coleman and Burdette.

Oakley Ave., treasurer; Mrs. C. E. Sheron, 105 N. Westmoor Ave., delegate to county council; and Mrs. C. Milbourne, Fifth avenue, member on the executive committee, two-year term.

Few Changes In Teaching Staffs

Routine Gets Under Way Wednesday Following Preliminary Instructions Tuesday A. M.

With the opening of school classes Tuesday morning, indications were that all attendance records would be broken at Hilltop schools. At West High, where 50 more than ever before had enrolled, with another hundred expected by the first of next week, the greatest increase was noted. Other schools were enrolling approximately the same number as last year, although their was a tendency toward a slight increase. A total of more than 6600 had reported Tuesday morning.

According to the figures, the Hilltop has more than its share of the increased number of Columbus students. More than 12 hundred pupils were enrolled this year over last year.

Although financial conditions necessitate the strictest economy in the school program, pupils will be at no disadvantage, officials believe. Classes will be larger, however, and instructors fewer.

Among the many changes affected this year in the school program is the starting time of classes. Elementary grades open school at 8:45 each morning with the junior and senior highs beginning 15 minutes later.

Attendance Figures

Hilltonia Elem.	—	—	91
Totals	6501	6615	6686

At West Broad Street Elementary, an increase of more than 50 pupils was expected before the end of the week according to Miss Harriet A. Judd, principal. Tuesday morning, 810 had registered. The staff of 23 teachers there includes Miss Grace Anderson, a substitute teacher at East High last year; Mrs. Merle Rhinehart and Miss Ruth Michelis, whose leave of absence last year was spent in study at Union college, Nebraska.

At St. Aloysius, 21 more students than the 390 registered last year on opening day were reported by the Rev. Father Schwartz. More are expected to enroll before Friday, bringing the total to approximately 435, it was estimated.

Sterling Jr. High also reported an increase in enrollment, the opening day attendance numbering 1100. H. W. Emswiler is again principal there with Ina Ganson serving in the capacity of vice principal. Miss Martha Ochs, former superintendent of music in the elementary schools, is the new music instructor and Miss Ethel Cherrington, a member of the faculty in 1931 and last year a commercial teacher at Central High school, will also teach at Sterling. Teachers who are not back include: Ruth Lumly, Charles Bracy, Gertrude Woodin and Verona Rothenbusch.

With an opening enrollment of 50 more than ever before and another hundred expected to register before the week is completed, West High will probably show the largest student body of any school in the community. Tuesday morning, 1182 had reported, an increase of 50 over last year's opening day attendance.

Miss Mae Jones, Latin instructor, will again serve in that capacity after a year's leave of absence due to ill health. Elmira Kantz, formerly a member of the West Jr. High staff, is a new commercial teacher at the high school. John Baltz, formerly of Roosevelt Jr. High, will teach mathematics at West this year.

Two teachers will not return, according to reports. Miss Blanche Mickey, math instructor, and Mr. Postle, history teacher, are both in ill health.

Although the enrollment Tuesday at John Burroughs showed a decrease of almost 100 over last year, 91 students are enrolled at the Hilltonia elementary school. H. L. McMillan, principal, estimated that attendance would increase through the week, however, to bring it above last year's total.

Dorothy King, sixth grade teacher, and Edith Skilkin, fourth grade teacher, are the new additions to the faculty while Miss Arta Bailey, retired, and Miss Rosetta Jones and Miss Mary Watts, married this past summer, are lost from last year's staff.

Miss Mathilda Stewart, principal of Highland Elementary, reported two less teachers on opening day and approximately the same number of pupils as of last year. Expecting 15 more registrations later in the week. 621 had registered Tuesday.

HEAT HINTS

With approach of Fall and Winter a few suggestions for firing furnace may be helpful. Here are five ways better results may be obtained:

1. See that fire is unchecked and bottom draft closed.
2. Shake grate just enough to see red glow appearing below.
3. Push hot coals to rear of firebox.
4. Fill front part of firebox with fresh fuel and open bottom draft.
5. Burn good fuel!

'ROUND ABOUT THE HILLTOP

That item about certain church league rooters boosting their sportsmanship percentage to a level of that of Emerson Reese's (it appeared here last week) might refer to the supporters of every team in the loop. (A suggestion of C. T. Price). . . . Helen Emma Jean Hastings (ketchoa?). . . . All right, Helen Lue (getit?). . . . Well then, Helen Marie. . . . A local minister used Coach Harold Wise's speech about being able to "take it" in his Sunday sermon. . . . They say of one local gurl, when she missed church for two Sundays, that it gave her boy friend a rest. . . . And what is it that thinks she's getting popular because her name was here twice. . . . And Alice Latham! Is it you who'd like your name here? Someone tells me you are eligible for the crush, but I haven't the dope yet. . . . Whatever became of the former Leota Ferrell? . . . And that "Kirkersville Flash," Albert Essex, Cowboy athlete and scholar. . . . And Lydia White, an elementary teacher of mine. . . . And Judson Bowers, whose initials appeared on every seat he ever sat in. In school? . . . And Roger Guide, who is trying to sell his rabbits, will be back at OSU after a lapse of 4 years. . . . Stan Hamilton, standing leisurely on the corner at Brd. and Whitethorne. . . . Milly, the Campbell clerk, trying to rent some guy a book. They were down to shelf three when I left and she'd read them all. All were VERY good. . . . Someone observes that Gov. White hasn't taxed Citronella yet (You know, Mr. Campbell, that juice one swabs exposed parts of the anatomy with prior to going to bed). . . . Wendall Glass, all church league catcher, doesn't use a glove to play . . . He soaks his hands in brine nightly. . . . Mrs. Chas. Davis (Ferne Devine), is pining for the pines, where Chas. is with F. D. R.'s woodsmen . . . Flash: Ferne left for California Sunday.

HOLD 'ER NEWT

They're telling one on a prominent Hilltop business man (whose name we do not feel at liberty to mention) his wife Meta, and son Ralph. It seems that the three were in Chicago and at the time, were riding on the top deck of a two-story bus. The business man sat in the seat ahead of his wife and son. The bus stopped for a traffic light and he naturally turned around to listen to his frau talk—or maybe to get into better position to slip a word in edgewise.

Anyway, his elbow was draped over the back of the seat, and he was sitting sidewise. The bus stopped for a traffic light. The light turned green. The bus didn't move. It turned red, and then green again. Still the vehicle stood still. Once again it turned green—and the localite, wondering about the trouble—was suddenly accosted by the bus driver who asked him to kindly remove his arm from the stop button on the back of the seat.

OOP!

Frank Howard is the most fastidious man I know at the table. He doesn't eat. He dines. And Jim Matheny no longer "fox passes" as he did then.

Still, those who were there like to recall when Frank and Jim, with a group of other youngsters, all only 12 years old, had dinner at a big Rotarian affair at a downtown hotel.

Jim and Frank were arguing as to which had been out the most to such elaborate functions. The argument waxed hotter and hotter.

And all the while the two were eating their bread with the soup—while the crackers languished on their respective plates.

THE RETORT ACCURATE

It was an accurate answer. That one of Katherine Trout's, I mean, when her S. S. teacher, explaining that Saul was tall of stature and fine looking, asked her whether she preferred tall or short men.

And she rallied to score with: "Well, I do think that one naturally looks up to tall men."

Seriously Ill

Mrs. C. H. McKinley of Stewart Ohio, well known on the Hilltop, is reported seriously ill at her home She is the mother of Mr Denver McKinley.

Selected Teams To Meet Today

Coach Wise to Divide Cowboys Into Two Camps for Regular Fray This Afternoon.

Cowboy football fans will get a taste of their favorite sport this afternoon on the West High gridiron when two selected teams from the 1933 aspirants at the school hook up in a regulation battle. The game will start at 3:30.

Having spent more than a week with scrimmages the most frequent item on the program, Coach Wise will begin to weed out those who have failed to weather the storm. He will place two evenly matched squads on the green, however, and a close game is anticipated.

In all probability, kicking and passing will be watched with an eagle eye by Messrs. Wise and Buchanan, for these two weaknesses were outstanding last year. And linemen, too, will be fighting for positions for at the present time there has been no statement from Wise as to who will be the starters in the opening game.

The line-ups for the game this afternoon were still in doubt Tuesday. "We don't know, yet, who will start," the coach said. "We're still in the process of selecting those who are capable of taking it."

There will be no charge for the game this afternoon, according to an announcement of the West Athletic committee Thursday morning. If the field is soggy, from rain, however, the fracas will be postponed.

What! No Tax?

Those interested in football at West High this year have one consolation, whether the team wins or loses. High school athletic admissions are not taxable under the new admission tax for poor relief according to a ruling by the state tax commissioner, Carl S. Durgush. And so, there'll be no tax on the games, although the West Athletic committee had not announced this week prices to be charged for the home games this fall.

Receives Call

Rev. L. S. Wilkes Called By C. of C.

Hilltop Chorus In Song Festival

Start Final Rehearsals Monday Night for Event to Be Held In Marion, O., Oct. 11.

The Hilltop Male Chorus, under the direction of W. Haydn Jones, will begin final rehearsals Monday prior to participation in a Song Festival at Marion, Ohio, Wednesday, Oct. 11. The meetings will be held at the Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church and are slated to start at 8 o'clock.

The local chorus was selected with seven others from Marion, Bucyrus, Mt. Vernon, Crestline, Findlay, Fostoria and Kenton for the purpose of completing an organization of such groups in Ohio. Invitations were sent out to each organization, there being but a single representative from each city.

In the Festival, each chorus will participate in four numbers. Two will be judged on a competitive basis while the other two will be presented by the entire group of choruses under the direction of Mark Evans of Linn.

If the organization of the several groups is completed, tentative plans call for an annual meeting in one of the representative cities.

Increase Noted In Attendance

6780 Students Registered At Eight Hilltop Schools; West Jr. High Leads With 1255.

Attendance at the eight local public and parochial schools jumped again this week when 123 more students reported for classes, bringing the total Hilltop enrollment to 6780. This approaches last year's mark of 6801 and surpasses the 1931 figures by almost 300 students.

West Jr. High school continues to be the largest in the community with 1255 students enrolled. John Burroughs has 1180, with 98 more at the Hilltonia Elementary. At Sterling Jr. High, 1156 were reported Monday morning. West High's attendance, the largest in its history, is 1164. The graduating class of this year will contain over 300 students, it was estimated.

West Broad Street Elementary surpassed its enrollment of 1932 this year, 834 pupils being registered. This figure, however, does not surpass the mark of 845 set in 1931. At Highland Elementary, 640 pupils were accounted for. This is a slight gain over last year, but is 40 short of 1931's attendance mark.

At the two local parochial schools, St. Mary Magdeline and St. Aloysius, 561 pupils have been enrolled, 134 at the former and 427 at the latter. This is approximately the same number as attended last year.

Plans For Camp Chase Post Fair and Carnival Complete

"Little World's Fair" to Get Under Way At Sullivant Airport Next Friday; Airplane and Military Display to Be Sponsored.

Plans for the Fair and Air Carnival sponsored by Camp Chase Post No. 98 of the American Legion in conjunction with Major Leslie J. Mulser of the Sullivant Avenue Airport are nearing completion, according to information received this week. The "Little World's Fair" is slated to get under way next Friday and continue through Sunday, Sept. 24.

Around this time next week the air will be alive with planes droning overhead as Camp Chase Post prepares to open its little world's fair and air carnival at the Sullivant Avenue Airport.

Final plans show a most elaborate set-up for this big Hilltop event. In the air carnival two flying squadrons of planes from Wright Field at Dayton are participating, including such types of planes as high speed pursuits, attack planes, observation planes, light bombers, and a huge heavy bomber, the largest type used in warfare. In addition planes from the reserve corps at Cleveland and Columbus, with crack stunt men at the controls, will be on hand to add to the festivities.

On the ground, entertainment will be just as varied, with an extensive display of military equipment and demonstrations of its uses; a complete section of commercial exhibits inside the hangar, wrestling and boxing exhibitions, drum corps maneuvers, dancing, both round and square, and a complete midway filled with novelty attractions.

The feature of the exposition will be the night parachute drop by Dick Hunter, stunt man with the aerial show. No admission fee is charged in order to permit every man, woman and child on the West Side to attend this show.

Dick Hunter, holder of the world's record for 11 jumps in one day, will try the night jump during the little world's fair at the airport next week-end. Hunter is one of the oldest men in the game, and has been jumping over nine years, and next week the night jump will make his 1267th leap into thin air.

F. K. Dickerson is general chairman of the show.

Championship Taken By Reds

"Speedy" Kent Holds Hoge Bats Silent as Baptists Hit Hard to Win 6-0.

Cracking under the strain of prolonged playoff games for the championship of the Hilltop Church league, Hoge Memorial Presbyterians bowed to the Hillcrest Baptist Reds last Friday night by a score of six to nothing. The game was played at Westgate park before an estimated crowd of 400 spectators.

Howard (Speedy) Kent, on the mound for the winners, was in fine form, holding the Presbyterian mates silent when hits would have meant runs. Only three times did the losers threaten in the entire conflict and thrice Kent tightened to force hitters to pop up or ground out weakly.

On the other hand, the Baptists hopped on George Owens in the initial frame with a heavy attack and hammered him hard until George Hardy went to his relief in the seventh inning.

Leach, Hoge third baseman, was the defensive star for the losers, playing sensation ball afield, along with Mason at first. For the winner's, Whetstone's hitting and the fielding of Brodt, Reynolds and Leady featured.

The Baptists will be presented a silver trophy, emblematic of the championship of the Hilltop Church League.

Members of the championship team are: Cy Whetstone and Paul Crosier, catchers; Howard Kent, pitcher; John Wolfe, first base; Paul Kent, second base; John Todd, shortstop; Reynolds and Blum, third basemen, and outfielders Dick Brodt, Earl Leady, Rex Vernon, Harold Moss and Tom Howell.

Filling Station Is Robbed Second Time

On Wednesday, Aug. 30, McDaniels was held up and robbed of $20, he thinks by the same couple who perpetrated Friday's hold-up. City detectives are of the opinion that the work is being done by a gang who have conducted a series of hold-ups in Columbus recently.

Electric Blower or Furnace Fans Are Sold by Heating Contractors

MAKE SURE YOUR HOME IS Comfortable THIS WINTER

With an Electric Blower Fan attached to any warm-air furnace, room temperatures are equalized. The Blower circulates heated air, so gently that you are unaware of its motion. You are conscious of only one thing . . . that never before has your home been quite so comfortable . . .

An Electric Blower Fan is not a luxury. Its normal cost places it within reach of the modest purse.

Man Killed In Crash Sunday

Interurban Freight Car and Auto Collision Fatal to J. P. Smith; Girl Critically Hurt.

One person was instantly killed and another seriously injured last Sunday evening when a Cincinnati and Lake Erie freight interurban car and an auto collided head-on at Sullivant and Wayne avenue.

The dead man, Joseph P. Smith, aged 22, of 520 Helen St., is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith of the above address; four brothers, Emory, Robert, Walter and Guy, and five sisters, Mrs. Hallie Price, Mrs Mary Priddy, Mrs. Virginia Moody Mrs. Nancy Goodburn and Miss Margaret Smith.

Miss Dorothy Johnson, aged 22, of 2767 Sullivant Ave., riding with Smith at the time of the accident, was taken to Mt. Carmel hospital in a critical condition.

According to reports, Smith was driving west on Sullivant avenue without headlights. The freight car, in charge of Motorman H. E. Miller, 147 S. Sandusky St., and Conductor George Wagner, 1917 Sullivant Ave., was leaving a double track and returning to the single track line when the crash came. The auto was dragged 30 feet.

Smith, who was associated with the Smith Bros. Body Shop, suffered internal injuries, a fractured skull, a broken arm and cuts.

Business Men Enthusiastic In First Fall Meet

Members of the Hilltop Business Men's association—and their wives and sweethearts—80 strong, opened their fall meetings Tuesday night at No. 6 shelter house, north of the Grigg's Dam along the Scioto River. And a good time was had by all.

Tuesday's meeting was attended by the largest number of members in the history of the organization, and enthusiasm and good spirit prevailed throughout the evening—especially after a dinner constituted of roast corn, tomatoes, corn bread, baked beans, baked ham and coffee. Tom Zelkoff, of the Broad-Hague Sandwich Shop, and Sam Roberts were chefs de luxe.

But two instances of dissention were noted, and they produced no casualties. "Curt" Wilcox and Dr. T. S. (Cornicorer) Fox, after consuming approximately one-half a bushel of corn between them, complained of the insufficiency to officials of the group. Their protest will be considered in committee meeting.

Mrs. Irene McKinley was the leader in games, which were held following a brief business meeting by the group. Entertainment was furnished by radio, Cliff Rice and his radio equipped truck being on hand.

Following the game period, the group departed at 10:30, looking forward to Hallowe'en when it is possible another such outing may be held.

A group, composed of five carloads, made a tour of inspection of Hidden Valley, Woodcraft camp, with Mrs. Irene McKinley, director.

Cup cakes are much lighter if baked in paper cups. Use two teaspoons of mixture to a cup.

WEST HIGH FOOTBALL TEAM

As in several years past, Coach Harold Wise will present a gridiron machine at West High capable of racing high in the city league. Again, his material will be of the highest calibre, especially this fall, when he will be able to face opposing teams with an experienced and heavy squad, should he so desire.

But as in years past, the West High squad need not be worried as to their ability to cope with gridiron opponents—as far as the playing of football goes. Their lone worry, and it has been the same for years, is the development of a spirit worthy of the type of game they are playing.

Championships are excellent things, occasionally. But to cop a title takes more than what the coach can sometimes give. We're hoping West High gridders will bring the championship to West this year. But if they lose, and for the same reason that they have lost the past two years, the public may be convinced that the dregs of defeat will be of much greater value in years to come than the nectar of victory. To win with the typical West spirit of other years carries with it no vital experience which will prove useful in later life.

THOSE BEAUTIFUL BILLBOARDS

Not only along highways, where they obscure the scenic beauty of the landscape, are billboards a thing of ugliness. They are likewise eyesores within the bounds of the city, and those located south of Broad street just west of Hague avenue are no exception.

Whether or not it is possible to have these removed is a matter of conjecture. Nevertheless, some steps should be taken, preferrably by a community organization such as the Hilltop Business Men's association.

Likewise, in the same aren, vacant storeroom windows have become cluttered with varied posters, plastered on already dirty windows. In times like these, when vacant storerooms are common, the least the owners could do would be to keep them clean and presentable.

Good Shows Scheduled At Hilltop Theatres

"The Stranger's Return," featuring Lionel Barrymore and Miriam Hopkins, will be shown at the Ritz Theatre next Wednesday evening, according to an announcement of the management, to be repeated Thursday night. At Wednesday's show, Gift Night is scheduled.

A Zane Grey story, "Life in the Raw," starring George O'Brien, is on the program at the Rivoli Theatre, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. For the same days, at the Ritz, "Another Language," feauring Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery, and Chester Morris in "Tomorrow at Seven," compose a double program.

Double programs are slated at both theatres today and Saturday. At the Rivoli, Mae West in "She Done Him Wrong" and Edna May Oliver in "It's Great to Be Alive," are the attractions. At the Ritz, "Bed of Roses" and "Fiddlin' Bukaroo" are featured, starring in the former, Constance Bennett and Joe McCrea and in the latter, Ken Maynard. Friday (tonight) is also vaudeville night at the Rivoli.

At the Rivoli Wednesday and Thursday, "Cocktail Hour," with Bebe Daniels and Randolph Scott is scheduled.

When an egg has been boiled too long it can be softened again by instantly lifting the pan off the fire and quickly placing it under the tap, allowing a good stream of cold water to pour into it. The sudden shock from hot to cold has the curious effect of softening the egg.

Drum Corps Plans Convention Train

Public Invited to Accompany Local Legion Group to Chicago Convention, Sept. 30.

Anticipating the largest convention the American Legion has ever sponsored, the Bugle Corps of the local Camp Chase post will depart Saturday afternoon, Sept. 30, via special train for Chicago, where the assembly will be held from Oct. 2 to 5. The Legion parade, greatest of all spectacles, will begin at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning and will be finished by six that evening. The local bugle corps will participate in this event.

The public has been invited to accompany the group on the trip. Reservations on the special train can be made through James F. Hurd, manager of the drum and bugle corps, or by calling R. A. Billups, general chairman of the transportation committee.

The round trip ticket will be valid for 10 days and may be purchased for $8.75. The train will leave Columbus over the C. & O. route at 3 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, arriving at the LaSalle street station in Chicago that night. There will be a two-hour stop-over in Toledo.

Merchants Lose To Linden Nine

Capital City League Champs Trounced Sunday at Neil Park, 8 to 6.

The Hilltop Merchants, 1933 champions in the Capital City league, were eliminated from the city tournament Sunday afternoon, Sept. 10, at Neil park, when the Linden Merchants upset the dope bucket and scampered to an eight to six victory.

The winners, champions of the Columbus Central league, played smart baseball throughout, although being outhit by the Hilltoppers, 18 to 12. The local squad was handicapped by poor base running and weak pitching. Ferguson, ace moundsman for Frank Friends crew, was driven from the knoll in the third frame and Neptune, his successor, was nicked for the winning tallies in the sixth.

Miller, with four hits in five times up, and Thompson and James, with three hits, led the local's vain attack, while the winners' 12 blows were evenly distributed. Had the Hilltoppers won, they would have met the Safety Cab nine for the city title.

Matron Examination Scheduled Sept. 20

Examination of applicants for permanent appointment to the positions of matron of the Nurses' home and a resident assistant medical superintendent for the Franklin County Tuberculosis Sanitorium, will be conducted at the Court House in Columbus, Wednesday, Sept. 20, 1933, according to announcement just made by the State Civil Service commission.

A special bulletin, setting forth the required qualifications of candidates, together with the duties of the offices and other necessary information, has been issued by the commission. It can be secured at the office of the commission or will be mailed free upon application.

HONEST AND THRIFTY

It is frequently said during the present hard times: "The honest and thrifty are in no better state than the crafty and wasteful." . . . All have been cruelly hurt, but there never was a time when the honest and thrifty were not a little better off than the careless and dishonest.

Policemen And Firemen Tangle

Game Scheduled for Saturday Afternoon, Sept. 16, at Red Bird Stadium.

Fire Chief E. P. Welch and Police Chief Fred Kuntz will be the batteries when the first ball is pitched Saturday afternoon in a baseball game at the Red Bird stadium between Columbus firemen and policemen. Festivities, including a battle royal, are stated to start at 2 p. m.

A silver trophy will be presented to the winning aggregation, and a close game is anticipated. The two squads have met three times before, and a victory for each and one tie have been chalked up.

More than 1500 children from the various county orphanages will be present as guests at the game. The public will be admitted for 25 cents, 10 per cent of the proceeds going to the Columbus Baby Camp on Sullivant avenue.

An invitation has been extended to Cincinnati firemen by the local department, to attend, and a delegation will arrive Saturday morning via the bus.

Squirrel Season Opening Today Attracts Many

The 1933 squirrel season, which got its official start early this morning, should prove highly popular with local hunters, for according to a report of conservation officials, game life in Ohio has considerably increased over that of other years. "With the possible exception of birds, all wild life is on the increase, the spring wet weather causing high mortality among the feathered creatures.

But that increase will come to an abrupt halt today, if the sale of licenses and shotgun shells is any indication. Local merchants, handling sporting goods report a large number of licenses being issued and a proportionate amount of shells sold.

And so the fall is surely come, as hunters rise early to seek the clever squirrel in the hardwood uplands.

Household Recipes

Master Pastry Recipe

½ cups sifted flour.
1-3 teaspoon baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.
½ cup shortening.
Cold water.

Sift the dry ingredients together, add the shortening, mixing with a fork and finger tips, until the mixture is of a mealy consistency. Add water very slowly until the mixture is sufficiently moistened to hold together. Use as little water as possible. Roll dough on a floured board until ⅛ inch thick. Fit loosely on a pie plate, trim edges and prick with a fork. Bake in a hot oven for fifteen minutes if the crust is to be used as a pie shell. The above recipe will make pie shell and top. Use ½ for pie shell only.

Cherry Pie

1 quart sour pitted cherries.
⅔ to ¾ cups sugar.
¼ cup flour.

Prepare pastry. Mix above ingredients together and put into lower crust. Cover with top crust which should be pierced with a fork. Bake in hot oven for 10 minutes, reduce temperature and bake 20 minutes more.

Strawberry Pie

1 baked pie shell.
8 macaroons, crushed.
1 quart strawberries mashed and hulled.
1 cup sugar.

Line bottom of baked pie shell with macaroons. Stand fresh, whole berries all over the bottom of the shell and around the sides. Crush one cup of berries, add one cup of sugar and cook until of thick jam consistency. Allow to cool and pour over prepared shell and whole berries. Chill and serve with whipped cream.

As a variation of the above recipe crush all the berries and mix with sweetened whipped cream and place in the baked pie shell.

Other Berry Pies

3 cups blueberries, huckleberries, blackberries, raspberries or gooseberries.
2-3 cups sugar.
1½ tablespoons flour.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon butter.

Prepare pastry as directed. Line lower crust. Mix fruit with flour, sugar and salt. Cover with top crust or lattice strips. Bake in hot oven for ten minutes, reduce temperature and bake for twenty minutes more.

Hawaiian Cream Pie

For the crust use 1½ dozen graham crackers, rolled fine, 1-3 cup of soft butter, 1 tablespoon powdered sugar. Blend these ingredients thoroughly by hand. Take out 2 tablespoons and set aside for filling. Pat the rest into a 9-inch pie pan and bake for 10 minutes.

For the filling whip one cup of heavy cream stiff, then add two cups of crushed pineapple well drained and ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind and two tablespoons of cracker crumbs. Mix well and fill in the baked crust.

Raspberry Cream Tarts

1 cup milk.
3 tablespoons sugar.
2½ tablespoons flour.
Pinch of salt.
1 egg.
½ teaspoon vanilla.
Baked tart shells.
Raspberry preserves.
Whipped cream or meringue.

Scald the milk in a double boiler, add the sugar, flour and salt which have been mixed together, and stir until thickened. Cook for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add the beaten egg and cook a few minutes longer. Cool and add the vanilla. Place a generous spoonful of preserves in each tart shell and cover with the custard. Top with meringue or whipped cream.

Do It Now! Join Seiller's Blanket Club.

Meringue for Pies and Puddings

2 egg whites.
4 tablespoons granulated sugar.
Lemon juice or vanilla extract.

Beat egg whites until stiff, gradually beat in sugar, add flavoring. Spread thickly on top of pie or pudding. Bake in moderate oven for about 15 minutes.

Hot Breads That Are Easy to Make

Although delicious bakery goods and ready-to-bake biscuits are available there still remains a particularly inviting "home made" taste and thrill to hot breads served from your own kitchen. Many women are afraid to try their hand at breads and biscuits when they will approach a difficult cake or meat recipe with perfect aplomb. If you'll try some of these recipes you'll find that, after all, bread and biscuit making can be a simple art.

Whole Wheat Muffins

1 egg.
1 cup milk.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 to 1½ cups whole wheat flour.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon baking powder.

If sour milk is used add ½ teaspoon soda. Mix all dry ingredients and mix all liquids. Combine and bake. One tablespoon sugar may be added if desired.

Date Bread

1 tablespoon butter.
1 cup sugar.
1 egg.
½ cup nuts.
1¼ cup or a little more flour.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 level teaspoon soda.
1 cup dates.
1 cup boiling water.

Dissolve level teaspoon soda in cup of boiling water. Pour over cup of diced dates. The creamed butter and sugar are then added. Add some of the flour, then the eggs, beaten, the salt and the balance of the flour with nuts. Bake in a moderate oven.

Prune Nut Bread

2 tablespoons shortening.
⅔ cup brown sugar.
1 egg well beaten.
1 cup boiling water.
2 cups chopped prunes.
1 cup chopped nuts.
1½ cups flour.
1 teaspoon soda.
½ teaspoon salt.

Sprinkle prunes with soda then pour boiling water over them and let stand till cold. Cream shortening and sugar, add egg, then prune mixture. Add flour, salt and nuts. Bake in slow oven until done. This bread is rich enough to serve in place of cake.

Quick Rolls

One yeast cake, ½ cup sweet milk scalded and cooled, ½ cup luke warm water, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 scant teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons lard, 3½ cups flour. Dissolve yeast in warm liquid, add sugar and half of flour and lard, beat well, add salt and rest of flour. Roll out and cut with biscuit cutter. Place in greased baking pan slight distance apart. Let rise 2 hours and bake in hot oven ten minutes.

Virginia Spoon Bread

1 cup corn meal.
1 cup buttermilk.
1 egg.
1 cup cold water.
½ teaspoon soda.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon sugar.
1 teaspoon baking powder.

Mix cornmeal and buttermilk to which the soda has been added. Add egg then pour the cold water into it. Next add the salt, sugar and baking powder. Last add the boiling water. Put teaspoon of shortening into small baking pan and heat. When melted pour in mixture and bake in hot oven until the top is dark brown. Serve with butter.

Egg Dumplings

Three cups flour, 1 scant teaspoon salt, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 4 tablespoons shortening, 1 egg, milk. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Rub in shortening with two knives. Beat egg with 1-3 cup milk and cut into dry ingredients, adding more milk if necessary to make a soft dough. Put on a lightly floured molding board and roll into a sheet about 1 inch thick. Cut in squares and drop in boiling stew.

MISFORTUNES

Wrote Elizabeth (the poet-queen of Rumania: "Do not be proud of having borne your misfortune. Could you have done otherwise?" A very pertinent question. Inasmuch as we can in no way evade our misfortunes, there is no cause for pride in meeting them. But the spirit in which we meet them is in our own control. In that there may be cause for pride or for shame.

Proso or hog millet did not prove as efficient as corn in a fattening ration for lambs.

As soon as the fruit is harvested pruning may be started. Pruning can be done without injury at any time other than the growing season.

Honey bees require a good supply of food to carry them through the winter. To generate heat and feed the young bees 40 pounds of honey are needed until a new supply can be gathered in the spring.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

WHAT HAPPENED WHEN A COAT TORE

IF THE discovery that what he had supposed was just a shadow was in reality Hooty the Owl, just reaching for him with great cruel claws, had frightened Jerry Muskrat so that he couldn't move, the sound of Hooty's hiss did for him just the opposite thing. Jerry didn't stop to think what he should do. There was no time for that. He simply did it. He dived for the water as if Hooty's hiss had released a stout spring under him.

Now, Jerry Muskrat is big and looks rather clumsy, but Jerry can move quickly when occasion demands. You would have thought so if you could have seen him making that dive in the moonlight. But quick as he was, he wasn't quite quick enough. No, sir, he wasn't quite quick enough. Those great reaching claws were just ready to close when he dived and they did close. Only Jerry's hands and head reached the water he was frantically diving for. Then he squealed with pain and terror as he was lifted and, hanging head down, was carried across the Smiling Pool. Hooty the Owl had spoken truly when he said "I've got you now." Poor, poor Jerry Muskrat! Hanging head down, he gazed at his beloved Smiling Pool for what he believed to be the last time. Those claws hurt dreadfully. Then being carried head down made him feel as if his heart and stomach and everything else inside him had slipped out of place. His beautiful new house would never be finished. This was the last he would ever see of all the things he loved so. He had been caught at last, and all through his own carelessness. To make Hooty the Owl, for whom he had so long been too smart, a dinner was to be his end. Poor, poor Jerry Muskrat!

If Jerry could have known what was passing through Hooty's head perhaps he would have felt just a wee bit less helpless. Hooty knew what Jerry didn't, that those great claws had not clutched Jerry where they should have, where Hooty had meant to have them. He had intended to clutch Jerry right by the middle of the back and drive those great claws 'way in on both sides of Jerry's backbone. But Jerry's quick dive had forced Hooty to clutch at what he could, and the result was that those great cruel claws had caught in Jerry's coat near his tail. This was why he was being carried head down.

Now, Jerry's coat was rather loose fitting, for Jerry had been working hard and had not fattened up for the winter. So those claws had simply gone through the coat, but not into Jerry's flesh enough for a good hold. Hooty was not yet as sure of his dinner as he would have liked to be. Jerry was big and heavy and his coat might tear. There was no getting another and better grip up there in the air. For that Hooty must alight somewhere. Hooty hoped with all his might that that coat of Jerry's would prove too stout to tear.

If Hooty could have hurried this story might have had a different ending. But Jerry Muskrat was heavy and though Hooty did his very best with his great wings, he moved rather slowly and only just a little above the water. As they drew near the bank Hooty felt one claw tear loose and then another. Jerry began to struggle with all his might and his coat gave way so that Hooty held him with only one foot. Then as Hooty vainly tried to clutch him again with the claws from which he had torn loose, his weight was too much for the claws still gripping his coat. It tore loose from them, and with a splash Jerry struck the dear, cool, beautiful water of the Smiling Pool, while with a scream of rage and disappointment Hooty the Owl flew on toward the Green Forest. Jerry's life had been saved by the tearing of his coat.

West Church League Notes

Hoge Memorial scored the most runs in a single encounter, upending a first round licking at the hands of the Tri Mus by pounding out a 25 to 4 win. Cheerleader Howard Warren Nazarenes scored 21 runs against St. John in a seven inning affair.

Hoge Memorial also took honors with consecutive victories. The second round champs took 10 in a row before Howard "Speedy" Kent downed them in the championship finals Friday night.

Hilltop C. of C. played 13 games before winning, to establish the greatest losing streak. A 21-21 tie with Glenwood broke the actual string of losses however, at nine.

Prior to the organization of ball leagues in April, recreation department officials expressed some doubt as to whether sufficient interest on the Hilltop could be aroused to organize a six team circuit. The fact that only one game was unplayed in the 10 team loop should banish such fears in future seasons.

Tri Mus took at least one record this year. In three consecutive games the Methodists failed to score a run. Warren Nazarene defeated them 3-0, after the Blues had walloped them 7 to 0; and the Reds rounded out the trio with a four to nothing win.

A total of 11 shut-outs were hurled during the season, Kent and Shaffer, of the Hillcrest Reds and Blues, respectively, registering six of them. Corder, Glenwood Tri Mu, and Owens of Hoge Memorial, each had two no-run games while Reese of Warren Nazarene had one.

The Hillcrest Reds had the best defensive record of the circuit, permitting 2.81 runs per game. Hoge Memorial had the best offensive record, averaging 8.1 runs per game. The Reds averaged eight.

The distrust of banks by the people is great, but nothing to compare with the distrust among bankers themselves.

There are fewer things in heaven and earth than are dreamed of in a nightmare.

The LOOKOUT

A STITCH IN TIME . . . .

Tonight, if pre-game enthusiasm is any indication, many West High students and fans will trek to Dayton for the opening football game of the season. Care should be exercised by the drivers of cars enroute to and from the game. It is West's initial night game away from Columbus, and a moment of carelessness may produce disastrous results.

It would be a good plan to save the cheers and shouts for the game. Other trips of such a nature are not the only things at stake. The danger involved must be recognized by those who are driving cars.

ROUND ABOUT THE HILLTOP

That "white dahlia story" chronicled in the Record last week drew fire from several housewife-gardeners. They even took their specimens to the Captain's home, to how him they weren't so rare—but they were the kind he throws away, being less than eight inches across. . . . Add similes: As self conscious as a school boy swearing for the first time. . . . Gil Markeson's dad, one of my favorite people. . . . Wonder who first discovered that a shining female nose was not a thing of beauty and a joy forever. . . . Thanx Curtis Price, for a fine letter. . . . Tennyson's "Flower in a Crannied Wall" is my favorite poem (say, he's getting highbrow). . . . And Mrs. Geo. Cooper, who that someone else wait this pillar. But let me publicize the fact that a husband was right for once (Applause and loud cheers). . . . 78 more shopping days 'til Christmas (First in the Lookout, as usual). . . . Dave Ballard sends a missive from Smithville (population 171), where things fare well with him. . . . Wonder if Mary Louise Matheny's bicycle gets the bedclothes soiled when they sleep together. . . . And Pop Eisenecker, fisherman, didn't get to Canada this year. But he's talking of the fish he might have caught, according to reliable report. . . . Tomorrow is the first day of autumn (Fall, Mr. Campbell, to other folks). . . . I got my first experience in this type of literary work on the "Steam Roller," Troop 45 newspaper. Later I served as correspondent for the "Crowfoot Colyum" on the "Cooperator," St. John Luther League publication. Despite the fact, both are still in existance. . . . (What's he doing, writing an obituary). . . . It's old, but you're reading it anyway, that crack about Noah Webster's biggest work—No sense to it, just one word after another. . . . Well, I guess I'll have to get the telephone directory and look up people not yet mentioned. . . . One word description of Bill Harris: Firecracker. . . . Mendel says Ty Thompson can't go past his girl's house without stopping an hour or so to say "hello." . . . Who was that blonde, curly-headed, fair-faced chap I saw with Janice Munyan and Ann Raether tother afternoon at the football game? . . . Francis Hutchins, a former ad man here, is in London, England. . . . Raymond, king of kanines, is drunk with power. I saw him biting at passing vehicles on Brd. St. a week ago. That grammatical error is awful, that one of James Russel Lowell's: He sings to the wide world, she to her nest—In the nice ear of nature, which song is the best (better). . . . And that crack the Fathers of the nation made—about forming a "MORE perfect union." . . . All right, if you don't get it: How could something be more than perfect?) . . . Cowboy Gridders To Open Season At Dayton Steele

Starting Line-up Announced By Coach Harold Wise; Party to Leave This Afternoon.

Tonight, under the klieg on the Dayton Steele High school gridiron, the West High gridiron machine will open its 1933 campaign. Indications point to a fine group of Cowboy supporters following the squad to the Gem City, and although little is known concerning the opponent, a good game is forecast.

Coaches Harold Wise and Arthur Buchanan sent their proteges through a hard week of practice, closing Thursday evening with light signal drills. The squad, 34 strong, will leave this afternoon at 2 o'clock via bus.

No Huddle

The 1933 edition of the Cowboy grid machine will be different in at least one respect from those of other years. Coach Wise has eliminated the huddle method of calling signals, disposing simultaneously of about 10 superfluous quarterbacks.

According to information from the local camp this week, the opening line-up will see Foch and Williams at the ends, Kellar and Michaelis at the guards, Hoffman and Deshler at the tackles, with Pearson slated to perform at center.

In the ball toting department, Francis and DeMatio will attempt to cavort at the halves, with Richards at fullback and Boye at quarterback. Latham, erstwhile center, sustained a broken ankle last Friday and will probably be out of the line-up throughout the remainder of the season.

Gibson, Richards to Kick

Gibson and Richards will do the punting tonight, with the passing in charge of any one of the four backfielders. Kellar will do the booting from placement.

Besides those mentioned for action at the start of the game, the party leaving this afternoon will include: Coaches Wise and Buchanan, four managers, one newspaperman and the team physician, Dr. T. R. Fletcher. Other players who may see action are: Harper, Mathews, Gibson, Randall, Whitt, Wiley, Miller, West, Gibson, David, Jividen, and Blackmore. Seven others, yet to be named, will also make the trip.

Holton Recreation Center to Vie With Westgate for Beauty and Utility When Completed.

Twenty workmen are being employed in the improvement of Holton Park and this week have removed the brush and rubbish from the dump along North Eureka avenue and are filling in the area with soil.

The creek, which winds through the valley, has been walled in completely, and the dam constructed last summer, has backed up the water and a fine lake has been formed. Although work has not yet been started on the construction of a sidewalk along Eureka avenue, its necessity is realized by Councilman Millikin, and it will probably be laid as soon as funds and workmen are available.

Efforts to improve the Holton Park district have been under way since 1931, when a bridge was constructed on Westwood drive, and the culvert improved on the same street. Last spring, Councilman Wyatt Millikin succeeding in having the entire site become a city park through the purchase of outstanding tracts north of Westwood drive and adjacent to Eureka avenue.

Future plans include the construction of a shelter house, although nothing can be done immediately due to lack of funds.

Indian Day to Be Observed

Honorary Indian Chieftain to Speak at Airport Tonight; Indian Display at Seiller's.

American Indian Day will be celebrated on the Hilltop again this year, when a pageant, under the direction of Mrs. Irene McKinley, will be presented Friday evening at the Sullivant Avenue Airport in conjunction with the American Legion Air Carnival.

F. E. Thompson, 294 Fourteenth Ave., will give a 15-minute lecture, an "Indian Love Story," in sign talk. Mr. Thompson is an honorary chief in the Blackfoot Indian tribe of Montana, and is being presented by Mrs. McKinley. He was honored by the Indians 10 years ago, and for eight summers he lived with them on their reservation. He has given the lecture 47 times in Columbus, and more than 200 times throughout the state. He will speak Friday evening (tonight).

The large window display of Indian materials, appearing through Friday in the Seiller store window, is also Mr. Thompson's work. The various items were presented to him by the Blackfoot Indians and some valuable exhibits are on display.

Other events, appropriate for the observance of American Indian Day, will also be presented at the Airport under the direction of Mrs. McKinley.

Coward's "Cavalcade" and "Sherman, the Fighting Prophet," By Lewis, Available.

According to records released by the main office, the Hilltop branch again led the list of community libraries in services rendered in August. Despite the fact that the library was closed for two weeks 4402 books were loaned. Forty-six new memberships were also granted.

The West High Band Parents' club will hold an important meeting Monday evening, Sept. 25, at West High school, when election of officers will be held.

Rev. Robert Fuller Gets Hillcrest Call

Chicago Pastor Expected to Accept Invitation of Local Congregation Sunday Morning.

Announcement was made this week by officials of the Hillcrest Baptist church, corner of Eldon avenue and Broad street, that the congregation had extended a unanimous call to Rev. Robert A. Fuller of Chicago, to fill the pulpit at the local church permanently.

Rev. Fuller, who preached here twice during the past summer, in June and August, is the present pastor of the Garfield Park Baptist church in Chicago. The call was extended following a meeting of the congregation Sunday morning.

Information as to whether Rev. Fuller had accepted the call had not yet been received this week. Should he accept the invitation, he will begin his activities here Nov. 1.

Commenting upon the call, a member of the Hillcrest organization states: "The field covered by Hillcrest Baptist church in its efforts, represents an unusual opportunity for any minister. In Rev. Robert A. Fuller, we believe we have found that man."

Rev. S. Taimago Magana of Cincinnati, Ohio, will occupy the pulpit at Hillcrest Baptist church both morning and evening, Sunday, Sept. 24, 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Special Service Sunday Followed By Basket Dinner in Social Rooms of Church.

Last Sunday morning a service was held at Glenwood M. E. church in honor of Rev. and Mrs. P. W. Drumm, Rev. J. H. F. Parkins and Mrs. C. F. Prior. Rev. Drumm, pastor emeritus of the church, had answered roll call at his conference for the fiftieth time and Rev. Parkins had served the church many years both in preaching and as a member of the Parkins' Bros. quartet. Mrs. Prior's husband, now deceased, was an honored member of the Ohio conference. She is a teacher of the Beta Lambda class, where she is held in highest esteem. Rev. Drumm preached the morning sermon and Rev. Parkins conducted the service and sang one of his favorite songs.

After the morning service, a large group met about the tables in the social rooms of the church where basket lunch was served. More than a dozen ministers of the conference, old friends of other years, were present and brought greetings of appreciation of these servants of the church. Mrs. C. W. Sewer Relief Up To Voters Nov. 7

Only 100 Answers From 2300 Letters Mailed Out; But 10 Per Cent Favor Change.

The apparent refusal of property owners of the Hilltop, to co-operate in the matter of removing the downspouts of their homes and connecting them with storm sewers, will mean the failure of the effort to relieve the community of its troubles regarding the backing up of sanitary sewage into Hilltop basements.

Such was the conclusion late last week of city officials who said that only a few over 100 answers had been received from more than 2300 letters mailed out to Hilltop and West Side residents. And but 10 per cent of these replies have indicated favor towards the removal of the downspouts.

This means that the city is stopped in its efforts to provide relief unless voters approve a $4,220,000 bond issue to alleviate the situation at the Nov. 7 election.

It was thought that no further attempts on the part of the city would be made to relieve the situation until after Nov. 7. The fact that such a few answers were forthcoming from those who received letters was taken by officials to indicate opposition to the plan. It would have cost each property owner approximately $10.00 to have the downspout changed.

Harvest Home Service At Hoge Memorial

Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church celebrates its annual Harvest Home service Sunday, Sept. 24. There will be music appropriate to the special observance and the sermon by Rev. Hutchison will be on the theme, "The Miracle of the Harvest." The church will be decorated with fall flowers and fruits and vegetables which will be given to the sick and needy. The canned goods will be placed in care of the deacons of the church for distribution as needed. The deacons and their wives are in charge of decorations and distribution of the flowers and food. The public is invited to the service.

Drama Scheduled Sunday Evening

On next Sunday evening at 7:30 at Glenwood M. E. church, "A Daughter of the Dawn," a drama of early Methodism will be presented by members of the W. F. M. S. and the Wesleyan Service Guild. The theme of the drama is written around the historic figure of Methodism, Barbara Heck.

This pageant will be presented under the direction of Miss Margaret Huffman, assisted by Mrs. C. W. Walton, music: Mrs. Howard Whitehead, Mrs. Jennie Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Garrison, Miss Annis Turner, Miss Mildred Phalor and Clifford Jones.

Final Plans Completed for Opening of Gigantic Air Circus, Displays, Special Events.

The Air Carnival and "Little World's Fair," sponsored by the American Legion Camp Chase Post, in conjunction with officials of the Hilltop Airport on Sullivant avenue, will get under way at the local harbor this evening.

All plans have been completed and everything is in readiness for the opening of one of the biggest events ever to be held in the community. Preparations have been made to handle a crowd of 70,000 people during the three days of the event.

Plan Military Exhibit

Major General George Vaulforn Moseley, commander of the Fifth Corps Area, has ordered the entire resources of Ft. Hayes turned over to Camp Chase Post in order to make the military exhibit a success. With Lt. C. E. Mullin in charge of a group from the Fort who will be stationed on the airport during the fair, an exhibit under canvas will be made of signal corps equipment such as radio, telephone and buzzer sets used in wartime communication, cameras used in aerial photography, and a complete motion picture outfit which will show military pictures each night of the fair. An infantry exhibit will include all types of ordinance, such as pistols, revolvers, rifles, automatic rifles, machine guns, bayonets and other accessories.

To Feed 5000

John G. Pinsenschaum, 120 N. Chase Ave., with complete old-time army mess outfit in operation, including both rolling kitchen and field ranges, at the Legion Fair. Good old army "slum," beans and biscuits will be on the menu.

"Pinch" has cooked for over thirty years, including many years in Cuba and the Phillipines, and during the year of 1900 he was cook for Gen. Pershing. He estimates that he has cooked 3,335,000 meals during his term of service.

Preparations are being made to feed 5000 during the three day event.

The medical corps will be represented with a display of its new white metropolitan ambulance, and a complete display of a battalion chest used in wartime first aid work.

Air Squadron to Show

Not to be outdone by General Moseley, Gen. H. C. Pratt of Wright Field, Dayton, has ordered two squadrons of fighting planes sent over for the fair, and these will arrive Saturday and Sunday at 10:00 o'clock and remain until 6:00 each evening. Gen. Pratt assured the committee that he had a surprise for the people of Columbus, the nature of which he refused to disclose. The planes included in the display comprise speed planes which travel 300 miles per hour, attack planes, observation planes and bombers.

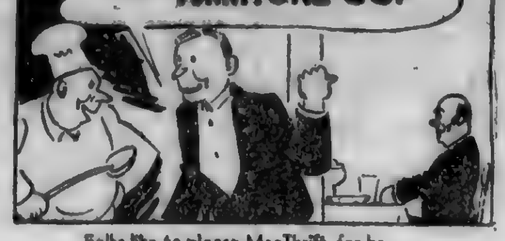
The hangar will be decorated and filled with exhibits of progressive Hilltop merchants and larger business houses from downtown Columbus, who will both display and sample their products during the fair.

To Sponsor Dance

Just outside the hangar a dance floor will be constructed where the Midnite Serenaders, just returned from a season at a Michigan resort, will play. A feature will include daily floor shows which will be presented from the dance floor without cost to the patrons.

A daily air circus will include tricks and stunts by both Virginia Whitehead, girl stunt pilot, and Dick Hunter, world's record holder for parachute drops.

Meals will be served from 5:30 to 8:00 o'clock each evening. The menu includes the old time army favorites cooked and served in army style.



Many Other Events

Other attractions will include nightly boxing and wrestling bouts, a unit of planes from Cleveland which will carry on communications with a National Guard unit camped on the field; a battalion parade on Sunday afternoon, which will include one company of guardsmen from Delaware to participate in the maneuvers; drum corps demonstrations, and many special attractions on the midway in charge of Camp Chase members.

What Is Sharp Practice in Merchandising?
It is taking the other merchants' products and cutting the price on them to discredit him.
It is taking branded articles of proven value and merit and using them as bait, cutting the price to get you into their store so that they may sell you unbranded, unknown merchandise at a big profit.
It is destroying confidence in recognized value merchandise in an endeavor to destroy a legitimate competitor.
THIS SHARP PRACTICE
is undermining American industry — it is destroying faith in Reputable Manufacturers.
It is discrediting legitimate merchants and is retarding the growth of cities where it has become a practice. Just so long as the public accept the assertions of these sharp-practice merchants, just so long will the evil exist. Reputable merchandise is worth a fair price, governed by the cost of the raw materials and the service that enters into its preparation for the market—legitimate competition compels a legitimate price and the man who takes it and slashes it is only using it for bait—he has something in his other hand that he's going to unload on you—Watch Him!

Two new teachers were added to the Starling Jr. High faculty the past week. Miss Willis of Central was transferred to Starling and Gertrude Woodin, formerly a music teacher, was returned to Starling.

The PEOPLES COLUMN

Editor:
I notice where a man has grown a white dahlia and while not wishing to take away any glory that might be his, I can't quite understand where the remarkability comes in.
While I have been unable to give my dahlias any attention whatever this year, not even to tying many of them up, I have had lots of white ones and I mean, pure white without any other color at all.
With no attention, my blooms are small this year, altho have had some develop to about nine inches across.
If this man lays his claim in the fact that he raised it from seed, the glory is his, as I have never tried it but if in color, I will match him, but not in size.
Yours very truly,
L. F. Dinsch.

Throwing Wood From 1869 R. R. Tenders Prohibited

Strict regulations regarding "the throwing of wood from tenders of engines" and the taking on of fuel and water are set forth in an old time-table of the Jeffersonville, Madison & Indianapolis railroad, found among old records and papers in Indianapolis. The time-table was put into effect November 11, 1869.
The back of the time-table is covered with printed instructions for railroad employees. Trains running south were to wait thirty minutes at a meeting station for trains running north. If, after thirty minutes, the expected train did not come, the south-bound train was to have the right of way and "proceed carefully."
The speed of freight, "extra" and stock trains was never to exceed fifteen miles an hour. All trains were to slow down to eight miles in passing stations where no stops were made.
"Throwing wood from tenders of engines while the same are in motion is to be strictly forbidden. Wood that cannot be used in the furnace must be unloaded at the stations where the engine is supplied with fuel and water," according to instructions.

The LOOKOUT

'BOUND ABOUT THE HILLTOP

That contraption of Bob Saesman's gets the orchid this week—That cheese-cloth covered bed of his, I mean, to keep the moskeeters away. And he built it high to keep them fur enuf away so he couldn't even hear them whine and whirr and buzz. . . . One of four boys, who had bruises swabbed in the training room at WHS after a phys. ed. class tother day, uttered a thanx. Which is a hi percentage, according to report (not that it really is). . . . Edna Kuefer, of whom we have not heard in a long while. . . . And Herb Suver, whose alleged 16 top-coats, made the gurls talk two years back. . . . Donald Kingery, according to a missive sent to Bill Boyd, is bound for Hawaii, from Ft. Slocum, N. Y., where he has been stationed for some time. . . . Harold (Yosty) Donovan (the guy that runs that gas station at the Hague-Big 4 x-ing) will step it down the middle aisle with a lass from Ashtabula Co. just two weeks hence. . . . Which calls to mind the Les Bingmer-Natalie Snyder case. They were on fire, but cooled and within a week, each had made a trip to the hitching post. Both are happy, and Les is a paw. . . . Ruth Hall, who says she'll tour U. S. and Yurrop before marrying, recently bot a new bicycle. . . . Frances Lehnert, as full of the "old nick" as ever. . . . Wonder whatever became of her old beart—Harold Park. . . . Robert (Popeye) Sherwood is at Monmouth college in Ill. Has a scholarship and arrived thar with 23 cents in his pockets. . . . Wonder whatever became of Frank Ausel? . . . And that old warhorse Bob Humphries wonders what this scribbler would do if it wasn't for the WHS class of '28. . . . Lessee, that old "Scoofer" Paul O'Brien, was president of that gang, wasn't he. . . . And Frank Rader, too, and Larry Minshall. . . . That was the gang, wasn't it, that sent Miss Clara Earnest a brick all wrapped up nice (It cost 26 cents to mail it). . . . And Jim Matheny cushed the "L" party dance to slide around with Olive (his wife now). . . . And school authorities called a certain girl in and told her she was going with the wrong chap—but she's still goin'. . . . And the Hi-Y had so many hayrides (The Chas. Davis-Ferne Devine hookup was born on one of them). . . . And Lou Truman was valedictorian (She's agriculturing with her husband, Walter Dove, now). . . . And Geraldine Myers and Donna Harmon were the only students in CLL's math class to ever have home-work (They've never been mentioned before, Hump). . . . And just the other day I saw one of the gurl members of the clas with a pr. of 7 $ shoes on. I know, the price tag was still on them, and I know further that they were charged! (Why you jokers, it might be any one of you). . . . But hold on here, Humphries has fallen asleep! Selah!

Reception to Be Held For Rev. A. W. Clutch

Rev. A. W. Clutch of the Burgess Avenue United Brethren church, who was returned to his church for another year at the recent annual conference of that denomination held at Chillicothe, in response to the unanimous request of his people, will be tendered a reception at the church on Tuesday evening, Oct. 3. All members and friends of the church and pastor are cordially invited to be present for this occasion.

The grocery store of F. J. Griffin, 2647 Steele Ave., was burglarized Sunday night, Sept. 24, after entrance had been gained through a ventilator.

Cowboy Tickets On Sale This Week

Although the opening football game on the West High gridiron is two weeks away, athletic officials at the local school placed coupon books on sale this week.

The book, containing 40 coupons, may be purchased for 25 cents. An additional 20 cents will then be charged at the gate at the football games. At basketball games, a gate charge of 15 cents will probably be charged with admission to baseball games being 10 cents.

The sale of the books is in charge of C. B. Marquand, at West High school.

Rally Day Planned At Four Hilltop Churches Sunday

Westgate Evangelical, Glenwood, St. John Lutheran and Hoge Memorial Have Programs.

Rally Day programs will be held in four Hilltop churches Sunday morning, Oct. 1, according to announcements made this week by the respective pastors. Hoge Memorial, Glenwood M. E., St. John Lutheran and Westgate Evangelical have planned programs for the morning services.

Special Program at Hoge

At Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church at the regular Sunday school hour at 9:15, a special program will be given, with all departments meeting together. Rev. Hutchison's theme for the morning will be "Putting Our House in Order." The four Christian Endeavor societies will begin their fall meetings Sunday evening, meeting at 6:30, and the first of the evening services will be held at 7:30, the theme, "Third Story Living." The Young People will have charge of this service and the public is invited to attend.

300 to Be at Westgate

At Westgate, combined Sunday school and church services will start at 9:15 o'clock. A goal of 300 is set for the attendance. The children's division, under the direction of Mrs. E. J. Howard, superintendent, will present some special features, and Miss Margaret Tharp will play a group of numbers on the marimbaphone. The pastor, Rev. C. D. Cowboys Extend Birthday Wishes With Early Call

Saturday was Johnny Latham's birthday. Johnny was the first string center on the West High football team until just a week prior to the opening of the season against Dayton Steele, and then he broke his ankle and is out for the season.

So the boys thought they'd give him something to remember them by. After the game at Dayton, Friday night, they were a trifle chilled, despite the fact that the game ended in a scoreless tie. Anyhow, they recalled that by the time they got home, it would be John Latham's birthday.

So, headed by Coaches Wise and Buchanan, they took up a collection and purchased a fine fountain pen. And arriving in Columbus at such an hour as 2 o'clock Saturday morning, went calling on the Lathams. Underneath Johnny's bedroom window, 42 voices strong, they sang "Happy Birthday to You!" And then every one of the whole bus-full, even the bus driver, crowded in Johnny's bedroom to present him with the fountain pen.

And John had a happy birthnight and day.

Cowboy Gridmen In Saturday Battle With Marietta Eleven

Wisemen Hold Powerful Dayton Steele Team to Scoreless Tie In Lidlifter Friday Night.

Early Saturday morning, West High's battling Cowboy footballers will once again trek into enemy strongholds to meet Marietta High school gridders in the second game of the season for the Wise-coached aggregation.

Promptly at six o'clock tomorrow morning, the team bus will roll away from West High school, arriving at the Ohio River city before noon, where the team will dine at the Hotel Lafayette prior to rambling out on the gridiron for the battle scheduled to get under way at two o'clock.

Held Dayton Scoreless

Dayton Steele's practically intact championship squad of last year was given a severe jolt last week end, despite the fact that the fracas ended in a scoreless deadlock, but watchful eyes of Harold Wise and Arthur Buchanan found many flaws in the Cowboy offense and defense, albeit the former expressed satisfaction with the work of his proteges after the game.

The Cowboy mentor is already faced with a hazard, which has taken its toll in other years—that of overconfidence. "In a way, it's too bad we didn't take a beating Friday," Wise said, "because some team is going to come along and carry home the bacon if we aren't careful."

Best In City?

Already, scribes are heralding the local outfit as the outstanding squad in the city. But they're not so convinced out at the Cowboy stronghold. But five of the 11 lettermen to return for the team are still on the squad. Latham, first string center, is out with a broken ankle. The flanks are light and inexperienced. The backfield is lighter and with not much more experience—and lacks characteristic drive of Wise-coached aggregations of the past three years—near the goal line. Passing and kicking, however, are much improved over last year's efforts.

But no glory should be taken from the team. A strong team was held even last week, and although three opportunities to score were muffed, the Dayton squad juggled a like number. Once a Steele back scampered away for 30 yards and a touchdown, but a clipping penalty nullified the count.

Expect Hard Game

A hard assignment is again on tap for the Hilltoppers tomorrow. A veteran team will be met at Marietta and win or lose, will furnish an excellent preliminary for the game with North next week under the lights at the Polar Bear field.

The Marietta team will present a varied offensive drive, according to report, but on the other hand will offer no such stalwart defense as was encountered at Dayton last Friday.

SCHOOL DAYS BRING TRAFFIC DANGERS

Warnings to motorists cannot be too numerous regarding the dangers of driving too fast through school districts. The Hilltop's children are forced to attend schools, for the most part, located near heavily travelled through streets. A considerate driver will remember this and heed the signs posted in such districts.

Although practically all of the local schools have janitors at the intersections near the buildings, as well as student police, the motorist must do his share if accidents are to be kept at a minimum.

It takes but a single moment to be careless. Something may happen in that brief time which will cause sorrow in all the years to come. It always pays to be careful.

The Nature Trail

By JOHN WOLFE

SEPTEMBER RAMBLE

September days bring with them a softened charm unmatched by any other season of the year. We watch the passing months, and anticipate the coming of autumn with the same longing with which we sought the early spring. The receding sun has taken with it the glare and heat of summer, and the lazy shadows are almost listless as the light filters down through the leaves on the woodland floor of deep ravines.

Sphagnum Marsh

Over the Sphagnum marsh, where Frank Howard and the writer rambled as we would, on one mid September day, was a prevailing quiet unknown during the more boisterous months of late spring and summer. Occasionally the chattering of a flock of blackbirds, as they prepared to migrate, disturbed too near the location of its nest. It is late in the season for home building, but the Goldfinch is just now rearing the peace of the scene. A solitary song sparrow piped his distinctive melody from the top of an alder bush. A goldfinch protested gently as we approached its young, as is the Cedar Waxwing, a handsome fellow, which we observed in the topmost branches of a Red Maple.

A Kingfisher winged its way along the margin of the bog, and perched atop a dead snag. Sandpipers, not so tame-coats as of a few weeks ago, bobbed constantly up and down as they sought food along the mucky shoreline. Far down at the other end of the island, a white heron stood motionless, against a background of cat-tails.

Cotton sedge, in great abundance dominates the sphagnum meadow. And gentle winds are breaking up the tufts and blowing the seeds, as the milkweed seed is blown, for many miles sometimes, where it will germinate and produce a new plant if the conditions are favorable. The giant fronds of cinnamon ferns have turned brown, and the splashes of red furnished by the swamp loosestrife gives a decided tinge of autumn to the bog.

Cranberries have almost matured, and for the past two weeks the natives of the region have gathered them for their own uses. The interesting Sundew plant, which devours insects, is rarely found now. The curious Pitcher Plant has long since produced its seed, although the pitcher-like leaves are still fresh in appearance.

The Season Passes

Since early February, when ice still covered the lake, we have watched the scene of passing seasons on the marsh. Here, where life throbs vigorously, will soon be a desolate wilderness. Here, where we watched, week by week, the the first fern uncurl its graceful frond; here where a half dozen species of orchid thrives; here where the buckbean and the loosestrife and a hundred other interesting plants appear year after year; here, where almost 300 species of birds are to be noted in their respective seasons, will soon thrash the winds of winter. Then only the lashing of the waves against the island edge, and the whistle of the winds, will compose the song of the marshland.

But winter is yet afar off, albeit certain. Leaving the island now, we travel toward Jacob's Ladder and Fairfield county hills. Hundreds of Monarch Butterflies are migrating, and over the fields is a mantle of yellow, for Golden Rod is at the height of its bloom. Twenty-five species of this plant have been reported for Ohio, eight of which are rather general.

Woods in Early Fall

Splashed here and there, the fresh blue of asters, adds variety to the scene. Occasionally the Indigo Bunting may be heard, although it too, will soon be gone. Vultures sweep in giant circles, through the sky above the fields.

In the woods, the red of the partridge berry may be seen on the little trailing plant that grows abundantly on the rockier slopes. And the cluster of berries, too, of the Jack in the Pulpit, are also red and present a striking sight. Certain mosses are beginning to fruit, although throughout the summer some forms have produced their interesting capsule-like spore cases, often unnoticed by the rambler as he hastens by noting the more conspicuous plants.

But now the shadows lengthen sooner and we scramble back over the hill collecting a few lichen specimens on the way, and in the car, scurry back to the city, happy for another fine day in the field.

Thousands Attend Air Carnival At Airport

Thousands of people from all sections of the city attended the final day of the Camp Chase Post's "Little World's Fair and Air Carnival" at the Hilltop airport on Sullivant avenue, Sunday.

The three-day event, starting last Friday, featured military displays, commercial exhibits and carnival attractions. Five army planes were featured in an air show Sunday, one attaining a speed of 300 miles per hour in a flight over the field.

The carnival was sponsored by the American Legion and arranged under the leadership of Maj. George M. Ward, Camp Chase Post No. 98 commander, and Maj. Leslie G. Mulzer of the local airport.

PROOF OF THE PUDDING

There's an old fashioned flavor about the pudding type of dessert that appeals to most people. And fortunately there are scores of recipes that come under this head. If your repertoire is worn a little thin by frequent repetition—why not try some of these?

Hot Apricot Pudding

Rub a low baking dish with shortening, cover the bottom with cooked apricots (dried, soaked and stewed). Sprinkle the apricots with ½ cup brown sugar. Then make a mixture of the following: 1 tablespoon shortening, 1 cup granulated sugar, one egg, beaten, ½ cup milk, 1½ cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Mix as for a cake batter, then pour over the apricots. Bake in a moderate oven for 1½ hours. Turn onto a hot platter and serve at once with cream or foamy sauce, or cream and a little apricot juice whipped together.

Date Pudding

1 pound dates, cut fine.
1 teaspoon soda.
1 cup boiling water.
1 cup sugar.
½ cup butter.
1 cup nut meats.
1½ cups flour.
2 eggs.
1 teaspoon baking powder.

Cut dates fine, then add the boiling water and soda and cool. Cream butter and sugar, add eggs. Add dates and water, then flour and baking powder and last the nut meats. Bake about 1 hour in moderate oven. Serve with lemon sauce.

Recipe for Lemon Sauce

2 cups hot water.
1 cup sugar.
2 tablespoons corn starch.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 lemon—grated rind and juice.

Mix sugar and corn starch, add boiling water gradually, stirring all the time. Cook 8 to 10 minutes. Add lemon juice and butter. Serve hot.

Chocolate Cream Pudding

1 cup sugar.
4 tablespoons flour.
½ teaspoon salt.
2 cups milk.
2 egg yolks.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
2 egg whites beaten stiff.
2 squares chocolate.

Cut chocolate in small pieces. Add sugar, flour and salt. Add milk and egg yolks. Cook in double boiler until pudding thickens. Stir frequently. Add vanilla and fold in egg whites. Cool and chill. Serve plain or with cream.

Prune Pudding

1 cup prunes, cooked, stoned and chopped.
⅔ cup sugar.
1 cup chopped nuts.
3 eggs.
1 tablespoon melted butter.
3 tablespoons flour.
½ teaspoon baking powder.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mix all together and pour into a buttered dish. Bake for about 30 minutes. Serve with plain cream, whipped cream or marshmallow whip.

Steamed Cherry Pudding

Drain canned cherries from syrup. Make a batter of one cup of flour, one teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, add sufficient milk to mix into a drop batter. Butter pudding cups, add a tablespoon of the mixture, then a tablespoon of the cherries. Cover with another spoonful of batter. Leave plenty of room in the cup for rising. Set the cups into hot water, cover closely and boil fifteen minutes. Use the juice slightly thickened for sauce, adding a little butter.

Graham Cracker Pudding

1 quart milk.
3 eggs.
1 cup sugar.
3 tablespoons flour.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Line a large pan with graham crackers. Slice bananas over them, add another layer of crackers and bananas and top with crackers. Pour custard made of the ingredients given above over them. Set in refrigerator to chill before serving.

Orange Minute Tapioca

1-3 cup minute tapioca.
½ cup sugar.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 quart milk, scalded.
1 egg yolk slightly beaten.
1 egg white stiffly beaten.
1 teaspoon orange or vanilla extract.
4 oranges in sections free from membrane.

Add minute tapioca, sugar and salt to the milk and cook in double boiler 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear, stirring vigorously. Pour small amount of tapioca mixture over egg yolk stirring constantly. Return to double boiler and cook until thickened. Remove from fire, fold in egg white and flavoring. Place few sections of orange in bottom of individual serving dishes and cover with tapioca mixture. Garnish with additional orange sections and whipped cream.

Casserole Dishes

Casserole Italienne

Cook ½ pound spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender but not soft. Chop one small onion, 1 clove garlic and 1 green pepper and fry in ¼ cup salad oil until onions are golden brown. Add 1 can tomato soup, one small can tomato paste and 2 teaspoons Worcestershire. Heat thoroughly and season well with salt and pepper. Add ½ cup cheese and stir until melted. Cook ½ pound Hamburg steak until slightly brown. Add to tomato mixture with spaghetti. Turn into greased baking dish and sprinkle with ½ cup cheese. Bake in moderate oven about 20 minutes.

Evening Classes Begin October 2

Full Credit Exteaded Students at Night School; High School Department Complete.

Alumni and former students are assisting faculty members in planning for the opening of the Columbus Public Evening school, Oct. 2, in Central High building.

Vocational courses offered this year are machine shop practice, pattern making, sheet metal, printing, electrical construction, and drafting.

Sewing, millinery, and cooking are given in the home economics laboratories. The commercial courses include commercial art, typewriting, shorthand, bookkeeping, commercial arithmetic, and business English.

The high school department is complete, giving full credit and leading to a first grade diploma. Graduates from this department are admitted to the university without examination. English, French, Spanish, history, mathematics, chemistry, physics, commercial work, public speaking, dramatics, journalism, economics, sociology, and psychology are offered in the Evening High school.

Pupils must be sixteen years of age and not in attendance at any day school, according to H. M. Appleman, director of the school. The oldest student registered last year was 71 years old.

Classes meet Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings. Enrollment last year reached 1450.

Twins Perplex Teachers

Starling teachers frequently have some trouble in distinguishing among its pupils—largely because several sets of twins are enrolled. They are: Margaret Fenner and Marium Fenner, Jean Landenberger, Jane Landenberger and Charlotte Stephens, and Charles Stephens. —Florence Thomas.

Guest At Tea

Patricia Fleming, a Starling Jr. High pupil, a member of Joli's Daughters, was a guest at a tea at the Governor's Mansion. Her hostess, Miss Mary Louise White, was very lovely and made possible an interesting tour of the grounds and home.

—Florence Thomas.

Starling Locker System

Over eleven hundred lockers are assigned each semester to Starling students. During each period (10 in all) of the school day, six students act as hall monitors. The duties of these students comprise the inspection of open lockers, reporting such to the office and allowing no student to go to his locker during class periods except he has a written permit from the office. Under such a system, stealing and loss of books is negligible.

This assignment includes 60 students:

Home Room Period—Norman Bauermeister, Thomas Clinger, Sager Tallman, Andrew Patrick, Harry Cullen.

Second Period—George Snow, Neil Whitaker, John Teele, Arthur Sieber, John R. Trimble, Inspector Donald Saunders.

Third Period—Herschel Melvin Richard Davis, Jack Petit, George Mabe, Oscar Flovin, Inspector Gail VanOrder

Fourth Period—Charles Deman, Dale VanAtta, Eldon Bright, Herman Campbell, Paul Ferryman, Inspector Carl Meier.

Fifth Period—Donald Keeley, Robert Pusecker, Leo Mick, James Osborn, Donald Roederer, Inspector Loren Miller.

Sixth Period—Carl Fuller, Vernon Hoover, Howard Davis, Harley Groom, Richard Johnson, Inspector John Mason

Seventh Period—Gail Snell, Herbert Daft, Jack Coyle, James Smothers, Delbert Milliron, Inspector Charles Saltz

Eight Period—James Agriesti, Dick Hass, Louis Fenaglia, Bob Everingham, Robert Rasor, Inspector Bob Lamp.

Ninth Period—Kelso Ept, Eugene Kindlinger, Don Mueller, Dan Birtcher, Virgil Ross, Inspector William Ewald

Tenth Period—Robert Wycoff, Paul Shaw, John Lee, Cecil Hunawalt, Richard Danford, Inspector Robert Roth.

Banking at Starling is a vital part of the school program. Every Tuesday, during home-room period, 32 rooms are engaged in banking activities. On Sept 26, 1933, three rooms, numbers 37, 31 and 36, made a record of 100 per cent. This day the net deposits totaled $42.47

Polar Zones Quakeless, Found After Long Study

It has been found by a representative of the American Museum of Natural History that there is less likelihood of an earthquake in the polar zones than in any other. This report follows the completion of a study over a period of 25 years of earthquakes and temblors.

During this period only 10 quakes were recorded north of the Arctic circle and but five within the limits of the Antarctic circle. More of them occur along the Pacific coast from Kamchatka to New Zealand than in any other region.

All quakes from minor temblors to major disasters average about 4,000 per year with only about 2 per cent of them causing damage to life and property. During the 25 years which his study has covered he has estimated the total number of shocks at 100,000, of which only about 1,600 were major tremors. Of this number only about 14 occurred in the United States and about 12 along the Pacific coast.

Our Atlantic coast has been free from disasters of this kind, but there have been numerous quakes in Latin America and the Caribbean sea region as well as along the west coast of South America. With the exception of Italy and the Balkans, Europe has been fairly free from quakes. Many occur around the Mediterranean and China seas as well as in the vicinity of the Polynesian islands.

Copyright Law Provides Means of Registration

The United States government guarantees no one against the theft of his ideas or the unauthorized use of his material. The copyright law simply provides a means of registration and a basis whereby the holder of a copyright may go into court to protect his rights if he feels they have been infringed upon. The extent to which two articles, or songs, or books or pictures or plays or films may resemble each other; and questions as to whether there has been plagiarism, and if so, what is due the damaged party, are matters for the courts to decide.

Two persons may offer similar, or even identical matter to the copyright office, and it will register both. It makes no investigation and passes no judgment as to whether there has been plagiarism or infringement. These, too, are points for a court to pass upon if the holder of the prior copyright chooses to bring suit.

A Burrowing Bird

The sheldrake, the Old World salt water duck, has underground as well as underwater habits. It is usual for the birds to nest in holes dug into sand dunes either by the birds themselves or by rabbits. These nest chambers are often as much as three feet deep and often as many as 20 may be served from a common entrance. The nests are equipped with a lid of sod, which provides easy access to the nest for human plunderers. The eggs of the sheldrake are much fancied. The usual practice is to lift the sod lid to the underground nests and take all eggs over six. The elderdown lining of the nest is also taken. The sheldrake is about the size of the mallard and is possessed of brilliant plumage.

"Entangling Alliances"

The phrase "entangling alliances" is popularly attributed to George Washington. But Jefferson, not Washington, was the author, observes the Cleveland Plain Dealer. In his first inaugural address, on March 4, 1801, President Jefferson said: "Peace, commerce, and honest friendship with all nations—entangling alliances with none." This is what George Washington, in his farewell address, said: "Why forego the advantages of so peculiar a situation? Why quit our own to stand upon foreign ground? Why, by interweaving our destiny with that of any part of Europe, entangle our peace and prosperity in the toils of European ambition, rivalship, interest, humor or caprice?"

Uses for Bread Fruit Tree

The bread fruit tree of the tropical islands in the Pacific ocean is a tree of many uses. Its fruit, which is globular and about the size of a melon, is used as a vegetable and also, with different seasonings, as a dessert. Flour made from dried slices of this fruit is sometimes made into bread. The fibrous inner bark of the bread fruit tree is used in the manufacture of cloth. The wood is used for canoes and furniture, and the milky juice which exudes from the stem is the basis of a glue and a calking material.

Cheating the Devil

Among the many religious ceremonies held in Tibet each year, the most amusing one is "Driving out the Demon." It is a dice-throwing contest between two men, one dressed as the Grand Lama and the other as the Demon. As the Demon's victory would portend disaster to the country, the "Grand Lama" plays safe—with loaded dice.—Collier's Weekly.

For the first time in the history of modern art and architecture, a valuable fresco measuring more than 90 yards square was moved, with the wall on which it was painted 300 years ago, a distance of three yards to clear the Fourth century apse of the Church of Donna Regina, Naples, Italy, of its baroque additions.

Heavy Demand For West Grid Ducats

Coupon Books May Be Purchased Until Five O'clock Today at West High School

The greatest demand for grid tickets in the history of West High is being made by students and the public according to officials of the athletic committee at the school. A new arrangement, whereby a coupon book can be purchased for 25 cents, is in vogue at the local institution and apparently is proving popular with the public.

In the new scheme, a book of coupons, containing a ticket for each athletic encounter of the school year, may be purchased for a quarter. Adults may then attend the game with an additional fee of 25 cents. Students will pay an additional fee of 20 cents.

For basketball games, the fee will be [illegible] with prices for the public yet to be established. Five hundred of these books have already been disposed of, according to officials.

Coupon books, admitting holder to each contest without additional payment, may be secured from the athletic committee for $2.50. The student price of the same book is $2.00. These or the 25 cent coupon books will be available at West High school, room 212, until 5 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Coupons must be exchanged at West High not later than four o'clock on the day prior to the game, according to an announcement. Gate prices at the North game Friday (tonight) will be 50 cents.

Bantamweights In 34 to 0 Victory

Take Second Game of Season from Bexley on Franklin Park Gridiron Saturday Morning.

In a football game played Saturday morning on the Franklin Park field between teams representing Bexley and the Hilltop in the city bantamweight grid league, the latter squad coasted to an easy victory over the East Siders, piling up 34 points while holding its opponents scoreless.

Eli b. a tackle, started the touchdown parade when he scooped up a blocked punt and raced 40 yards to score. Marlow then added two touchdowns in quick succession on line plunges after leading two marches down the field for 40 and 50 yards.

Petree started the scoring in the second half when he dashed around end for a six-pointer and Ankrum tossed a 20-yard pass to Gravebel for the final score. Jenkins added the final two points via the place-kick route.

For the Hilltoppers, Gravebel, Carpenter, Ankrum, Maslow and Stiles were outstanding.

The game was the second of the season for the locals, who were defeated by the Sunshine Park aggregation in their first encounter last week by a score of six to nothing.

Cowboys to Open City Grid Race At North Tonight

Maroons Are Slight Favorites In First Locally Important Scholastic Battle of Season.

The West High Cowboys, after two bruising tie games with Dayton Steele and Marietta, will inaugurate the 1933 scholastic campaign tonight at the North High field in what may be one of the most important battles of the season. The Polar Bears, a strong favorite to cop the coveted bunting, will be set to cop their second league victory, having just last Friday laced Aquinas in a superlative fashion, 27 to 0.

North Shows Well

The Northsiders preseason record includes a meager victory over Grandview and a tie with Bexley, but the machine apparently slipped into high gear last week when it went to work on the Terriers. Always slow to start and always anxious for a victory over the Wisemen, the Maroons may send the Hilltoppers home a little the worse for wear.

West's two ties, however, over strong teams, indicates that the Polar Bear path to victory will not be strewn with roses, and there's more than a mere possibility that the local squad will take the league lead.

Battered At Marietta

A week of intensive drill has been the Cowboy lot under the direction of Coaches Wise and Buchanan. Keller, Michaelis, Deshler and Williams sustained slight injuries while the team was being surprised by a hard driving Marietta attack and a harder tackling defense. It was a hard battle for the locals, who fought with their backs to the wall most of the time and had but a single opportunity to score.

After the opening quarter, when West kept threatening in Marietta territory, the two teams battled in initial half scrapping in mid-field. The heat was terrific and slowed up the play perceptibly.

Marietta Starts Drive

After the Cowboys had received the kickoff in the second half, and proceeded to register its only first down of the period, Marietta took the ball and marched 55 yards to within 15 yards of the Brown and Buff goal. There the quarter ended—and also the drive. For led by sterling defensive play on the part of Deshler, Keller and Beer, the River City boys were thwarted in their every attempt. A flurry of passes late in the game were also stopped cold.

Four times West punted out of mid-field from near its own goal, and [illegible] many times the returning Marietta drive was halted. It was [illegible] fensive play.

Offense Weak

Offensively, West failed [illegible]. Running plays were stopped easily. Passing was erratic and kicking short. Field generalship, however, [illegible] of Cliff Boye, was again [illegible].

All in all, should the Cowboys [illegible] begin to function [illegible] and the Cowboy [illegible] out form, [illegible] than a chance of defeating [illegible] night. The game should [illegible] a brilliant battle.

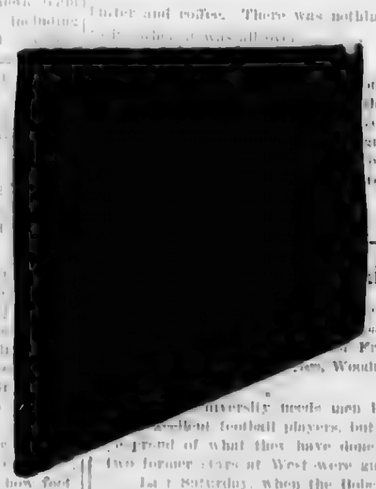
COWBOY GRIDDERS ON FINE TRIP TO BEAUTIFUL OHIO RIVER CITY

Marietta Journey, Finest Ever Taken By Cowboy Athletes, Chronicled By Record Reporter.

By JOHN WOLFE



When the West High football team, its managers and coaches, and this reporter left the school early last Friday afternoon via bus, the start of one of the finest—or rather the finest trip ever taken by a Cowboy athletic team was made. A party of 42, including the bus driver (a fine lad, eight in height and a shade [illegible] in weight) left at 12:30 on the ultimate destination [illegible] where the Cowboys were to do battle on the gridiron on Saturday.

And in those unorganized how such trips are conducted [illegible] day was [illegible] Eaton to the tune of [illegible] and Watch Ohio U.

Rolling [illegible] Hocking canal [illegible] home of the ohio university, the Robert athletic plant, where now Wills and Bill Schmidt, West High stars are given stellar fashion for the Green and White, the team stopped to watch college grid rehearsal.

Theme to Hotel Berry, arrangements had already been made for the evening repast. And how football players eat! Only a football player's mother can understand just what almost three dozen of them could do to a mess of steak mashed potatoes, peas, beans and corn, salad, bread and butter and coffee. There was nothing [illegible] was all over.

[illegible]ises Former Cowboys

[illegible] of Ohio University, who was a [illegible] football party at the Hotel Berry in Athens, [illegible] Friday evening, had words of praise for [illegible], Woodrow (Woody) Wills and William (Bill) [illegible].

"[illegible] university needs men like these," he said, "for they are not [illegible] football players, but splendid fellows. West High can well be proud of what they have done since matriculating at Ohio U." The two former stars at West were guests of the squad at the dinner.

Last Saturday, when the Bobcats opened their season with a 61 to 0 win over Morris Harvey, these two lads did their share. Each scored a pair of touchdowns and Woody led the ball toters in yards gained from scrimmage, while Bill turned in the longest run, a 90-yard dash, after intercepting a pass.

Trip to the historic city alone, was worth the while.

Get Ready for Battle

Pure steak and accessories for lunch, and the squad was taken to the YMCA to dress for the game. Quietly, with no commotion, ankles were taped and warm-up and grid paraphernalia donned—and the team made for the field of battle.

And after that gruelling defensive struggle, described elsewhere in the [illegible] the battered bodies sought [illegible] warm waters of the swimming pool back at the Y. And with even more enthusiasm, albeit with aches and groans, they struck for Hotel Lafayette and the Rufus Putnam dining hall. And justice was done to that menu, also. Creamed chicken on toast, potatoes, salad, hot rolls (not to [illegible] and cup pie a la mode and milk [illegible] quickly to recount and there wasn't much review.

Attend School Dance

After the dinner, the team checked out, attending the high school dance to which Coach Wise had accepted an invitation after the game. Whether it was due to fatigue or bashfulness or lack of girls—perhaps it was all three, the boys were edged a trifle on the dance floor—for most of those who danced were off-side, albeit one chap's method was excellent. Tramping ruthlessly on his partner's dainty feet, he

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

PETER TRIES TO CALL ON SHORT-TAIL

WHEN Peter Rabbit returned to the dear Old Brier Patch he could think of nothing but his new acquaintance, Short-Tail the Shrew. This was quite like Peter. Anything new arouses his curiosity so that he can think of nothing else. He would have liked nothing better than to gossip with some of his neighbors about Short-Tail and his affairs, but to do this he would have to admit that he knew little or nothing about Short-Tail, and this he couldn't bring himself to do. You see Peter felt very, very foolish every time he thought of how Short-Tail had been one of his neighbors for so long and all the time had been mistaken by him for a member of the Mole family.

So Peter said nothing to anyone, not even to little Mrs. Peter, but resolved to make up for lost time. The very first chance he got he slipped over to the old log where he had met Short-Tail. He intended to make a call. Now Peter couldn't see under the old log, so he couldn't tell whether Short-Tail was there or not. He called but got no answer. He thumped with his feet. Finally he thumped right on top of the old log itself, and then looked quickly to see if anyone ran out. No one did. It was quite plain that Short-Tail wasn't there.

Then Peter remembered what Short-Tail had said about his private little paths, and jumping down from the old log he began to look for them. Now it didn't take Peter long to find a little path, for there was one leading right away from one end of the old log. It wasn't much of a path. Of course such a little fellow as Short-Tail wouldn't make much of a path. It was very much like one of the private little paths of Whitefoot the Wood Mouse. In fact Peter would have supposed that this was just what it was, had it not been for what Short-Tail had said. It was only about half an inch wide.

"He told me to follow his path and we might meet," said Peter to himself, there being no one else to talk to. So he started to follow the little path. Presently he came to another little path, and where the two little paths joined Peter sat down and scratched his head in a puzzled way. "Now how am I to know which way to go?" he muttered. Finally he decided to stick to the one he had started on. Half a dozen jumps brought him to where this little path branched. Peter was stuck again. Finally he chose one of the branches and started on, only to have this branch lose itself in a whole lot of little paths, which crossed and recrossed and were seemingly all mixed up. Just looking at them made Peter dizzy.

"I'm not going a step farther," declared Peter. "What is the use? I don't know which path to follow and if I did, it would merely lead into another little path and I wouldn't get anywhere." A sudden thought struck Peter and caused him to sit up with a funny look on his face. "I wonder," said he slowly, "I wonder if Short-Tail was simply planning to have fun with me, when he told me to follow one of his little paths and perhaps we would meet. Anyway, I've tried to make a call, and that I couldn't is no fault of mine. Now I think I'll go home. My gracious! What a lot of mixed up paths! Short-Tail must do an awful amount of running about."

"I have to," snapped a sharp squeaky voice. "I'd starve if I didn't."

Peter looked behind. There was Short-Tail, darting along one of his little paths.

"Wait a minute!" cried Peter. But Short-Tail had vanished.

THE SCHOOLS OF OHIO

Perhaps there is no institution in the state of which all the people are prouder than the public schools. Every parent with children in school feels a vital interest in the success of the school, because the welfare of his children depends on the efficiency of the teachers and the organization in which they work. We have become so accustomed to our schools that we have taken them as a matter of course, and have given no thought to any danger that might menace them. But the world-wide depression has hit the schools even more severely than most other institutions. We have been reading, for two or three years, that the Chicago teachers were receiving little or no pay, while the teachers in New York and Denver and many smaller cities were faring but little better. Last year and this, the trouble is coming nearer home, and hundreds of teachers—probably thousands did not receive their full pay last year, and in a large part of the state there is little or no money to maintain the schools this year.

The Legislature passed a law authorizing school boards to borrow money last year to pay some of their debts, and pledged the gasoline tax to pay the bonds, but this rather doubtful plan will not be available this year. Unless the general assembly finds new sources of revenue, a large portion of the schools of the state will be closed by Christmas, or the teachers will work without pay, trusting that in some way the money will be provided in the future.

This condition exists not only in the poor counties of the hill section of the state but in the wealthy cities. Toledo is opening their schools this week, and the officials say the funds will be exhausted by the first of January. Bellefontaine and Kenton have the same story, and a similar condition is pretty general over the state. The great city of Cleveland has only paid its teachers part of last year's salary and conditions are worse this year.

Columbus is faring better than almost any other city in the state. This is due to some fortunate circumstances. The school board sold the old Central High school grounds for about a half million dollars, and used the money for current expenses, then a large amount of money had been collected in a sinking fund, and some of this tax has been diverted to the current fund. Nevertheless a 12½ per cent cut was made in the teachers' salaries, and their contracts are for only seven months this year, and the number of teachers has been reduced in the face of an increased enrollment.

The startling fact is a large number of people do not want to pay school taxes. The present legislature slashed the appropriation for the state universities millions of dollars, but the various election boards and many political offices not a dollar.

Everywhere you hear talk of reducing the schools to the eight grades, and making the high schools tuition schools. The general assembly has wrestled with the problem of support for the weak schools all summer and has done nothing. It has been proposed to raise money by a sales tax, an income tax, a tax on intangibles, or a tax on public utilities but nothing has been done. The truth is many of the members did not want to do anything.

We are paying the same price for gas, telephones, light, express and all other public utilities that we paid in war times. The American Telegraph and Telephone Company paid nine per cent dividend all through the depression and has $100,000,000 in reserve, but it was impossible to get the legislature to levy a tax on these companies to keep the school doors open.

It behooves the friends of the public schools to be on guard.

RED BIRDS VICTORIOUS

Everybody in Columbus is rejoicing this week over the victory of the Red Birds in winning the championship in the minor leagues.

The team had all sorts of difficulties to overcome and their series of victories seem almost miraculous. Red Thomas deserves the highest praise for his management, especially when we recall that he took charge of the team in the middle of the season and brought it through to such a magnificent victory. This is the first championship that has come to Columbus for almost twenty-five years, so we have a right to rejoice.

Come to think of it, Columbus is always lucky in the sporting enterprise of our local people and we look for new championships in the future. That reminds us that the football season starts in a few days. With the splendid influence of the state university team and the various high school teams, we should forget all about the depression this fall and everybody root for the home teams.

"Voyage to Tahiti" Ends in Disaster

Henry sees put a disastrous end to a projected voyage to Tahiti for three adventurous San Franciscans when their 21-foot converted lifeboat was beached near the Cliff House. Coast guardsmen noticed the small ship in distress and went to its rescue but by the time they arrived the vessel had been driven ashore. Those aboard the craft were Norman Bade, his wife, Marion, and Don Boutyette.

The Nature Trail

By JOHN WOLFE

THE SUGAR GROVE REGION

No other region in the state offers to the botanist a greater variety of plant habitats or a greater number of plants, as the Sugar Grove region in Hocking and Fairfield counties. And when the cool, crisp days of October come, "when the set of sun seems all the landscape charms," when the pale blue vale of smoky haze lingers over the far hills—there's no finer spot for the lover of the out-of-doors than these same rugged hills. Bliss Carmen has struck a sympathetic note with:

"There's something in October sets the gypsy blood astir.
We must rise and follow her—
When from every hill of flame,
She calls and calls each vagabond by name."

In Search of Lichens

Such was our mood Sunday, as Dick Bachman and the writer struck for the hills in search of lichen specimens. And we were not disappointed, for even now, the maples are turning scarlet on the hardwood ridges, and with the shortening days and the coming of light frosts, the hillsides will soon be a glorious spectacle, even to those whose only pleasure is driving, instead of hiking through the region.

This day we stopped at Crystal Springs, located in the upper waters of the Hocking River in a broad valley, which was formerly the mouth of a pre-glacial stream which 40,000 years [illegible]. The locality [illegible] was not covered by the [illegible] ice sheet, that is, derived from the weathering and erosion of the rocks. The area is covered by a great sandstone cap, below which occurs silt and shale.

Mesophytic Forest

The Sugar Grove region, extending from the little village of the same name just south of Lancaster, to Old Man's Cave, Rock House and other points of interest near Logan, is a part of the [illegible] extending southwest to Cincinnati. The hills are of the same altitude, and thousands and thousands of years ago, a great plain extended over what is now hill country. But the years have brought the elements and erosion and now the valleys have formed, leaving only the hilltops as remnants of a once vast plain.

In this region, coves, or short, steep ravines, rimmed by high cliffs, are abundant. The one at Crystal Springs is typical, and in the loose, loamy soil, containing much decayed vegetable matter, thrives a luxuriant forest. Here, the beech and the maple and the hemlock form the dominant vegetation, along with tulip and chestnut and birch. These compose what is known as a mesophytic forest.

Here, in their respective seasons, bloom the interesting rhododendron, the silverbell, azalea, mountain laurel, witch hazel, dogwood and hydrangea among the shrubs, and hundreds of interesting ground cover plants, with the vernal ferns especially abundant.

South Slopes Different

But on the south facing slopes, the conditions are totally different, and consequently the vegetation is known of a different nature. Here, chestnut and oak and hickory are the most abundant, with pine scattered generally throughout. Blueberries grow profusely on the sandy slopes, and the spring flora of the north [illegible] is lacking.

The rock cliff societies, however, are the most interesting of them all. Here, succession is best illustrated, from the bare rock at the cliff's edge to the climax beech-maple-hemlock forest.

Where the lichens are growing, soon will appear a few mosses. The lichens assist in the breaking up of the rock and also bits of earth and humus gather on which the more xerophytic mosses soon germinate. Gradually, as the years pass and more soil is formed, [illegible] ferns appear on the cliffs, where sufficient soil has been formed the transitional shrub zone comes in transitional shrub zone to come in composed largely of the blueberries. Trailing arbutus, wintergreen and partridge berry. Following these come the tall shrubs—the mountain laurel, the Rhododendron and the like, to be superseded in turn by the pines.

As time passes, there is sufficient shade on the woodland floor for the oak and chestnut seedlings to germinate, and as they grow and develope, the pioneer [illegible] needs much shade for the pines, and an oak hickory-chestnut woodland has replaced the pine.

Once again, shade is produced in greater abundance, and maple and beech seedlings germinate, finally to replace the oak forest.

Casserole Dishes

For real flavor and economy casserole dishes are favorites with the cook who banks a point of these two features in planning her menus. Economy, because the cheaper foods may be utilized. Flavor, because this special type of cooking seems to bring out to the utmost the last delicate bit of delicious and savory quality in the foods so prepared.

Chicken Pie

2 cups cooked chicken.
12 small white onions.
1 cup cooked sliced carrots.
2 cups season chicken broth.
4 tablespoons flour.
6 tablespoons water.
Baking-powder biscuit dough.

Arrange the chicken, onions and carrots in a 1½ quart casserole. Meanwhile heat the chicken broth, stir in the flour mixed to a smooth paste with the water and boil 5 minutes. Pour this sauce over the chicken and vegetables. Prepare the baking-powder biscuit dough by the standard recipe using 2 cups of flour as a base. Roll to ¾ inch thickness and cut into rings. Arrange on chicken. Bake in hot oven for 30 minutes.

Baked Pork Chops

4 loin pork chops.
3 large potatoes, sliced thin.
2 slices salt pork.
2 small onions sliced thin.
1 cup canned beef broth.
1 cup water.
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¼ cup bread crumbs
Salt and pepper to taste.

Lay the slices of salt pork on bottom of glass or earthen casserole. Dust the chops with the salt, pepper and mustard and fry lightly on both sides in the dish arrange the potatoes and onions in layers and dust lightly with salt and pepper. Place the chops on top and pour in the beef broth and water. Sprinkle with the bread crumbs and dot with fat cut off the chops. Bake, covered in a moderate oven for 1½ hours. Uncover and bake another ½ hour to brown.

The School Child's Lunch

Now that vacation days are over it's important to bend every energy toward preserving the bubbling vitality the holidays bring. Plenty of sleep, exercise and most of all—good food—will achieve this end. If the child carries his lunch to school the mother should see to it that some provision is made at school for a hot drink at noon. Soup, hot cocoa or cocoa are desirable. Many modern schools are equipped with cafeterias—nearly all in charge of competent dietitians. If the child is fortunate enough to attend one of these institutions the mother has little cause for worry. If, however, her child must take his lunch the following suggestions may be helpful:

A recent survey showed that school children prefer the following foods:

Sandwiches (meat or salad)
Hard cooked eggs.
Bread and butter.
Milk.
Fresh fruits.

The boxed lunch should contain sandwiches of meat, cheese, peanut butter or jam. A small cake may be added but rich heavy sweets are not advisable at noon time. Fresh fruit—an apple, pear, peach, orange or banana are better.

If the child is fortunate enough to live within walking distance of home the mother should always plan to have at least one hot dish at noon. Even though the lunch period is limited this rule should be observed. A fruit pudding, simple dessert such as tapioca, fruit gelatine or cookies may be added. Bread and milk should be considered a staple of the noonday meal.

Milk is foremost in the list of "protective" foods and every child should have at least one quart a day—either taken as a drink or in foods such as cereals or desserts. Other "protective" foods include fruits, vegetables and eggs.

A child should be encouraged to eat but never forced. Explain the importance of plenty of good, wholesome food to health and enjoyment. Prepare the dishes attractively—for children are responsive to such things. Add a dot of jelly to desserts. Cut his sandwiches in attractive shapes. When packing a school lunch see that foods are wrapped in oiled paper and that a fresh paper napkin is included with each box. All these things develop a sense of fastidious pleasure in relation to food and meal time. The child will eat more and enjoy more food when it is attractively prepared.

For the Cookie Jar

School children trooping in, guests dropping in for tea, unexpected guests at dinner—these make frequent demands on the cookie jar. If it's always filled with delectable trifles more demands may be made on it and you—but your fame as a cook and dispenser of attractive hospitality will grow by leaps and bounds. If you're a bit tired of the familiar cookies—try these.

Date filled Cookies

½ cup shortening.
1 cup brown sugar.
1 egg.
2 cups flour.
1 tea-spoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt.

Filling for Cookies

1 cup seeded dates
¼ cup brown sugar.
¼ cup water.
1 cup nuts, preferably black walnuts.

Cream the shortening, add the sugar gradually and cream together, until the mixture is smooth and fluffy. Add the beaten egg and the flour, which has been sifted with the baking powder and salt. Pack the mixture in a small square pan. It will make a 2-inch layer in a 4-inch square tin. Place in the refrigerator until it is very cold and firm. Turn the dough out on a slightly floured board. Cut in thin slices with a sharp knife. Spread half of the slices with the cookie filling and cover with the remaining slices. To make the filling put the dates and nuts through the meat chopper, add the sugar and water and cook to a thick paste. This should be cold when spread on cookies. Bake cookies for about 20 minutes.

Peanut Butter Cookies

2 cups flour.
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt.
2 cups whole bran.
½ cup shortening.
½ cup peanut butter.
½ cup brown sugar.
1½ cups granulated sugar.
2 eggs, well beaten.

Sift the flour before measuring. Add the baking powder and salt and sift again. Add the whole bran. Cream the shortening. Add the peanut butter and blend until smooth. Add the sugars and blend well. Add the eggs. Add the flour mixture a little at a time. Shape into rolls about 1½ inches in diameter. Wrap in waxed paper, and chill over night in the refrigerator. Cut in ¼ inch slices and bake in hot oven for 8 minutes. Makes 6 dozen cookies.

This Doesn't Look Like Cavalry

MOTORIZATION of the Seventh cavalry, at Fort Bliss, Texas, has eliminated the horse and wrought changes that sadden the old timers. One of the developments, pictured above, is a machine gun mounted on a swivel base on a truck cab, designed to protect convoys from aerial attack.

School News

Starling's Orchestra Members

Under the supervision of Martha Ochs, Starling music teacher, a versatile group of musicians has been formed. The nine men members, and the instruments they play are as follows: Rita Lauderback, violin; Beatrice Barton, violin; Robert Stiles, violin; Olein Roly, violin; Forrest Davis, violin; Russell Little, violin; Gus Chase, violin; Mary Ann Thomas, violin; Herman Davis, violin; Charles Howard Riebel, trumpet; Dale Van Atta, trumpet; Robert Owen, trumpet; George Snow, cornett; Paul Writesel, saxaphone; Donald Wolfe, cymbals; James Livingston, drum; Mary Linda Andrews; piano; Ruth Dudley, piano; and Ruby Mattingly, piano.

In Art Contest

Robert Lange, Mary Louise Carter and Doris Chenoweth, students at Starling Junior High, were selected to represent their school in a city-wide art contest, sponsored by the Columbus School of Art. The winner among all of the schools of the city is to be awarded a year's scholarship at the Art school.

Bowling Leagues

Starling faculty recently organized a bowling team. W. B. Walsh was elected captain; women teachers have likewise formed a team. Both expect to participate in the inter-school faculty tourney.

Starling Shoe Fund

The boys and girls of Starling Junior High have launched a campaign to provide means to purchase shoes for needy students. This project is managed through the various home rooms. Enthusiasm runs high. In room 33, for example, a contest is sponsored by the group in the form of a football game. Each 25 cents counts a touchdown.

If you don't believe in cooperation, watch what happens to a wagon when one wheel comes off.

Locusts Good for Something

The locust, much dreaded by the average farmer, serves at least two useful purposes, a Macon (Ga.) scientist declares. In the first place, locusts make excellent chicken feed, and in the second place they furnish wild birds with a substitute for the fruit they might otherwise destroy. The chickens, according to this authority, go for these destructive insects in a big way; while in one instance birds attacking the cherries in a cherry orchard have been known to desert their fruit diet to feed on locusts, thus insuring the owner of the orchard a larger cherry crop.

The Old-Fashioned "S"

"The long "s" resembling an "f" was in general use for all but the final "s" from the earliest days of printing in the Fifteenth century to about the year 1800. John Bell of London, publisher of "The British Theater" in 1775 was one of the first to discard the long "s," and Benjamin Franklin wrote in 1786 that the "round 's' begins to be the mode, and in nice printing the long 's' is rejected entirely."

War on Insects Never Ceases

The fight with insects is a never-ending battle, says Tee-Pee Flashes. It is estimated that there are 120,000 species, while the number of specimens of all kinds approximate 2,300,000, according to the writer. The termite pest is reported to do $30,000,000 worth of damage yearly in the South alone, while loss from rodents throughout the country is calculated at $300,000,000 annually.

CARD OF THANKS

We expres our sincere thanks to Rev. F. S. Robinson and B. D. Haynie and Spears & Born for their kindness and sympathy, also the neighbors and friends for their kindness and floral offerings during the illness and death of our husband and father, F. F. Johnston, who passed away Sept. 24, 1933, at the age of 62 years.
Mr. Anna Johnston.
Harold Johnston.

Statue of Saviour Made From Unused War Pieces

The statue "Christ of the Andes" is a bronze statue of the Saviour erected at Combre pass on the mountain frontier between Chile and the Argentine republic, about 13,000 feet above sea level. In 1901 these two countries were on the verge of war over a boundary dispute, but better counsel prevailed, and Great Britain aided in settling the question the next year by arbitration. The statue commemorating this event was suggested by Senora de Costa, president of the Christian Mothers' Association of Buenos Aires. The proposal met with popular approval, and, under the leadership of Senora de Costa, the women of Buenos Aires supplied the funds by subscription. This statue, which was constructed partly of cannon acquired for war purposes from both armies, was unveiled in 1904. The figure, which stands on a gigantic column of stone and cement, is twenty-six feet high. The upraised left hand grasps a cross and the right hand is lifted as if blessing the world. An inscription on the base reads: "Sooner shall these mountains crumble to dust than shall the people of Argentine and Chile break the peace which they have pledged themselves at the feet of Christ the Redeemer."

American First to See Land in the Antarctic

Commander Charles Wilkes, in command of the American exploring expedition in Antarctic waters, first sighted land January 19, 1840. Captain D'Urville, in command of a French expedition, sighted a high mass thought to have been land covered with snow on the same day. Actual land was not seen by the French until January 22, observes a writer in the New York Herald Tribune.

Other explorers give full credit to Wilkes, especially in view of the fact that D'Urville did not drop a day from his calendar when crossing the one hundred and eightieth meridian to make the time correspond with the eastern hemisphere, making the actual date of his seeing anything January 20.

The United States has claim to the continent, as international law recognizes discovery as the prime test of ownership. If any question to the validity of the claim should arise it would probably be settled by international arbitration. No trace of man or land animals has ever been discovered.

Checked Cholera

The medical section of the League of Nations was asked to do something in the periodical epidemic of cholera devastating Tsochow, China, says the Kansas City Star. A parade of carts was organized, carrying large figures which represented the wicked cholera devil and the good angel of boiled water. Men on the carts shouted to the people to drink only boiled water. This intense propaganda went on for several weeks prior to the appearance of the regular visitation of the dread scourge, and when the time came, hundreds in the villages around died of the plague and in the city itself not a single case was reported.

Apricot From China

The apricot, one of California's most important fruit products, is believed to be a native of China. It was first introduced to the Pacific state back in the early mission days and has flourished there ever since. Its life habit is much like that of the peach, and some effort has been made to establish it in the East. However in the East it faces one plant enemy so well known to peach growers, the curculio. There are three known species of apricot, the American type growing in a beautifully foliaged tree of spreading nature with a round top. The leaves are a bright green and the flowers pinkish white.

Days of the "Iron Horse"

Just about 100 years ago this nation was witnessing the greatest of all railroad spectacles, a great transition, greater than the change from sail to steam and much more romantic than the new-fangled wind wagons that buzz over regular enough for watch setting. Previous expansions seem trivial when compared to the frenzied race of the "iron horse" in the 1830s and '40s.

The LOOKOUT

Kenneth Kidd, back from Calif., can take his choice between an 8-cylinder car, a college education, or a trip to Yurrop. At least, so the report says. . . . Harold Park, whose whereabouts we wondered about a spell back, is a London inhabitant, and his boy was a yr. older Wednesday. . . . One of the things we couldn't imagine was exploded last wk.—Jack Shank was observed WALKING. . . . Dorothy Fuller, strolling along Brd. St. . . . lawrence minshall, parading before the bleachers at the North-West game. And putting his tongue between his lips, he breathed boistrously through his mouth, which puts him in THAT category . . . The guy a former localite tells about, who went into a restaurant for a glass of the amber juice. And when it was served in a frosted glass, he shouted: "Hey, what's the matter. Bin servin milk in this mug" . . . Tony Demattteo and Tug Draper have the prettiest teeth of any we have seen (Gosh, that guy has opinions on everything) . . . Miss Robinson, a former art teacher at Highland Jr. Hi, once slapped my face (Whee!)

"Just a Friend" postcards that Chare Carpenter, his wife and son, have been living in Calif. for at least two years. We wondered about him a week ago, so thanx-justafriend. There is a city in seven states named Columbus (Dogone, bet he's study'n jogerfy). . . . Roger Gable's 8 mos. old son (Edwin Parker, after his grandfathers) is cutting his foist tooth . . . Some guy was telling me Monmorn that a gas station will soon be located at Brd.-N. Warren. . . . Ed Johnson, the West Va. lad who made good on the Hilltop, says this pillar is very good (Ed. is listening post No. 37½). . . . George Owen, who was erroneously refererd to as Gen. Owen8, some time ago. Apologies. . . . Aw, ermeen, try a want ad. (Cowboys the place that hard up?) . . .

Weber's home at Burgess and Broad stands aloof from the hustle and bustle of daily traffic in picturesque placidity. The old brick home, with its ivy clad walls, and shaded by towering poplars and elms, possesses a dignity that comes from age and service.

The spacious lawn, rimmed by barberry bushes on the outer edges, and decked with shrubs, is seldom seen by the passer-by. Yet there is an air of friendliness about the place that one cannot fail to recognize.

And as the years pass, and each spring the forsythia blooms, and the song sparrow calls from atop an elm sapling—the mansion suggests more and more the calm peacefulness of an old man, resting in his favorite rocking chair—just waiting for the sunset.

Flash: Tom Zolkoff, local restaurant prop., will appear before someone with legal authority Saturday. And a Zanesville blonde will be there, too. And ammunition will be the watchword. . . . Flo Hanzen, whose latest refrigeration trick has been suppressed here for 2 weeks, is worried about it all. Her sister told a local busy . . . Reel-Johnson's unisex mustache, if a blacker shade of red, would resemble Mr. Hitler's. . . . Cliff Kohn and Mary Mullikin, thumbs in vests, watching with somnorial dignity, the coming of the crowd to the bridge benefit. . . . Thelma Middendorf, who threatens to twist a certain chaps neck if her name appears here with Bill Scofield's. I'm rooting for you, Thelma. . . . And George Painter, champion gum chewer of them all.

Cowboys to Open Home Season With Zanesville Today

To Show for First Time of Campaign On Home Gridiron; In Disappointing Loss to North.

The West High Cowboys, after three gruelling battles on foreign fields, will inaugurate the home season this afternoon on the local gridiron, with the formidable Zanesville Lash High school aggregation as the opposition. And the squad from along the Muskingum will present a powerful team, on a par at least, with those that the Cowboys have met in their three previous encounters.

Disappointing Defeat

And if a bitterly disappointing defeat at the hands of North last Friday night hasn't taken the fire from the local contingent, the Wisemen will meet the Zanesville onslaugh tooth for tooth and nail for nail. Having defeated Bexley, the team that held North to a scoreless tie, by 18 points, Zanesville will have the stuff to swamp a discouraged Hilltop team.

For last Friday's heartbreaking defeat at the hands of the Polar Bears was enough to discourage the hardiest of spirits. Outgaining the Hagleymen three to one from scrimmage, outplaying them on the defense, but being edged by Bob Wiley's passing and kicking, the Cowboys deserved to sip of the nectar of victory. But Wiley's towering, 60-yard punts and long passes forced them to gulp the hemlock.

Bob Wiley Stars

Actually, it was the educated toe of this same lad which brought the Northmen victory, for his place-kick through the uprights following Bush's four-yard dash for a six-pointer in the third quarter, was the margin which defeated the Cowboys. Prior to the touchdown, his 35-yard pass placed the Maroons in scoring position.

But the Cowboys were not sluggards. In the first quarter, they took the ball on their own 15-yard stripe and marched to within four yards of the Maroon goal. Then Wiley punted out, but another march, featuring the scintilating dashes of Boye, Jividen and Francis, took the ball over. Jividen lugging the leather on the final attempt. Then, Kellar missed the kick for point, the ball hitting the crossbar squarely in the center. It was his third attempt, the first time North was offside; the second, both teams were too anxious and the disastrous final attempt missed by three inches of being converted.

West Plays Well

But Kellar is not to be censured. His work defensively and offensively through the evening was splendid. Michaelis Mathews and Deshler, also, were stars of the first magnitude while offensively, Dick Francis, leading the Cowboy attack, played inspired football. Jividen's perfect work was marred by a single fumble and Boye's quarterbacking marked him as outstanding.

It was a bitter loss—made more bitter by being the third straight to the Bears. And whether "defeat may serve as well as victory, to shake the soul and let the glory out," will be seen in weeks to come. The season is by no means over.

East vs. North Tonight

Tonight, East High, the lone stumbling block of any consequence in the path of the Maroons, will strive to knock the Hagleymen from off their high perch. Should the Tigers emerge victorious, then the Cowboys will have an opportunity to avenge the defeat sustained last Friday by winning from East in the final fracas of the season. Although North is the favorite in tonight's game, the traditional battle between the two teams can hardly be called over until the last gun sounds.

In a game prior to the main conflict last week, the West Reserves outscored the North second-stringers, 12 to 0.

Hilltop Bantams Take Second Win

Wallop Troop 9 By 42 to 0 Score in Saturday Morning Bantamweight League.

Winning its second straight victory, Paul Casey's Hilltop bantamweight grid eleven walloped Charlie Page's squad from Troop 9, Saturday, by the overwhelming score of 42 to nothing.

Six touchdowns were counted by the winners, and six points were converted by the four backfielders, all via the place-kick route. The victory enabled the Hilltoppers to remain on the heels of the league-leading Sunshine Park eleven, which team scored a 6 to 0 triumph over the locals in the season's opener.

Masslow was the leading offensive threat for Casey's crew, scoring three six-pointers and two points after. Ankrum, Jenkins and Brannigan also crossed the Troop 9 goal for the remaining Hilltop markers.

Sunshine Park, the league leaders, walloped Beatty Park to the tune of 31 to 6 to retain the loop lead. Other scores were: South 6, General Laundry 6; and St. Clair Juniors 58, Bexley 0.

West Side Club In Grid Victory Sunday

Bob Larkin's trusty toe was responsible for West Side A. C.'s gridiron victory over a Worthington eleven Sunday afternoon on the latter's gridiron, the big fellow booting the ball squarely between the uprights late in the third quarter after Gunther had tied the score at six all with a dash off tackle from the three-yard line.

Prior to that, a pass from mid-field had placed the ball in scoring position. The Worthington team got its six-pointer via the blocked kick route in the second quarter. Siegwald, sturdy West Side lineman, and Gunther were the luminaries for the winners.

The local squad will trek to Mt. Vernon Sunday, Oct. 15, for a game with the eleven there.

New Grade System In Public Schools

Report Cards, Out Today, to Use A, B, C, D and E Rating; Old Method Abandoned.

Grade cards at the Columbus Public schools, which are to be issued for the first time of the semester, today, will use a new method of grading, it was announced late last week by Supt. of Schools J. G. Collicott.

Students will be given an A, B, C, D or E rating, a method used in most schools throughout the country and in practically all colleges and universities. The plan was approved by a committee of teachers and principals at a meeting held last week. The new system will replace the old method wherein students were rated E, G, F, and P.

Under the new plan, A will mean "excellent" with 93 to 100 per cent rating; B will mean "good" with rating of 85 to 92; C will mean "average" with 77 to 84 per cent rating; D will mean "low" with a rating of 70 to 76 per cent and E will mean "unsatisfactory" and will represent grades below 70 per cent.

Almost 7000 students in the public schools of the Hilltop will receive their grade cards today, with grades for the first six weeks of the 1933-34 school year indicated by the new system.

Hilltop Churches In Peace Contest

Hoge Memorial and Glenwood M. E. Already Entered In Franklin County Event.

The annual Prince of Peace declamation contest, sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches, announced last week that many Franklin county entries had already been received. Those declaring their intentions of participating from the Hilltop include: Hoge Memorial Presbyterian, Rev. H. C. Hutchison, pastor; Glenwood M. E., Dr. M. L. Motter, pastor.

The pastors composing the committee in charge of the affair are urging churches not already enrolled to do so immediately in order that the contestants may have sufficient time to prepare their respective declamations.

According to the committee, the public schools are assisting in the project by coaching the contestants and giving recognition in English for work completed.

A church winner, if there are three or more contestants, will be awarded a bronze medal. However, if one or two are entered, the winner is merely eligible to participate in the county eliminations.

Registrations should be sent to the Ohio Council of Churches, 215 Outlook building.

Hilltop Chorus Edged At Marion

Unpopular Decision Goes to Marion Chorus at Song Festival Wednesday Night.

The Hilltop Male Chorus, under the direction of W. Hadyn Jones, failed to place in the Song Festival held at Marion, Ohio, Wednesday evening, when the Marion entry took the first prize and Fostoria shaded the local group for second position.

According to those present, the judgment rendered by the adjudicators received no applause, the Fostoria and Hilltop Choruses winning the popular approval. Mark Evans, famous Lima director, directed the numbers sung by all competing choruses.

The local chorus presented "The Broken Melody" by Sibelius and "Song of the Western Men" by Protheroe. Choruses from Ashland, Galion, Shelby, New London, Fostoria, Marion and Columbus were present.

The contest, sponsored by the Canto club of Marion, was a feature attraction of a meeting scheduled to bring about the organization of outstanding male choruses in Ohio. According to W. Haydn Jones, no organization was affected at Wednesday's meeting.

Flyer Hits Auto Wednesday Night

Louis L. Wilson Fatally Hurt When Fast Mail Train Hits Car; Signals Working.

When a fast New York Central mail train struck the car of Louis Wilson, resident of Arlington, Wednesday evening at the Big Four crossing on Hague avenue, the lone occupant of the car was fatally hurt.

The accident occurred at 4:30 and the Ford roadster driven by Wilson was demolished. The car and victim were dragged by the train from Hague avenue to Eldon avenue.

Wilson, who was a filling station attendant at the Wilson Lubritorium at Grandview avenue and Dublin road, was driving north on Hague avenue when struck by the flyer. Wilson was identified by police, who removed the body to a funeral home.

According to witnesses, the danger signal lights at the crossing were flashing as the car was driven over the tracks. The driver, witness said, pulled up at the crossing beside a car flashes, shifted gears and drove directly in the path of the train as it swept around the curve. The impact was so great that the cowcatcher of the locomotive was torn away. The train was delayed 15 minutes.

Wilson is survived by his wife, mother, two sisters and two brothers. He was married last Christmas.

The Hague avenue crossing, regarded as one of the worst in Columbus and vicinity, has been the scene of several accidents, the last of which occurred several years ago when a train struck an auto and four people were fatally hurt.

W. E. Knox to Start 35th Year of Work

Mr. W. E. Knox, choir director at the Hillcrest Baptist church, will begin his fifteenth year of service there Sunday as the leader of music. A newly organized chorus of 30 voices, composed principally of Hillcrest members, will present special music at the morning services.

Mr. Knox started directing music in the First Baptist church on East Broad street. Since that time he continued to be active in the work, conducting the May Festivals in Columbus for 16 years. He was also active with Dr. Stock and his Chicago orchestra in the production of several great choral works.

Clifford Okey Stetler Fatally Hurt Saturday

Funeral services for Clifford Stetler, aged 23, of 283 S. Ogden Ave., who was fatally hurt in an auto accident near Baltimore Ohio, last Saturday, Oct. 7, and who succumbed at Mt. Carmel hospital Sunday, Oct. 8, were Tuesday afternoon from the C. J. Kohn funeral home. Burial was in Green Lawn cemetery.

Stetler, with a fellow worker, Elmer Stehle, 247 Sycamore St., was severely injured when the car in which the two were riding left the road near Baltimore, on route 256. He was employed by the Hoffman-Wolfe Plumbing Co. His companion, who suffered minor injuries, was taken home following treatment at Mt. Carmel hospital.

Stetler was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Stetler of the above address. Four brothers and five sisters also survive.

False Alarm

Firemen of engine house No. 17 were called Tuesday evening to Powell avenue and Olive street, on what proved to be a false alarm.

Extravagant?

But you are if you persist in letting valuable household articles depreciate in the basement or in the attic simply because you have no room for them in the living room or the dining room or the kitchen.

Those articles are worth money to you—hard, solid cash for which you have a use. But they're losing their value all the time. And just because you've never taken the time to insert a Want Ad in the Hilltop Record.

A small investment of a few pennies may save you loads of work and a few dollars for that permanent you need—or a pair of shoes for Billie—or a new house dress—or what have you.

A Record Want Ad will turn the trick.

Glee Club Entertains At John Burroughs

Ghosts can really sing and dance! This was one of the things learned at John Burroughs school last Tuesday afternoon when the Fifth Grade Glee club became ghosts for an afternoon and helped the P.-T. The LOOKOUT

THEY DIDN'T WIN

Two years ago, West High footballers looked like a championship football team. They'd even let you in on the secret. They'd tell you about how they would knock the daylights out of Central and cop the title. They were pretty good. Their only trouble was that they hadn't decided what to have engraved on the gold footballs which would dangle from their watch chains. But it wasn't necessary to decide. South came from nowhere to beat them on their own field, 13 to 0.

It was even funnier last year. Ye old reporter predicted two or three losses at the opening of the season and was roundly razzed by ye Cowboys Football Teams. We'll probably play East for the championship in the Ohio State Stadium," they whispered confidentially, even if you didn't want to know.

So North came along, and won 19 to 0, and it wasn't necessary to go any further than Powell avenue to see the East game, which Starrett won 28 to 0.

Our Layman wanted the boys to wait 'til Thanksgiving to polish the trophy. But no, they'd have none of that. "We'll polish 'er up now," and in their peculiar way of theirs, they did—. And East High sure appreciated it when that team finally won.

I don't know whether West High is "trophy polishing" or not. There is no especial need for it. With the TOUGHEST game of the season coming up, there isn't much time for it. It's a well-known Biblical injunction which says that "he who putteth his hand to the plough and looketh back, is not fit to enter the Kingdom." But the Lookout is saying now that he who looketh forward, and faileth to put the hand and heart and shoulder to the plough at the moment, is a trophy polisher, and ye know that no trophy polisher hath championship possibilities abiding in him. Listen people, them South wiggs hain't so gentle this time of the year.

Former West High Teacher Succumbs

Miss Blanche Mickey, Mathematics Instructor, Dies Monday After Extended Illness.

Miss Blanche Mickey, aged 57, who just the past year retired as a mathematics teacher at West Senior High school, succumbed Monday night at her home, 3130 Ellis Pl., following an illness of almost a year.

Miss Mickey, for 11 years a teacher at West, came to Columbus from Cardington, Ohio, and spent a total of 32 years teaching in the public schools. Prior to her coming to West, she was a member of the faculties at Northwood and Hubbard schools.

She was confined to her home most of last year's final semester, due to ill health, and with the opening of school in September, she turned in her resignation. She was well known in the community, being a member of the Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church. She was also a member of Crown Chapter, O. E. S., and a graduate of the Ohio State university.

Funeral services were held at the Hoge Memorial church Wednesday evening, the Rev. H. C. Hutchison officiating. Ceremonies were also held by the Eastern Star. Interment was in charge of Spears & Born at Cardington, Ohio, Thursday, Oct. 19.

West Homecoming To Be Gala Affair Nov. 3

A homecoming queen—the first in history of West High homecoming, which, incidentally, haven't been huge successes in the past few years, will be named by the football fans who attend the next two football games at the local athletic plant, according to an announcement made this week by officials at the Cowboy institution.

It's going to be a great event, and plans are being laid for a real homecoming of West graduates. The date set for the gala occasion is Nov. 3, the day Central's Pirates will be encountered by the Cardinal of West.

And the selection of a queen will be made this way. The senior class early next week will nominate several candidates. Three of these will be on the list for the honor. Votes will be cast by anyone purchasing a ticket to the Central game. A coupon will be attached to the ticket, and the name of your favorite may be placed thereon and the ballot cast.

The names of the three candidates will appear in next week's Record. Remember! Only tickets to the Homecoming game have ballots attached. These must be cast no later than Thursday afternoon, Nov. 2, at 4 o'clock. The queen will be announced on Friday morning, the day of the game. The winner will be attended at the game by the two losers.

Further plans for the Homecoming event will be announced in next week's issue of the Record.

Although not being held in conjunction with the Homecoming, the "W" association Tuesday, started a drive on the sale of Cowboy window stickers, and from present indications, a sellout is expected.

The new stickers, designed by Carl Boss, contain the 1933 Cowboy grid schedule, and are of the "transfer type" which, when transferred to the windshield or window, are not only permanent, but have a neat appearance.

They are approximately six inches square, the outer rim of the seal containing the inscription: "West High, Columbus, Ohio." In the center, a bucking bronco and cowboy are depicted against a background of a sunset over the mountains. The sticker is done in brown and black and yellow, producing a striking and attractive affect.

They are on sale at the school by members of the "W" association and also students.

Charlie Casey, A Former Cowboy Star, Assists Coach Wise

Charlie Casey

Just in case you don't know it—that West High reserve football team that trimmed the North High second stringers by a score of 12 to 6 two weeks ago, was coached by Charlie Casey, former star athlete at the Cowboy institution. Since the opening of the season in September, Casey, in that inconspicuous way of his, has assisted Coach Harold Wise nightly, and he's done an excellent job of it.

For a week prior to the North game, Charlie had full charge of the reserves, and he drilled them thoroughly—as witness the final score in their first encounter. Future football teams at West will be the better for the experience, too, for the teacher was a star gridder himself, not so long ago.

Twice he was named all-high center and his second year he was the honorary captain of the West crew. Casey got a job last week and his duties have been taken over by Elvin "Rod" Lucas, who will find that the shoes will be difficult to fill.

Coach Wise has not only found Casey to be a valuable asset in a coaching way. He was likewise a handy man to have on the basketball and football teams. For he excelled in basketball, also, being mentioned as a guard on all-high selections. And to top it all off, he won the Agonis Award, for combining good scholarship with outstanding athletic achievement. He's a great guy, this Irishman. But he never announces it.

Cowboys Slated For Hard Battle With South Today

Locals In Poor Exhibition As They Win Over Zanesville; Today's Game Tossup.

This afternoon, on the Cowboy lot, West High footballers have an opportunity to bounce back into the scholastic grid race when they tangle with a ferocious Bulldog from South High at 3:15 o'clock. East High school's rollicking victory over the arrogant Polar Bears from North has placed the race in a muddle again, and it's likely to be anybody's trophy before the curtains fall on the 1933 gridiron season.

South Is Tough

Cowboy gridmen are in no position to consider the game today as an obstacle easily to be hurdled. There are no bear stories coming from the Bulldog kennels. They have started to click, and after the first quarter last Friday night against Aquinas, they showed some powerful and deceptive football. Coach Harley Pearce, who has been bringing his proteges along slowly, expressed himself as being highly satisfied with the Blue and Gray showing, and when Pearce is satisfied—look out!

The kind of football displayed by the cardinal warriors last Friday against the Blue of Zanesville Lash is not sufficient to defeat South. Although the locals laced the visitors by a score of 26 to 6, glaring weaknesses were apparent throughout the game, weaknesses which the strong South team will capitalize on to better advantage than did Zanesville.

Defense Weak

West's highly touted line was smashed to bits by a perceptibly weak Lash attack. Deshler, generally reliable, was especially battered, and huge gains were recorded through him. The ends, too, showed to little advantage.

Again, against a stronger opponent, with a passing attack like that of the visitors, West might have been swamped. Once, in the final quarter, the Lash team marched 65 yards for a touchdown, 95 per cent of the ground being gained via the air route.

Boye, Francis Play Well

Offensively, West showed flashes of form exhibited in the first half of the North game, but against the weak opposition, it might have been better. Francis turned in some nice gallops, as did Boye, whose work as a passer was also par excellent—thrice, with a receiver in the open he tossed beautiful heaves only to have them dropped with a touchdown in sight.

How They Scored

Finally, on at least one occasion, West lacked power to score, being held on the four-yard line for downs. Scoring the first touchdown in the first period, largely through the dazzling running of Francis who finally lugged it over, Kellar kicking the point, the Cowboys took a lead and were never headed. Twice in the second frame, the Cowboys crossed the goal, once as a result of a blocked kick by Hoffman, whose work along the main front was outstanding, and another time on a march from the 23-yard stripe on a recovery of a fumble. Boye toted the pigskin both times.

The final count came in the last quarter, when Boye passed to Blackmore for 23 yards and Zanesville was penalized for holding, taking the ball to the 3-yard line, from where Richards took it over. Mathews booted the goal. Zanesville's lone marker came in this period, as a result of a series of passes completing a march of 65 yards.

House Cleaning Done?

Not if you've shifted old furniture for which you have no place—into the attic. You'll have to work all the harder when spring comes tripping back again next year.

Why not try to dispose of good furniture or household articles by telling someone who needs what you have. And the best place to do that is in the Want Ad columns of the Hilltop Record.

No one wants to come from the far corners of the town to buy a footstool. But perhaps your neighbor, two streets over, not wanting one half as badly—would drop in to see you after reading your Ad in the Record.

Let your community paper carry your message to the people who want to do business with you.

The LOOKOUT

ODDS AND ENDS

Wonder how many people read this stuff. It really is getting hard to gather the dope. Still, there are guys like J. Connell, who roar "When ya gonna print sumpin about me." They always help out. And occasionally a good chap like Bill Boyd gets the "worry-worries," as he calls his condition, and spouts off for hours and says things—but won't be quoted.

Still, I don't like to write this stuff. The postman just stepped in the door and there's a letter for the editor, Hilltop Record. "I know," it reads in part, "that you are interested in the Hilltop and its sons." . . . Where does he get that stuff. I merely find the Hilltop interesting.

Guess I'll go out, now, and stroll down Broad St. Something might occurr, or I'll see someone gabbling on the corner about the weather, and their names will appear here subsequently. Be back in just an hour.

BACK ONCE MORE

So here again, and of a mind to be vituperative (Ouch, Mr Campbell) in denunciation of motorists who dash through safety patrols of local schools. But, perhaps it is not intentional on the part of many of those who disregard the lives of school children in their haste to get somewhere else. But there are those kind of drivers, and they need to be reminded that maybe their kids are coming home from school somewhere, and it would be unfortunate if similar drivers were loose in that vicinity.

I watched West Broad St. school's recently organized Safety Patrol function Tuesday. (Just a few minutes ago.) They're doing their part to keep out of the motorists way. It takes such a small amount of effort to help them.

HE'S AT IT AGAIN

The Pinchenbaum (or is it saum) twins, always together. . . . And Paul Gribble, whom I recollect eating Hamburgers at Joe Gaulz's place near the old West High . . . And Elmer Wood, whose cocksureness I used to admire with an aching heart. George Walker, too, always had a good bit of confidence in himself . . . Plato (now we're getting there, Mr Campbell) claimed that the best people have good opinions of themselves—the people of the highest type, you know, who have a keen rational insight into things. These people made critical inquiries into hypotheses. (Hot Dawg!) . . . That pile of dirt, with trees growing on it down near the railroad track in the Insane Asylum grounds is not an Indian Mound . . . And E. E. James, who won that trophy in the Broad-Hague Hdwe. window, for flipping pretty fast over the water in a speed boat, is Commodore of the Scioto Boat Club. . . . Social note: George Heltz, who has been working on furniture in the wood shop, is still at it. (Guess that's merely an indication of a potential social paragraph) . . . and just like it was will here two wks. ago, Tom Z. went and done it . . . Another like affair is scheduled for the Wed. after Xmas, but the participants are being shielded by this Lear reporter. (Thank you, Aw, that's all right.)

Rumor has it that Sherm Edwards has turned banker. . . . Miss Alice Shoenberger, who writ West's Alma Mater song, is now living in NYC, with her husband and 2-yr.-old son. . . . Don Craig is agriculturing now. Note the vegetation on the north lip. . . . It was he who wondered why we didn't use a by line—Thinks we can't take it. Well, people. Meet John Wolfe, sometime a graduate of WHS and now a student of Bethany at OSU, and by circumstance an humble scribbler here, so that's the guy . . . And Charlotte Bostwick on whose name we made a guess a few weeks back has went and dunnit. It's Mitchell now, Mrs. Harold.

With Dick Bachman a week back, collecting signs from cliffs at Conkle's Hollow in Hocking Co. And along comes a couple of wimmin and a pr. of men. "Ooooo, what they scrapin' often that cliff," one murmured shoutingly. "I dunno," replied the other. "But my, that must be a sad life!" Whodathunk anybody cared?

Portsmouth "11" Favorites Over West Tomorrow

Local Gridders In Final Out-of-Town Game Against Tough Team; Defeat South 13-0.

Tomorrow afternoon, at Portsmouth, West High's battling gridiron warriors will tangle with the fourth out-of-town opponent of the season, and according to the dope, the toughest of the four. Having waylaid a stubborn South eleven last Friday afternoon on the local lot, winning its initial league victory of the season, the Wise-coached contingent will be ready for anything the down state boys can offer, with perhaps a trick or two of its own to spring at an opportune moment.

South Proves Stubborn

Living up to pre-game predictions in stellar fashion, South proved itself to be a difficult obstacle for the Cowboys to hurdle, albeit they counted two touchdowns and converted a point to win 13 to 0. It was only in the finer points of the game that the locals excelled and a perfectly executed forward lateral pass in the opening half gave the Cowboys an edge which they never relinquished.

The ball was on the South 43 yard line when Boye called for the play on which the squad had been drilled all week. Boye took the pass from center, whipped it forward to Michaelis, who just as two tacklers bore down upon him, looped the ball to Dividen near the sideline who took it on the dead run and scampered behind a phalanx of cardinal interference, 45 yards to the goal line. It was a marvelously executed performance, and took the fire from a stubborn South defense. Mathews' kick from placement was wide.

Cross Country Team In Meet

Seven Cowboys Named by Coach Buchanan to Participate in District Meet Saturday.

Cross country runners Ward Nichols, Frost, Woodin, DeBerry, Logan and Chenowith have been elected by track Coach Arthur Buchanan to represent West High school in the district meet to be held at the Ohio stadium Saturday morning, Oct. 28.

It will mark the first time in the history of Cowboy athletics that a cross country team has represented the school in such a meet. Last year only three boys were available for the team but with increased interest, Buchanan has turned out a full squad this season.

Medals will be awarded in Saturday's contests to the first 20 contestants to cross the line. The initial 10 will qualify for the state meet to be held at the Stadium on Saturday, Nov. 4.

The race will be run over the Ohio State two-mile course and to win a letter an entrant must place in the first 20.

Last Thursday afternoon at West High, the Cowboys defeated Aquinas by a score of 23 to 30, George Ware winning first place. At Newark, two weeks ago, the local squad was bested by a score of 23 to 32. Bement, state champion, nosed out Marsh for first place.

In New Location

The Notley Garage, formerly located at 3322 W. Broad St., is now open for business in its new location, 2851 W. Broad St., and will be glad to welcome old and new patrons.

If You Think the Want Ad columns of the Hilltop Record are not well read—advertise your piano at some such price as 10 dollars. [illegible] but not [illegible]

But don't [illegible] Want Ads in the Hilltop Record are economical in more ways than one. In the first place, you can meet an ad with the least possible effort. In the second place, they're inexpensive. And lastly, they take your message to those with whom you want to do business.

Can you beat that? Don't put off until next Spring the selling of something you have stored in the attic (and which you don't need). Someone who reads the Record will have a use for it—and perhaps be in dire need of it. Try First in the Record.

Hilltop Chorus Will Broadcast From WOSU Nov. 1

To Represent Welsh Eisteddfod in Round-the-World Musical Tour.

Announcement was made this week by W. Haydn Jones, director of the Hilltop Business Men's Male Chorus, that that group would be featured in a radio broadcast from station WOSU of the Ohio State university Wednesday evening, Nov. 1, at 9:30 o'clock.

The chorus will sing a group of Welsh songs, the program representing the second stop on an around-the-world musical trip. The series of programs is being arranged and sponsored by Dorothy Stevens Humphreys' pupils, and each week musical talent from various sources are assisting guests.

No announcement has been made as to what numbers will be presented by the local chorus, but the program will represent an Eisteddfod in Wales.

The local organization, following its program on Wednesday evening, will begin rehearsals preparatory to another participation in the Jackson Eisteddfod, in the near future. The Hilltop Chorus won first place in the contest held last November.

Ministers Will Sponsor Show

"Ten Nights in a Bar-Room" to Be Presented Next Thursday Evening at West Broad.

On Thursday evening, Nov. 2, in the West Broad school auditorium, corner of Broad street and Hague avenue, there will be presented a program of unusual interest to the people of the Hilltop. On that date, the Ministerial association is sponsoring a presentation of the famous old book play, "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." This drama is produced by the Co-Operative Players, an organization of young people, which is carrying on an intensive educational program in Ohio and throughout the East during the coming winter. This drama was first presented in 1858.

The cast includes several students of Otterbein college and the entire company is made up of people with extensive dramatic experience. The admission to this performance is free, but a free-will offering will be taken to cover production costs and to help make possible the continuation of this program. It is requested by the Co-Operative Players that children under 12 years of age be accompanied by parents or a guardian. The drama is in five acts and offers full staging and lighting effects.

The Hilltop Business Men's Chorus will furnish the music, and the show will get under way at 8 o'clock.

He is instructor of the Bible class at Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church, and aside from years of close observation of human affairs, has read widely on his subjects. West's Alma Mater Sung First Time At South Game

Alice Snoenberger, Former Hilltopper and Graduate in '25 Class, Wrote Words.

West High School's Alma Mater hymn, composed by Alice Shoenberger, a graduate of West in 1925, was sung by the student body between the halves of the West-South game Friday afternoon for the first time.

The Brown and Buff band, which, by the way, is fast becoming one of the outstanding in the city, marched the length of the field and returning, marched before the West section and struck up the Alma Mater hymn. Prof. Herbert Hutchinson, head of the music department, directed.

Words of the song follow:

As toward the West the constant sun proceeds,
Day after day, across the sky,
So do our hearts hold true to you,
West High, West High, West High!

Men view the sun in many a distant land,
His face still Westward in the sky.
Though we should go as far we'll love
West High, West High, West High!

And till the sun forgets its ancient goal
And seeks a new path in the sky
Our loyal hearts shall beat for you,
West High, West High, West High!

John McCormick Here November 3

Great Tenor to Be Presented At Memorial Hall By Popular Concerts Bureau.

The supreme tenor voice of the popular and human John McCormack will be heard at Memorial Hall, Columbus, Friday evening, Nov. 3. It will be the first appearance of this great artist in central Ohio since the spring of 1930, when he was heard by admirers who taxed the capacity of the auditorium.

On the present tour, McCormack is being presented by George G. Whitehead and Kline L. Roberts of the Popular Concerts Bureau, 64 E. Broad St. They announce that mail orders will be received immediately, at $1.20, $1.80, and $2.40 (tax included) for the main floor, and 83c, $1.20, $1.80, and $2.40 for the balcony.

Born in Athlone, Ireland, and noted specially for his singing of Irish folk songs, Mr. McCormack also has attained supreme fame as an operatic singer. His debut was made at Convent Garden, London, in 1907, and two years later he was presented to his first American audience at the Manhattan Opera House, New York City, in "Traviata." His first New York concert recital was given in 1911, and since that time he has broken all records by singing nearly 200 concerts in the eastern metropolis.

Entirely aside from his strong musical appeal, McCormack has been accepted and highly honored as a man of outstanding qualities. In 1921 he was made Knight Commander of the Orders of St. Gregory the Great and of the Holy Sepulchre, by Pope Benedict XV. In 1928 he was made a count in the papal peerage. Only last June he was awarded the rare and coveted Laetare Medal at Notre Dame university, on which occasion he was presented to an audience of 8,000 people by none other than Ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York.

Only a few days ago, in New York City, McCormack sang preliminary to the address of President Roosevelt at the Catholic Charities Centenary, and on Oct. 11 he began a series of nation-wide radio broadcasts that will be heard by millions of admirers.

Bantamweights Still In Race

Defeat Beatty Park Aggregation Saturday Morning by 18 to 0 Score; Massiow Out.

Paul Casey's Hilltop Bantamweight gridders continued in the running for the midget title Saturday morning by walloping the Beatty Park eleven by a score of 18 to 0, despite the absence of their star backfielder, Massiow, who sustained a broken ankle two weeks ago and will be out for the remainder of the season.

The locals scored in the second quarter when Blesch recovered a fumble behind the Beatty goal line and took a lead they never relinquished. A 70-yard punt from behind his own goal line out of bounds on the Beatty 30-yard stripe, by Grauchel, paved the way for the second counter. A Beatty punt was blocked and two passes, Yeager to Best, took the oval across.

The final six-pointer was tallied on another pass, this time from Yeager to Krause, who scampered 40 yards after receiving the heave to bring the count to 18 to 0. All attempts for points failed.

Grauchel and Blesch were the Hilltop standouts, with Waldo Emery and Yeager also performing well.

Portsmouth 11 Favored Over West Tomorrow

Richards Punts Well

West's second tally came largely as a result of fine leading on the part of Richards, who kicked out of bounds on the South five-yard line. Kellar then recovered a Bulldog fumble, but West could not gain and Solomon kicked to Jividen who returned to the Blue and Gray 25-yard marker. A short march was culminated by a five-yard dash by Jividen for a touchdown Kellar booted the point from placement.

It was a hard game, marked by brilliant team-work on the part of the Cowboys. Deshler and Michaelis were bulwarks offensively and defensively in the ball toting department, Cliff Boye and Dick Francis also showed well, while it befell Jividen to carry the oval on the scoring plays Boye's generalship once again was outstanding, and Richard's kicking, mentioned before, was the last seen on the local gridiron in a number of moons.

Season Not Over

Still, the season is by no means over Saturday's tussle with Portsmouth is in the offing, and the squad from along the river is rated as being among the powers of the state. The Cowboys will do well to give Portsmouth an even match tomorrow afternoon.

THE COMING ELECTION

By J. A. BUNYAN

The election this year may not seem as important as last year since there are no state or national officers to be elected. Only local offices are to be filled, but it should not be forgotten that the local officials can influence to a large extent the welfare of the community.

In Columbus we are to elect four members of the Board of Education, three members of Council, and a few minor officials. Plenty of public-spirited patriots seem willing to accept the offices and the salaries. There seems to be no outstanding personalities in the race and no issues that will arouse public interest. It is commonly rumored that a change in the personnel of the Board of Education might bring about a change in the administrative offices of the school. The Council race seems to be merely a contest between Mayor Worley and his foes with little or no regard to public interests.

But there are a number of issues of very great importance to be voted on this year. These questions are arousing great interest and will probably bring out a large vote.

The election of a delegation to vote on the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment is attracting more attention than any other issue. Two hundred and fifty thousand electors in the state signed a remonstrance against this election, but were overruled by the Supreme Court. There will be two tickets in the field, one pledged to sustain the Eighteenth Amendment and the other pledged to repeal it, so the vote will really be a wet or dry referendum.

Closely related to the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment is the question of the repeal of the prohibition amendment in our own state constitution. Doubtless many people have forgotten that the voters of this state placed a prohibition amendment in the Ohio Constitution a year before the Eighteenth Amendment was added to the national constitution. Even should the Eighteenth Amendment be repealed, Ohio would remain a prohibition state unless this clause is taken from the state constitution. Thus it is possible the Eighteenth Amendment may be repealed and Ohio still remain a prohibition state. This is said to be true of 27 states of the union.

The Old Age Pension bill was placed on the ballot by an initiative petition. This bill has been before every legislature in recent years, but was always defeated or sidetracked, but finally the friends of the measure have succeeded in bringing it to a vote by petition. It provides that the state shall pay a small pension to every person over 65 years of age, who has no other income. Its sponsors claim it will cost no more than the present system of local relief and avoid the stigma of almshouses. This plan has been in operation many years in some European countries, notably Germany, and in some of the more progressive states of this country. Its enemies claim it would tend to discourage thrift and make an enormous increase in taxes. On the other hand its friends say that a small income tax, or a fair tax on public utilities which are protected by law from competition, and are making enormous profits, would raise sufficient money for an old age pension, and in a small way tend to check the rapid concentration of the wealth of this country in the hands of a few people. The proposition deserves the thoughtful study of every voter.

The Home Rule Amendment to the Contitution is also being brought before the voters by petition. Under the present constitution we have the following forms of government in Ohio: State, city, village, county and township, with a full quota of officers for each, to say nothing of innumerable boards, commissions, committees, etc. A recent survey shows that one person in every seven in the United States holds a public office—no wonder taxes have become unbearable. This amendment permits, but does not compel, the people of any two or more of these divisions by a vote to combine their local governments. For example, the people of Columbus and Franklin county could combine the city and county offices and have only one set of officials for both. This appears to be a most practical plan to reduce public expenses and lower taxes. Of course, it is opposed by the politicians and would-be office holders.

The most radical amendment is the ten-mill limitation on real estate tax. The tax condition in Ohio has become so desperate that everybody realizes that something must be done to relieve the taxpayers. While the income on farms and rental property has fallen to almost nothing, taxes have remained at war-time rates, and thousands of people are unable to pay them. This amendment would limit the tax on real estate to ten mills on the dollar instead of the present limitation of fifteen mills. This would relieve the real estate owners of about fifty million dollars tax each year. That would be fine for the taxpayers, but it would wreck the public institutions that are supported by taxation, unless some other means of raising money is found.

Other means of raising revenue might be sales tax, tax on intangibles, income tax, inheritance tax, liquor tax, public utilities tax, luxury tax. Each has its friends and enemies. Anyway it will be an unusually important election.

The Nature Trail

By JOHN WOLFE

BUCKEYE LAKE SPHAGNUM BOG

Regardless of the season, the sphagnum bog at Buckeye Lake provides an ever fascinating spot for the botanist or lover of the out-of-doors. Over its soggy surface is a vegetation most interesting, to even the layman's unpracticed eye; in shrubs which line the margins, and in the hummocks of the meadow, birds annually build their nests and rear their young; in its vibrant song—the song of life—is reflected the power and the glory of nature.

Whether it's in the early spring, when the first turtles emerge from their mucky hibernating places; and the alder catkins dangle from twigs still devoid of leaves; and the ferns begin to unroll their graceful fronds; and the dullness of the island becomes tinged with the faint greenery of spring—

Whether it is early summer, when the songs of many birds may be heard; when the orchids bloom in the bog meadow; and cat-tails sway beside the rippling waters of the pools; and the cry of the heron is heard over Island; and the red wing blackbirds pipe their monotonous melody; and water lilies bloom in profusion—

Whether it is late summer, and the margin of the swamp is trimmed in a gorgeous array of deep, rich pink hibiscus blooms; and cotton sedge dominates the meadow; and cranberries are turning red; and bird song has ceased and insects hum in ceaseless drone; and the yellow lidens rims the outer edges of the island—

Whether it is autumn, when the swamp loosestrife and the maples and the sumacs have turned scarlet; and crimson cranberries dot the meadow; and blackbirds gather in flocks preparatory to flight southward; and the winds sweep cool across the lake—

Or whether it is winter, and the winds and the waves lash the edges of the island—often tearing away huge portions—the sphagnum bog is always an interesting spot.

Long ago, before Buckeye Lake was a summer resort, the region was a great swampland. The Indians called it the "Big Swamp," and came there for berries in season, as well as game, and fish, from the lake in the center of the swamp.

Then the basin was converted into an artificial lake, and what is now Cranberry bog was formerly a part of the "Big Swamp." For the island, 45 acres in extent, became disengaged from the bottom of the inundated swamp and floated to the surface and today we have what is known as a floating island.

And the island is of particular interest, for its dominant vegetation, sphagnum moss and cranberry, is found only in similar bogs of the far north. Advancing southward before the glaciers of thousands of years ago, the plants have remained ever in an environment which has remained of such a nature to foster their growth. When the glaciers receded, these particular forms remained in the "Big Swamp," and today, they still may be found as the lone remnant of that great expanse of forest, Cranberry Island.

Plant succession here, is equally interesting, for no less than eight definite zones of vegetation may be observed. First, is what is known as the floating aquatics association, may be found in the shallow water about the edge of the island, Duckweed and filamentous algae.

Following this is the fixed aquatics with submerged leaves, and the first association often covers this. It is composed principally of Ceratophyllum, Potamogeton and Elodea.

Immediately following, in shallow water, with roots submerged and leaves and flowers above the water, is the association of semi-aquatics. Pickerel weed and pond lilies are the dominant forms.

In the fourth, or marsh zone, cattails, button bush, hibiscus and sometimes the pickerel weed are conspicuous, followed by the shrub association made up of alder, poison sumac and red maple. Back of this, unlike the bogs of the far north, the bog meadow appears, dominated, as mentioned previously, by the sphagnum moss and cranberry plants.

In the low shrub association, heath plants such as the blueberry are the dominant things, and this zones is followed by the bog-thicket association, a complex thing containing a great number of shrubs, herbaceous plants, ferns, mosses and the like.

Finally, the bog forest is reached, and already pin oaks are making their appearance here. If succession could go on undisturbed for many years, the entire island would become a typical mesophytic forest, dominated perhaps, by the beech and sugar maple.

Secrets of Successful Meat Cookery

Whether you are dealing with the choicest cuts of meat or with the more economical and coarser fibered cuts the success of the result depends entirely upon the methods used in preparation. It is easy to spoil the finest steak by neglecting certain procedures in preparation and still easier to render unpalatable the cheaper cuts.

Tender meats such as sirloin and porterhouse steaks, rib roasts and chops should retain their rich juices—this is accomplished by applying intense heat in broiling, panbroiling or roasting. The cheaper cuts with their coarser fibre should be seared on the outside and then subjected to long slow cooking with sufficient moisture to keep the meat tender and juicy. In making stews and soups the meat should always be placed in cold water and cooked very slowly for a long time.

Naturally the cheaper cuts are made more succulent and flavorsome by the use of a variety of seasonings and condiments. The following recipes suggest methods of preparing different cuts of meat in ways calculated to bring out their fullest flavor.

Savory Pot Roast

Chop ¼ pound of salt pork into bits. Roll the pieces in a mixture made of 1 teaspoon of salt, ⅛ teaspoon of pepper, 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion, 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley and 1 teaspoon dry mustard. With a sharp pointed knife cut gashes in a 5-pound rump roast of beef and insert the seasoned salt pork. Place in a bowl and roll the meat in ¼ cup vinegar. Let stand 3 or 4 hours before cooking, turning the meat occasionally. In a Dutch oven cook until yellow 1 small chopped onion in 2 tablespoons of fat. Add the roast browning it well on all sides. Then add 4 medium size carrots, sliced; 2 turnips, quartered and 4 cups of cooked tomatoes. Cover tightly and simmer for 3 hours on top of stove or in a moderate oven.

Italian Steak

Pound a round steak and cut in pieces for serving. Dip in bread crumbs and beaten egg to which salt and pepper have been added. Brown quickly in hot olive oil. Remove from pan and fry together 1 onion, 1 clove of garlic, parsley and a sprig of fresh sage. When half done add contents of one can of tomatoes. Add salt and pepper to taste. Simmer about 3 minutes then add meat. Cook slowly for about 45 minutes or until the meat is tender.

Stuffed Pork Tenderloin

Slit the tenderloin the entire length. Brush the meat with salt, pepper and cut clove of garlic. In the cavity place parboiled carrots and celery in equal amounts. Wrap up and skewer or tie. Place in a baking dish to roast with sliced onions and apples. Baste during roasting and serve the onions and apples around the meat.

Baked Round Steak

2½ pounds round steak, 1 inch thick.
1 thinly sliced onion.
1 green pepper.
½ teaspoon horseradish, grated.
1 lemon.
Salt and pepper.
1 cup strained tomatoes.
2 cloves, parsley.

Place steak in roasting pan and top with a layer of onion. Add a layer of green pepper cut in rings. Dot each green pepper with horseradish. Top each ring with thin slice of lemon. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Pour tomato juice over all. Bake uncovered in a moderate oven for 2 hours. When done garnish with parsley.

Lamb Roast

5 pounds lamb shoulder roast.
2 teaspoons salt.
½ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons flour.
3 large green peppers.
2 cups cooked rice.
½ cup chopped celery.
4 tablespoons chili sauce.
Celery curls, paprika.

Wipe roast with damp cloth and rub surface with combined salt, pepper and flour. Sear roast in hot oven, then reduce heat and bake for 2 hours. Cut peppers in two, length-wise, removing seeds and fibre and fill with rice and celery and chili sauce. Place around roast and bake until peppers are tender—about 40 minutes. Baste often. Serve with celery curls sprinkled with paprika.

Chicken and Noodles Baked

Cook a chicken until tender adding salt and one or two small dried peppers. When tender pick the meat from the bones as for creamed chicken. Prepare noodles using one egg, salt, a tablespoon of cream and flour to roll as thin as paper. Cut and dry for an hour or two. In a baking pan put a layer of noodles, then a layer of chicken, then another layer of noodles, add a little broth and cover with buttered crumbs. Bake for half an hour.

Meat Balls

1 pound ground round steak.
½ pound ground lean pork.
1 tablespoon onion, finely cut.
1 cup cracker crumbs.
2 slightly beaten eggs.
Dash of nutmeg.

Mix the eggs with the ground meat and add cracker crumbs, onion and nutmeg. Make into small balls and brown in butter. Cover with water and let cook slowly for about one hour. When ready to serve thicken gravy with flour.

Broiled Sweet Breads

Cut the parboiled sweet breads in half, lengthwise. Spread with a mixture of 2 tablespoons of butter creamed with 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt and a little pepper. Place under the broiling flame for 5 to 8 minutes. The cooking should not exceed 10 minutes.

Game Heads Hit Chaining Bears Along Highways

While the principal function of the American Game association is the conservation of wildlife, its board of directors has just issued a vigorous plea for the conservation of human life from humanity's carelessness with wildlife, according to a bulletin of the association. Captive bears, recently, through the carelessness of their human owners, killed one child and injured others, and a municipal relief worker, carelessly tossing a lighted match in a recreation park in Los Angeles, set the brush afire and snuffed out scores of human lives to say nothing of the lives of wild creatures.

The board in a resolution deplored the tendency of roadside eating and amusement places to use bears to attract guests, especially the common practice of chaining such animals in such a manner that the public can come in contact with them. In most states the keeping in captivity of local wild animals is strictly against the law. But legal or not, the association urges that if such animals are kept that they be housed properly, both for the sake of humane treatment to the animals and to avoid unfortunate accidents such as occurred recently on Long Island where a tame bear, which is reported to have been left without food for two days, broke its chain and killed a boy.

Wild bears, as every naturalist knows, are not the bugaboo that nursery story books, written by imaginative people who do not know the bear, picture him to be. As a matter of fact, in his native haunt the bear gives humanity a wide berth and does not attack man unless molested by him.

The board also commended New Hampshire and Maine for taking steps recently to give better protection to bears. Its members expressed the hope that all states and provinces in Canada, will take steps immediately to give bears of all species adequate protection.

The American game association has long preached against carelessness in starting forest, grass and brush fires, pointing out the incalculable injury these fires do to human and wildlife and damage to property.

Tanning Rabbit Skin

The method of treating rabbit skins at home, so that they can be used for coat trimmings is as follows:

First remove fat and flesh from the skin, then cover the flesh side with salt and allow to stand three or four days in a fairly cool place to dry out. Make a tanning solution of 4 pounds of salt and 5 gallons of water in a wooden tub, adding carefully 2 fluid ounces of sulphuric acid. Allow the skin to remain in this for one to three weeks, then rinse and dry in a shady place. Work and stretch the skin to make it pliable and rub in a little neatsfoot oil.

China Grows Much Rice; Does Not Supply Others

Exclusive of China, for which country no accurate statistics are available, more than 63,500,000 tons of cleaned rice are produced annually. Toward this mighty rice bowl India contributes more than 55 per cent of the total amount. Japan contributes 14 per cent; French Indo China, Java and Madura, and Siam follow, each with somewhat less than half of that amount. Estimates indicate that China raises about 25,000,000 tons each year, but as rice has been a forbidden item of export from time immemorial, no one worries about statistics as long as his daily portion of rice is forthcoming.

Rice growing is not confined to continental Asia and its adjacent islands; in Africa, Europe and the United States rice fields also sprawl over many well-watered areas. With the exception of Italy, European countries find the demand greater than their production. But from the fertile fields, especially in the Po valley, comes sufficient rice to place Italy in the group of rice exporting countries.

In the United States, mainly in Louisiana, Georgia and the Carolinas, there is harvested annually nearly 575,000 tons of rice. About 14,000 tons of the cereal is imported, but fully nine times that amount is sent by the United States into the export market.

Whoops!

David Deshler, Cliff Boye, Allan Mathews and Denver Dividen, members of the West High football team, attended the Portsmouth-Chillicothe fracas at Chillicothe last Saturday, and got an eye full of Portsmouth football.

The final score was 12 to nothing in favor of the River City boys, and it will be remembered that Chillicothe beat East High 48 to 6 and East defeated North 26 to 0, and North gave Westside its lone defeat, 7 to 6. Which makes the opposition for the Cowboys Saturday just about 81 points better than Portsmouth.

German Police Dog Is Classified as Shepherd

The German police dog is classified by the American Kennel club as a shepherd dog.

The shepherd dog, Judy's Encyclopedia explains, "this different official names in various countries. In America the correct name is shepherd, in England Alsatian, and in Germany the German shepherd. Popular usage calls him the police dog.

"In this country he must not be confused with the shepherd dog as known a quarter of a century ago and still seen on many farms. This type of shepherd is an offshoot of the collie, with a mixture of other blood, but is not as common as a century ago.

"The shepherd dog; that is, the German shepherd or police dog, was first definitely known about the middle of the Nineteenth century." His history before that, it appears, is obscure. "No known infusion of wolf blood is recorded, and his wolflike appearance is entirely a matter of breeding."

Poison Ivy Easily Recognized

Poison ivy, of the cashew family, is to most people poisonous to the touch. It is common in meadows and fields and it climbs over rocks and around trees. It is easily recognized by its three sharply-cut leaflets, the middle one of which is on a slightly longer stem. It grows tightly upon any support, where it attaches itself and clings by numberless rootlets. It is the resinous sap that is poisonous, and this exudes from the under surface of the leaves and along the stems. The small flowers have five sepals, five petals and five stamens and grow in inconspicuous clusters. The fruit resembles a berry, being a white or yellowish stone fruit.

Use of Latin

Latin, like all languages, is a growth and the so-called Romance languages are merely the changes due to growth and locality that have taken place in "classic" Latin; just as Latin grew from some unknown source. Much Latin literature was written from 200 B. C. to 500 A. D., but especially around the time of Christ, when Roman culture was at its height. In the Twelfth century much of this literature was revived. In the meantime the language had suffered the inevitable change, losing much of its stateliness and beauty. Scholars, most of whom were Catholic clergymen, revived Latin literature as it was originally written.

Wood and Leather

Another extract obtained from forests is tannin, or tannic acid, which is used by leather manufacturers in the process of changing rawhide into leather. It is this extract that makes the leather durable and pliable. Both the wood and the bark are used, although the bark yields the higher percentage of tannin. It is obtained mostly from oak and hemlock trees, but before the chestnut blight destroyed most of our chestnut trees large amounts were obtained from this species.

The LOOKOUT

'ROUND ABOUT THE HILLTOP

Margaret Weaver, not limped in a long spell, riding a street car to town. (Maybe it isn't Weaver, now) . . . Bob Nichols, climbing into a dress shirt, got the derned thing on backwards—and that, after he had told the boys he had one in home. . . . There's no ash tray in Dr. A. C. Myer's dental office (G'wan, yokel) you're not supposed to smoke in such a place) . . . Another item from the same office, something I never thot I'd ever here: "I want you to pull 'em all, if necessary, Doctor." . . . No, Mrs. J. A. H., that gossip which worried you, can't be attributed to the conductor of this line. . . . Played bridge tother eve with Prof. and Mrs. Shetrone, the latter losing by 998 pts. Which achievement puts Jack Shank in the shadow. It's common knowledge, folks, that officials of the business men wives' bridge party a while back, tried to keep Mr. Shank away from the entertainment. . . . And then, there's a guys around who claims some girl has been trying to date him for two weeks. Which explains why he was home Sunlight. He was all tired out from running away. . . . That foto of a guy with specs on in Sulxberger's (Dr. Fred G.) resembles Fred Decker. . . . The chap that does all that baton tossing at West grid games, is Dick Hemmerly. He's never missed flippin it over the goals yet.

They're telling it about a little cousin of a local chappie. She went to school for the first time, and just before she started home, she explained to the teacher that she had had a good time. (Shucks, yuotta hear what my kid done.)

SQUELCH GENTLE

A Hoge Memorial lady, telling Jack Shank about their operetta—how good it was and all that sorta thing. "It's going to be better still tomorrow night," she confided.

"Yeah," squelched the modest one, "they're all better still."

Cowboy Harrier Is City Champ

Geo. Ward Heads All Columbus Entries in District X Country Meet At Stadium Saturday.

George Ward, West High's ace harrier, won the city championship over a two-mile cross country course at the Ohio Stadium last Saturday morning by placing third in a district meet composed of runners from 10 different schools. Newark retained its title from last year and Central pulled up in front of city teams to win permanent possession of the trophy put into circulation by the Ohio State university six years ago.

Ward, one of the hardest workers ever to try out for track honors at the local institution, has been one of the mainstays of the Cowboy squad, finishing high in every race he has run. Saturday he finished just eight seconds behind Bonner, state champion, whose time was the second best ever recorded on the Scarlet and Gray track.

Ward's time was 10 minutes and 48 seconds.

As a team, the Cowboys finished fifth in a field of ten. It was the first complete team ever to represent the school in such a meet and has been coached by Arthur Buchanan. Nichols, another Cowboy athlete, placed eighth in the meet. The city summaries are: Central 34, West 67, Aquinas 76, and North 93.

Board to Meet

The church school board of Glenwood M. E. will meet at the church Wednesday evening, Nov. 8, at 6:30 o'clock, for supper, which will be followed by a business meeting.

Final Plans Made For Large Crowd

Special Events On Program for Returning Grads at West High School This Afternoon.

All plans have been completed for the first annual formal homecoming festivities at West High school. The Homecoming queen, to be announced just before game time this afternoon has been selected, and will be attended at the game by two attendants.

The feature attraction, the football battle between Central's ambitious Pirates and West's fighting Cowboys, is scheduled to get under way promptly at 3:30 o'clock, with the home team on even terms with the much improved Pirate crew.

Expect Capacity Crowd

One of the largest crowds ever to witness a Brown and Buff grid battle is expected by officials to be on hand when the opening whistle blows this afternoon. Special arrangements have been made to handle an overflow crowd and the West High band, fast becoming the finest in the city, will strut its stuff under the leadership of Drum Major Dick Hemmerly before the gala homecoming throng.

Francis Out

Dick Francis, West High's ace ball toter, will not be in this afternoon's game according to an announcement from officials at the school. Ineligibility was due to low scholastic standing, according to the information. He will be replaced by Tony DeMatteo, whose work at Portsmouth was outstanding.

With four regulars already injured, Cowboy chances of winning and remaining in the race were regarded by doubters as no more than even.

The queen of festivities, who was to have been announced today, will be either Miss Pauline Rowland, Miss Audrey Shields or Miss Laura Sisk. The winner, which was selected by ballot by fans attending today's fracas, will be attended by the other two. The party will sit in a special box at the game.

To Sing Alma Mater

Between the halves, Prof. Herbert E. Hutchinson, head of the music department at the school, will lead the former West students in the singing of the recently accepted Alma Mater song, composed in 1925 by Mrs. Lloyd Owsley (Alice Shoenberger).

Pre game ceremonies will be brief, according to information, and the battle will get under way promptly at 3:30 o'clock.

The Cowboys, just back from a bruising battle at Portsmouth, may be materially weakened by injuries to Francis and Gibson. Deshler's knee, bothering him through the season thus far, is no better, and Ben Williams is still nursing a weak ankle. The absence of a part or all of this hospital list from the opening line-up may seriously impair the chances of a West victory, although the locals should win, barring a dose of overconfidence.

It will be remembered that the Pirates held a powerful Steubenville eleven to a 19 to 0 score, and just last week Lancaster High, one of the strongest outfits in Central Ohio, barely won by a 13 to 6 score. There can be no let-down on the part of the local contingent if it is to emerge victorious.

Many Parties Held In Hilltop Homes; Witches, Goblins, Ghosts Make Merry

On Thursday evening, Oct. 26 the first visit of the witches, goblins, and ghosts, was made at the home of Miss Ethel Andrews, 655 S. Hague Ave., when she and Miss Margaret Bier entertained a number of their friends at a Hallowe'en party. Another party held the same evening, was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Newton, 110 S. Roys Ave., who were hosts to members of the Christian Endeavor society of Westgate Evangelical church.

In celebration of her birthday anniversary which comes near Hallowe'en, Miss Eileen Davis, 583 S. Wayne Ave., entertained at her home, Thursday evening, Oct. 26, with a Birthday-Hallowe'en party. Guests came masked and games and contests were played.

If pre-Hallowe'eners were near the home of Mrs. Grace Good at 2969 Sullivant Ave., Thursday evening, Oct. 26, they would have seen queer looking persons entering that home. And, if they were real, real curious, and had peeked in the basement windows they would have seen all sorts of Hallowe'en decorations, for members of the Gleaners' class of the Burgess Avenue U. B. church were having a Hallowe'en party.

Friday night was a busy night for the Hallowe'en spirits for there were many homes to visit. The first visit was made at the home of Miss Dorothy Norton, 340 N. Roddy Ave., who was entertaining several of her friends at a Hallowe'en party. Even at the Hallowe'en party which the Gleaners' class of the Westgate Evangelical church were having at the home of Mrs. Harry Hynrod, 1708 Thomas Ave., goblins and witches made their visit. At this party the person who wore the funniest costume won the prize, so, the honor was given to Mrs. Linscott, 284 S. Huron Ave. Members of the St. Paul Christian Endeavor society also had a Hallowe'en party Friday evening, Oct. 27. "Madam Know-It-All" was present at this party, and many guests were given peeks into the future. Another Hallowe'en party held Friday evening, Oct. 27, was at the home of Miss Mildred Kline, 2260 Sullivant Ave.

Saturday night, Oct. 28, seemed to be a very popular evening for Hallowe'en parties in several Hilltop homes. No place is too far for the spirits to visit, not even the C. W. Minix home at 570 Salisbury Rd., where guests were entertained at a Hallowe'en party. Another home, the scene of Hallowe'en festivities, was that of Miss June Stone, 319 N. Warren Ave., who was hostess to a number of friends at a party. Games and contests of all kinds appropriate for Hallowe'en were enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. George P. Wozniak, 171 Highland Ave., entertained Saturday evening, Oct. 28, in celebration of Hallowe'en. The evening was spent in playing cards. Peggy Huff, 624 Wiltshire Rd., was hostess at a Hallowe'en party also given on Saturday evening. Games and contests were played and refreshments were served.

So, at the stroke of midnight, Tuesday, Oct. 31, the witches, goblins, and ghosts returned to their ruling places to await another year's Hallowe'en.

Pirate-Cowboy Battle Today

Regulars Out Saturday

With regulars Deehler, Michaelis, Roye Francis, Gibson and Richards on the bench Saturday afternoon at Portsmouth, West High footballers went down to a 48 to 0 defeat at the hands of the Portsmouth Trojans. The lighter reserves could not withstand the bone-crushing attack of the home team, and after the first quarter when the locals displayed an excellent brand of ball, the Trojans had things their own way.

Anticipating a strenuous drive down the home stretch in an effort to tie for the city grid championship, Coach Wise played safe Saturday. Deehler's lame knee, Michaelis' injured hip, and Roye's injured shoulder; along with hurt legs of Francis and Gibson, put the Cowboy coach in no position to take chances. The latter two gridders did not even appear in uniform for the battle.

Scouting the Central Pirates Friday night, Coach Wise expressed fear of the improved Riverside aggregation. "They had drive, and they made Lancaster take it." Wise said, "I hope the boys (Cowboys) don't get the same surprise on the field Friday afternoon (today) that I got last Friday night. If they do, we're licked."

Portsmouth scored last Saturday in every quarter, counting 14 points in the initial half and two touchdowns in the third period, and two more plus a safety in the final canto. Jividen's punting was the outstanding Cowboy highlight.

Able Men Seek Election to Board

Some especially able men are seeking election to the Columbus Board of Education next Tuesday.

Phil Bradford, three times president of the board, is one of the best known men in the city and has given able leadership in the solving of the difficult financial problems affecting the city schools. As a result they are in better shape than in most of the schools of the state. A graduate of Ohio State university, Bradford is a former teacher, former United States Commissioner, past president of the Columbus and Ohio State Bar associations.

Perle P. Baughman is a general contractor who has had wide school experience. In addition to having served one term on the Columbus board, he served sixteen years on the Board of Education of Truro township. Of five children, two are now in the Columbus schools. He has given able service on the Columbus board during the past four years.

Dwight A. Swisher is a former Probate Judge of Franklin county. A graduate of Ohio State university, he took a year in graduate work at Harvard university. His law offices are located at 21 E. State St.

The LOOKOUT

ARMISTICE DAY

Fifteen years have elapsed since the World War was officially declared at an end. And today, despite all efforts toward reconstruction, the world is still tottering economically, politically and socially. Along Wall street they will wager two to one that another war will occur within the next year and one-half. And we are pleased to refer to our present society as a cultured civilization.

In such dismal days we sometimes wonder if Nature's highest achievement is the evolutionary scale—namely, man—is approaching that end his biological predecessors met thousands of years ago—extinction.

The mammoth creatures which roamed portions of the earth in other ages became extinct because their bodies could not be nourished by the available amount of food and because the changing climatic conditions proved too severe for their survival.

And now—if we are to continue in the paths heretofor chosen—cannot man likewise march into oblivion by the contrivances of his own mind—implements of war and schemes of death and destruction to the race itself?

Man has pleased himself with the thought that he has mastered Nature. Yet, ironically, nature has stolen a march on man, and utilizing the same instrument that man has attempted to use to seek mastery, the human brain, is virtually destroying both man and his so-called civilization with one gigantic sweep.

Man has been able to adapt himself to every environment in nature. He has penetrated the darkest Jungles; he has explored the poles of the earth; has delved 6000 feet into the earth's crust; and ascended 11 miles into the stratosphere. Yet he has failed to master the tool that mastered all of these things—the most complex thing in all nature—the brain.

He has fought and struggled and finally conquered many diseases; he has labored and learned of the principles that rule the universe, and is still learning; he has created vast technological improvements and has spanned rivers and bored through mountains; he struck at the roots of things in every science from Astronomy to Zoology—and canned his knowledge in libraries and laboratories, and lived by a philosophy of selfishness and greed.

Someday they will unearth the present civilization. They will remark the debris of centuries from over our war stricken society. And they'll dig up libraries and find that here lay a race of men learned in things scientific—here was evidence of a civilization perfect. How could such a society have fallen?

Yes, they shall dig us up some day. They shall wonder and they shall marvel. Their orators will speak of what they can learn from the remnants of this buried and ancient people. And in their turn, they too shall be dug up, for they too shall pass.

Whither Mankind? Why? How? When? or How soon? Our apparent intellectual progress has failed to keep pace with emotional desires. Yes, indeed, the spirit is willing but the flesh is weak.

Second Team Pulls Surprise in Saturday Game.

With a second team playing most of the fracas, the Hilltop Bantamweight football team mauled the Northern eleven Saturday morning in a regularly scheduled league game by a score of 27 to 0.

The reserves gained ground at will and at the end of the initial stanza had amassed a total of 21 points, two touchdowns coming at the end of 60 and 80 yard drives. The other six-pointer was tallied when Stiles intercepted a Northern pass and scampered 60 yards across the goal. He also converted the point.

The first team was inserted in the second half, but was hard pressed and only managed to score in the final canto when Bosch blocked a punt and Graschel grabbed the oval to tote it 25 yards for a touchdown.

For the Hilltoppers, Bosch, Graschel and Ryan were the spielliers.

Elimination of R. R. Crossings Urged By Solon

City Council Passes Resolution to Abolish Eureka and Hague Crossings.

Passing unanimously Councilman W. L. Millikin's resolution to eliminate two dangerous Hilltop grade crossings, City Council Monday night provided that Service Director William J. Lucks be ordered to prepare plans for the construction of projects at the North Hague and North Eureka intersections.

Both crossings are extremely dangerous, and several accidents at the Hague avenue intersection have caused the loss of approximately a dozen lives. The most recent mishap occured just a few weeks ago when a Grandview filling station attendant was struck by a flyer and fatally hurt.

When the plans are prepared, according to information, the city will ask the New York Central Railroad to pay 65 per cent of the cost. The city would pay the remainder, according to the plans of Mayor Henry W. Worley, either from its bond issuing fund inside limitations next year, or by a levy outside limitations, with a vote of the people.

Council also announced its intention Monday night of widening Oak street between Fourth and Grant, to 30 feet. This resolution was also proposed by Millikin.

Every parent and friend of the school is cordially invited to visit the school during this week. Exhibits of work will be on display in all rooms that you may see the kind of work your boy or girl is doing from day to day."

The pamphlet also included the program for the joint P.-T. A. and "Open House" which was held at the school Wednesday, Nov. 9. Contrasts in educational practices were shown by a portrayal of The Little Red School House conducted by Mrs. Dayton H. Hiske, and a demonstration of present day activities in modern school building. Overconfidence, Let-Down, Feared for Cowboys

Local Team Wallops Central 39 to 6; Play Aquinas Eleven Tomorrow Afternoon.

West High's fighting Cowboy gridders pulled up to within striking distance of the City Scholastic football title last Friday afternoon when they walloped a listless Pirate crew on the local lot by a score of 39 to 6.

Displaying the finest football of the year, the Cowboys, led by Jividen and Boye in the ball toting department and Deshler and Michaelis on the line, hammered a weaker than anticipated Central forward wall into submission with a powerful and deceptive attack. It was the kind of football it will take to make a showing against a strong East High squad just one week hence.

Reached Peak of Form?

Have the Cowboys reached the peak of their form? was the question being asked this week as Coaches Wise and Buchanan drilled their charges for the Aquinas battle slated for Saturday afternoon at the West High field at 2 o'clock.

The performance against Central, while the first stringers were in action at least, was flawless. The outcome of the Tiger-Cowboy melee will depend largely upon the answer to that question.

Fear Overconfidence

Following the Aquinas game tomorrow, Coach Harold Wise faces a tough problem in coping with the overconfidence that is gradually creeping out in the Cowboy squad. In an effort to check this, most of the team will be on hand this afternoon when Coach Webster's Easterners tackle Central at Harley Field.

This will make it tit for tat, for the Tigers scouted the local aggregation against the same team last week on the West field, and while West was not forced to open up, the Bengals witnessed sufficient football to keep them from being too sure of victory on Nov. 17. An over confident Cardinal outfit will receive the surprise of its life.

Central Game

Last Friday, under the masterly direction of Cliff Boye, the team struck Pirate weaknesses surely and swiftly. Jividen, whose work Friday was as fine as that shown by any high school back this year, rambled in stellar fashion to count twice, and his heads up football on the defense was one of the outstanding factors in the large score of 39 to 6 run up by the Wisemen.

Coaches and Team to Scout East-Central Battle Today; Title Game Next Friday.

Line Functions Well

The Cowboy forward wall was given its acid test early in the fracas when Central recovered a fumble on the Buff 14-yard stripe. Here, led by the fine play of Deshler, Michaelis and Kellar, three crashes and one pass netted the Pirates a minus four yards. From this point, West took the oval and marched to the goal for the first score, Jividen scoring and Kellar booting the point.

Three more six-pointers were counted in the second period, Jividen intercepting a pass to ramble 40 yards; Richards plunging over from the four-yard line after a 40-yard aerial from Boye to Jividen; and Boye scored the other from the one-yard line.

Central Passes Fly

The final half saw many substitutions in the Cowboy line-up and a flurry of Central passes, most of which were ineffective. With but a minute to play and West's third team in the game, a punt was blocked and Ballenger, Pirate tackle, scooped up the ball and scooted unmolested 20 yards for the only Red and Black score.

7 Reasons

for installing an Electric

Home Furnace Fan

one— An electric Home Furnace Fan provides a practical method of improving the circulation of a warm air furnace.

two— An electric Home Furnace Fan is the means of getting heat from your furnace more quickly and regularly, and of changing the air throughout the house.

three— Radiation of heat into the cellar is reduced to a minimum.

four— Electric Home Furnace Fans have been widely used for many years and have proven practical wherever installed.

five— The cost of installation is low.

six— If you are building a new home, an electric Home Furnace Fan installed with that new furnace will insure proper circulation from the beginning.

seven— The uniform heating of the house is a safeguard to the general health of the entire family.

Electric Home Furnace Fans are sold by heating contractors

AN OPEN LETTER

Dear Football Team:

We learned yesterday that you fellows will play East in the gigantic Ohio Stadium tomorrow and thought it a grand idea. You've had a pretty successful season. Two or three of you have starred individually. You have enjoyed three fine out-of-town trips. You've had everything so made to order that you're the envy of the circuit.

That's the reason, however, that you must be satisfied! "Great Big Me,—I played in the stadium Saturday. I'm an all high man. Ya comin' up to watch me play?" you shout from faces that never utter a word.

You'll never win that game Saturday! You're not even planning to play East. You're planning to play IN THE STADIUM. In the drunkenness of conceit—and we're writing to you, Deshler, Michaels, Keller, Francis, Boye, etc.—you have forgotten that you'll be in a football game Saturday afternoon and forgetting, you don't realize that you've no more than a fighting chance to win.

But I guess you do realize it. You just don't care. Don't answer back, gentlemen. It sticks out all over you. You don't have to write a letter or speak a piece. "We played in the stadium" you can say—after the game is over. Then, gentlemen, duck your heads and beat it for a dark corner, because somebody is sure to ask if you played football there—and maybe, they'll ask the score. But gentlemen, take a hint, and immediately after you're through bragging about where you played, run quickly. Because someone will be there to embarrass you with: "HOW did you play?"

O. K., trophy polishers. We'll string along with you individually. We're glad each one of you got to play against East in the stadium—much as we'd like to string along with a TEAM that BEAT EAST in a FOOTBALL GAME.

But maybe after the ball game you'll agree with Kipling that:

It's not the guns or armament,
Or the money they can pay:
It's the close co-operation
That makes them win the day
IT'S NOT THE INDIVIDUAL
Or the army as a whole,
But the CLOSE CO-OPERATION
Of EVERY bloomin' soul

Yours truly,
THE LOOKOUT

Statistics, Mr. Campbell: That word "confusion" we've had so much trouble and discussion about, was defined by one person in 17 correctly, according to a recent survey by the Lookout scribbler. Two others knew what such a thing was, but couldn't tell about it. . . Scioto is not pronounced by latter pronouncers as "Scio, a foul rawther. Skee-oto . . . The honey moon is over when Joe Matheny comes home from work on a Deal to shop with his wife Olive, who then proceeds to the Drop Vac St. unit purchases a sewing pin. Ha-Cha, it actually happened. Jimmie Rawlins got shock of hair . . . A wag learning that some local citizens had joined the Triangle Association that need rather have such them remain on the spinal.

THE HILLTOPPER'S LAMENT

Backward, turn backward, O Time in your flight
Make me a touch again just for tonight
Never, did WE play a [illegible] stage
Give us again the great teams of yore
Erase from my brow the wrinkles of care
Caused by the loss of a game in the air.
Back in MY time WE fought every pass
Bring it to pass, Father, bring it to pass

Backward, flow backward, O ride of the hours!
I would play again as in the past years,—
Play without whining, and yards all in vain.
Take them, return MY football days again
I have grown weary of TEAM and fair play.
Weary of seeing the boys day by day
Play fair and square with ne'er a cuff
Bring me rough stuff, Father, bring me rough stuff

West High Alumni Plan Heavy Winter Program of Events

Membership Drive Receives First Attention; Council Meeting Wednesday.

A heavy program is being planned by the West Alumni Council for the winter months, with at least three outstanding social functions to feature the array of events.

Harold Denton

First on the program, however, according to the recently elected president of the Alumni Council, Harold Denton, 212 N Chase Ave., is a membership drive to get alumni into the association. "The Alumni Council," he explained, "is merely a representative body of two people from each graduated class. In order to expedite business matters, a smaller group is advisable. It is through the Council that the business of the Alumni association is transacted."

Meet Wednesday

A very important meeting of the Council will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Geren, 2830 Crescent Dr., Wednesday evening, Nov. 22, according to an announcement made this week. The membership drive will get under way at that time. Representatives selected by the executive committee this week, whose names appear below, are asked to attend the meeting. Members of classes having no representative to date are asked to get in touch with Denton immediately.

The following representatives compose the Alumni Council: '11, Floyd McVeigh; '12, W. E. Ferguson, Emmett Metzger; '14, Dr. A. C. Myers; '15, Elma R. Waddington, Glenna Evans Gibson; '16, Howard Gibson, Marguerite Carter Moore; '17, Harold Denton; '18, Dudley Griffin; '19, Miles V. Hoover, Fred Gunnell, Clarence Van Meter; '20, Newton Case, Ted Geren; '21, Norman Palmer; '25, William Cussins; '26, Ruth Hessenauer; '27, Jack Felty, Margaret Tucker Eigensee.

'28, John Wolfe, Lucille Kaether, Olive Munro Matheny; '29, Robert John Evan Morgan, Helen Myers; '30, Harriett Swain, Virginia Johnson Alford; '31, Sam Alford, Sally McWilliams, Don Craig; '32, Selma Peizer, Elmore Price, Woodrow Link; and '33, Joan Timmons, Kenneth Morris.

West Broad P.-T. A. To Meet Tuesday

Prof. R. Bruce Tom, Ohio State University, to Speak On Home-made Happiness.

The Parent-Teacher association of the West Broad Street school will hold its second meeting of the year next Tuesday evening, Nov. 21, at 7:30 p. m.

The theme of the program is "Recreation in the Home." Prof. R. Bruce Tom, assistant professor of rural sociology, at Ohio State university, will be the speaker, the subject of his address being "Home Made Happiness: Why, What and How."

He will bring with him an exhibit of home made games, and will explain them during his address. It is hoped by the committee that all the mothers and fathers of the school will take advantage of this opportunity of learning how to improve the morale of the home through the medium of recreation for parents and children.

A period of group singing will be led by Rev. C. D. Osborn, with Mrs. Circle D. Moore at the piano.

The program committee consists of Mrs. Taylor Moore, chairman; Miss Mabel Grau, Mrs. Roma Waymer, Mrs. E. A. Brown, Mrs. Clyde D. Moore, Mr. D. P. Rodman, and Mr. C. H. Campbell.

To Sing Sunday

The Philharmonic Four, an organized group of Columbus singers, will present several musical numbers at the [illegible] at the Hilltop Baptist church Sunday, Nov. 19. The singers in the quartet are: O. S. Heller, first tenor; E. P. Ketch, second tenor; J. J. Read, baritone; and H. A. Conklin, [illegible].

Father, Son Banquet At Hillcrest Nov. 23

A Father-and-Son Banquet will be held at the Hillcrest Baptist church basement Thursday evening, Nov. 23, at 6:30 o'clock, according to plans announced by officials this week.

The dinner will be prepared by the men of the congregation and served by the members of Boy Scout Troop 181 of the church. Following the repast, musical numbers will be presented by Miss Helen Richter, on the accordian, Miss Florence Evans, on the xylophone and a male quartet from the church.

Short speeches will be made by President E. E. Jackson, Dr. R. J. Miller, N. W. Kent and Rev. S. T. MaGann.

Community Fund Workers Named For 1933 Drive

Annual Relief Campaign Opens Monday with 150 Workers in Community Ready to Go.

Approximately 150 civic and welfare-minded women of the Hilltop and the West Side have volunteered their services as solicitors in the Community Fund campaign, which will open Monday and continue through Nov. 29, for $725,458, the minimum amount needed to carry on the work of the 33 participating agencies during the next 12 months.

Completion of her top leadership and workers in the different areas of this section of the city is announced by Mrs. W. E. Ferguson, 235 Guernsey Ave., adjutant for the west area of the residential district of the campaign. Mrs. Karl W. Burr is chairman of the entire residential division.

The two majors assisting Mrs. Ferguson are Mrs. Clayton Cain, 2147 W Broad St., and Mrs. M. H. Hain, 113 Whitethorne Ave.

Captains under Mrs. Cain are Mrs. Clyde Moore, 238 Binns Blvd.; Mrs. Charles Berens, 76 S. Richardson Ave.; Mrs. Vernon Fiscus, 616 S. Terrace St.; Mrs. B. P. Redman, 105 Binns Blvd.; Mrs. R. G. Haunz, 41 Binns Blvd.; Mrs. Harry Lundberg, 196 N Burgess Ave.; Mrs. J. E. Woodland, 1967 Fairmont Ave.; Mrs. A. C. Keidel 47 S. Huron Ave., and Mrs. Joseph Steen, 43 N. Roys Ave.

The residential division of the campaign, which is manned entirely by women of the city, is the largest division of the 10 which will canvass business, social and industrial areas of the city, starting Monday. Upon this division rests much of the success of the campaign.

West Sr.-Jr. P.-T. A. In First Meeting

West High Sr.-Jr. Parent-Teacher association offered its first program of the present school year, last Monday evening in the high school auditorium, with an attendance record for such an occasion of 1500.

Professor H. C. Hutchinson directed orchestra and chorus numbers, featured by a saxophone and clarinet duet by Harry and Charles Schneidt, father and son.

Mrs. Miriam McIntyre, the principal speaker of the evening, discussed the history of the Girl Scout movement.

Program Thursday At School of Music

On Thursday evening, Nov. 23, at 8:15 o'clock, at the Hilltop School of Music, the following pupils will present a musical program for their parents and friends.

Jane Timmons, accompanied by Miss Edith Robbins, her teacher, will present a duo-violin concerto. Betty Collins and her sister, Mary Collins, will be presented in a duet for violin and piano.

Win Membership Contest

A contest was held recently between the rooms which registered in room 138 at West Junior High school to see which group could secure the largest percentage of parents as paid up members of the P.-T. A. The eight rooms represented in the contest put up plenty of competition, but final honors go to Mr. Brown's group pictured above, which have 40 per cent of their parents enrolled. Miss Offerman's room ran closely to this ranking, and lost by only one-half of one per cent.

Interest in the P.-T. A. at West Junior has been increased greatly this year, and the first regular meeting of the season on Monday night, Nov. 13, was attended by the largest crowd on record. For the good of the boys and girls, it behooves every parent to be a part of this organization. Membership may be sent in by the pupils, and certificates will be promptly returned. The meetings are open to everyone and very definite plans are being worked out by the president and his various committees.

American Legion Relief Canvas Set For Thanksgiving

Second Annual Event To Provide Food and Clothing For Many Hilltop Families

The second annual canvas of the Hilltop for food, clothing and funds for relief of needy families of the community will be held on Thanksgiving day by Camp Chase Post No. 98 of the American Legion according to an announcement made this week by officials of the organization.

The plan, inaugurated last year, will again be used this year and a house-to-house canvas of the Hilltop will be made by members of the Post. The entire day will be spent in collecting the materials in trucks provided for the purpose. Last year's effort was a tremendous success and an even greater attempt will be made this year.

Residents of the community who will not be at home on Thanksgiving day and who desire to make some contribution in the form of clothing, food or money, are asked to get in touch with officials at Legion headquarters, Dr. A. C. Myers or M. B. Hain.

Collections made last year were utilized to care for strictly community cases where other help had been unavailable. Those working on the project receive no compensation. Assistance is made through information available within the organization or through application at Legion headquarters. Officials have asked the co-operation of the entire community in making the affair a success.

Cowboys Slump As Title Battle With Tiger Nears

First Team Fails To Click as Aquinas is Defeated 19-0 on West Field Saturday; Bengals Hold Heavy Edge Over Locals In Game At Ohio Stadium Tomorrow.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the Ohio Stadium, West High's football team will hook up with the Tigers of East in an attempt to dispute the title hopes of last year's champions. The game, originally scheduled for Harley Field, was shifted to the stadium to accomodate the some 10,000 spectators expected to watch the fracas. North's loss to South last week, on the Bulldog field, has further whetted the interest of fans, especially on the Hilltop, where championship-hungry gridiron enthusiasts have not tasted their favorite dish since 1920.

Only hopefully local fandom will trek to the stadium tomorrow, for dark clouds hang low over the giant structure. A brilliant West High team which defeated Central 39 to 6 in a flawless performance, apparently collapsed last Saturday against Aquinas on the local lot and did well to eke out a 19 to 0 victory over a team that, generally weak, has been deplorably impotent this year.

"I had hoped," said Coach Harold Wise after the battle, "that the boys would do a little better so I could give the reserves some experience. But it took three quarters to pile up a margin sufficiently large enough to permit substitutions with safety."

It was a listless bunch of Cowboys, and from all appearances, the scourge of a let-down and overconfidence feared for, more than a week, had swept the Cowboy ranch by storm. Offensive maneuvers failed to click, and had the opposition been so much as average caliber, the local defense would not have been able to weather the gale.

Through the Central game two weeks ago the Wisemen were conceded better than an outside chance of trimming East, but against the Pirates, the locals apparently reached the peak of their form. The consequent letdown Saturday was anticipated with the resultant effect that the locals are now distinct underdogs in the game tomorrow.

Observers who have watched both elevens perform declare that the Cowboys won't be able to withstand the fight which will be carried to them by championship bound Bengal crew.

West will have a slight edge in the play, but in other departments, the Tigers are overwhelmingly the better team. Eddie Slavens, ace tiger ball lugger, is three grades of harder driving than anything the locals can muster; the champions also will have an edge in punting, with the passing potentialities of each squad even.

Both teams will enter the fracas with their full strength available. Coach Wise worked his lads on pass offense and defense this week and indications are that the locals may take to the air in quest of victory. A light workout tonight, behind locked gates, will mark the final drill of the season for the locals.

The probable starting line-ups:

West	Pos.	East
Beuchler	l.e.	Neely
Deshler	l.t.	Miller
Mathews	l.g.	Maggied
Keller	c.	Ayres
Hoffman	r.g.	Compton
Michaels	r.t.	Schlemp
Focht	r.e.	Reed
Boye	q.b.	Ayres
Francis	l.h.	Banks
Jividen	r.h.	Butler
Richards	f.b.	Colston

By JOHN WOLFE

THE AUTUMN SEASON WANES

Just a few Sundays ago, Dick Baesman and the writer rambled down into the heart of the Sugar Grove region in Hocking county. The autumnal coloration of the hills was at the height of its glory, with the scarlet and orange and crimson of the maples, white oaks, and gums, outshining the yellows and browns and russets of the oaks and hickories over the landscape.

The frosty morning was cool and clear and crisp. Far down the valley, town church bells chimed while from bush on the hillside, the song sparrow piped his melody, albeit with not quite the full throatedness of his vernal music. Across the broad stretches of the upper Hocking Valley, a thin, smokey haze hung low, but on the higher hardwood ridges, the colorful landscape stood out in all its matchless splendor.

Then Comes November

Then slowly and imperceptibly, the landscape loses its brilliance, and with the coming of November, the brown fields and the russet and yellow of the upland oak-hickory-chestnut forests dominate the scene. Soon gray skies will hang low over landscape denuded of foliage leaves, for already, when we returned to the region a week later, we shuffled over the woodland floor through a freshly laid carpet of fallen, brown leaves. Every gust of wind brought to the ground another deluge, covering a layer of leaves long since fallen and fast decaying and returning as humus to the soil.

What causes this wonderful autumnal brilliance of leaves and what causes them finally to abscise, or fall to the ground? To crack a popular conception in the head, it is well to state that the coming of frost has very little to do with the whole matter.

Follows Physical Law

As Dr. E. N. Transeau, head of the Botany department, at the Ohio State university, has somewhere stated, all plant processes can be explained by laws of physics. And the coloration and abscission of leaves are, of course, no exceptions.

When we view the great expanse of green landscape in spring and early summer, we are looking at a potentially brilliant fall scene. For in every leaf, hidden by the deep green of the chlorophyll, are two other pigments, yellow (xanthophyll) and orange (carotin). When Photosynthesis ceases as the summer passes, and no more chlorophyll is manufactured, the yellow and orange pigment begin to show up. The reds and crimsons and scarlets, also, that we see in the autumn, is due to the presence of a red pigment (anthocyan), developed in the leaf in the greatest abundance in bright sunshine and moderate temperatures.

Where's Jack Frost?

The startling fact is, that the occurrence of frost early in the season will diminish the array of red in the landscape. This fall, in the Hocking region long before the first frost has made its appearance, the landscape formed a vast panorama of crimson and orange and yellow.

What then, you may well ask, causes the process of photosynthesis to cease? This too, generally attributed to the action of frost, is subject to a multiplicity of factors, the most important of which are the decreased light in drought, along with complex internal causity, shortening length of day, and factors.

The Fall of the Leaves

The coming of frost may cause leaves to fall, but it is not necessary. In the development of a leaf, there is formed at the base of the stem a layer known as the abscission layer." This is made up of many cells, and when these break down and separate, the leaf falls from the tree.

After this layer has been formed, and it may develop in a few weeks or a few months, there are many factors which may cause it to disintegrate, the most important of which are the decreased light intensity, shortening length of day, low temperatures and a disturbance of the water relation between soil and plant.

And so, we find that "Jack Frost" and his proverbial "paint brush" should quickly be relegated to the limbo of forgotten things. Indeed, he has been given too much credit for the season's matchless beauty already. I suspect, however, that he'll be a hard chap to eliminate from the minds of many.

Speaker Gives Parents Rules

Mr. McMillan at John Burroughs P.-T. A. Tells How to Help Child Succeed in School.

H. L. McMillan, speaker at the John Burroughs' P.-T. A. program during Education Week at the school last Friday, gave visiting parents 13 rules which, if kept, would assist in causing the child to succeed in school.

His suggestions follow:

Arrange the breakfast and lunch hours so that there is no rushing at home or to home.

See that the children are dressed simply, neatly, modestly and in accordance with the weather.

Insist upon children under 11 having at least ten hours of sleep.

Find out how much time should be devoted to home work and see that it is done.

Provide a quiet place for home study with good light and ventilation. Prevent interruptions as far as possible.

Show an interest in the children's school work, athletics and other activities.

Visit the classroom during American Education Week and at other times for a better understanding of conditions.

Do not criticise the teachers or school at all within the children's hearing. Always hear both sides of every question and ask the teacher about it.

Instil in the children habits of obedience and respect for authority.

Picture the school as a happy, desirable place rather than one which children should dread.

Keep in mind that the school offers unlimited opportunities to those who take advantage of them, parents as well as pupils.

Plan to meet other parents in the school. It will help you understand your children better. Mothers should arouse the interest of fathers in the school activities and get their co-operation.

To Forest Camp

George Scherer, 46 S. Huron Ave., left a few days ago for Kentucky where he will be stationed in a reforestation camp. He is an ex-service man and a member of the Camp Chase Post No. 98 of the American Legion.

Starling Wins

Several hundred people witnessed the annual basketball game of Starling versus the Alumni, Thursday evening. The Starling aggregation proved the better team by a score of 16 to 12.

Midget Gridders In Tie with Southerners

Full On Lone Chance to Break Deadlock.

Hilltop tootsam gridders remained in a tie with South for third place in the midget football loop Saturday morning when the two teams met on Goodale field and fought it out to a scoreless tie.

Both squads had opportunities to tally, but failed to cash in on them. South's chance slipped up when a 35-yard gain via the air-route took the oval to the Hilltoppet 20. The Southerners made a first down, but then lost when four smashes at the line produced nothing. In the third period, Casey's lads took the ball to the South 20, but were held and lost the ball on downs.

Graschel, Yeager and Fiorey played best for the Hilltoppers.

Pennell Named

Don C. Pennell, 459 Nashoba Ave., was appointed deputy grand chancellor of Franklin county by Harvey R. Snyder of Cleveland, Ohio, grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, last week, according to an announcement.

Runaway Returns

When a case of poison ivy caused his eyes to swell shut in Indianapolis late last week, Harold Fridgnit, aged 14, of 116 Midland Ave., who ran away from home Nov. 2, returned to Columbus, according to police reports.

THANKSGIVING!

Through the years certain traditions have grown up around the Thanksgiving feast. To be really authentic turkey should form the center of the menu. Turkey, golden brown, with its crisp skin covering, tender, succulent meat. Turkey, golden brown, with its crisp skin covering, tender, succulent. Then, of course, there should be cranberry jelly, sweet and Irish potatoes, a green vegetable, a salad and final touch—mince or pumpkin pie.

SOME GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOLIDAYS

With these foods as a sort of basis for the arrangement of your menu, you may prove your versatility by introducing the dishes served in new and different guises, while still keeping to the tradition of the Thanksgiving dinner.

Usually Thanksgiving means guests and guests mean extra preparation, extra care that everything should be at its best. And in order to accomplish this happy end it's absolutely essential that the day should be planned—from start to finish. A week before the wise hostess will go through her linen supply and see that the best damask cloth is fresh and clean, the napkins, counted, folded and in order. She will count her silver and see that it is polished. Goblets should be counted so that any additions may be made in a leisurely way. The day before flowers should be ordered. And the day before that market lists made out and checked against supplies on hand.

There are so many items that go to make up the menu that may be prepared beforehand so that the day itself will find the kitchen well organized and efficient in operation.

If you plan to serve cranberry jelly in little individual moulds you may prepare them a day or two in advance. Or you may serve slices of a very excellent jelly that is to be had ready prepared.

The day before Thanksgiving the turkey should be prepared and put away in the refrigerator but not stuffed until the morning of the feast. The dressing, however, may be prepared and put away in a bowl in the refrigerator. Giblets may be cooked and ground so that they may be added to the gravy at the last minute. Molded salads are easily prepared in advance. Pies may be made—and, if mince pie is your choice for dessert, that may be popped into the oven and heated just long enough before dinner to allow for cooling.

Celery may be cut and cleansed and wrapped with lettuce leaves in a moist cloth. Then in the morning you will be ready to stuff the turkey—put it to roasting and clear the decks for the preparation of potatoes and green vegetables. It's not difficult, really, when you plan ahead. The menu for a typical Thanksgiving dinner follows:

Fruit Cup
Celery Curls Olives Pearl Onions
Roast Turkey with Dressing
Giblet Gravy
Mashed Potatoes
Carmelized Sweet Potatoes
Cauliflower Holiday Salad
Cranberry Jelly
Finger Rolls Mince Pie
Coffee

Fruit Cup

Peel and remove segments of oranges, seed and halve green grapes, peel and remove segments of grapefruit, dice bananas and combine. Let stand in refrigerator until thoroughly chilled and serve in glass cups with mint leaves.

Oyster Dressing for Turkey

Four cups bread (softened), 8 tablespoons melted butter, onion juice, 2 tablespoons poultry seasoning, red pepper, 1½ dozen oysters and liquid. Mix the bread after it has been softened in water and lightly squeezed out with melted butter. Season to taste, being sure to add a dash of red pepper. Add the oysters and use enough of the liquid to make the dressing the proper consistency.

Carmelized Sweet Potatoes

One dozen small sweet potatoes boiled until tender. Peel and cut in halves and arrange in shallow baking dish. Boil one cup of water and one pint of brown sugar together for 10 minutes, then add one tablespoon butter. Sprinkle salt and cinnamon over the potatoes then pour the syrup over and bake in a moderate oven until brown.

Holiday Salad

First Layer:
1 tablespoon gelatine.
1-3 cup cold water.
1 cup seasoned strained tomato juice.

Second Layer:
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatine.
1-3 cup cold water.
1 cup boiling water.
2 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice.
1 tablespoon sugar.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 cup finely shredded cabbage.
¼ cup finely shredded green pepper.
½ cup finely cut celery.

Soak the gelatine for the first layer in cold water five minutes. Add seasoned tomato juice puree, and stir until mixed. Pour into a small square or loaf pan and chill until firm. Pour over this the second layer, made as follows: soak the gelatine in cold water five minutes, add the boiling water and stir until mixed. Season with the vinegar or lemon juice, sugar and salt. Cool, add the shredded cabbage, pepper and celery. Pour over the tomato gelatine mixture. Chill until both layers are firm. Cut into squares and serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise.

Finger Rolls

6 to 6½ cups flour, sifted.
2 cakes compressed yeast.
2 cups milk, scalded and cooled.
3 teaspoons salt.
½ cup shortening.
½ cup sugar.
2 eggs.

Dissolve yeast in luke warm milk and stir well. Add sugar, beaten eggs, salt and half the flour. Mix well and add the melted butter. Beat and add balance of flour or enough to make a soft dough. Turn out on floured board and knead into a smooth dough. Place in greased bowl. Cover, let rise to double bulk. Knead and let rise 45 minutes. Pinch off pieces of dough size of small egg. Roll until round. Then roll with hand on board until 2½ inches long. Place 1 inch apart on well greased pan. Brush with melted butter, let rise until double in bulk. Brush with melted butter, bake 20 to 25 minutes. When done brush with melted butter.

Stone Jar Molasses Cookies

2¼ cups sifted flour.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
1½ teaspoons ginger.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 cup molasses.
½ cup butter or other shortening.
2 teaspoons soda.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, ginger, and salt, and sift again. Heat molasses, remove from fire; add shortening and soda. Add flour gradually. Chill. Roll very thin on slightly floured board. Cut with floured cooky cutter. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 10 minutes. Remove from pan carefully. Cool. Store in stone jar. Makes 3½ dozen cookies.

World's Reformation Department To A Miner's Son of Eisleben

Prominent people often spring from obscure origin. The four hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the birth of Dr. Martin Luther (Nov. 10th) reminds all Protestant Christendom of Thomas Carlyle's observation on the great reformer's humble beginning. "There was not in all the world a more entirely unimportant looking pair of individuals than that miner and his wife. Yet what were all kings, popes and potentates in comparison? Here was born once more a mighty man whose light was to stream as a beacon over long centuries and epochs of the world. The whole world and its history was waiting for that man.

The contributions of this man to a waiting world have made the world of all time his debtor. Foremost among Luther's services was the placing of the Open Bible into the hands of the people, which is the inalienable right of every human soul to have. Associate Justice Strong, of the United States Supreme Court traces the enjoyment of political liberty, a highly prized privilege of our American democracy, to this Open Bible gift of Luther in the words, "Luther can be regarded as the author of the civil liberty that is enjoyed today. He translated the Bible into the German language, and spread before his countrymen the ethics and principles underlying religion and freedom of life. From the hour that this publication was made, civil liberty sprang into birth, and became a possibility for men." Little wonder that Kaulbach's great painting, "Progress of Civilization," puts Luther's colossal figure towering above the world's thinkers, scientists, diplomats and leaders. His SPIRITUAL reformation's influence has permeated many fields, including education, social science and politics. Every time one finds consolation, inspiration and blessing in Bible reading one stands indebted to the unlikely son of Eisleben, Wittenberg and Worms. How fitting the words of John Jay of "Jay Treaty" fame, "Luther is the chief figure in an historic picture which will be contemplated by the thoughtful of all lands to the end of time."

Special recognition of this anniversary was given at the morning service at St. John Lutheran church Sunday at ten-thirty o'clock. Luther's reformation battle hymn, "A Tower of Strength Our God Is Still," will be the hymn study for the evening service at seven-thirty o'clock.

3000 Attend Rally And Parade Friday Night at W. High

High Enthusiasm Prevails; Season Reviewed; Eight Regulars to Graduate.

The biggest rally ever held on the Hilltop was accorded the West High football team last night when 3000 loyal grid enthusiasts turned out and marched behind the Cowboy band to the athletic field where, amid cheers, flares and music, the ice of tenseness which had formed over the team, was melted away.

Marching west on Broad street, the crowd of 2000 was reinforced along the line, and by the time the field had been reached, the bleachers were entirely inadequate to seat the milling hundreds.

Make Last Tackle

Friday afternoon, after a light workout consisting of a short lecture and a signal drill had been completed, the squad made the last tackle of the season. And as Francis, Boye, Deshler, Michaelis, Mathews, Kellar, Jividen, Beachler, Harper, Pearson and West hit the dummy, they completed their respective workouts as Cowboys. They will be lost to next year's team by graduation, and what a loss for any coach to take. Eight are first stringers and the other three are reserves of the first water.

Season Reviewed

Whether or not the 1933 West High school grid machine is the finest ever to represent the institution, is a matter of conjecture, but the fact that it played the toughest schedule ever arranged for a Cowboy eleven must remain unchallenged. And participating in such a grueling set of games, the squad of Coaches Wise and Buchanan must, of necessity, be placed high among the teams representing West through the years.

Hold Dayton Stivers

Dayton Stivers, champions of the Gem city, and losers of but a single battle through the year, was held by the local contingent to a scoreless tie in the season's hidlifter.

Once again, in the second fracas of the season, Coaches Wise and Buchanan took their squad away from the home lot, to Marietta, where one of the strongest teams in years was assembled. Stubbornly the Cowboys fought, and held the Riversiders to a scoreless tie. The game, played in a blazing sun, sapped the strength of the heavier West crew.

Lose Tough Game

Returning home, the following week found the Cowboys pitted against North High in the opening scholastic battle. Hopping into the lead during the opening half by six points by flashing a brilliantly deceptive attack, West was overcome in the final period when North scored a touchdown and Wiley booted the point. Although plenty of power was in evidence, the Wisemen lacked the punch to eke out a victory.

Showing for the first time on their home lot, the locals then met Zanesville and hammered out a 25 to 0 victory. It was a fine showing, and although weak spots were noted by Wise, the team made a highly acceptable showing.

Outsmart South

The following week, South High's fighting Bulldogs were met on the home field. Fighting tooth for tooth and nail for nail, the game was even until Boye directed an 80-yard march across the Blue and Gray goal, which was climaxed by a perfectly executed forward-lateral pass which took the heart out of a fine South team. The Cowboys went on then to score another six-pointer, defeating the conqueror's of North, 13 to 0.

Trekking then to Portsmouth, with no thought of winning from the river city squad, Coach Wise inserted second stringers in the lineup and West took a 13 to 0 posting. Six regulars were out of the lineup, including Boye, Deshler, Michaelis, Francis, Richards and Feebt. With a possible chance to share the city title, Harold Wise was not favorable to risking injury to his regulars.

Reach Peak of Form

Returning again to the home lot, anxious for battle, the gridmen broke out in a rash of perfect football, and before a capacity homecoming throng, walloped the Central Pirates to the tune of 39 to 6. A close game had been anticipated, but with the cattlemen definitely "on," no chance was accorded the visitors.

Despite a tremendous let down, West then went on to defeat Aquinas the following week, 19 to 0. With the victory came the opportunity to share title honors with East, the game being scheduled for the Ohio Stadium this afternoon.

Cowboy Foreman

Coach Harold E. Wise

The above gentleman, for the past five years, has been the foreman of the local bronco busters. And what a foreman he's been. In his sojourn at West High, his football teams have compiled a record of 27 victories and four ties as against but 11 defeats. And seven of those losses came in his initial season here, when he took a disorganized lot of boys and won 2 games, tied one, and lost seven.

Since that time, in the past four years, he has won 26, lost six and tied three. A record not equalled by any coach or any team at West High school since the game has been played at the institution.

In out-of-town game—and they have been with the toughest available—Wise has piloted his crews to 11 victories and two defeats, a record unexcelled in Columbus.

Wise is assisted at West by Arthur Buchanan, who has taken charge of the forward wall, and he likewise has done a job worthy of the highest praise.

Hilltoppers Predict

All kinds of predictions were made by various Hilltoppers Friday afternoon in answer to a Record reporter's query concerning the outcome of the championship battle at the stadium today.

F. F. Jack Shank, the most radical prognosticator of them all, said West would win in a walk, while Gene Todd, whose sodas and cholocates are at stake if West should win, predicted a 18 to 7 victory for East.

The following are some of the scores named by localites:

West Launches Brilliant Attack In Second Quarter; Francis Scoring

Ohio Stadium, Saturday, Nov. 18.

The East squad went on the field at 1:30, followed at 1:40 by the West team. The flag was raised while both bands played the Star Spangled banner, by the O. S. U. graduates of East and West.

On the next play Francis fumbled and East recovered on the 30-yard line.

East in three trys gained three yards and Butler's kick went out of bounds on West's 25-yard line. Richards' quick kick was almost blocked but he got it away and Colston was downed on West's 46-yard line. Southworth replaced Slavens for East, Slavens having taken terrific pounding from West's forward wall.

Butler lost one yard in a smash at Deshler. Southworth's kick was taken by Jividen on his own four yard line but the ball was called back and given to East on West's 35-yard line. A pass, Southworth to Butler was complete. West was penalized 15 yards for unnecessary roughness. Another pass Southworth to Reed was good and it was second down on the six-yard line. Slavens' kick was short behind the line. Both teams being offside, the play was called back. Butler kicked out of bounds on West's 36-yard line.

Four Cowboys Land Berths On Record's All-High Team

By John N. Wolfe

Looking back over the past football season in the Columbus scholastic circuit, and considering the campaign on the whole it may be said that the competing squads were considerably weaker than usual, although West, at the present writing with the toughest schedule in its history, proved quite outstanding.

North Was Favorite

North, a pre-season favorite to cop the honting, was soundly trounced by East and South, and was badly outplayed while eking out a 7-6 verdict over West. East, considered by the dopesters to be far below the championship calibre displayed by the 1932 champions, warmed up quickly and ran through the city season in excellent style until encountering a stumbling block in West in their finale.

South, the loop's darkhorse, lived up to its name, presenting a fighting squad and one well versed in defensive play. West, picked by many along with North to be scrapping for the trophy, lost a heartbreaker to the Bears early in the year, but came back with power and deception to wade through all opposition and still contely tie for the title.

Cowboys Have Edge

Despite the fact that there exists a mathematical tie for the champion ship, the Wise coached brigade must be accorded the edge over the co-champs from the East Side, having just this afternoon administered a sound licking to the Webstermen.

Aquinas, as usual, proved to be the league's doormat, and this year, more so than ever. Central, likewise, was weak, but showed an improved game as the season progressed. Neither was ever a serious threat to the preceding quartet.

Individually, only a few sparkling performers shone in the gridiron skies. Generally speaking, however, the all star selection made this year will match those of previous campaigns, but after these have been named, few are left for honorable mention.

Boye Named Captain

In the writer's opinion, two backfielders were outstanding in the campaign. Wiley, of North, with his ability to kick, pass and run, was the highlight of the Polar Bear outfit. But Boye and Francis of West were of greater assistance, though less spectacular. Francis' twirling and twisting gallops, however, were a marvel to behold. He was undoubtedly the most difficult man in the league to bring down, while Wiley was effectively squelched after the West fracas. Nothing in the league compared with Dick's cleverness.

Cliff Boye, West High's signal caller, was even more valuable to his team. The lean jawed Cowboy has shown huge improvement throughout his school career than any senior in the city. His field generalship has been consistently smart; he can hit a horse-collar with the oval at 35 yards; and as a ball toter, he is hard driving and elusive. And to top it all off, Coach Harold Wise has said that Cliff is the best quarterback he ever had. Boye has been named captain.

Slavens, Solomon Named

Rounding out the ball toting quartet are Solomon, South flash, and Slavens, East's backfield mainstay. The South-sider is small, but mighty. His passing, is excelled only by Boye's and he runs well. Slavens, a hard driver, has no equal in the league for obtaining needed yards at critical moments. His work has kept East in the running through the campaign.

It has been a long, long while since so powerful a line and the all-stars composing this year, has been selected. Although excellent linemen were comparatively few, with ends and guards especially conspicuous by their absence, those "on deck" were far above the average in every respect.

Hess, Hayes at Flanks

At the flanks, South's Captain Hess and Hayes of North received the call. Maddix, Central, and Reed, East, both played consistantly, but were by no means matches for the previously mentioned. Hayes, although not spectacular, played hard football through the year. His work in going down under Wiley's punts was especially noteworthy, although his pass receiving cannot be overlooked.

Hess has been the outstanding defensive wingman in the circuit. His work, although constant through the season, was especially outstanding against West. Like his running mate, he made most of the tackles of opposing safety men when South was forced to punt. His work, along with that of Solomon, featured the North-South fracas.

Cowboys Get Call

Although the tackles were most abundant, and most above the average, West High's giants get the call. Michaels and Deshler, both lads tipping the beams at more than 200 pounds, have composed the backbone of a stalwart Cowboy line.

Deshler's work, especially on the offense, has merited him mention for the second straight year. At no time has Deshler found the opposing line impregnable, and West's pony backs have circled the ends and smashed the tackles behind the interference the big fellow formed. And defensively, he has been no sluggard. No team in Dibby's football career, has ever constantly gained through his position.—if they have gained at all.

Captain Michaelis, likewise, has been of tremendous help. His defensive performances have not been matched anywhere in the loop, and Cowboy offensive thrusts also often went through his position. In addition, he has handled the duties of captain flawlessly.

Guards Weak

Despite the fact that one of the finest guards ever to perform in Columbus played out at East this year, the position is the weakest on the team. Maggied, stalwart Tiger forward, had little competition for his job. He was outstanding, and East found he and Ayres, Tiger center, invaluable, especially on the offense. West's Kellar, who performed at the pivot position this year, might well have been named his running mate but not Coach Wise seen fit to shift him from guard to center following the injury to Latham.

Thompson, North, however, gets the call, although Mathews, West, despite his stature, packed a wallop and probably excells the polar bear in many departments of the game. Thompson, however, with his greater weight, probably edges the fighting Cowboy on defensive play.

Ayres at Center

Ayres, East High's brilliant center, stood head and shoulders above the rest of the city's passer backs, although Kellar gave him tooth for tooth and nail for nail in the championship battle. No bad passes have marred the Tiger's record, however, and offensively he was of tremendous help to Bengal backs.

Recapitulating, it is found that North, East and West landed nine on the first squad, with two from South rounding out the eleven. On the second team, West placed four, South three, East two and North two. Aquinas failed to land a player.

In addition, it might be said that the second squad contains several outstanding performers. McQuaid, South, was as fine a tackle as many selected in other years, but the scintillating labors of Deshler and Michaelis deprived him of the call. Kellar, West, was shifted to guard, where he might have landed on the first team had he not been called to center. Wiley of North, was outstanding, but it was due largely to weak North backfielders Jividen too, of West, turned in some excellent games but came to his own too late in the season. His performance in the Central-West game was the best seen by the writer through the entire season.

WEST HIGH COWBOYS

You Played Great Football

The Hilltop Is Proud of the Team and West High School

WEST HIGH FOOTBALL TEAM—We salute you. The 1933 season is over—and a grand season it has been.

You have met the toughest schedule ever played by a Cowboy aggregation, and you have learned that "to take it" is often better than victory. In that respect your season has been a greater success than even your enviable won and lost record.

Coaches Harold Wise and Arthur Buchanan—we're back of you. Your work in the past season with that squad of 44 young men will not be amiss in future years. It takes the kind of stuff you are molding and have molded to build fine communities. To you,—our thanks and our appreciation.

To the 11 graduating seniors, congratulations. Your efforts at West High School will be among your treasured possessions as the years pass. And as time flows on, may you be as successful on the gridiron of life as you have been on the grid of football. May the latter's lessons help you all the way.

The Nature Trail

By JOHN WOLFE

THE AUTUMN SEASON WANES

Just a few Sundays ago, Dick Baesman and the writer rambled down into the heart of the Sugar Grove region in Hocking county. The autumnal coloration of the hills was at the height of its glory, with the scarlet and orange and crimson of the maples, white oaks, and gums, outshining the yellows and browns and russets of the oaks and hickories over the landscape.

The frosty morning was cool and clear and crisp. Far down the valley, town church bells chimed while from bush on the hillside, the song sparrow piped his melody, albeit with not quite the full throatedness of his vernal music. Across the broad stretches of the upper Hocking Valley, a thin, smokey haze hung low, but on the higher hardwood ridges, the colorful landscape stood out in all its matchless splendor.

Then Comes November

Then slowly and imperceptibly, the landscape loses its brilliance, and with the coming of November, the brown fields and the russet and yellow of the upland oak-hickory-chestnut forests dominate the scene. Bony gray skies will hang low over landscape denuded of foliage leaves, for already, when we returned to the region a week later, we shuffled over the woodland floor through a freshly laid carpet of fallen, brown leaves. Every gust of wind brought to the ground another deluge, covering a layer of leaves long since fallen and fast decaying and returning as humus to the soil.

What causes this wonderful autumnal brilliance of leaves and what causes them finally to abscise, or fall to the ground? To crack a popular conception in the head, it is well to state that the coming of frost has very little to do with the whole matter.

Follows Physical Law

As Dr. E. N. Transeau, head of the Botany department, at the Ohio State university, has somewhere stated, all plant processes can be explained by laws of physics. And the coloration and abscission of leaves are, of course, no exceptions.

When we view the great expanse of green landscape in spring and early summer, we are looking at a potentially brilliant fall scene. For in every leaf, hidden by the deep green of the chlorophyll, are two other pigments, yellow (xanthophyll) and orange (carotin). When Photosynthesis ceases as the summer passes, and no more chlorophyll is manufactured, the yellow and orange pigment begin to show up. The reds and crimsons and scarlets, also, that we see in the autumn, is due to the presence of a red pigment (anthocyan), developed in the leaf in the greatest abundance in bright sunshine and moderate temperatures.

Where's Jack Frost?

The startling fact is, that the occurrence of frost early in the season will diminish the array of red in the landscape. This fall, in the Hocking region, long before the first frost has made its appearance, the landscape formed a vast panorama of crimson and orange and yellow.

What then, you may well ask, causes the process of photosynthesis to cease? This too, generally attributed to the action of frost, is subject to a multiplicity of factors, the most important of which are the decreased light intensity, shortening length of day, and factors.

The Fall of the Leaves

The coming of frost may cause leaves to fall, but it is not necessary. In the development of a leaf, there is formed at the base of the stem a layer known as the abscission layer." This is made up of many cells, and when these break down and separate, the leaf falls from the tree.

After this layer has been formed, and it may develop in a few weeks or a few months, there are many factors which may cause it to disintegrate, the most important of which are the decreased light intensity, shortening length of day, low temperatures and a disturbance of the water relation between soil and plant.

And so, we find that "Jack Frost" and his proverbial "paint brush" should quickly be relegated to the limbo of forgotten things. Indeed, he has been given too much credit for the season's matchless beauty already. I suspect, however, that he'll be a hard chap to eliminate from the minds of many.

Speaker Gives Parents Rules

Mr. McMillan at John Burroughs P.-T. A. Tells How to Help Child Succeed in School.

D. L. McMillan, speaker at the John Burroughs' P.-T. A. program during Education Week at the school last Friday, gave visiting parents 13 rules which, if kept, would assist in causing the child to succeed in school.

His suggestions follow:

Arrange the breakfast and lunch hours so that there is no rushing at home or to home.

See that the children are dressed simply, neatly, modestly and in accordance with the weather.

Insist upon children under 14 having at least ten hours of sleep.

Find out how much time should be devoted to home work and see that it is done.

Provide a quiet place for home study with good light and ventilation. Prevent interruptions as far as possible.

Show an interest in the children's school work, athletics and other activities.

Visit the classroom during American Education Week and at other times for a better understanding of conditions.

Do not criticise the teachers or school at all within the children's hearing. Always hear both sides of every question and ask the teacher about it.

Instill in the children habits of obedience and respect for authority.

Picture the school as a happy, desirable place rather than one which children should dread.

Keep in mind that the school offers unlimited opportunities to those who take advantage of them, parents as well as pupils.

Plan to meet other parents in the school. It will help you understand your children better. Mothers should arouse the interest of fathers in the school activities and get their cooperation.

Midget Gridders In Tie with Southerners

Fail On Lone Chance to Break Deadlock.

Hilltop lowrun gridders remained in a tie with South for third place in the midget football loop Saturday morning when they were unable to gain on Gladale field and fought it out to a scoreless tie.

Both squads had opportunities to tally, but failed to score in an effort. South's chance slipped by when a 40-yard gain via the air route took the oval to the Hilltopper 20. The Southerners made a first down, but then lost when four attempts at the line produced nothing. At the third period, Casey's lads took the ball to the Hilltop 20, but were held and lost the ball on downs.

Gruschel, Yeager and Emory played best for the Hilltoppers.

Pennell Named

Don C. Pennell, 450 Nashoba Ave., was appointed deputy grand chancellor of Franklin county by Harvey H. Snyder of Cleveland, Ohio, grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, last week, according to an announcement.

THANKSGIVING!

Through the years certain traditions have grown up around the Thanksgiving feast. To be really authentic turkey should form the center of the menu. Turkey, golden brown, pithiscrisp skin covering, tender, succulent meats. Turkey, golden brown, with its crisp skin covering, tender, succulent. Then, of course, there should be cranberry jelly, sweet and Irish potatoes, a green vegetable, a salad and final touch—pilace or pumpkin pie.

SOME GOOD THINGS FOR THE HOLIDAYS

With these foods as a sort of basis for the arrangement of your meal, you may prove your versatility by introducing the dishes served in new and different guises, while still keeping to the tradition of the Thanksgiving dinner.

Usually Thanksgiving means guests and guests mean extra preparation, extra care that everything should be at its best. And in order to accomplish this happy end it's absolutely essential that the day should be planned—from start to finish. A week before the wise hostess will go through her linen supply and see that the best damask cloth is fresh and clean, the napkins, counted, folded and in order. She will count her silver and see that it is polished. Goblets should be counted so that any additions may be made in a leisurely way. The day before flowers should be ordered. And the day before that market lists made out and checked against supplies on hand.

There are so many items that go to make up the menu that may be prepared beforehand so that the day itself will find the kitchen well organized and efficient in operation.

If you plan to serve cranberry jelly in fifth individual moulds you may prepare them a day or two in advance. Or you may serve slices of a very excellent jelly that is to be had ready prepared.

The day before Thanksgiving the turkey should be prepared and put away in the refrigerator but not stuffed until the morning of the feast. The dressing, however, may be prepared and put away in a bowl in the refrigerator. Giblets may be cooked and ground so that they may be added to the gravy at the last minute. Molded salads are easily prepared in advance. Pies may be made—and, if mince pie is your choice for dessert, that may be popped into the oven and heated just long enough before dinner to allow for cooling.

Celery may be cut and cleaned and wrapped with lettuce leaves in a moist cloth. Then in the morning you will be ready to stuff the turkey—put it to roasting and clear the decks for the preparation of potatoes and green vegetables. It's not difficult, really, when you plan ahead. The menu for a typical Thanksgiving dinner follows:

Fruit Cup
Celery Curls Olives Pearl Onions
Roast Turkey with Dressing
Giblet Gravy
Mashed Potatoes
Carmelized Sweet Potatoes
Cauliflower Holiday Salad
Cranberry Jelly
Finger Rolls Mince Pie
Coffee

Fruit Cup

Peel and remove segments of oranges, seed and halve green grapes, peel and remove segments of grapefruit, dice bananas and combine. Let stand in refrigerator until thoroughly chilled and serve in glass cups with mint leaves.

Oyster Dressing for Turkey

Four cups bread (softened), 8 tablespoons melted butter, onion juice, 2 tablespoons poultry seasoning, red pepper, 1½ dozen oysters and liquid. Mix the bread after it has been softened in water and lightly squeezed out with melted butter. Season to taste, being sure to add a dash of red pepper. Add the oysters and use enough of the liquid to make the dressing the proper consistency.

Carmelized Sweet Potatoes

One dozen small sweet potatoes boiled until tender. Peel and cut in halves and arrange in shallow baking dish. Boil one cup of water and one pint of brown sugar together for 10 minutes, then add one tablespoon butter. Sprinkle salt and cinnamon over the potatoes then pour the syrup over and bake in a moderate oven until brown.

Holiday Salad

First Layer:
1 tablespoon gelatine.
1-3 cup cold water.
1 cup seasoned strained tomato juice.
Second Layer:
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatine.
1-3 cup cold water.
1 cup boiling water.
2 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice.
1 tablespoon sugar.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 cup finely shredded cabbage.
¼ cup finely shredded green pepper.
½ cup finely cut celery.

Soak the gelatine for the first layer in cold water five minutes. Add seasoned tomato juice puree, and stir until mixed. Pour into a small square or loaf pan and chill until firm. Pour over this the second layer, made as follows: soak the gelatine in cold water five minutes, add the boiling water and stir until mixed. Season with the vinegar or lemon juice, sugar and salt. Cool, add the shredded cabbage, pepper and celery. Pour over the tomato gelatine mixture. Chill until both layers are firm. Cut into squares and serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise.

Finger Rolls

6 to 6½ cups flour, sifted.
2 cakes compressed yeast.
2 cups milk, scalded and cooled.
3 teaspoons salt.
¼ cup shortening.
¼ cup sugar.
2 eggs.

Dissolve yeast in luke warm milk and stir well. Add sugar, beaten eggs, salt and half the flour. Mix well and add the melted butter. Beat and add balance of flour or enough to make a soft dough. Turn out on floured board and knead into a smooth dough. Place in greased bowl. Cover, let rise to double bulk. Knead and let rise 45 minutes. Pinch off pieces of dough size of small egg. Roll until round. Then roll with hand on board until 2½ inches long. Place 1 inch apart on well greased pan. Brush with melted butter, let rise until double in bulk. Brush with melted butter, bake 20 to 25 minutes. When done brush with melted butter.

Stone Jar Molasses Cookies

2¼ cups sifted flour.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
1½ teaspoons ginger.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 cup molasses.
½ cup butter or other shortening.
2 teaspoons soda.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, ginger, and salt, and sift again. Heat molasses, remove from fire; add shortening and soda. Add flour gradually. Chill. Roll very thin on slightly floured board. Cut with floured cooky cutter. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 10 minutes. Remove from pan carefully. Cool. Store in stone jar. Makes 3½ dozen cookies.

World's Reformation Department To A Miner's Son of Eisleben

Prominent people often spring from obscure origin. The four hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the birth of Dr. Martin Luther (Nov. 10th) reminds all Protestant Christendom of Thomas Carlyle's observation on the great reformer's humble beginning. "There was not in all the world a more entirely unimportant looking pair of individuals than that miner and his wife. Yet what were all kings, popes and potentates in comparison? Here was born once more a mighty man whose light was to stream as a beacon over long centuries and epochs of the world. The whole world and its history was waiting for that man."

The contributions of this man to a waiting world have made the world of all time his debtor. Foremost among Luther's services was the placing of the Open Bible into the hands of the people, which is the inalienable right of every human soul to have. Associate Justice Strong, of the United States Supreme Court traces the enjoyment of political liberty, a highly prized privilege of our American democracy, to this Open Bible gift of Luther in the words, "Luther can be regarded as the author of the civil liberty that is enjoyed today. He translated the Bible into the German language, and spread before his countrymen the ethics and principles underlying religion and freedom of life. From the hour that this publication was made, civil liberty sprang into birth, and became a possibility for men." Little wonder that Kaulbach's great painting, "Progress of Civilization," puts Luther's colossal figure towering above the world's thinkers, scientists, diplomats and leaders. His SPIRITUAL reformation's influence has permeated many fields, including education, social science and politics. Every time one finds consolation, inspiration and blessing in Bible reading one stands indebted to the miner's son of Eisleben, Wittenberg and Worms. How fitting the words of John Jay of "Jay's Treaty" fame, "Luther is the chief figure in an historic picture which will be contemplated by the thoughtful of all lands to the end of time."

Special recognition of this quadrennary was given at the morning service at St. John Lutheran church, Sunday at ten thirty o'clock. Luther's reformation battle hymn, "A Tower of Strength Our God Is Still," will be the hymn study for the evening service at seven-thirty o'clock.

The LOOKOUT

'ROUND ABOUT THE HILLTOP

Ralph Smith, one of my favorite people. . . . (Wonder where that guy gets all the names?) Listen people! It's tough. Here's one way. There's a girl across the aisle. I think she went to school when I did. I nudge the guy next to me. "Whatsername?" I whisper. And he, thinking the wrong thots, gives her the once over and at the same time laughs aloud at me—so she gives us both the dirty glare. Yep, it actually happened and all I wanted was an item for here. So I got a paragraph. . . . Yeah, the guy that stayed home Sunday night a week ago was bob Baesa—aw shucks, guess I won't give it away. . . . Bill Pearch, a charter member of the AAPO was in town two wks. back. Tough luck, girls! Was afraid to announce it while he was here. . . . It happened so suddenly. And I was minding my own biz. Out of the house, two steps at a time, dashed a blonde bundle of spitfire. "Why?!.$%&," she cried, "Just why did you tell Mary's husband that stuff!" Ouch! I drew a deep breath and stood on one foot, swinging the other listlessly, getting ready to run. "I got the dickens from her for telling it," she continued, "and I didn't have anything to do with it. Mary told Jane and Jane told Aunt Alzada and she told me and I told mother and mother told Mrs. Smith, and I don't know how it got out from there!" Gosh, Sunshine, neither do I. It surely must have been a secret. . . . That insurance prayer the preacher sometimes says in church—about catastrophies, famine, fire and water, disaster, disease. . . . That first F in F. F. (Jack) Shunk's name stands for Frits. . . . Add quotations: "When I get mad, I cry." Mollie Scheler. . . . "So do I, but douche dare print it." Millie, the coke maker. . . . Ed Johnson's middle moniker is Okey and Ohio separates Jim from Mathews. . . . And another quot: "I been pretty busy lately!" Tom Zeikof, the newlywed. . . .

TO THE FOOTBALL TEAM:
Letter No. 2

Some of you have said that Letter No. 1 was truthful in every respect. It needn't be repeated. And it needn't be said that it was a bold lie, just to get you fighting mad for an important event. You know that such was not the case.

You won a football game last Saturday at the Ohio Stadium. You played a grand game—you, Beschler, your work this writer has never seen matched in five years watching high school football; you, Mike and Dibby, as you roared "they shall not pass," without ever uttering a word; you Richards, with brilliant kicking; you, Jividen, Boye and Francis, with fighting team-work; you, Kellar and Mathews, fighting bigger men—but not better; you Focht and Hoffman, with silent but determined action.

Rumor tells us that someone predicted before the battle that victory would furnish food for conversation for 20 years. Listen gentlemen, something happened last week that you can use for 20 years or even more—not talk about, mind you—but use the rest of your life, but it was not the victory in the football game. It was another victory, one of which to be even prouder. It was that Swashbuckling trouncing you gave to your own conceit and pride and selfishness. We all have it, gentlemen, but most of us can't lick it like you did. You might forget that victory, but it will never forget you. You'll carry that mark to the graveyard. If Thor can down such fellows as you.

So, I say you'll not be talking of that football game very long. Such men as are able to master those little things that eat them away, DO THINGS. And men that do things haven't the time to talk 20 years.

You have thrown the thing that almost licked you for a loss. You CAN sit down and talk, and let the old rascal catch up again. But you have proved to your coach, to your school and to your community, that you are better men than that. They'll expect all you're capable of in the future.

So, congratulations, gentlemen. You've earned the right to tell somebody else to polish the trophy. We're glad, however, to string along with a TEAM that discovered itself in time to BEAT

Cowboy Cagers To Start Rehearsals This Afternoon

Hardcourt Activities Get Under Way As Championship Celebration Reaches High Mark

The first call for basketball candidates at West High was issued by Coach Wise yesterday and one of the largest turn-outs in Cowboy cage history greeted the Buff and Brown mentor.

Four veterans from last year's quintet will be available for duty this year, but highly touted material coming from West Jr. high may press the regulars for berths, according to information available this week.

Cage Schedule Set

After several revisions, the 1933-34 scholastic basketball schedule has finally been arranged and according to information from local officials this week, the Cowboys will inaugurate their league season at Central, Jan. 9. The initial league game on the home hardwood is scheduled for Jan. 12, with South as the opposing team.

Feb. 23—North away
Feb 27—East here
Mar. 2—Aquinas away

Three pre-season games have been scheduled with out-of-town opponents, and at least two other open dates will be filled in the near future, it was indicated by Coach Wise last week. Marietta will be played Dec. 8, with Zanesville and Newark as opponents Dec. 15 and 16 respectively.

Announcements of other banquets are slated to be forthcoming within the near future, with a victory dance also in the making sometime before Thanksgiving.

Boye Named Captain

Monday afternoon, on the West field, the Cowboys went through a regular gridiron rehearsal before the eyes of a moving picture camera. A reel and a half was snapped of the boys with another session scheduled for the first day of fair weather making its appearance.

Blair Named

Cliff Boye, West Field Leader, Named Captain of Record's All High Gridiron Selections

Four Cowboys Land Berths On Record Eleven; Beachler's Performances in Final Games Praised; McQuaid Also Lauded.

Nineteen thirty-three's scholastic gridiron campaign, just completed, has for the most part, run true to predictions, with the West High Cowboys and East Tigers sharing title honors, although the former squad administered a sound trouncing to the men of Webster less than a week ago.

Individually, the season was productive of fewer stars than usual. However, 1933's All-High teams are stronger in almost every respect, than teams of other years.

Boye Named Captain

In the writer's opinion, two backfielders were outstanding in the campaign: Wiley, of North, with his ability to kick, pass and run, was the highlight of the Polar Bear outfit. But Boye and Francis, of West were of greater assistance, though less spectacular. Francis' twirling and twisting gallops, however, were a marvel to behold. He was undoubtedly the most difficult man in the league to bring down, while Wiley was effectively squelched after the West fracas. Nothing in the league compared with Dick's elusiveness.

Cliff Boye, West High's signal caller, was even more valuable to his team. The lean jawed Cowboy has shown more improvement through his scholastic career than any scolor in the city. His field generalship has been consistantly great. He can hit a horse-collar with the oval at 35 yards; and as a ball toter, he is hard driving and elusive. And to top it all off, Coach Harold Wise has said that Cliff is the best quarterback he ever had. Boye has been named captain.

Slavens, Solomon Named

Rounding out the ball toting quartet are Solomon, South's flash, and Slavens, East's backfield mainstay. The Southsider is small, but mighty. His passing, is excelled only by Boye's and he runs well. Slavens, a hard driver, has no equal in the league for obtaining needed yards at critical moments. His work has kept East in the running through the campaign.

It has been a long, long while since as powerful a line as the all-stars compose this year, has been selected. Although excellent linemen were comparatively few, with ends and guards especially conspicuous by their absence, those "on deck" were far above the average in every respect.

Hess, Hayes at Flanks

At the flanks, South's Captain Hess and Hayes of North received the call. Maddix, Central, and Reed, East, both played consistantly, but were by no means matches for the previously mentioned. Hayes, although not spectacular, played hard football through the year. His work in going down under Wiley's punts was especially noteworthy, although his pass receiving cannot be overlooked.

Hess has been the outstanding defensive wingman in the circuit. His work, although constant through the season, was especially outstanding against West. Like his running mate, he made most of the tackles of opposing safety men when South was forced to punt. His work, along with that of Solomon, featured the North-South fracas.

Beschler, West, was probably the finest wingman in the loop when the curtain was rung down on the season, but his play in the campaign's earlier battles was by no means comparable with his efforts toward the end. Beschler, in the East game, turned in the best end play ever watched by this writer.

Howard Gibson

According to the present plans, representatives of the various classes will act in the capacity of sub-chairman and will be responsible for contacting new members for the association. Practically all classes now have representatives and attended Wednesday's meeting. An excellent winter program is being outlined by the executive committee at the present time, the first activity of which will be a victory dance at the school gymnasium Tuesday evening, Nov. 28, from 8 until 11 o'clock.

Community Dance

The dance, according to plans made by the Council Monday, will be open to the entire community, with admission set at 15 cents per person and 25 cents per couple. The football team will be honored at that time.

The annual alumni-varsity basketball game was also scheduled, the date being set for the evening of Dec. 22. There will also be a dance following the game and paid-up members of the association will be admitted free of charge.

The membership drive will end with this affair. Mr. Gibson appointed Jack Felty, Kenneth Morris, Newton Case and W. E. Ferguson as sub-chairmen on the membership committee. One thousand members has been set as the goal of the organization.

Alumni of the school desiring membership may contact a member of the committee and upon payment of the yearly dues of 50 cents will receive the membership card.

She will also briefly relate some of the horrors of Russia as she knows them.

There will be a brief period when she will answer questions from the audience about Russian religion. Following her talk the pastor, Rev. S. Talmage Magann, will give a brief sermon on "America's Opportunity with Russia." The cello soloist of the evening will be Mrs. Edith Zeikof.

Local Bantams In Season's Finale

The Hilltop Bantam weight grid team closed its 1933 football campaign Saturday morning on the McKinley Avenue gridiron by bowing to the champion St. Clair Juniors by a score of 12 to 0.

It was the second consecutive title captured by the winners who had things pretty much their own way throughout the battle, although the Casey-coached squad turned in a fighting brand of ball.

BETTER LIGHT BETTER SIGHT

It may be JUST THE LIGHT

Do they frown when they play bridge in your living room? Then put back the smiles with good lighting that lights their cards and not their faces. For that's the rule of good lighting for every room in every house.

In the dining room, good lighting falls on the table and all eyes are comfortable. At the working space in the kitchen you are never in your own light. And as you dress good light is so placed that you can see both sides of your face at the same time.

Take a look at your lighting tonight. Put in the lights you need for good lighting—keep plenty of "spares" on hand—and don't frown.

Interest High In Church Cage Loop

Thirteen Teams Start Preparations for Season; League May Be Divided.

The West Church basketball league organization started off with a bang at the Glenwood Shelter House last week when 13 managers indicated that as many teams would be in the running for the 1933-34 trophy.

This is the largest number of squads ever to enter the loop and it was intimated at the recreation department Wednesday of this week that two circuits may be organized to accommodate all comers. There is room, however, for more squads, according to Leo Lahill. Managers of teams are asked to get in touch with him at once.

The final meeting before the opening of the season on Tuesday, Dec. 19, will be held at the Glenwood Shelter House on Dec. 5. All managers are requested to be present.

Interest in the intermediate teams, unlike that in the senior section, has dwindled, according to reports. Only two teams have thus far entered. It was also reported that junior teams may enter a league, games to be played on Saturdays, for a fee of one dollar.

Tramp athletes were also hit by the recreation department officials. The rule regarding eligibility was changed and an athlete playing with one church is not eligible to participate in athletics at another church for a period of 15 months.

The following churches will enter teams in the senior circuit according to recreation department officials: West gate Evangelical, Burgess U. B., Hillcrest Baptist (two teams), Glenwood M. E., West Park M. E., Gift St. M. E., Holy Family, Avondale U. B., Hilltonia U. B., Hoge Memorial Presbyterian and Calvary Presbyterian.

The PEOPLES COLUMN

AN OBSERVATION

To The Editor:

On the evening of November ninth (9), I attended a program of the P. T. A. at John Burroughs School Auditorium where they had arranged a very excellent program. But before time for the program to start every available seat was taken and people were standing around the room. No body took the trouble to close the doors leading in from the hallway. More people came and even though there was no chance to see or hear what was going on they stood in or near the doors and proceeded to visit. Children were allowed to slide up and down the halls and make any amount of noise and the people in the auditorium, forty (40) feet from the stage had great difficulty in hearing the entertainment or the speaker.

After the entertainment feature was over a very capable and interesting speaker was introduced for a short talk but people immediately began to move about, seeing the entertainment was about over. Many even got up and left, regardless of the speaker's feelings or those of the people who wanted to hear what was being said.

In a few days I attended another P. T. A. meeting, this time in the West High school building. I am a member of this organization and after two interesting hours with the pupils in the various class rooms everyone, including the students gathered in the auditorium for the P. T. A. meeting. The officers who conducted this meeting chose to stand over on one side of the room, down in front instead of on the stage. I sat in the third row of the balcony on the other side of the house and could hear no one but the president and not enough of his talk for me to have much of an idea of what was going on. The students in the upper balcony were noisy and restless. After some music, came the speaker of the evening to talk on Girl Scouting. I hear a small part of what she said but the same thing was happening that took place at the other school, people were moving about, talking or leaving. Doors slammed, some women near by visited and laughed — not silently either, they allowed their three children to laugh and disturb everyone. I would have left if I had not considered such action an unpardonable discourtesy.

It seems to me that the people of these two schools should appreciate the opportunity of attending these meetings and of attentively listening to programs which are planned to be educational as well as entertaining. Do people not know that it is very discourteous to deliberately get up and leave the room while a speaker is talking? Perhaps they are just looking for free entertainment or think they know enough. But there are many that come to hear and to learn and to cooperate with our schools in this splendid organization. If you do not like the program don't walk out, stay, and at the end of the meeting make it a point to see the program chairman and tell them so, and make suggestions freely.

Just a word to those who plan the programs. Get speakers to talk on subjects that are of interest to all of the audience and speakers whose voices can be heard all over the room. Announce the speaker and the topic in some way before the meeting.

Yours for cooperation,

Young People Will Give "Little Women"

"Little Women," a four act play taken from Louisa Alcott's novel of the same name, will be presented by the young people of the Glenwood M. E. church under the direction of Miss Margaret Huffman, Friday evening, Dec. 1, at 8 o'clock.

Special music for the play will be furnished by the church orchestra under the direction of Mrs. Phillip Johnson.

Crow Must Be Controlled To Save Wildlife

Farmers and sportsmen throughout the United States and Canada are begging relief from the enormously increased ranks of the crow, according to a bulletin of the American Game Association.

Approximately 90 per cent of the farmers and ALL of the hunters declare that the crow is a sinner of the first rank, practicing his depredations upon crops, domestic fowl and wild life; a few of the farmers declare him a saint. But all agree that his numbers have increased greatly. Some estimate a hundred fold increase, and seek relief from his frequent raids.

Officials of the American Game association point out that the crow should be brought under control, but not exterminated, and they are advocating crow trapping and shooting under the supervision of experienced and responsible persons.

The crow, it is estimated, destroyed more than 30 per cent of the duck hatch in the Canadian breeding grounds last summer; some farmers said that he destroyed nine out of ten duck nests" they had under observation.

The crow is a wise old fellow, and he seems to fear only the owl, accredited with being wiser, and this leads to his downfall. Numbers of crows will "gang" an owl and try to drive him out of the vicinity, so hunters have found that the use of a live owl or even a stuffed one, acts as an excellent decoy for crow shooting, officials of the association declare.

Another good method of attracting crows is to call them with a crow call; they will come in to the calls if they are well imitated.

Traps of various kinds have been found effective, but usually require days of toiling the crow in with a train of grain.

THE NEW DEAL

We are loyal to the New Deal, but sometimes we cannot help wondering "Whither are we drifting?"

We realize that things were in a desperate condition when President Roosevelt took charge of the Ship of State and something desperate had to be done. Everybody rejoiced when the president immediately began to do things.

Most of us didn't understand what most of the things meant but we said we were with the president anyway and we have been hoping and praying ever since that he would bring us out of the fog. We are still hoping, but our bewilderment seems to grow denser as the days go by. We know we are on the way, but will someone please tell us where we are going to land.

Here are a few of the things that puzzle our feeble brain, the New Deal, among other things, was to raise farm prices and pull the farmer out of the hole. But the crops are harvested and on the market—hogs are selling at $4.00 per hundred, wheat at 80 cents per bushel and corn at 35 cents, and other farm crops below cost of production. Can't see how that is going to get him out.

The New Deal was supposed to bring the price paid the producer and the cost to the consumer nearer together. Well, the farmer pays for his land and cows, and tax on both, does all the work of caring for cows and milk, pays interest on his investment and sells the milk for four cents a quart, we pay nine cents for that quart the next morning. Something wrong there!

Millions have no money to buy clothing and must be clothed by the government, so we pay the cotton planters to plow under the cotton. Millions have no meat, so the government slaughters the little pigs. Millions have no bread, so the government hires the farmer to raise less wheat. Maybe you know the answer, we don't. Oh, yes, this is going to raise farm prices. But it doesn't! Farm prices are lower than they were three months ago.

Then there is the gyrations of the American dollar. We had always been told that business prosperity rested on sound money and that we should be proud of Uncle Sam's dollar which was worth its face in any part of the earth, but now its value has been beaten down to sixty cents—not by its enemies, but by our own government. What does it mean? Well, the treasury expert who resigned the other day, says it means ruin.

Then Postmaster General Farley told us if we would repeal Prohibition the liquor traffic would yield such a large revenue that the government could easily balance the budget. Now we are told it will not do to put a heavy tax on liquor as it would encourage the bootlegger—strange they didn't think of that sooner!

Surely that budget is beginning to need balancing. How many people realize that the public debt of the United States has increased over six billion dollars in the last eight months—twice as much as the cost of the Civil War? Who is going to pay and when?

These are only a few of the things that worry our poor brain. We are not knocking, we are boosting, but we would like to see daylight.

THE OHIO STATE LIBRARY

The people of Columbus are unusually favored in their access to good reading material. It may be a surprise to many to learn that there are almost a million books in the public libraries in this city. Cleveland has the largest city library in the state, but Columbus has free access to three large libraries. The State University has about two hundred and fifty thousand volumes in the main library and its sub divisions. While these books are primarily for the use of the students and teachers in the university, books can easily be obtained by any citizen interested in the study of any special subject. Probably this is the most carefully selected library in the state.

The Columbus City Library owes much to the generosity of Andrew Carnegie. The beautiful building at the head of State street was donated by the steel millionaire, but the canny Scotchman was careful to bind the city to forever support the library so we have the large main library and numerous branch libraries scattered throughout the city.

The Hilltop people are especially interested in the branch library on Hague avenue just north of Broad. Unfortunately this library is open only half time due to the economy program of the city government, but whenever it is open the reading room is crowded with eager readers, both adults and children. Since the city is spending millions to give work to the unemployed, why could not a few of these people be employed to keep these libraries open full time?

The schools have a large central library at the main office on State street and small libraries at the various school buildings but of course, these books are to be used by the school children.

Strange as it may seem, the largest library in the city is probably the least known by the people of the city. There are thousands of people in Columbus who do not know that the State Library is located in the city, that it contains three hundred thousand volumes, which any citizen of the state is entitled to use.

The State Library is divided into two divisions, the main and the traveling libraries. The main library has been located in the Capitol since that building was erected until this summer when it was moved to the State Office building. It contains the best known works of fiction and an immense amount of reference material in history, art, sociology, travel, pedagogy, mythology, and collected statistics.

Its collection of state, county and city histories is the best as much as three hundred years old. These books are loaned two weeks at a time, or can be read at the library.

The traveling division, which until recently has been located in the Lutheran building on Main street, contains about one hundred and twenty thousand books which have been selected for use in schools and clubs. They include works of fiction, history, biography, travel, etc.

This library sends about sixty thousand books each year to schools, clubs, granges and various public organizations. These books are specially valuable to the schools in the poorer sections of the state as they are about the only reference material these schools have. The only cost to the schools is the transportation.

The State Library was organized in 1817 under the administration of Gov. Worthington. Most of the governors have supported the library and shown a friendly interest but Gov. Donahey vetoed the appropriation and tried to close it but was not able to do so.

The library is under the control of a board appointed by the governor, of which the state school superintendent is ex-officio chairman. This indicates that the plan is to make the library a part of the educational system of the state. Unfortunately the library has never been placed under the civil service system and the librarian is usually a politician.

The entire library is now housed in the State Office building and it is hoped that it will become a great aid to our public school [illegible]

K. W. STOVER of the U. S. S. New York is said to be the only enlisted man in the American navy who sports a beard. This distinction may account for his grin when the camera man caught him in San Francisco recently.

Knowledge, Intelligence Have Different Meaning

A great many people confuse knowledge with intelligence, both in the use and the meaning of these terms. There is a distinction, however, that is worth consideration. Knowledge is something you acquire. There are as many sorts of knowledge as there are things to learn. In other words, knowledge is the thing you require before you use your intelligence.

Intelligence is of two kinds—native and acquired. When a psychologist uses the term intelligence he usually has in mind that inherited ability which amounts to a power to use knowledge. Acquired intelligence is the kind you have in mind when you say, "Knowledge is power." For practical purposes one need not distinguish between knowledge and acquired intelligence.

One might make the distinction between knowledge and intelligence in another way. Knowledge is the raw material of mental life. Intelligence is the machinery that puts this raw material to work. The really intelligent person is the one who knows the uses of knowledge. In still other words, knowledge is the stuff out of which achievement is made, while intelligence is the ability to make achievement possible.—Washington Star.

On Wings

By ETHEL TITUS WORTHEN

All day, while washing or ironing clothes;
Sweeping and dusting and mending hose;
Her thoughts are winging their way on high,
To lofty heights, near a calm blue sky,
As her hands keep busy, her heart sings—
And somehow brightens the common things.

When all the tasks are done for the day
And evening draws its curtains of gray,
The night kiss given; and prayers are said,
And each little one tucked into bed,
She will soar away to some high crest—
And pause there awhile to dream . . . and rest.

Wyatt Millikin Is Champ Forecaster

Wyatt Millikin, city councilman and proprietor of the Millikin Hardware Store, turned in the most accurate prediction of any of the 41 Hilltoppers to make a pre-game statement as to the final result. His score of 18-6, West, missed the actual 10-6 count by one point.

E. O. Melvin, another Hardware Store proprietor, was second best, his 21-7 prediction missing the score by three points. Dr. E. L. Sultzberger, optician and jeweler, rated third, missing by five points. His prediction was 14-6.

Tommy Carskadon, of Neat Cleaners, who picked East to win, 14-0, was the most mistaken of the lot, his prediction missing by 27 points.

Cigarets Have Been Used Over One Hundred Years

The cigaret is 100 years old, but the conditions of its birth are so obscure that the world is not celebrating its centennial.

Like many another famous invention, the cigaret's creation was due to an accident. The generally accepted story is that it was born in 1832, during the siege of Saint Jean d'Arc by the soldiers of Ibrahim Pasha, viceroy of Egypt.

Legend says that the Egyptian soldiers were faced by an emergency. A camel caravan had brought a great quantity of Turkish tobacco, but another caravan loaded with pipes had been captured by the Turks. The soldiers had plenty of tobacco and wanted to smoke, but in the absence of pipes, were obliged to find a substitute.

An officer solved the problem by rolling a pinch of tobacco in a piece of tissue paper and enjoyed the smoke. The news spread over the camp and those who could not find tissue paper used a type of India paper.

The French tobacco monopoly administration, without verifying that picturesque legend admits that the cigaret came to Europe from the Near East, carried back by navigators. As far as France is concerned, the oldest official document is an order signed by Louis-Philippe on October 22, 1843, which authorizes the royal factory to manufacture cigarets.—Detroit Free Press.

PASTRIES ARE WELCOME COLD WEATHER DESSERTS

Topped with golden crust and filled with fruit or delectable products of the skilled pastry cook's art—pie makes a bid for autumn popularity. It's a bid that's certain not to go unheeded if any of the following recipes are used. They are varied enough to appeal to varying tastes. Test them out and find your family's favorite.

Raisin Pie

½ cup sugar.
2 cups seeded raisins.
1½ cups boiling water.
½ level teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind.
3 tablespoons lemon juice.
3 tablespoons orange juice.
1 tablespoon grated orange rind.
2 tablespoons cornstarch.
½ cup walnut meats.

Cook raisins in boiling water for five minutes, pour in sugar and cornstarch which have been mixed together. Cook until thick. Remove from fire, add other ingredients and bake between crusts.

Date Pecan Pie

One cup corn syrup, three tablespoons sugar, three tablespoons flour, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, three tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon vanilla, two eggs, one cup broken pecan meats, one cup chopped dates. Mix corn syrup with sugar, flour, salt, cinnamon, melted butter and vanilla. Add well-beaten egg yolks, fold in beaten egg whites, pastry shells and bake about fifteen minutes in a hot oven. Reduce temperature and cook until done.

Cream Pie

Scald one cup of milk, add one cup of sugar and one-eighth teaspoon salt. Mix two teaspoons of corn starch with a little cold milk; add to the scalding milk, stirring constantly. Cook until smooth; then pour on two well-beaten eggs mixed with a cup of cream. Pour into a pastry-lined tin and sprinkle with cinnamon. Bake until firm in the center. Remove at once from the oven and serve cold.

Pineapple Pie

Heat one and one-half cups of rich milk, mix with one-half cup sugar, a pinch of salt and two tablespoons of cornstarch. Cook until smooth and thick and the starch is thoroughly cooked. Pour over two egg yolks lightly beaten and return to the fire to cook about three minutes. Cool, add one cup of drained crushed pineapple, one-half teaspoon of vanilla. Pour into a baked pastry shell, cover with meringue and brown in a moderate oven.

Cherry Pie

1 can unsweetened cherries.
1 cup sugar.
6 teaspoons cornstarch.
½ teaspoon lemon extract.
1 teaspoon butter.
Pinch of salt.
The pastry is made with ½ cup lard.
1 cup flour.
½ teaspoon salt and
1 3 cup ice water.

Drain juice from cherries and place sugar into which cornstarch and salt has been mixed. Take from fire, add it over the fire. When it boils add butter and pour over cherries. When filling is cooling, make pastry by sifting flour and salt, add lard to two-thirds of the flour and mix with fork until well blended; add rest of flour, working in until light and flaky. Add ice water. Roll thin and handle as little as possible. Bake in hot oven until nicely brown.

Cottage Cheese Pie

1¼ cups cottage cheese.
2 eggs, separated.
1-3 cup sugar.
2 tablespoons cornstarch.
¼ teaspoon salt.
2-3 cup thick sour milk.
½ teaspoon nutmeg.
1 teaspoon lemon juice.
3 tablespoons melted lard.

Press cheese through sieve. Beat egg yolks, sugar, cornstarch and salt together with rotary egg beater. Heat in sour milk, gradually till mixture is light and smooth. Then blend in cheese and nutmeg. Add lard. Add lemon juice and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Line a pie plate with pastry. Brush with melted butter. Pour in filling. Bake in a hot oven. Test filling with a silver knife—when it is set the knife will come out clean. Cool and serve.

Deep-dish Apple Pie

½ cup sugar.
3 cups apples.
1 cup crumbled butter crackers.
1-3 cup butter.
1 pkg. cream cheese.
¼ teaspoon salt.
½ cup cream.
½ teaspoon nutmeg.

Reserve one tablespoon of sugar for crust and mix remainder with apples, peeled and sliced, add nutmeg. Put in shallow buttered dish. Mix crackers (about twenty rolled fine) with softened butter and one tablespoon sugar and spread mixture in an even layer over the apples. Cover and bake in a hot oven until apples are tender, about thirty minutes. Uncover, brown lightly, garnish with cheese blended with cream.

Custard Pie

Make a rich pie pastry, enough to line a baking pan. Make a custard from the following: four eggs slightly beaten; one-half cup sugar; one-fourth teaspoon salt; one quart scalding hot milk; one teaspoon vanilla flavoring. Mix the sugar and salt into the slightly beaten eggs. Pour over this the scalding milk, slowly, stirring until the sugar is fully dissolved. Add the flavoring. Pour into the unbaked pie crust, bake in a moderate oven twenty-five minutes. Serve cold. Brown sugar used instead of white will give an unusually good custard.

Lemon Meringue Pie

½ cup sifted flour.
1¼ cups sugar.
1 cup boiling water.
1-3 cup milk.
3 egg yolks beaten with 1 egg white.
½ tablespoon butter.
2 lemons (⅓ cup juice).
Grated rind of one lemon.
1 baked 9-inch pie shell.
4 tablespoons sugar.
¼ teaspoon salt
2 egg whites beaten stiff.

Combine flour and sugar in top of double boiler. Add water stirring constantly, then add milk. Cook until thickened stirring constantly. Pour small amount of mixture over egg yolks, stirring vigorously. Return to double boiler and continue cooking until mixture drops in thick sheets from spoon. Add butter, lemon juice and rind. Cool and pour into pie shell. Fold sugar and salt into egg whites. Pile lightly on filling. Bake in a slow oven twelve minutes or until delicately brown.

Cocoanut Cream Pie

1-3 cup sifted flour.
½ cup sugar.
¼ teaspoon salt.
2 cups milk, scalded.
2 egg yolks well beaten.
1 cup shredded cocoanut.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1 baked 9-inch shell.
4 tablespoons sugar
2 egg whites stiffly beaten.
½ teaspoon vanilla.

Combine flour, sugar and salt, add milk. Cook in double boiler stirring constantly until thickened. Pour a small amount over egg yolks, stirring vigorously. Return to double boiler and cook ten minutes. Add cocoanut and vanilla. Pour into pie shell. Fold Pile on cocoanut filling. Bake in slow oven for twelve minutes or until delicately brown.

In order to have meals that are well balanced and that will supply the minerals and other valuable food elements necessary to health, salads should be served at least once a day. It is easy—even in late fall or winter—to procure fruits and vegetables that may be used to create salads fit for an epicure.

Butterflies Look Alike but Do Not Taste Alike

Not quite as alike as two peas, but sufficiently alike in coloration and markings so that one is frequently mistaken for the other, are the Monarch and Viceroy butterflies. This likeness is a distinct advantage to the last named, for the Monarch's struggle for existence is largely aided by some nauseous quality it possesses that makes it very distasteful to birds and other possible enemies. Both butterflies are of a tawny orange brown shade with intricate markings of black, and both are common in some localities throughout the summer. When closely observed, they are easily distinguished from each other by the smaller size of the Viceroy and by an extra bar of black across the latter's lower wings. But these differences are much less noticeable when the butterflies are flying about in the fields, and by observing them then one can easily see why the creatures that have found the one unpalatable shun the other with equal caution. The likeness of these two butterflies is said to be the best instance of protective mimicry among insects in the United States.

Some Unseen Enemies Imperil Lives of All

The biologist is not merely concerned with men, but with other animals and plants, says a writer in the Modern Thinker. Some of these are our friends, some our enemies. Five hundred years ago we still had large scale enemies, even in England. The last English wolves were killed in the reign of Henry VII.

Hunting wolves was a whole-time job, and impressed itself on the people's mind, so that the hunters left their names in such places as Wolverhampton, Wolverton and Wolvercote. We still have non-human enemies, but they are smaller. Some, like the louse, we can see with the naked eye. Others, like the bacteria which cause diphtheria and tuberculosis, we can only see with a microscope. Still others, for example, the causes of measles and smallpox, we cannot even see with a microscope.

Now these are our real enemies. The flea, which carries plague, and the louse, which conveys typhus fever, have killed far more men than were ever killed by wolves. But we have never organized against them as we have against wolves, because they have never struck the people's imagination as enemies of man.

The Termite

Termites are commonly called white ants. They have an abnormal appetite for wooden objects like houses, trees or fence posts and telegraph poles. Their damage is unsuspected until the object attacked is ready to or has collapsed, as they gnaw away from the inside. They were evidently brought here from Africa and islands of the tropics as they are found in these regions in great numbers.

Houses Sold by Weight

To sell houses by weight seems a curious procedure, but like has occurred in Glastonbury. This town was once noted for its Michaelmas fair, known as Goddards fair, which was very crude, and some of the houses were pulled down and the "goddesses," sold by weight. Most of the buildings were old barns which had been extracted. Methods of extraction from the ashes differ like the area had many different houses of the former days that in the cold rush season. One had to be quick to get a house before the others. After this wood of the houses was pulled down and the pretentious ones had been left in the ashes, one day a man was pulling down an old house and noticed the letters, one by a man was pulling down an old house and noticed the letters, one by a man was pulling down an old house and noticed the letters, one by

LOOKOUT

YOUTH IS ASKING

THIS Thanksgiving: "What shall the morning bring? And it is asking it of that generation which it shall soon succeed as makers of the social order. It is right. We are living in an age preceded just yesterday by bloody war, and through the dark hours we have been beset with economic and social upheaval, human suffering, want, and unspeakable vice.

HIGH on the ruling throne, other generations have given us world conflict and economic depression. And here we stand, in the darkness of night, when no starlight illuminates the heavens and the first streak of gray has not yet shot across the eastern horizon. We are asking now, "What shall the morning bring?"

A COLLEGE president tells me, in no uncertain terms, that youth has no right to rebell against existing authority. . . . that the rules of our fathers cannot or must not be broken, lest social ostricization result. Perhaps he is right. But just who were these fathers, anyway, and how can we be sure that their particular way was the eternal road to glory?

NOW, in the living present (for tomorrow will be too late), we are wondering just what sort of wisdom it is to do bloody battle among nations and not know 15 years later just who was victorious; what manner of genius is it that dumps wheat by the boatful into the ocean while thousands are on the brink of starvation, and others almost as needful?

KNAVES and little imps youth might be! But who were the tyrants that called millions of world youth into war, that the rich might be made richer and the world made safe for democracy? Who are the tyrants we ask, who spend billions for roads and battleships and implements of destruction while education is stigated.

SAY if you will, that youth should hold its peace, but tell us why—with thousands in need of clothing, fields of cotton are ploughed under. We are young and not wise in worldly affairs, but tell us how there can be over production if people are unclothed and unfed? Tell us how there can be want with the harvests reaped and abundant.

GREAT fathers, you will not be here tomorrow when we must live. You are not asking what the morrow will bring. But youth is wondering! Will the first light of the new day shine forth on a world fraught with international strife and bloodshed and want and misery and grief and hopelessness; will the morning bring nothing but the horizon of the abyss of oblivion to mankind?

IT IS not that youth is desirous of showing off its frock of freedom that it rebells. Have you ever thought that youth, with all its apparent frivolity and gayety and carefreeness,—and rebelliousness, sometimes wonders, too, just where we are going? Or have you visualized your children as they are pictured in College Humor, Whiz-Bang, and other such trivia?

VERILY, fathers, you have been too cautious with your offspring. They are not old enough, you say, to go uptown alone. But sometime they're going, whether you like it or not, and it will be a grand experience. Youth doesn't know enough. It will make a mess of things. But fathers, it's a fine pot of porridge your wisdom has brewed for your children. A fine pot of soup!

I AM NOT so sure that the Pilgrims had a map of the bleak Atlantic shores when they landed and they were rebels. The Fathers of our Country didn't have the present complex system of government in mind when they dumped British tea into the Boston harbor. But these people had courage; they had faith; they had energy; they had principles. So has modern youth!

NEVER can you convince the younger generation that it has no right to rebell against a strangely confounding system of things. It has every right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and if war, the dumping of grain into the sea and the ploughing under of cotton, doesn't make for these things, then youth will rebell. This is its Thanksgiving prayer:

GOD, give us courage and faith and strength. May we face what the morning brings with eyes

Don Pedan, of Ohio university, one of the outstanding football coaches in the business, will be the principal speaker at the Cowboy grid banquet sponsored by the Hilltop Business Men's association at West High school on Wednesday evening, Dec. 6, according to an announcement made by Ray G. Hauntz, chairman of the committee on arrangements Monday. The affair, originally slated for Tuesday, was changed to accomodate the speaker.

Members of the squad, the coaches and the managers, with the members of the Athletic committee will be present at the affair, every plan of which has been completed by the business men's committee. The banquet will be open to the public and tickets may be secured at several local business houses.

A capacity crowd of more than 300 is being expected, and local grid fans are being warned to secure their tickets early to insure a reservation that night. The West High athletic committee announced early this week that the lettermen on the squad, 14 in all, will be awarded gold footballs by the school in token of their efforts in the past campaign. The Cowboys are tied with East, whom they defeated 19-6, for city football honors.

A trophy appropriately engraved, will also be presented to the team and school from the Business Men's Association.

The program, which will feature, besides the speaker of the evening, group singing under the direction of W. Haydn Jones, a male quartet, and orchestra selections, will get under way at 7 o'clock.

And according to information released by the committee, the champion gridders are going to be paid homage by local fans with a feast for kings.

The first showing of West High's annual Midwinter Frolic will be made in the auditorium of the school Thursday evening, Dec. 7. The show, sponsored by the music and dramatic departments, will be repeated on Friday evening, Dec. 8.

Tickets, selling at 25 cents, are now on sale at the school and may be also procured from the students. There will be no reserved seats.

Variety, minstrel specialties and comedy skits are featured in the performance which is in charge of C. L. Leahy and Prof. Herbert E. Hutchinson, of the dramatic-music department respectively.

West Jr. Basketeers Win Thriller Friday

Coach Gosnell Layman's Junior High cagers played their first game of the season Friday afternoon in the West gym with the Aquinas reserves as the opposition and came through with a last minute victory by a score of 25 to 24.

A foul shot with but seconds to go gave the locals the edge, after having trailed all the way. Layman used practically all of his string of aspirants in the game. Several other preliminaries have been arranged prior to the league season and the squad is being sent through stiff rehearsals in an effort to land high in the race. Prospects are better than for many years, according to the coach.

Sister Sought

G. D. Brown, whose address can be obtained at the office of The Hilltop Record, is endeavoring to locate a sister of a Edward D. Smith, who about 30 years ago worked on the Cleveland, Ohio, police force. Anyone knowing Mr. Smith's sister, will be doing her a great favor by advising of this article, or calling The Record office.

Coach

Harold E. Wise

His record at West High school is outstanding. Wednesday night, Dec. 6, his 1933 grid team will be banqueted by the Hilltop Business Men's Association.

Three Killed When Flyer Strikes Car

Mother, Father and Daughter Fatally Injured at Eureka-Big Four Crossing Monday.

Three Hilltop people were killed Monday noon, Nov. 27, when a Big Four passenger train struck their auto at the Eureka avenue crossing. The dead are: T. R. Hemmerly, 2470 Eakin Rd.; his wife, Katherine, and their daughter, Shirley Mae, aged five.

The car was completely demolished, and the wreckage was strewn for hundreds of feet, while the bodies of the three victims were badly mangled, the child sustaining a severed right leg at the hip. All died instantly, according to physicians.

The victims were identified at the Wylie S. Shroyer Funeral home by Mrs. L. E. Hemmerly, mother of T. R. Hemmerly. Hemmerly and his family were employees of the storekeeper's office of the New York Central lines, and the younger Hemmerly was en route to relieve his father when the accident occurred, according to police.

At the time of the crash, the auto was traveling north on Eureka Ave. The flyer was Cincinnati bound.

BE THANKFUL

By Ethel Titus Worthen

We have had the glorious sunshine,
And refreshing showers of rain.
We have reaped from field and orchard,
Abundant fruit and grain.

We have had the lovely flower,
And the grand old shady trees.
We have heard the happy song-birds
Warbling sweetest melodies.

We have had our food and shelter,
And of health a goodly share.
In our days of pain and sorrow
We had hope and comfort there.

We have just as much to live for,
As we ever had before.
Let us count our many blessings,
And be thankful evermore.

Splendid Record Established By Cowboy Coach In Five-Year Period

Coach Harold E. Wise, whose Cowboys romped to a gridiron championship on the turf of the Ohio Stadium recently against the highly publicized East High, Tigers, gets no rest from labor, it seems. For Thursday he issued his first basketball call, and from available information, the Brown and Buff will be represented by a veteran team this winter.

Wise came to West as athletic director five years ago, from Athens High school, his home town. There, his record as a football coach was par excellence, for in 44 games, his elevens won 35, tied one and lost eight.

At West High, his record, even including the first year when lack of equipment, Spirit, and man-power were tremendous handicaps, is remarkable. In his five years here, his football teams have won 27, lost 10 and tied four. And seven of those loses occurred in the initial campaign, when but a single victory was recorded.

But since that year of organization, 26 games have been played on the right side of the ledger, and nine have been lost. Three have been tied. One of the losses, to Portsmouth this year, was a gift, for but three regulars saw action in the fracas.

No coach in the city can boast of such an out-of-town grid record as has been compiled by teams of the West mentor. In 13 games, nine have resulted in victories and two in losses. And it's not with the Class B teams that games are scheduled. Look over the past year's menu: Dayton Stivers, champions of the Gem City; Portsmouth, in the running for the state title; Marietta, champions in their district; and Zanesville, conqueror's of Bexley, which squad tied North.

All in all, Wise's grid record at the Cowboy stronghold during the past four years has excelled any record made in any other four years in the history of the sport at West.

But he has been no sluggard in other sports. In baseball he has turned out one champion and been in the running every year. Athough no basketball trophies have been captured, his teams always are first division squads. True to a prediction made upon his arrival here, he has been the Moses to lead the Cowboys from a wilderness of "cellarits" into a promised land in the athletic sun.

Wise was graduated from Ohio University in 1928, and has been an apt pupil of Knute Rockne, late Notre Dame coach, and Robert Zuppke of Illinois, during the summers of 1928 and 1929 attending their coaching schools. He also has attended Columbia University and at present is taking post graduate work at the Ohio State University. His first coaching was done at Ashtabula, from where he went to Athens for five years.

Upon his arrival at West, things underwent a mighty change. He insisted on proper equipment and his grid teams are now the best outfitted in the city, not to mention the cage and diamond teams; he insisted on adherence to eligibility rules, and the rules were obeyed; he sought a new school spirit at West, and he's getting it; he endeavored to establish method in what many called his "madness," and he established it; he has sought to teach and instill something besides sport, to and in his athletes, and he's done it (ask the boys). He's done well by West High school—and the Hilltop—this gentleman,—Harold E. Wise.

Wise is married and has one daughter, Martha Jo. They live at 64 N. Roys Ave.

American Legion Drive for Food And Clothing for Needy Relief To Get Under Way Thursday A. M.

Plans Completed for Camp Chase Post's Second Annual Canvass of Community On Thanksgiving Day; Strictly Community Project.

Members of the Camp Chase Post No. 98 of the American Legion are all set to make their second annual Thanksgiving Day canvass of the community for food and clothing supplies to assist in alleviating suffering in needy families of the Hilltop through the coming winter.

Post members will start early Thursday morning and canvass the entire community. Those living on the Hilltop and who will be away from home Thursday, and who desire to make some contribution, are asked to call the Legion headquarters and a truck will be sent for the goods at a convenient time.

Chairman

Ray G. Hauntz

He is chairman of the committee of Hilltop Business Men who will banquet West High school's champion Gridders Wednesday night, Dec. 6.

100 Men to Work

Efforts are being made to have approximately 100 men on duty throughout the day. It was stressed this week by M. P. Hain, chairman of the relief committee, that all goods will be utilized for strictly community needs.

"Conditions may be a little better this year," he said, "but the work of the legion relief forces will be greater. Judging by the applications for help already made, much more goods than was collected last year must be had."

Mr. Hain also expressed the desire that those who would not be home on the day of the canvass, and who could not call in, would leave their respective contributions with neighbors who in turn could turn it over to the Legion team.

Establish Headquarters

For the present, at least, headquarters for supplies will be located at the storeroom at the corner of South Wayne and West Broad street. The room was donated, and will be utilized by the relief workers as long as it is available.

Clothing, preserved foods and money will be accepted, and will all be used for relief purposes. Expenses of the drive are borne by the Camp Chase Post.

Will Send Truck

Local residents who will be out of town or away from home on Thanksgiving day and who wish to contribute to the Legion drive, may call the relief committee chairman, M. P. Hain at RA 0854; post commander, Dr. A. C. Myers, at RA 0993, or the post headquarters at RA 0371, and a truck will be sent for the goods at a time convenient to the donor.

Sweepstakes At Hilltop Alleys

Total Pins for Three Games Count—Three Prizes Distributed Each Week

An innovation in bowling was opened last Friday at the Hilltop Bowling alleys when Manager Selbach inaugurated the Hilltop Week end Sweepstakes, open to any bowler living on the Hilltop or any bowler in the Hilltop leagues. The sweepstakes will be carried on indefinitely. Three games are rolled and total pins count.

Three prizes are offered for each week's bowling—first place, seventh place and fourteenth place prizes.

John Thomas, with a total score of 698 for the three games won first place prize Sunday night; Bob Stewart, with a total of 605, landed in seventh place, while Clate Kaufman, with a total of 564, won fourteenth place.

The sweepstakes started off with much enthusiasm and promises to be quite popular with the bowling fraternity as the season advances.

Rev. James Furbay To Assume Duties Dec. 1

Rev. James R. Furbay, for the past three years pastor of the Sullivant Ave. Friends (Quaker) Community church, has accepted a call extended him by the South Congregational church and will take charge of the pastoral work there Friday, Dec. 1.

Rev. Furbay will continue to serve the local congregation, preaching in the evenings. The South Congregational church extended the call last Sunday.

Aged Resident Dies Thursday Morning

The name of Mrs. Lena Ferrell, newly elected president of the Eleventh Ward Democratic club was omitted from the list of officers published last week in The Record.

Victory Dance At West Hi Tonight

Alumni Association Sponsors Community Event Honoring Grid Team in School Gym.

West High's first victory dance in more than a decade will be held tonight in the gymnasium at the school under the sponsorship of the Alumni association. All plans are complete, and the affair, to be held between the hours of eight and 11 o'clock, will be open to the public.

The entire football team, its coaches and managers will be guests of the alumni tonight and will be introduced between dances. Besides this feature, other entertainment will be on tap. Officials are expecting a capacity crowd.

Monthly Events Slated

With the co-operation of Otto H. Magly, school principal, monthly dances at the school sponsored by the alumni may soon be inaugurated. A committee composed of Miles V. (Cap) Hoover, Mrs. W. E. Ferguson and Howard Gibson approached Mr. Magly on the subject last week and he indicated that he would be in favor of such a program.

Meanwhile, every effort is being put forth by members of the Alumni Council to increase the membership of the association. The drive for members will close with the annual Alumni-Varsity basketball game Friday evening, Dec. 22. Former Cowboy cagers interested in participating are asked to get in touch with "Cap" Hoover.

Hilltop Chorus to Present Program

The Hilltop Male Chorus, under the direction of W. Haydn Jones, will present a program at the Burgess Ave. U. B. church next Sunday evening, Dec. 3, at 7:30 o'clock.

On Monday evening, Dec. 11, at the West Jr.-Sr. Parent-Teacher meeting, another special program will be presented.

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving Day is a day peculiar to the people of the United States. Other countries are accustomed to give thanks to their kings, but the people of this country alone are annually invited by the president and the governors to give thanks to Almighty God for blessings received during the year.

The custom originated with the Pilgrims in Plymouth in 1621. They had landed at Plymouth Rock in Dec., 1620, and notwithstanding many hardships they had established their homes. They had succeeded in raising small crops of corn, beans and pumpkins, and had obtained a quantity of game and fruit from the forest. In the fall they determined to hold a thanksgiving feast to express their thanks for all the blessings they had received, and to show their good will they invited the neighboring Indians to the feast.

We might think they had very little to be thankful for, they were practically exiles from their native country, desperately poor, living in a cold and almost barren country, yet they felt God was leading them, and they gave thanks to the Giver of All Good Things. This was the type of people that established the moral character of New England and to a very large extent shaped the religious and political ideals of the American people. Thanksgiving celebrations were continued many years by the New England people, but at no regular intervals. The different governors called upon their people to give thanks at various times when there seemed to be special occasions for gratitude for Divine blessings.

The first national Thanksgiving Proclamation was issued by Pres. Lincoln in the autumn of 1863. The tide in the Civil War had turned, Lee had been driven out of Pennsylvania, Vicksburg had fallen and it seemed that victory for the Union was almost in sight. The president called on the people to assemble in their churches and give thanks to God for the preservation of the Union. This custom has been followed by all the succeeding presidents, and it has become customary for the governor to issue similar proclamations. By common consent the last Thursday in November has been chosen for this celebration.

It might seem to some that we do not have much to be thankful for this year, and it is true there are some discouraging conditions in the world. There are millions of people in America out of employment, and a very large part of our people are depending on public charity for the necessities of life. But a moment's consideration will show us that man is at fault and not God. Crops have been abundant, Nature has poured forth her bounty. The promise that while the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest shall not cease, has been kept. But man has brought misery on himself, the incompetency and intolerance of statesmen brought on a world war that destroyed ten million young men who would have been the producers today. It destroyed billions of dollars worth of property which would have housed and fed and clothed the world. It destroyed government and broke down the morale of millions of people.

Then human selfishness in this country devised a financial system that has concentrated the wealth of the country in the hands of a few people. Statisticians estimate that ninety per cent of the wealth of this country is owned by four per cent of the people, while twenty-five per cent have practically nothing. There is no market because the masses have no money with which to buy. The Senate investigation now in session amazed the people by exposing the methods used by the great bankers to manipulate the markets and seize millions of dollars. Last week two young girls became of age, one inherited ten million dollars and the other twenty million.

These are a few examples of a financial system that has brought disaster on our country. But there is a brighter side to the picture, never has there been such a display of universal generosity as at the present time. The national, state and municipal governments are spending millions to care for the poor, the president has declared that no one shall go hungry, the voters of this state have placed an old age pension clause in the constitution. After all the people are kind, the mistakes have been mistakes of judgment.

Then think of our many blessings. We are a free people, there are no persecutions in our country political or religious, think of the many conveniences that have come into the lives of the people in the last generation, the various applications of electricity, conveniences in the homes, telephone, radios, automobiles, good roads, and a hundred other material blessings that were unknown a generation ago.

We shall do well to lay aside our work next Thursday and give thanks for our many blessings and with the great president highly resolve "That the government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth.

The Nature Trail

By JOHN WOLFE

WINTER RAMBLING

Despite the general impression that the woods holds forth no beauty or things of interest after spring and early summer has passed, no season of the year can be more inviting and more invigorating than winter.

Through the spring and summer and early fall, the more conspicuous flowering plants draw our eye, but when the ground is brown and the leaves have fallen, we are more apt to observe the smaller mosses and liverworts and lichens, and often wonder just how we missed seeing so much when we passed the spot before.

Or as we stroll along the river bank, the great blue heron flies up before us, his long legs extended behind him. There's been ice over the water these many nights, yet the big and handsome fellow lingers with us. But not for long. Soon, he too, shall fly southward. But it's interesting to note that he's one of the last to leave.

Even on a wintry day, when the winds blow cold and flakes of snow whirl and spin their way earthward, the songsparrow, perched on an icy twig, may give forth his melodious song. But it's not so often that the little fellow is in a singing mood in such weather. But on warm days, he may be heard quite frequently.

The cardinal too, most beautiful of our native birds, is a hardy chap and no winter seems too severe for him. One may see him in the lower brambles and briars, and when he shows up against the snow-covered bush, the sight is striking. But one needn't go to the woods to see him. Install a feeding station in the back yard, and he'll call daily for food the winter through.

Many Winter Birds

It is often surprising what a variety of birdlife may be observed when, from outward appearances, all life in the field and wood is dead. Nevertheless one with a lust for winter rambling and a keen eye may detect more than five dozen different species of birds in the vicinity of Columbus between the months of November and February. And most of them are with us through the winter.

In open pasturelands, gathering and feeding in flocks, the horned lark may be observed. Bluebirds, likewise congregating in flocks, are often common, except in the severest of winters, but they may seek the shelter of the woodlands, where they linger near the margin, feeding on poison ivy berries.

Tree sparrows and gold finches also are apparently socially minded, and feed on seeds of weeds, in flocks, the former, often in great numbers. Coveys of quail present one of the most interesting sights in the field. Watch the next covey you see, and you will observe that the entire group stops to feed at once. Then, the leader moves on a few feet to better grounds, and the remaining number, like a well drilled army, follows en masse.

Other common winter residents include: the tufted titmouse, chickadee, downy woodpecker, Blue Jr., mourning dove, white-breasted nuthatch, starling and junco.

Some Rarer Birds

Two of the most interesting feathered creatures of the winter woodlands are the brown creeper and the white breasted nut-hatch, the latter of which is often confused with the Canada, or red breasted nuthatch.

The three, however, are the most diligent workers to be found. And the colder it gets, the more active they seem to become. The creeper, a tiny fellow a bit smaller than the English sparrow, is brown above with underparts of grayish white. His wings are also brown, but are marked with bars of white. And as he starts up a tree in twisting spirals, his slender, curving bill picks out from the crannies of the bark, fine feasts of spider eggs and larvae.

The nuthatches are even more accomplished acrobats, for they can go up and back down again head first. Sometimes, when ice and snow cover the upper parts of tree limbs, these dexterous creatures creep along on the under surface, seeking food. They are fearless fellows, although they prefer the seclusion of the deeper woods, especially pine, and one may approach to within a few feet of them.

The white-breasted nuthatch is of approximately the same size as the brown creeper with upper parts of slate-gray, with head and back of black. The cheeks and breast are white and the wings of a slate color edged with black.

The red-breasted or Canada nuthatch is smaller than either of the other two, is head colored above, with head of black and underparts of rusty red. He is the rarest of the three but when observed, may be working on the same tree with his larger cousin, he of the white breast.

These are only a few of the friends one may see in winter woodlands so, those who have given up Nature as dead with the coming of the season frost miss much of inviting interest and rare beauty while toasting their shins by the home fireside.

The actual fact is, the finest season of the year, next to the migration season in early spring, to study bird life, is in the winter months when the obstructing foliage is off the trees. And with it all, one gets real pleasure from the tang and tingle of the icy winter air. It's well worth the effort

Salmon—Inexpensive and Delicious

If you are trying to cut down on your budget or if you are merely seeking something extra good to serve—try salmon. It is always available and if you keep a supply on hand you will be prepared for unexpected guests—If you utilize this rich, pink skinned fish according to these recipes.

Salmon Souffle

2 tablespoons butter.
1 cup milk.
4 eggs.
1 cup salmon.
½ teaspoon salt.

Make a white sauce of the butter, flour, milk and salt. Add the salmon minced, with the bones and skin removed. Remove from the fire and add the well beaten egg yolks. Cool and fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Pour into a butter baking dish or into custard cups. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes—a little longer if a larger dish is used.

Salmon Cakes

1 pound can salmon.
1 cup soft bread crumbs.
1 teaspoon chopped parsley.
1 teaspoon chopped onion.
2 teaspoons lemon juice.
1 egg, beaten.
Salt, pepper.

Remove the bones and flake the salmon. Do not pour off the oil. Add the remaining ingredients, mix well and shape into flat cakes. Roll in flour and brown on both sides in a little hot fat. This recipe serves 4 persons.

Salmon Pie

Heat 2 tablespoons of fat, add 4 tablespoons flour; teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper and mix until smooth. Add 2 cups milk gradually, stirring constantly, and cook over hot water 5 minutes. Put 2 cups flaked red salmon and 1½ cups cooked green peas in greased casserole and pour sauce over them. Mix lightly. Cover top with creamy mashed potatoes, using a pastry bag to give an attractive appearance. Brown in moderate oven.

Cheese and Salmon Loaf

Flake the contents of one tall can of salmon and add one cup grated cheese. Add 2 slightly beaten eggs, one tablespoon melted butter, one-fourth cup milk, one-half cup bread crumbs, one-half teaspoon salt and few grains of pepper. Put in a buttered loaf pan and bake in moderate oven 40 to 45 minutes.

Salmon Baked

Remove bones and skin and mince one can salmon. Mix with equal amount finely chopped celery and one tablespoon minced onion. Blend with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

Mounting Horse On Near Side

The custom of mounting a horse on the near side had its origin in the days of chivalry; for the fighting man who wore his sword on the left found it a considerable obstruction to mounting on that side. In the sword of these days we also owe the two buttons that were placed at the back of our tailcoats, which are a survival of those first used to support the sword belt.

"Yes, sir. I've got a parrot now."

"A parrot? What for? I advised you to get an alarm clock."

LOOKOUT

HOW TRUE! HOW TRUE!

The following poem, clipped from the Knoxville, Iowa, Express, was contributed by Mrs. C. C. Coil. It speaks for itself!

The typographical error is a slippery thing and sly,
You can hunt till you are dizzy, but it somehow will get by.
Till the forms are off the presses it is strange how still it keeps;
It shrinks down into a corner and it never stirs or peeps.
That typographical error, too small for human eyes,
Till the ink is on the paper, when it grows to mountain size.
The boss he stares with horror, then he grabs his hair and groans;
The copy reader drops his head upon his hand and moans—
The remainder of the issue may be clean as clean can be,
But that typographical error is the only thing you see.

—Knoxville, Iowa, Express.

BROADER VIEWPOINT

By H. C. Shetrone

The Lookout column, entitled "Youth Is Asking," in your Thanksgiving issue, may be likened to a voice crying out in the wilderness. Its author, speaking for Youth as against their elders (the fathers) appears to feel that Youth is acutely conscious that "something is wrong with the world," that the present and preceding generations of adults are entirely to blame for this lamentable condition; and that, since the fathers have failed to "make good," Youth is justified in rebelling against their domainance.

With the contention that the social order today is not what it should be, all will agree. A single one of the several factors cited by the Columnist—the fact that in the midst of plenty, (as reflected in what some choose to term over production) millions are in dire need—is sufficient to prove the assertion. There is, therefore, no disagreement in this quarter.

With Youth's accusation that the fathers have failed to produce something better than mankind now possesses, we may for the moment agree. Since what we have is the best we have, and since no one other than the fathers have had to do with its fabrication, the arraignment appears logical. But, as is usual, the superficial aspect holds no clue to the inner truth. What, then, are the facts? Simply that Youth, being youth, naturally and normally is short-sighted, myopic. Having lived so short a time, youth sees only today, thinks only in terms of short time. While "the good old days" are mostly a myth, humans occasionally are vouchsafed short periods of well-to-do-ness. Such a period was the decade preceding 1930, in which the present generation of youth arrived at consciousness of self and surroundings. The fathers have known something else, and therefore have a more adequate experience to serve them as a yardstick for comparison and appreciation. History bears out the fact that the present unhappy situation is nothing new; that it is different not so much in kind as in degree. True, it is more complex since, as a result of the machine age, mass production, minimizing of time and space through communication and transportation developments, it is now worldwide. While even economists are not entirely in agreement, it seems plausible to conclude that distribution has not kept pace with production in our industrial progress. At any rate, the mechanism for carrying the social structure has failed us. Life being synonymous with change, and by no means static, we are faced as never before with the task of newly interpreting the situation and with the application of new or modified methods to fit the needs. Nevertheless man's conduct of human affairs is and has been the best that human ingenuity has been able to devise—the product of generations and ages of trial and error, always handicapped by inherent human weaknesses under a system of intense competition which nature imposes on man as well as the lower organisms. And after all—don't you think?—we haven't done so badly. Starting as lowly savages or, if you prefer, expelled from the Garden to begin all over again, with only hands and minds as aides!

But Youth, and Youth in rebellion! One feels like paraphrasing a popular air and declaring "Youth is the strongest thing." Why draw that imaginary line be-

"You've Learned How To Win; Be Sure And Know How To Lose," Pedan Tells Cowboy Gridders At Annual Banquet

200 Hear Bobcat Coach at West High School Wednesday Night; Letter-Men Awarded Gold Footballs; Business Men Present Trophy.

At the finest banquet ever tendered a West High athletic team, more than 200 grid fans did honor to Coach Harold Wise and his 1933 championship football squad Wednesday night at West High school. Amid a fine spirit, music, songs and cheering, topped off with a repast for kings, the Cowboys reached the climax of a grand campaign with well-wishes and congratulations from the school and community ringing in their ears.

Pedan Is Speaker

But in the midst of the celebration came words of warning from the lips of Don Pedan, principal speaker and coach of the Ohio University Bobcats. "You've learned how to win, and that's the easier part," he told the team. "Be sure and know how to lose.

"You're in the most dangerous position in your league—the top. The rest will be shooting at you next year and the games you won this year will be much harder in 1934. The higher you keep your chin, the easier it is to have it knocked down.

"You're riding on the crest of the wave," he said. "In football you're either way up or very low. It's more pleasant to be up, but you learn more while you're down.

"Your case is different. You won by losing. It's always harder to come back. And this season will mean more to you because you had the privilege and opportunity of losing early and coming back."

West High Frolic On Again Tonight

Second Performance of Annual Event Slated for 8:15 at School Auditorium

The annual "Mid-winter Frolic" sponsored by the departments of music and dramatics at West High school will show again tonight at the school auditorium. The first presentation was made last night.

The program, composed of a minstrel show; a dramatic skit, "Fowl Play," and a set of variety numbers, contains one of the largest casts ever to perform in the event since its inauguration several years ago.

Willard Holyeross is the interlocutor for the minstrels, and he directs the program of a dozen specialty numbers. The Dixie Girls' Dancing chorus and the Boys' Quartet are featured. Georgette Ross and Anne Raether furnish the piano accompaniments.

George Ward, Eileen Teal, Don Falkenberg, Eddie Walker, Pauline Rowland, Martha Swigert, Betty Benton, Hugh McKinley, Martha Haines, Oscar Leach, Harley Clark and Warren Barry have parts in the play.

In the variety program, instrumental and vocal music, dancing and a singing chorus are featured.

The last recital in the fall series of recitals will be heard at the Hilltop School of Music, Saturday evening, Dec. 9, at 8:15, open to the public.

Clate Kaufman in High Sweepstake Pin Games

Clate Kaufman's three-game roll of 650 won first prize in the second week of Sweepstake rolling at the Hilltop Bowling Alleys last week. Prizes are awarded for first, seventh and fourteenth places.

Seventh place was taken by Earl Bland with a 610 score while Elmer Hagenberger and Frank Schultz tied for fourteenth place with 587 pins.

"Woody" Named

Woodrow "Woody" Wills, a star quarterback at West high school three years ago, was named at quarterback on the mythical all Buckeye Conference selections announced last week. "Woody" is in his second year at Ohio University.

Miss Ralph Named

In the St. Clair election story appearing in the last issue of The Record, it was reported that Miss Ruth Ralph was defeated for the secretaryship. Miss Ralph defeated Miss Pauline Rowland for the office.

15 Get Awards

Fourteen lettermen and the senior manager were awarded gold footballs at the grid banquet Wednesday evening. The charms have engraved on them, above an enamel "W," "Champions." Below the letter is the date, 1933. The following received the awards: Captain Cliff Boye, Richard Francis, Denver Dickson, Joe Wylie, Gerald Hoffman, Walter Richards, Guy Keller, Homer Beachler, Russel Focht, David Deubler, Lawrence Michaelis, Allen Mathews, William Pearson, Robert Harper and Eugene Frank, manager.

Football has a place in an educational system, according to Pedan, if—it teaches one to sacrifice for the other fellow; if it teaches one to give the team-mate credit for the work he does; if it teaches one to lose.

Coach Wise Praised

Speaking of Coach Harold Wise, Pedan said: "I congratulate the team, the school and the community and especially the coach. Wise is not only a coach, but one with the qualities of a teacher of how to win and how to lose. The community and school can be proud of what he's doing." The Bobcat coach also lauded Bill Schmidt and Woody Wills, stars of this year's Green and White eleven, and former Cowboy athletes.

Season Reviewed

Other speakers included Coach Wise who reviewed the past season. In his opinion, the team played its best game against Central in the homecoming fracas. Herbert G. Deems, past president of the Hilltop Business Men's association, spoke briefly, concluding his reminiscent remarks with a presentation of a silver football trophy to Cliff Boye, captain of the 1933 Cowboys, who in turn presented the emblem to the school.

O. C. Montgomery, chairman of the Athletic committee, announced that the final payment had been made on the stadium and that plans for the construction of a track and tennis courts were being discussed. On behalf of the committee, he presented the letter-men of the team with gold footballs, emblematic of the city championship.

Business Men Commended

Other speakers included Otto H. Magly, principal of the school; J. G. Collicott, superintendent of the public schools, and Arthur Buchanan, assistant coach. Mr. Collicott, in his remarks, commended the business men highly on their contribution to the welfare of West High.

Leo Phillips and Helen Richter, and an orchestra from the school, furnished musical entertainment through the evening. Group singing was directed by W. Haydn Jones.

Plan Xmas Fair

The Ladies Aid of Hope Memorial Church will hold its Christmas Fair Friday evening, December 8, from 5:30 to 10 o'clock. A chicken supper will be served from 5:30 to 7:30. A minstrel and juvenile show will be featured along with the display of handiwork and baked goods.

tween Youth and the fathers? It doesn't exist. The Youth of today will be the fathers of tomorrow: Youth represents the ideal and the radical; age the conservative. Each and men are only boys grown tall. In a good influence on the other, and between them they'll find the happy medium. They're all in the same boat, and should be—and are—pals. Team work, then. And shall Youth rebel? Well, if they wish to do so, they'll not ask permission, nor would they ever get it. They'd just rebel. But first they'll remember that after all the very best that humans have gleaned from ages of living is embodied in our traditions, in our homes, schools and churches. Let's not scrap them until we know we have something better. And let's stop expecting to see an acorn transformed into a monarch of the forest in a day or a week. Let's see things in terms of long time. A long look back, a long look for ward, and whatever tomorrow may bring, "Come on, Dad, come on, son: let's go!"

Phil Koontz, back from four years' service with the marines, dropped in the office this week. Phil's a husky bruiser now, and according to his own confession, much more learned in the devious ways of the world. . . . I remember him several yrs. ago, when he used to play football in the corner lot. . . . And Pearl Nagel, the biggest guy on the street, would carry the ball. It was Phil's job to get Pearl, and tho he was but half the big fellow's size, Pearl's teeth would rattle like peas in a dry gourd when Phil hit him. . . . Kenny Kidd is a roommate of Dick Heckin, the OSU football player. . . . Marcella Crane, history teacher at W.H.S., is an ornithologist of no mean repute. . . . Mary Jean Hottinger, who has a friend on the W.H.S. football team, is angry with us for writing to the boys a couple weeks back. . . . The following verse turned in by a contributor:

I with I wath a little cake of thoap.

REMARKS BY JEREMIAH

Jeremiah, the Hebrew prophet, pointed out the mistakes of his people and foretold their destruction. Naturally he was very unpopular until events vindicated his prophecy.

If the old man could come back today, we wonder what he would say about some of these things; He would be amazed at the enormous preparation the nations are making for war. After the most terrible war the world ever knew, he would see every great nation preparing for a still greater war. France with a million men under arms, Russia with two million, Italy and Germany straining every resource, Japan violating treaties and feverishly arming on land and sea, England and the United States building larger navies than any nation ever dreamed of before; the World's Court, League of Nations and Arms Conference all practically scrapped, the prophet would say Armageddon is at hand.

He would be no less astonished at the financial policies of the world. He could hardly believe that great nations like France, Great Britain, Italy and Belgium would refuse to pay the debts they had contracted in their hour of danger, even less could he believe they would debase their money in order to rob their own bond holders and when told that the great loan associations holding millions of the people's money refuse to pay the principal, and reduce the rate of interest to the minimum, he would cry out "Is there no honesty among men?"

He would see Hitler in Germany and Mussolini in Italy stamping out every vestige of liberty among their people and persecuting every one who dared to differ from them, then he would see government control taking the place of personal iniative in this country and the prophet would be moved to exclaim "Is this the twentieth or the tenth century?"

Being a church man he would be grieved to learn that the churches are losing their hold on the people. Church attendance has fallen off almost everywhere, most churches are hardly holding their own in membership and their influence is even less. The prophet would be moved to exclaim, "The nation that forgets God shall perish!"

The lack of interest in the public schools of this country would grieve him only a little less. He would see schools closing in the middle of the year, teachers working without pay and state officials indifferent that children's youth is passing without education. He would be impressed by the political unrest throughout the world. Hardly a government that has not been overthrown since the world war, the political wisdom of the older statesmen is forgotten. Strange political and economical theories are being tried. The prophet would cry out "Remove not the ancient landmarks which thy fathers have set!"

The spirit of the youth of the land would puzzle the old prophet. A lack of reverence for things long held sacred, a frivolity of speech and action would distress him. He would see the wealth of the country concentrated in the hands of a few and the great mass of the people sinking into poverty, one-eighth of the people depending on charity in the richest country in the world.

He would be reminded of the words of the Master, "A rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven."

A nation turning from Prohibition back to the saloon even though called by some other name would seem to him to be a sad recession from the ideals of a decade ago.

The lynching of men, however depraved, would remind him of the days when the Christians were thrown to the lions in the arena to make a Roman holiday. Perhaps more than anything else the decline in the public morale would concern him.

Where is the religious conviction of the Puritans, the spirit of independence of the patriots of '76, the heroic courage and industry of the pioneers who settled this Mississippi Valley?

Maybe we would do well to stop a moment and ask what would the old prophet say if he could come back today?

THE RUSSIAN RECOGNITION

The papers have been crowded with so much startling news recently that the recognition of the Soviet government of Russia by the United States government has not received the publi attention that it deserves.

For many years Russia was regarded as the best friend America had in Europe. During our civil war England and France sought every excuse, real or imaginary to aid our enemies and the leading statesmen of the other European countries except Russia desired the downfall of the Union. On the other hand Russian influence favored the North and probably prevented England and France from giving active support to the South.

This friendly relation continued until the overthrow of the Czarist government by the Bo'sheviki and the establishment of the Soviet government. Then the United States broke off all official relations with Russia and withdrew its ambassador.

Of course we recognize the right of Russia to establish its own government and would no more think of dictating to them than we would permit them to interfere with our government. We recognize the governments of Japan and Germany and other countries of which we do not approve, why not Russia?

There are some very good reasons why we have been unwilling to recognize the Soviet government. While governments differ widely, there are a few fundamental principles recognized by all—all except the Bolsheviki. In the first place they refuse to pay their debts, Russia owes the United States almost a billion dollars besides enormous private debts which they have make no effort to pay. In this respect Russia is not much worse than some other European countries, yet we cannot respect a government that is not honest. But this is not the main objection.

The Soviet government is attempting to destroy the very foundation of civilization as we understand it—private property, religion, sex, morality, family, love, personal iniative—these principles are being destroyed in the fires of a fierce revolution.

Not only have the Soviets attempted to overthrow these great foundations of society in Russia but they have attempted a world-wide propaganda to carry their ideas to all countries. True, there is a slight difference between Soviet, Bolsheviki, Communist and Third International, but the purpose of all is to overthrow the present government and substitute Communism.

A leading Soviet statesman recently said, "We announce to all our enemies that never for a second will we renounce our principle of international social revolution."

No wonder great nations have hesitated to recoznize such a state!

But President Roosevelt believes these dangers can be avoided and that friendly relations should be restored. So the president has negotiated a treaty with the Russian government and already ambassadors have been exchanged, and it is presumed that normal business relations will be resumed at once.

It is hoped that this will open a large market for American goods. But Russia's money is almost worthless and she can only pay by sending other goods in exchange or by borrowing. As we cannot collect what she already owes this does not seem advisable.

The Soviet Government pledged it would cease its communistic propaganda in this country, but it is doubtful if it can restrain the various communistic societies.

The spirit of revolution is raging in the world. It is being suppressed by an iron hand in Germany and Italy. Are we wise in what our does to such an influence? Only the future can tell but we do well to remember the old adage, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

The Nature Trail

By JOHN WOLFE

Nothing quite matches the satisfaction that comes with knowledge, whether one goes about his everyday duties in the city or rambles without thought of time or trail through the fields and woods. Nothing makes a hike so pleasant as to be able to know the things one is apt to meet in the field, be it bird or beast or tree.

There is established immediately, upon recognition, a tie that binds fine things in our memories that might otherwise be forgotten. There must have been a time in the history of man when he was a more vital part of the wilderness, for, as Thoreau has written, some tenderness have a character of beauty which harmonizes thrillingly with the mood in which we look upon them. They seem like shades of the beautiful which the soul in its wanderings, long ago visited, and now recognizes and loves as the home of a forgotten dream.

In the winter months, when all the trees but the oaks and the evergreens, have shed their foliage, identification of plants might be the last thought in the mind of the rambler. But tree identification, by means of twig and stem characters, is often easier than when the full leaves are present.

In the case of the evergreens, however, the season is of no consequence, for always the greenery furnished by these plants delight the eye as it scans the winter landscape.

In Ohio, three pines are most likely be found, namely, the white, pitch and scrub, with the former being the most uncommon of the three and the latter the most abundant.

The white pine can always be distinguished by its fine leaves, five needles emerging from a common dwarf branch. This tree, more common in the north woods, reaches its greatest density in Ohio in the northeastern part of the state near Clear Fork park.

The pitch pine, which reaches its northern limit in the Sugar Grove region near Crystal Springs, has needles three to five inches in length, two or three emerging from a common dwarf branch. The scrub pine, a small, scraggly tree, is the first of the forest vegetation to invade old abandoned fields and may be seen in great abundance in the hill-country of the state. It generally has two, sometimes three, foliage leaves to a single dwarf branch, measuring one and a half to two and one half inches in length.

Another most interesting evergreen, commonly associated with the beech and beech-maple forests, especially in the Sugar grove region, is the hemlock. It can be readily identified by its light, feathery-like branches, with the leaves whitish beneath. The spruce, on the other hand, has leaves of dark green above and below, and too, the needles xtend in many directions from the wigs, whereas the hemlock leaves extend in but two directions.

There are many tree manuals available to those who would use them, but perhaps the best available, and most useable, regardless of the season of the year, is Schaffner's "Trees of Northeastern United States." It is well worth its price of 60 cents, for in it, besides the "keys" to the various genera and species, are notes on habitats, uses of the woods, and other interesting information. It will prove an invaluable addition to any Nature library and be exceedingly handy in the field, especially in winter, when many think botanical study out of season.

To the LADY of the HOUSE
As many women say it — "My Electric Range is one thing I would not be without."
You'll say the same when you know how serviceable it is . . . how much easier to prepare meals . . . how cool your kitchen is and how clean.
And you'll find your kitchen healthful . . . with pure air to breathe, for electric heat is as pure as sunshine.
You'll thrill over favorite recipes tasting better . . . over cooking accurately timed . . . to see how much more and faster cooking can be done . . . and how dependable the results . . . every time.
There is no more important household work than cooking and there is no cooking so satisfying as that done with an Electric Range.

HOME MADE CANDY FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Although there are many delicious candies on the market—it's still lots of fun to make real old-fashioned sweets at home. And since everyone's candy appetite seems greater during the holidays, it's well to have a supply on hand.

Nut Caramels

1 cup light brown sugar.
1 cup granulated sugar.
1 cup light corn syrup.
1 and 1-3 cups condensed milk.
½ cup butter.
2-3 cups thin cream.
2 teaspoons vanilla.
1 cup nuts (pecans, walnuts or filberts).

Since caramels scorch easily they should be cooked in a heavy aluminum saucepan. Combine all ingredients except vanilla and nuts and cook over low flame, stirring constantly until the mixture reaches a temperature of 240 degrees F. or until a ball of the firmness of a caramel is formed when a little candy is dropped in cold water. Remove from the fire, add vanilla and turn at once into a square or rectangular pan that is slightly greased. Sprinkle the nuts over the caramels and press lightly into the hot candy. Do not cut the caramels in the pan. As soon as they are cold invert the pan, turn them out on a board and cut in one inch squares. Wrap in wax paper. This makes about 76 caramels 1 inch square.

Fruit Fudge

2 squares unsweetened chocolate cut in pieces.
2 3 cup cold milk.
2 cups sugar.
Dash of salt.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Add chocolate to milk and place over low flame. Cook until mixture is smooth and blended, stirring constantly. Add sugar and salt and stir until the sugar is dissolved and mixture boils. Continue cooking, without stirring, until a small amount of mixture forms a very soft ball in cold water. Remove from fire, add butter and vanilla and cool to lukewarm, then beat till mixture begins to thicken and loses its gloss. Add four tablespoons each of candied cherries, candied pineapple, figs and raisins, finely cut and rinsed and four tablespoons pistachio nut meats, blanched, pour in pan.

Gun Barrells Won't Stretch, Wardens Warn

"Gun barrels won't stretch," William Schuenke, supervisor of game of the Iowa State Fish and Game commission, warns with most of the hunting seasons in full swing this month, according to a bulletin of the American Game association here. Officials of the association endorse Mr. Schuenke's warning and urge hunters to take only sure dead shooting range shots and try to conserve all the game possible. Officials of the association regard Mr. Schuenke's conservation effort as a splendid example of what states can do to conserve wild life.

"Watch hunters sometime," Mr. Schuenke says, "and see how many times a hunter tries to stretch his gun barrels in order to bring a duck down. Measure the distance between the end of the gun barrel and the bird. Then stop and think whether you have done the same thing.

"Trying to stretch the gun barrels is the cause of many crippled ducks and other game birds, because the shot have spent their force when they reach the bird. Gun barrels won't stretch. Do not take long shots, for it usually results in some bird being left to die a slow death or to become the prey of some predator. This year it is more important than ever that we reduce the number of cripples for there is a shortage of waterfowl due to the drought of the last few years.

"A good sportsman glories in a shot where the duck 'folds up' and falls dead," Mr. Schuenke continues. "Watch the duck, or other bird, as it falls and make every effort to retrieve it."

A retriever dog is perhaps the best way to recover all dead and crippled birds. Another effective method of recovering dead or wounded birds that fall in thick cover is the 'hat method.' The hunter should mark where he thinks the bird fell, and then place his hat at the spot. Then start walking around it in slowly widening circles. If the hunter looks close, he is practically sure of finding the bird eventually.

By thus retrieving all dead birds and all the cripples possible, the hunter practices conservation at the end of the gun barrels. The more the hunter retrieves, the less number he will shoot to fill his bag, officials of the association point out, and urge each hunter not to take any more than he needs.

The LOOKOUT

By J. N. WOLFE

'ROUND ABOUT THE HILLTOP

William Xerxes Wolfe, hound dog of V. E. Wolfe, Sportsman (Sport) Howard, bird dog of Del Howard, have been ill. The former is recuperating from an eye affliction, while the latter is troubled with internal disorders. . . . Janice Judy, the grand-daughter of Mr. Howard, learning that he was to visit the hospital to discover his dog's condition, remarked in all solemnity: "Grampa, aren't you going to take him any flowers?" . . . (Bud Leo) McCracken, a chap not lamped in a long spell. . . . Bud Thief's correct moniker is also Leo. . . . Donald Kingery, the Soldier man, is in Hawaii. . . . John Wagnitz, the attorney, making the girl next to him on the street car laugh. It was the first time her solemnity had ever been seen shattered by this snooper. . . . Ralph Hill is passing groceries over the counter. Melvin (Pickles) Hart, in work clothes. He refers to this scribbler as "Pontine". . . . Ira Everett's girl friend insists that a tomato is a fruit, and Ira insists it is a berry. . . . Wonder how long the battle will rage before they discover (but they're both correct?

. The little nephew of Mr. and Mrs. James Williams, aged three, cracks loose with a heart breaker. His uncle was cracking walnuts. Pete watching the process. "Do you like walnuts?" uncle Jim asked of Pete. "No," replied Pete. "Like hickory nuts?" queried uncle Jim again. "No," solemnly replies Pete. "Well, what kind of nuts do you like?" uncle Jim finally asked. "I likes doughnuts," confided Pete.

Wonder whatever became of Vic Razler? He used to direct a dance band, and his slogan was: Vic Raz, plays Jazz. . . . Says Prof. H. C. Hayes of O81': "There was a time when the U. S. was very bitter in its view of Russia—when women looked under their beds to see whether a bolshevik lay in hiding," and we suppose many looked in the hopes of finding one there. . . . Atty. Don Smith wonders when this column will have a lot of that "funny stuff" in again. . . . The Ross Glick's are buying tiny things, now, for an event slated for April. . . . I never knew Dr Myers, the soldier leader, was a W. H. graduate (there are a whole lotta things he don't know, if he only knew it) . . . If you can trace your ancestry back to the first families in Massachusetts, Virginia, etc., doncha brag too much. Those people were all of the lower middle class. And some were jail birds. Hot diggity dog! . . . Herb Currier, who in the spring went to Salt Lake City, is doing well. . . . And his brother Bob, in New York City, is still doing library work, which he has done for the past four years.

Personal Pish Posh: I still use the same water color set that I used at W. Broad St. school (Gosh, hope he ever gonna grow up) . . . I dislike to walk down hill and love to hike in the rain . . . Blue is my favorite color (Please do not wrap Christmas presents, brick bats or stale fruit sent to this dept., in red paper)

My 3 secret bridge passions are: to render decisive wallopings to H. C. Shetrone and Fred Raether and Mrs. Harold Wise. . . . When those football players at W. H. S. pile up in a mound before a game, they don't say anything to each other. They shout in each other's ears, and spit on their hands and sometimes on their faces—in general, they go through a sort of primeval religious ceremony. It haint a pink tea party you dope.

George Trimble, 227 Elton Ave. parked his car the other day, in front of the Doherty Auto Supply store, and went in Craft's Cleaning Estab. to chew the well-known fat. Meanwhile, a chap drove up and asked the man on duty at Doherty's to fill his radiator with alcohol and he went on his way a few moments to attend to other business.

A few moments later George came out of Craft's and found that his radiator had just been filled with the anti-freeze liquid, the garage man having mixed the two cars. Now George declares he's going to park near a grocery store for a basket of groceries—or maybe a furniture store, where he can get a piano.

West Cagers Play On Foreign Courts

To Visit Newark and Zanesville Tonight and Saturday Night; Lose Opener, 31 to 10.

The West High cage season will get under way in real earnest this week-end with the Cowboys slated to meet two out-of-town opponents on foreign courts. The Wisemen will hook up with Zanesville Lash tonight, returning after the ball game in order to attend the basketball clinic Saturday morning and afternoon.

Saturday evening they will trek to Newark for their second game of the week-end. Following a poor showing last week against Marietta, in which game Jerry Spears came back into the athletic fold in a stellar fashion, the locals will be underdogs of the most definite nature this week. A strong Marietta squad won in a walk last Friday night in the Pioneer city, 31 to 10, with Spears' splendid floor-work being the only Crimson highlight.

With the opening of the city league season not far in the offing, the men of Wise will have to show marked improvement if they are to be first division contenders. At the present time, indications point to a close race between North and Central for top honors, with East having a slight edge over South for third place. West is counted the favorite to beat Aquinas out of the cellar position.

David "Dibby" Deshler Named Tackle on All-State Grid Team

David "Dibby" Deshler, for the past three years a giant tackle on the West High football team, climaxed his grid career in a blaze of glory Sunday when the first annual All-State selections were announced. He was given a berth on the first team, being the only Columbus player to be so honored; no other localite was even so much as named in the honorable mention list.

The selections, representing a score of schools throughout the state, were made by vote of more than 100 sports writers, coaches and critics.

Being mentioned on an all-team, however, is nothing new to the Deshler family. "Dibby" has three brothers, all of whom were mentioned as outstanding gridders in Columbus during their respective scholastic careers. Dana, who labored as a tackle the three years prior to the advent of Dibby into the spotlight, was also a tackle. Bernie, who is a Central graduate, was a fullback, while Francis was a lineman at South.

But it was left to the youngest of the four to achieve the greatest fame. And as a gridder, he's worthy of every word of the praise bestowed upon him. He has been the outstanding tackle in the Columbus circuit for three years, both offensively and defensively, and he plays the game with a zest that bespeaks a great love for physical combat.

Deshler will close his athletic career at West with the close of the current basketball campaign.

REDDY COMES BACK WITH A BRIGHT IDEA

IN VAIN Reddy Fox sat on the bank of the Smiling Pool waiting for Jerry Muskrat to reappear. After awhile it became clear to Reddy that Jerry didn't intend to return. He got up and stretched. Then he yawned. He looked down in the Smiling Pool and his face was anything but pleasant. In fact there was an ugly look on Reddy's face.

"Now what did he have to think of that mud for?" growled Reddy to himself. "Everything was going fine until he thought of that mud. He was so interested in the plans for that house for me that in a few minutes more I would have had him out of there to show me what to do and how to do it. Then he remembered that he had to have mud to build a house properly and that ended his interest. I believe he was as disappointed at having to give up the idea of that house as I am at not having him for my dinner. I must think this over. I certainly must."

"Hello, Jerry Muskrat!" He Cried.

The next night Reddy was back at the Smiling Pool, just as pleasant as ever, and, if Jerry Muskrat had only known it, just as crafty as ever. He waited some time for Jerry to show himself. You see, having remembered that no house could be built without mud and that there was no mud to be had where Reddy would want to build a house, Jerry had given up all thought of that house and concluded that Reddy had done the same. So he wasn't looking for Reddy to return this night.

As soon as he saw Jerry swimming Reddy called to him. "Hello, Jerry Muskrat!" he cried. "I've good news for you. I've thought of a way to get the mud for that new house, so we won't have to give up our plans after all."

In an instant Jerry was all interest. He headed straight toward the bank where Reddy was sitting. "How are we to get that mud?" he squeaked. "I've thought and thought and thought until my head ached, but the only way I could think of is to carry it from here, and that we can't do."

Reddy grinned. "Listen," said he. "What is mud?"

"Why—why—why I suppose it is earth and water," stammered Jerry.

"Exactly," replied Reddy. "Certainly. Of course. To be sure. Now don't you see how we can get all the mud we need?"

Jerry scratched one ear. Then he scratched the other ear. After this he scratched the top of his head.

"No-o-o," he replied slowly. "No-o-o, I can't say that I do."

"We'll wait until it rains!" cried Reddy triumphantly. "We'll wait until it rains and then we will get all the mud we need from the pile of earth I have thrown out in digging my underground house. Wasn't it clever of me to think of that. Now we won't have to give up the house after all and you will help me build it just as we planned. We'll make it the most wonderful house that ever was!"

For a minute or two Jerry Muskrat brightened up. Then he remembered that what Reddy probably had thrown out was mostly sand, and sand does not make real mud.

"You'll have to think again, Reddy Fox," said he, and told him why. So once more Reddy went away disappointed.

DR. W. O. THOMPSON

Doctor Thompson is dead and Columbus has lost her first citizen. Other men have gained high offices or won distinction in various lines of activity, but for a quarter of a century Dr. Thompson has been the most outstanding man of the city. Columbus will miss the rugged personality, towering intellect and fine public spirit of this man.

The words of Markham on the death of Lincoln comes to our mind:

"And when he fell in whirlwind, he went down
As when a lordly cedar, green with bows,
Goes down with a great shout upon the hills,
And leaves a lonesome place against the sky."

In the years we have known Columbus, it has seemed that the three great, dominant leaders of the city have been Dr. Gladden, Dr. Thompson and Dr. Baldwin. The first went away years ago, the last is tarrying as the sunset of life deepens, and now Dr. Thompson is no more.

Our greatest preacher, our greatest educator and our greatest surgeon, all have brought honor on Columbus and blessings to humanity.

What an inspiration to the young people of Columbus the life of Dr. Thompson should be! He was born in a little village in the eastern part of the state of humble parents. He had neither wealth nor influence to help him, he needed neither, for he had courage, industry and will power. We find him at sixteen, a student in college, supporting himself and working his way through college. Graduating at an early age, he prepared both for the ministry and a teaching career. Probably to his mind there was very little difference in the two professions for he knew that the Great Prencher was also called Teacher.

He rose rapidly in the ministry until finally he was chosen to be Moderator of the Presbyterian church, the highest office in that great church. But most of his life work was to be spent in the field of education. While yet a young man he was elected president of a college in Colorado, where he was so successful that in a few years Ohio called him back to be president of Miami University, which position he held eight years. In 1899 he became president of the Ohio State University. Everybody knows of his great work there. When he took charge of the university it was little more than a good high school either in curriculum or in attendance. He made it one of the largest and greatest universities in America. It would be impossible in a brief article to even name the many great things Dr. Thompson did for the State University. The Ohio State University is his monument.

But even the great fields of the ministry and education could not confine the energies of this wonderful man. He was a leader in business and the political life of the city, was president of a large insurance company, member of the Board of Education, and always active in civic affairs, especially when any moral questions were involved.

He loved agriculture, and his favorite recreation was to go out to his farm and work as a laborer in the fields.

This reminds the writer of an incident that shows the rugged honesty of the man. He owned a fine farm near Plain City. One day when the price of land was rising a dealer came to him and asked the price of the farm. Dr. Thompson named a price, but the man did not buy and went away. A few days later another buyer hearing that the farm was for sale, came to him and offered two thousand dollars more than the doctor had asked. But Doctor Thompson answered, "I told the other man he could have the farm for two thousand dollars less than your offer, and while I am not legally bound, I have given my word and he can have the farm if he wants it," and he sold the farm to the first man for the smaller amount.

He was an intimate friend of Pres. Wilson and could have entered the cabinet as Secretary of Agriculture, but preferred to accept another position that would not require him to leave the university.

But all this does not measure the stature of William Oxley Thompson—he was a great preacher, a great teacher, a great business man, a great moral leader, but he was more than that—he was a great Man!

THE LINDBERGHS

The whole country was thrilled and delighted last week to hear that the Lindberghs had again crossed the Atlantic and had landed safely on the coast of Brazil. They are trying out the different air routes around the world and especially the best routes across the Atlantic. Most of us hardly realize that this is the beginning of a new method of trans-Atlantic travel that in a few years may become the ordinary method of crossing the ocean or indeed circumnavigating the globe. It staggers the imagination to think that in a few years we may be able to fly across the Atlantic in a few hours, and that we may have the papers published in the European capitals on our breakfast tables the next morning. Well might Morse in his first telegram say, "See what God has wrought."

Some people may have wondered why the Lindberghs went so far south to cross the ocean. The answer is simple, South America extends a thousand miles farther east than North America and is fifteen hundred miles nearer the Eastern Continent than North America. It is only sixteen hundred miles across the ocean where they crossed while it is over three thousand miles across from New York to London. It may be a surprise to many to learn that a line passing south from Columbus would fall in the Pacific ocean and pass entirely west of South America.

Probably not one in recent years has succeeded in gaining the attention and affection of the American people so much as Lindy and Ann. A sketch of their lives would be interesting. Lindbergh is the son of Swedish parents. His father was a member of Congress several terms but was finally defeated because his financial ideas were offensive to the great capitalists of the East. His mother has been a teacher in the public schools of Detroit since her husband's death. Lindbergh had neither financial or social advantages, yet he married the daughter of one of the millionaire partners of the J. P. Morgan Co. and member of the U. S. Senate. Ann Morrow left wealth and high social position to join her life with this humble young aviator, and gained happiness and the world's admiration and affection. She has accompanied her husband in his flying trips to all parts of the world, and proved herself a worthy mate of such a daring hero. There is no story in all the world's literature more romantic than theirs.

The one great sorrow that has come into their lives is the kidnaping and murder of their first baby,—a crime so horrible that it shocked the world. They have another child safely protected in the home of Grandmother Morrow in New York. Ann says she is homesick to see her baby and is hurrying home to spend Christmas with Him.

May they return safely and have a Merry Christmas is the wish of the American people.

Germany Has World's Largest Dredge

THIS dredge, the largest ever constructed, has been placed in service in the coal fields of northern Germany. The great scoops dig out more than 1,000 carloads of coal per day. The enormous machine is moved on railroad tracks and it combines many safety features. Should a sudden storm arise it can be folded and moved into a position where strong winds will do it the least harm.

The Nature Trail

By JOHN WOLFE

The air was cold and a raw wind blew as we set out, last week-end, for Hocking hills. Just over the boundary line, between Fairfield and Hocking counties, a tributary of Clear Creek winds its way through a rather broad valley, rimmed on one side by high, sandstone cliffs, and on the other, by steep hills.

Winter is far from a dull season for either the botanist or the ornithologist, and even through the colder months, color, in more diminutive quantities of course, can be found by any alert eye.

We struck for the cliffs, and winding up the narrow path, we noted on an old log, a small patch of brilliant red. It turned out to be the fruiting bodies of a small lichen, Cladonia cristatella, which is rather abundant and its small tips, no larger than a match head, contains the most brilliant red in all nature.

Lichens, to the writer at least, are the most interesting plants to be found in the field. In reality, they are composed of two plants, a microscopic alga and a fungus growth. Upon maturity, fruiting bodies are formed, and from these, tiny, dustlike spores are blown by the winds, perhaps. The spores, corresponding to the seeds of higher plants, will only germinate and produce a new lichen, when they are in contact with certain algae.

There are, in general, three types of lichens to be found in the field. One, and perhaps the most abundant, is the crustose form. They may be seen on any exposed cliffs, often embedded in the rocks. The others, fruticose and foliose, are also to be found, but the latter, of a pendant nature, is more tropical in habitat. The fruticose forms are erect.

A great many of Ohio lichens are gray or gray-green in color, although there are many which have more brilliant pigments present. In the West, however, the rocky walls of the canyons and the brilliant coloration of the landscape is largely due to the presence of these plants, brilliantly colored—some red, some yellow, some purple.

Down through the woods, greenery of ferns and mosses made its appearance. It is not only in the spring that fresh green springs forth, for Winter finds the mosses and liverworts and many ferns are at the height of their development. The Christmas Fern, especially, evergreen throughout the winter, can be seen in great clumps, standing from rocky crevices.

The depths of the valley seemed much warmer as we rambled along, for although the ground was frozen, we were protected from the biting December wind by the forest and surrounding hills. Following the creek, its course interrupted a hundred times by rocky boulders, we once again returned to the open field, where the car was parked. And it was with enthusiasm that we piled into the "old crock," and struck out for Columbus. But it was a great trip, despite the nipped ears and numbed fingers—a most interesting ramble, both profitable and enjoyable.

On this particular trip we were especially interested in the finding of a rare form, having much the same appearance of Cladonia cristatella—the red-topped one, but with a fruiting body of pink. It carries the rather formidable name of Baeomyces byssoides, and has been reported but once.

High on the cliff edge, where the bare rock has been covered by a thin layer of soil, we searched diligently, often in likely looking places, crawling along on hands and knees in search of the specimen. Finally, after all hope of success had been abandoned, we noted a single stalk of the little plant, its pink top all but hidden by soil and pine needles. Search as we would, no more of the form could be found in the vicinity. We were on our way, when in the most unlikely of places, a pine thicket, we discovered a great patch of fruiting material. Gathering a sufficient quantity then, for the herbarium at the Ohio State University, we rumbled on, content if never another interesting discovery made its appearance during the ramble.

Having followed the rim of the valley on the cliff edge for more than a mile, we descended then, into the valley below. On the vertical walls of sandstone, two more interesting plants were observed, not to mention the tiny walking fern. One great, leathery-appearing plant, often found to be six to nine inches in diameter, along with a smaller form, with an upper surface covered with wart-like pustules, blanketed the rocky cliff face. These plants, too were rare, although found in for the state, the writer having found it in Fairfield County, abundance in certain localities of the state.

Good Food News for Christmas Festivities

The gay and friendly spirit of Christmas, its lavish hospitality is mirrored in the piquant and savory foods prepared for that day. In the great roasts or succulent fowl, in puddings, in tiny colorful cakes and pastries. We've planned a menu particularly appropriate for Christmas with recipes for the preparation of the principal dishes.

Holiday Fruit Cup
Celery Curls Ripe Olives
Roast Beef, Yorkshire Pudding
Whipped Potatoes Stuffed Onions
Julienne Salad
Clover Leaf Rolls
Prune and Almond Bavarian Cream
Coffee

Holiday Fruit Cup

6 oranges.
2 small grapefruit.
1 cup white cherries, stoned.
6 tablespoons lemon juice.
2 cups powdered sugar.

Segment oranges and grapefruit; combine and sprinkle with lemon juice and powdered sugar. Dot top with mint jelly and garnish with marschino cherry.

Roast Beef

6 lbs. beef, rib roast.
Salt and pepper.
French dressing.
3 tablespoons flour.
2 cups water.
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.

Wipe meat, lay on rack in roasting pan, place one tablespoon water in pan, dust with salt and pepper and baste often during cooking. Should be roasted in hot oven until well seared over, then reduce heat allowing thirty minutes for first pound and twelve to fifteen minutes for each additional pound. If sprinkled with French dressing the day before cooking, the meat will be tender and juicy. Serve with Worcestershire sauce.

Stuffed Onions

Parboil large mildly flavored onions until partially tender, drain and scoop out deeply. Chop the portions removed very fine and add ½ cup soft bread crumbs, ¼ cup chopped nut meats. Saute in melted fat to a nice brown and add salt, pepper, paprika to taste, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley. Fill onions and cover with browned crumbs and grated cheese. Place in baking pan with ¼ cup hot water and bake 15 minutes.

Yorkshire Pudding

Beef fat from roast.
1 egg.
½ cup milk.
½ cup flour.
½ teaspoon baking powder.

Use beef fat from roast to grease custard cups and put in hot oven. Beat remaining ingredients for four minutes. Pour into custard cups to ½ inch deep; place in a pan and bake 15 minutes. Reduce heat and leave 10 minutes. Turn off heat and leave 10 minutes or until cooked through. When well puffed baste with beef fat and serve with roast.

Quick Rolls

Dissolve one yeast cake in ½ cup luke warm water, add one teaspoon sugar and 1¾ cups flour, beat well, add one scant teaspoon salt, 1¾ cups flour, two tablespoons lard. Knead well, roll out and cut with biscuit cutter. Place in well greased baking pan slight distance apart. Let rise 2 hours or till twice original bulk. Bake in hot oven.

Prune Almond Bavarian Cream

Wash ½ lb. prunes, cover with cold water and let stand over night. In the morning add the grated rind of one orange and cook till prunes are tender. Soften one tablespoon gelatine in prune juice, add ¾ cup of sugar and one cup hot prune juice. Add ½ cup of prunes cut into small pieces together with juice of one orange, ¼ teaspoon salt and two tablespoons chopped almonds. Put in cool place till mixture begins to thicken, fold in one cup whipped cream, turn into mold and let stand till firm. Unmold and surround with cooked prunes with almond in center of each.

Their Christmas Secret

BY ESTHER TITUS WORTHEN

Two little heads at our house,
Are bending close and low.
Their whisperings lead me to think,
A secret they must know.

Shyly they tiptoe about,
With wrappings soft and white;
The footfalls sounds mysterious,
Their eyes glow in delight.

The merry laughter half-suppressed,
Makes my soul lift in prayer:
For love that fills each little heart,
Cradles the Christ-Child there.

Christmas Novelties, Cards and Seals at Weber's.

HOME MADE CANDIES

Old English Toffee

½ cup butter.
2 cups sugar.
¾ lb. dipping sweet chocolate.
¾ lb. roasted salted almonds or pecans.

Melt butter in skillet. Add sugar and stir until melted and rich brown in color. Add the almonds and continue to cook till almonds are cooked through. Pour mixture in buttered pan. Cool and when almost hard loosen the edges and turn over so that the flat surface is on top. Cool. Melt the chocolate over warm water and coat the top surface with the chocolate. Sprinkle with chopped salted almonds or pecans.

Molasses Candy

2 tablespoons butter.
½ cup water.
1 cup molasses.
2 tablespoons sugar.
½ teaspoon soda.
4 tablespoons corn syrup.
½ teaspoon peppermint extract.

Put all ingredients in pan and stir until butter melts and sugar dissolves. Boil until it forms a hard ball in cold water. Pour on buttered platter and cool. Pull until a light color, using butter on the hands. Clip into small pieces and keep in a cool place.

SALADS

A Sweet Salad

Take one pint of shredded cabbage, one can of white cherries, one can of sliced pineapple, one pound of blanched almonds, one-half pound of fresh marshmallows and pint of whipped cream. Cut the cherries into halves, sugar into egg whites, add vanilla. Dice the pineapple, shred the almonds, quarter the marshmallows and mix all together with the whipped cream that has been combined with a few tablespoons of any good mayonnaise. Serve on crisp lettuce nests.

Piquant Salad

12 pears halves.
12 dates.
½ pkg. of cream cheese.
1 tablespoon orange or lemon juice.
2 tablespoons minced candied ginger.
Lettuce.
Salad dressing.

Stuff the pitted dates with the cheese which has been moistened with the pear syrup or with French dressing. Sprinkle surface of cheese with minced candied ginger. Put a stuffed date in cavity of each pear. Serve on lettuce leaves with French dressing.

Lima Bean Salad

2 cups drained canned green limas.
2 cups diced celery.
6 chopped olives.
1 minced onion.
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper.

Mix the ingredients in the order given, moisten with the following cooked salad dressing and arrange on lettuce leaves or in a salad bowl.

Cooked Salad Dressing

1 egg, well beaten.
1 tablespoon sugar.
1 teaspoon mustard.
1 teaspoon salt.
Dash of pepper.
½ cup vinegar.

Mix the ingredients together and cook until they begin to thicken. Cool and add one-half cup of cream.

The LOOKOUT

By J. N. WOLFE

'BOUND ABOUT THE HILLTOP

There's a story behind the fact that George (Meadowlark) McCrea was listed among the big donors to the Charity Newsies. Bob Kline, a big league pitcher, strolled in the billiard parlor tother aft and asked Geo. for a buck. And the stingling one, being a tad of a big leeger, handed over the requested greenback. Whereupon Kline presented McCrea with an engraved card signifying a contribution to the charity organization. So the applause and cheers for George's philanthropy must be switched to Kline. . . . Howard Gibson and Glenna Evans got hooked up while Glenna was still in school at WHS; and their lads are now doing service at the alma mammy. . . . Norma Ann Link, who just a short while back, drank a bottle of lak. Nope, not a habitual boozer, just the 17-mos.-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Link (Mary DeGood). . . . In answer to the query: "Whaddaya know about Sherm Edwards?" Ray Hauntz comes back with a "Huh!" . . . The same question to Sherm of Ray brot out the fact that Ray borrog Sherm's snow shovel one Saturday and when the big snow arrived on Sun., the implement was locked up in Hauntz's store, where Sherm couldn't get it. . . . Carl Ryan—well, what about him? . . . Jim Matheny, who one week fetched home eight Burmuda onions for Sunday dinner—and the next week forgot to order anything. . . . Purely Personal Pish Posh: There's something in that "Yoo-hoo, in the valley" song that I like. . . . Mrs. H. E. Markins was the easiest housewife I ever waited on, when I was a grocery clerk. (Great Scott, the guy did work once.) . . . No, Mrs. Fink, you gave me thunder once when, on a hurry rush for sliced pineapple, I sent the mushed variety. And you sent it back. . . . What! you don't remember? . . . One guy, I forget his name, always watched me weigh out his stuff—so he wouldn get cheated. That type always did well to break even. . . . Alice Stables suggests April Showers, so refreshingly spasmodic. . . . I like the white meat of chicken. . . . I never like the way George Pekras speaks to me: Hi keesseed! . . . The more outspoken of his friends are claiming Elmer Smith sent Xmas greetings out a wk. early so he'd get a lot back. . . . Haven't heard from Earl Kline in a long spell. . . . Haint nobuddy sent in a calendar (1934) to ye olde lookout yet!

Thoughts: Wonder what women think about while "making up." There is some evidence that the mind wanders a little. . . . Walter Winchell reports that not a few of the nation's somebodies were once reporters. That 18 a consolation . . . (As if the guy had a chance.) . . . Two Fridays the 13ths next year—in April and July. (Who's afraid of the big, bad wolf?) . . . July 4 comes on Wed., where in does nobuddy enny good. . . . And likewise Decoration Day. . . . But Armistice Day is worse yet, we get cheated out of a day off, for it falls on Sunday. . . . And George Birthington's Washday cometh on a Thursday. . . . And you won't believe it, but Christmas is on a Tuesday but New Years falls on Monday next year. Better check again before you throw the brick . . .

Add memories: The horse-drawn delivery wagon that used to clatter up the street with the groceries in the old home town. . . . Grandmother's red and white checkered kitchen table cloth . . . And the old summer kitchen that had a heavy smell . . . And that fake egg they used to put in the hen nests in the chicken coop. . . . Bob Brooker, who used to climb the maple tree in front of our house and whistle for me, because he was afraid of my mother . . . "Old Town," the swimmin' hole in Goose Crick just beyond the race track at the fairgrounds' . . . The pine trees in the cemetery over the hill. . . . A dozen different church bells chiming on Sunday mornings. . . . Knee trousers and long black stockings on Sunday for Sunday scoote . . . And I never could understand, after mother had washed my nose and ears, why she'd swipe the same cloth over the rest of my face . . . MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Cowboys May Be Dark Horses In Scholastic Loop

Complete Disastrous Preliminary Campaign, But Show Potential Strength.

Saturday night at Newark, by taking a 32 to 19 lacing, the Cowboy basketballers closed the 1933 portion of the cage schedule with a perfect record—three losses in as many starts.

With Link and Hoffman contributing 12 of the squad's total, the team went down to defeat before the onslaught of a far stronger team, conqueror of three other Columbus quintets.

The next showing of the Wisemen will be on the home court on Friday evening, Jan. 5, when an alumni team will be met.

Lose to Zanesville

Friday night, on the Zanesville hardcourt, the Cowboys dropped a 36 to 20 decision to the Lash quintet. The game was closely contested throughout the first three periods, but a flurry of Blue Devil baskets in the final canto put the team far out in front. Zanesville led at half time, 12 to 10.

Jividen, with a quartet of field goals, was the high Cowboy scorer, with C. Spears of the Blue Devils leading all pointgetters with 11 points.

A tabulation of pre-season battles shows South to be leading the pack, mathematically, but the calibre of opposition the Bulldogs has been low. North, through the preliminaries, has proved to be outstanding, although will be forced to the wire by Central's Pirates.

East, with two losses in as many starts, has showed excellent form, and will be heard from in no uncertain terms before the local scholastic campaign has ended. Aquinas, with one victory in its only game, will be somewhat improved over last year's hapless quintet, but will be snowed under by the cross of the other league squads.

Although the pre-season campaign on the part of the Cowboys thus far has not been brilliantly executed, it must be pointed out that the class of opposition met has been superior to that of any other league squad. Also, Coach Wise has purposely brought the team along slowly, stressing offense for the moment and more or less letting defense take care of itself.

With but two games yet to play before the opening of the scholastic race, there will be a marked improvement in Cowboy play. Spears, who was counted upon to aid materially, is being bothered with ailing hips again, and may be out for good. Deshler may play the pivot position and shift to backguard after the tip-off. Link, the best floor man on the squad, and Jividen, whose play is improving rapidly, along with Hoffman and Burr, will probably round out the squad.

The season, all in all, will not be as drab as prospects at the present seem, for if the reserves press the first stringers hard enough, there will be some basketball played at West this year and of the type that may surprise the experts.

New Competition Needed, Rabbi Tarshish Says

"Past Educational Systems Have Built An Exalted Selfishness," P.-T. A. Told.

Dr. Rabbi Jacob Tarshish, addressing the West Junior-Senior Parent-Teacher association at West High school Monday evening, declared that there was a need for a new concept in the realm of education. He said: "A different social viewpoint must be established, built upon the philosophy of 'Peace upon earth and good will toward all men.'

"Our past educational trends have built an exalted selfishness, based upon the power of money, and must be rebuilt upon a better viewpoint based upon the spirit of co-operative understanding.

"Unrestrained competition cannot continue, as we have understood the term in the past. Better service will be the result of a new competition."

The Rabbi, quoting the first commandment, stressed the need for international good will, based upon the philosophy of Jesus and religious tolerance, as fundamental in making the world safe for the next generation.

Ornithologist Reports Interesting Data On Starling at State Hospital

Several months ago, in early March, there was chronicled in the Record, the story of ornithologists from the Ohio State University climbing into the Insane Asylum towers and catching European Starlings. And after clipping a small aluminum band on the leg of each, they were released.

On this band was a number—for purpose of identification. And now, since that time, reports of the birds have been coming in. But not from far away places—although that would be more romantic. But from right here on the Hilltop.

Just last week Dr. Lawrence E. Hicks and an assistant caught over 600 of the feathered creatures in the same tower they used last winter. And of those 600 odd birds, 14 per cent were caught in the same place just a year ago.

According to reports returned to Dr. Hicks, the birds banded in March, winter further south. All in all, indications are that the birds winter in the same place each year. For, of the 4220 birds banded at the hospital, 640 were recaptured.

Birds have been taken from the hospital, and released in Linden, and found again, at the hospital. According to Dr. Hicks, males outnumber the females two to one.

Among other interesting items reported was that of one bird, banded in Columbus, being found in New Jersey 11 days later. Another, banded here, was incubating eggs in Montreal 22 days afterwards. One bird at the hospital has been caught 14 times in four years.

Residents of the community finding banded birds, either dead or crippled, are asked by Dr. Hicks to report the number to him via post card at the university. Address Dr. L. E. Hicks, Botany Dept., O. S. U.

West Church Cage Teams Swing Into Action Tuesday

Annual Race for Church League Trophy Gets Under Way Before Capacity Crowds.

Before capacity crowds on the Glenwood shelter house courts Tuesday night, eight basketball teams of the West Church Cage League swung into action to open the 1933-34 title chase.

Four comparatively close games were played, the results running true to predictions, with West Park M. E., Gift St. M. E., Holy Family and Warren Nazarene copping the victories.

Warren Nazarene, defeating Burgess C. B., was the only Hilltop team to mark on the right side of the ledger. The local squad, in the final game of the evening, played the best game of the evening to come in with a 34 to 14 victory.

Hoge Memorial went down before the onslaughts of Holy Family, 24 to 15; while Glenwood M. E., the other Hilltop quintet in the circuit, dropped a hard game to Gift St. M. E. 19 to 14.

In a low scoring melee, West Park M. E. and Avondale U. B. inaugurated the evening's program, the former taking a 12 to 9 decision.

Games are slated weekly, on Tuesday evenings at the Glenwood shelter house. The opening game gets under way at seven o'clock, with Dana Deshler, former West High basketball and football star, officiating.

CHRISTMAS

"On earth peace, good will toward men," the angels sang almost two thousand years ago as the Babe lay in the manger.

As we come to the end of the year, we think of the many astonishing events of recent years, of a great war, of the fall of great governments, and the rise of new theories of government, of the world-wide financial panic, and possibly the strangest of all, the change of national ideals. But next Monday the entire civilized world will pause to observe the anniversary of the birth of Jesus the Christ, and this fact is the hope of the world.

There is no place in the civilized world where the influence of Jesus is not felt. Millions may profess not to be his followers, but consciously or not, they accept His teachings as the standard of right living.

Do we ever stop to think of the memorials the world has erected to this Man? There is not a city or hardly a village in the civilized world, where there is not a church dedicated in this name, and almost the first object a stranger sees as he enters a village is a church with its spire silently pointing to heaven or its cross reminding him of His sacrifice.

There is hardly a great book in the literature of the last nineteen centuries that does not refer to His teachings. The great arts of the modern world, as music, sculpture and painting, all pay their tribute to the Son of Man. The great orations and the great poems are filled with references to Him. Read the orations of Webster, Lincoln or Bryan for example.

Even the monuments in the cemeteries, by their crosses and quotations, proclaim that the hope of the world is in Him who said "I am the resurrection and the life."

The world does well to turn from its ordinary pursuits to observe the birthday of the Savior of the world. But it may be objected that peace and good will do not prevail in the world, that there are rumors of war, corruption in governments, strife and dishonesty in business, and injustice in the world. This is very true, because the teachings of Christ have never been applied in the business life of the people.

One day the Master sat down on the mountain side and talked to his disciples about the problems of life, and among other things, He said to them: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." When men obey this one command, wars will pass away, there will be no need of armament, there will be no need of prisons, and social injustice will disappear.

When the world learns to keep the Golden Rule there will be peace on earth and good will toward men.

PRESS ON

ETHEL TITUS WORTHEN

It was not in the wind or fire,
Nor in the great earthquake;
But in a still, small voice, that God
Unto Elijah, spake.

O let us not be weary, nor
Faint hearted on the way;
With God for us, we cannot fail,
And God still lives today!

Let us press forward, looking up,
And follow faithfully;
The Christ who will direct us right,
And lead to victory.

Sheltering God's Gift

No curtained or carpeted dwelling
No showering white to enshrine
No kindly receptions devised
For God's Gift, a wee baby divine.

A manger was purposed through Love
For the Christ-child apart from the Inn,
And there where the cattle were stalled
Mary housed the Redeemer for sin.

Our Father this yuletide bestir us
In our houses of clay to fulfill
And shelter the Saviour of Life
Guardian and Giver of peace and good will.

—Mary Rutan Byerly, 75 Midland Ave

The PEOPLES COLUMN

Mr. J. A. Runyan, Hilltop Record
14 S. Oakley Ave., Columbus, O.
Dear Sir:

This note will transmit my congratulations on your most excellent editorial on Dr. W. O. Thompson.

When I entered Ohio State thirty years ago, President Thompson was in his prime, starting to put the university on the educational map, and a great inspiration to the undergraduates.

Your eulogistic article with superlatives of our departed friend was in keeping with his unblemished life.

Yours truly,
Harry L. Hopwood.

TEACHER'S

Lost Dog License Found; Dog Still Missing.

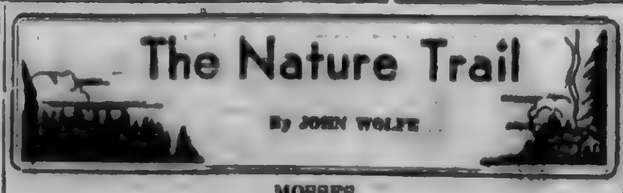
Lost, strayed or stolen, O. C. Montgomery's white collie dog, with ears tipped black, is gone—having disappeared from the West High physics teacher's home one week ago Monday.

And this, in spite of the fact that officials at John Burrough's school, noting a lost dog on the premises, this week learned of its ownership via the license plate, and notified Mr. Montgomery. And he, forthwith, hurried to the scene.

But it was a mongrel dog that wore the license plate of the beautiful collie. So Mr. Montgomery is still looking for his canine pet—a white collie, not yet six months old, with ears tipped black.

Succumbs Friday

Funeral services for Carrie Alice Heyl, aged 55, wife of Arthur G. Heyl, of 75 S. Wheatland Ave., were held from the residence Monday, Dec. 18, with interment in Eastlawn cemetery. She succumbed at her home Friday Dec. 15, and leaves, besides her husband, two sons, one daughter, five brothers, one sister, and five grandchildren.



Last Rites

Funeral services for Miss Rosa A. Lee, who died in Mt. Carmel hospital, Wednesday, Dec. 13, were held on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 16, from the Hilltop Lutheran church, followed by burial in Green Lawn cemetery. Besides her mother, Mrs. Hattie Lee, 36 N. Powell Ave., she is survived by two sisters.

The Nature Trail

By JOHN WOLFE

MOSSES

Every year, when the Christmas season passes and the new year begins, one's thoughts almost unconsciously turn to thoughts of early spring, although it is yet three months in the offing. Sometimes, however, the heralds of the season—trailing arbutus and the lowly but interesting skunk cabbage—paradoxes of beauty and fragrance, raise their blossoms above the snow. Indeed, both have been observed as early as January. But such cases are rare, and perhaps the botanist finds the greatest winter interest in the lower plants—the mosses and lichens.

Winter Greenery

By far the most conspicuous plants of wood and field during the winter months, are the mosses. Their fresh greenery adds much to the drab landscape, and contrasts strikingly even with the darker green of the pines and hemlocks.

Found in a variety of habitats, the rambler is often astonished by the discovery of an interesting form in places often frequented during the fall and spring and summer—but because of the great abundance of other conspicuous things, has almost forgotten the lowly mosses. The plants are found on the bark of trees, on decayed wood or peaty humus, on stones, mortared walls and rock cliffs, on the soil and in the case of certain forms, in the water or at least, partially submerged during a portion of their existance. The habitats are generally of a moist shady nature, such as may be found in abundance in the Sugar Grove region.

Mosses vs. Liverworts

In the popular conception, there is no difference between a moss and a liverwort. To one unacquainted with the plants of wood and field, anything from algae to lichens is labelled a moss. But because of the fact that liverworts are apt to be found in identical habitats with the mosses, to distinguish the two may prove exceptionally troublesome to the beginner.

In the first place, mosses have generally upright stems, with the "leaflets" or scales emerging from many angles. The liverworts, on the other hand, are flat and the scales emerge in but two directions. This is the best means of distinguishing the two in the field, although it must be remembered that a moss, with a flat appearance, may have, upon examination with a hand lense, scales emerging from the stem in many directions.

Some Common Forms

The Wavey Catharines, named for Catherine II of Russia, is one of the very commonest of mosses and may often be found in moist and shady locations along streams. It has long, slender, slightly curved capsules, and is consequently easily recognized.

The Pin-Cushion moss (Leucobryum) is one of the most conspicuous plants of the woodland floor. Resembling a large pin-cushion, from which it gets its name, its silvery-green may be found in the open woods the year around. It is one of the prettiest and yet one of the most abundant of the mosses.

The Fern-moss (Thuidium), of which there are several species, is another form easily recognized. The delicate tracery of its fern-like "leaves" blankets great rocks and boulders and old logs in thick mats. The shape of its "leaf" is its distinguishing mark in the field.

One of the most interesting of all is the Tree-moss (Climacium), no more than an inch and a half in height, yet with the shape of a palm tree. Its woody stem is devoid of "leaflets" an inch above the ground, where the foliage appears in a cluster. Each "tree" springs from an underground stem, which, each year produces a new plant at the end. This moss, found most abundantly by the writer in the wooded swamp at Cedar Bog near Urbana, is also found elsewhere in the state and is easily identified.

In exceedingly moist places, near creeks in wooded regions, the delicate Apple-moss (Bartramia) is found. It gets its name from the shape of its capsules which have the superficial appearance of diminutive apples. The plant itself has the appearance of a tuft of green wool.

By far the commonest of all our mosses and probably the easiest to identify, is the Wind-blown moss (Dicranum). Found in abundance on exposed hillsides and in wooded areas, its tufts of scales give the appearance of having been blown by the wind into such a position. Its appearance is welcome on any ramble, albeit abundant.

Only a few of the mosses, however, are easily recognized in the field without the aid of a hand lens, or in some cases, a compound microscope. The ones mentioned above include some of the commoner forms, and can be noted on almost any trip afield—especially in the hill country.

Now, in the season when all nature seems to be in the depths of slumber, is the time to become acquainted with the group. For soon, although winter is not yet at its height, the season will once again bring with it the more conspicuous features of the landscape. And with them, the mosses and lichens and liverworts are almost forgotten.

Birds in North America

The bureau of biological survey says that there are 802 specimens of native birds in North America, north of Mexico. This number includes more than 1,400 sub-species. As far as individual specimens are concerned, it is estimated that there are two birds per acre in the United States and Canada.

Chemical Can Change Structure

One of the strangest things that a chemical can do is to change the natural structure of a growing creature. An extra quantity of magnesium sulphate added to sea-water will make the two normal eyes of young fishes unite into one middle eye.

John Howard Paine's Tomb

John Howard Paine, author of "Home, Sweet Home" was first interred at Tunis, Africa, where he died. In 1883 his body was brought home and interred at a great public funeral in Oak Hill cemetery, Washington, D. C.

Size of British Empire

The British empire covers 13,166,582 square miles, about one-fourth of the inhabitable land surface of the earth. The population according to estimates is 485,302,565, which is about 15,000,000 less than one-fourth of the total number on the earth.

Disposition of Bears

Of the bears of the world the glossy Himalayan black is held in high respect by sportsmen as the most unreliable, the polar bear next, and the black bear third. The polar bear, quick and sly on the reach, is quarrelsome.

Disappointments Due To Overbuilt Hopes Writer Says

In a trade Bulletin one writer, speaking of the depression has this to say:

Our disappointments, however, have been probably due more to our overbuilt hopes, our anxiety and impatience than to the failure of government effort. One economist says: "The recent wave of disappointment and pessimism is nothing more or less than a normal leveling of overbuilt hopes."

Let us exercise just a little patience, and consider some of the true facts:

First of all, the depression has been world wide. Today we find a slow but general recovery taking place throughout the world. Business is not only improving in the United States but it is on the upgrade in Europe and elsewhere. England, for instance, reports a substantial increase in employment and a steady rise in industrial activity. Conditions in France have shown improvement since June, 1932. Then, too, Germany has benefited from a 20% decline in unemployment during the past year and a half as well as proportionate gain in industrial activity. Business throughout the United States has been on the upgrade since early in 1933 and generally speaking is continuing upward.

The recovery is world-wide and will gain force with its advance. There is no short cut to prosperity—it is a slow and tedious climb. In a basic sense it can be forced but little. It is perhaps better that such is the case, for otherwise it could not be real—and would only lead us into a repetition of world economic troubles. A slow recovery means a permanent prosperity.

The LOOKOUT

By J. N. WOLFE

SILENCE

I have never been quite provoked to loud cheers and undue exhultry by observing the rare beauty of a sunset. It has always been difficult, upon gazing at hills, forest with pine and blanketed with snow, to cry aloud and marvel with words at wintry splendor.

I have watched, in the coolness of the morning, the sun rise over landscape green and drenched with dew, every shining leaf aquiver and the woods re-echoing the song of sweet voiced birds—and I have never felt as though I should give three cheers and a tiger.

True, there comes to those who contact things of rare excellence, a desire to spread the glad tidings, so to speak. But the problem of expression immediately bobs up and the eloquence of silence prevails, understood, perhaps, only by those who have mastered the art of silent companionship.

Beauty, good things, good people, knowledge—are to be absorbed, not talked about. Verbosity in such things is like painting fine mahogany with pink enamel. In the utterly confusing babble of voices, the real essence is almost forgotten. The trivial replaces the profound.

There is a sweetness and placidity quite stimulating in silence. Silence is often unspoiled praise. "The stars," writes the poet, "sing an anthem of glory. I cannot put into speech." Indeed, his speech would wreck the anthem.

'ROUND ABOUT THE HILLTOP

Personal nomination for the most charming and ingenuous of hostesses: Ruth Pearch, whose pty for Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hill on Nunn nite was a grand affair. . . . George Melvin's grin is worth approximately $1,000,000. . . . (Dolphs can't out that, kinya). . . . Overheard and reported: The postcrawl in Nina Shank: "If you don't get a love-letter pretty soon, I'll have to write one to you myself. . . . Henry Jones had two or three grand evenings last week, beside his new radio. Listen to his wife tell it: "With his big easy chair and pipe and newspaper and radio, he looked like a millyun dollars. But of course he wasn't that!" . . . Geo. Owen, whose benchwarming activities during the opening church league game were punctuated with roars and rumbles from the chesty one, telling: "There haint no guy in the league can score five points on me." After a while they put Geo. in the game, and a sudden swish—swish—swish spelled his doom. For the man he was to watch cut loose with three buckets in as many minutes for six points. . . . Ralph Welch remembers when Juanita Draper Cline rode his tricycle up and down Wayne Ave. . . . Wonder what ever became of Bob Fairchild. . . . Ray Kudel, one of my favorite people. . . . That Boral chappie (aged 15—enuf to know better) got a Xmas gift from a friend. Scrutinizing the article meticulously, he rumbled: "Say, where's the price tag on this thing?" . . . No "Good Morning" more robust than that of E. E. Parrett. . . .

Sam Toy's wife (Virginia Craft) has lost her voice, and, quoting Sam: "Am I glad." Sam has been mumbling to himself about the house all wk. just for the pure joy of mumbling. . . .

Letter

Mr. Harold Denton, Pres.
West Hi Alumni Ass'n.

There is much favorable comment going the rounds concerning the West High Alumni association. There seems to be a new spirit in the organization, which is probably in keeping with the trend of the times, both in the country at large and the school in particular. There is more good news coming from the group of which you are president than any other organization in the community.

The school itself is looking upon the Alumni's activities in a different light—in a cooperative spirit. "They're going places," one official told this writer last week. The business men are watching—maybe silently—but they're watching. The grads themselves are beginning to ask if your present activity is just a splurge of enthusiasm that

Business Men to Install Officers

Atty. General John W. Bricker to Be Speaker at Annual Banquet Meeting On Jan. 9.

Attorney General John W. Bricker will be the speaker at the annual banquet meeting of the Hilltop Business Men's association according to information received from C. H. Campbell, president, this week.

The wives of the members of the organization will be guests at the meeting, which will be held at a place yet to be announced, Tuesday evening, Jan. 9.

The newly elected officers for the coming year will be installed at that meeting. The election was held at the December meeting of the association.

The following are the officers to be installed: Floyd Green, president; F. F. Shank, first vice president; W. H. Coulthard, second vice president; Lou Saunders, secretary; C. G. Wilcox, treasurer; and H. G. Deems, Dr. C. H. Loos and C. J. Kohn, trustees.

Cowboys to Play Again Next Week

Two Weeks of Idleness to Terminate Next Friday Night When Alumni Cagers Are Met.

What may be a vastly improved Cowboy basketball team will have another week of rest before terminating a two-week vacation with a game next Friday evening against the stars of former years at West High.

The game next Friday will be the last of a quartet of preliminary skirmishes, for on Tuesday evening, Jan. 9, the men of Wise will open the city scholastic campaign against Central's Pirates on the Riverside court.

Next week's rehearsals at the local institution will stress defensive play and a much stronger team will make its appearance on the floor one week from Tuesday. Although the squad has been coming along slowly, Coach Wise is pleased with the development thus far.

The probable starting lineup has not yet been indicated by the West mentor. If Deshler and Spears are available and in condition to play next week, one of the two will get the call at the pivot position.

Link, Hoffman, Burr and Jividen will round out the starting array, although last minute changes are entirely possible, if not probable.

Immanuel Baptist to Have Watch Service

As a fitting farewell to the old year and a welcome to the new, a "Watch-Night Service" will be held Sunday night from 10-12 o'clock in the Immanuel Baptist church.

This service will be held in addition to the regular evening service.

Special features will add to the interest of the program which will be built around the theme of "Our Motto—Our Message—Our Might" for the new year.

Everybody welcome.

Newly Elected Officers to Be Installed Dec. 31

The following newly elected officers of the Hilltop Lutheran Sunday school will be installed at services to be held next Sunday morning, Dec. 31.

Superintendent, Mr. Carl Bayers; assistant superintendent, Mr. Ett; secretary, Mrs. Kull; assistant secretary, Reed Varner; pianist, Charles F. Bartel; librarian, Anna May Bartel; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Houx; birthday secretary, Mrs. Schegel; primary, Mrs. Jackson; cradle roll, Mrs. Welsenberger and Mrs. Coil.

HILLTOPPERS MORE OPTIMISTIC FOR 1934

New Attitude Noted In Outlooks of Various Business Men for Coming Year.

Just one year ago today, in the Dec. 30, 1932, issue of the Hilltop Record, a story is carried containing the opinions of five local business men on the trend of the times—economically.

The majority were of the opinion that improved conditions were not in sight. The corner around which "Prosperity" was to awake, had not been sighted. According to the Record, only one of the five predicted that any good would come of the then lawling baby—1933.

This year, from appearances, the corner at least, is in sight. "Business will get worse, if anything." Fred Buether, proprietor of the Economy Variety Store, told a Record reporter last year. But Tuesday he said: "I've changed my mind. Next year will be much better."

And the lone optimist of last year, who should be claiming some sort of a medal, Dr. W. L. Durflinger, is even more optimistic this year. Says he: "There's no question about it. 1934 will be the best year of the past five." Last year, in his prediction, he said: "Business is on the upgrade now. 1933 will see the return of better business."

Harold S. Wise, ace the reporter, "Well, now, I don't know. Tellyn better after the ball game. We were all set to win in 1929, and what happened? So you can't tell. See me after the game."

Quotations This Year Contrast Those Pessimistic Views of Just One Year Ago.

Lou Saunders, real estate: "Things will be fifty per cent better than last year. Last year was the most difficult we ever experienced."

Sherm Edwards, Broad-Hague Pharmacy: "Prosperity is here. Been here for a month. Lives out here at Hague and Broad. Come up and see us some time."

W. Haydn Jones, Jones Lumber Co.: "We'll be able to see prosperity at a far distance about next May—when the birds sing and the flowers bloom. We'll be able to feel it then."

News Headlines of 1933 Pass In Review

With the passing in review of headlines of 1933, one finds that the Hilltop has been outstanding in several events. Passing, to look back, it is discovered that one of the mystery murders of the state remains yet unsolved, namely the Haggard murder, of Mar. 24, Mrs. Eunice Haggard, young Hilltop mother, was found dead in her car with four bullet wounds in her body. The car, parked on Dakota avenue, was out of gas when discovered by police, who have yet to solve the riddle.

The Union revival services, supervised by Dr. Massee of Atlanta, and the Hilltop Minstrel, sponsored by the Hilltop Business Men, drew capacity crowds at the West High auditorium. The World's Fair Contest, also sponsored by the Business Men, proved highly successful and 10 winners were given a week's vacation at the great exposition.

Concerning sports, the year proved exceptionally successful. A grid championship was won at West High; basketball honors were won by Hillcrest in the West Church League; and with the cooperation of the city recreation department, a Hilltop Church League in baseball was organized. Business Booms, Depression Is Forgotten As Season Is Observed Gloom Dispersed As Business Men Report Large Xmas Sales On Hilltop.

It might be that old man depression has been completely subdued—asphyxiated, over Christmas, at least, he was completely forgotten by residents of the Hilltop. The entire community enjoyed one of the merriest of Yuletides since that well known phantom, Depression, struck in 1929.

Business men were practically unanimous in declaring that their holiday trade was better than any since 1929. One mentioned that his 1933 business was the best in 12 years. For the week, over-production was "the forgotten subject."

And with the boom of business, which many of the more optimistic are terming as the actual turning point in the steady, upward climb,—the corner for which everyone has been looking—came the consequent merriment and good cheer.

Carolers from several of the local churches answered hundreds of requests throughout the community—singing at all hours of the night. The St. John Luther League's four o'clock Christmas morning program was especially popular. The sick and shutins were cheered, the aged remembered—as Christmas carols floated forth on the Christmas air.

The work of the American Legion outstanding. Along with that of the various churches, it is thought that no family remained forgotten during the season of "peace on earth, good will toward men." Food, clothing, and toys—with Christmas goodies were sent out by various organized and private agencies.

Mild weather greeted church goers over the week-end, and church attendance was reported generally good. Special services were held in all of the 21 community churches over Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Golden Wedding Anniversary To Be Observed Jan. 1

A reception, honoring Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hogue, 55 Lawrence Ave., Camp Chase, will be held New Year's afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock, observing the fiftieth wedding anniversary of the couple, according to an announcement made this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hogue, whose golden wedding anniversary will be Sunday, Dec. 31, will receive friends and relatives at their home on Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Hogue have four children, two sons, Mr. Henry Hogue of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mr. John Hogue of Camp Chase, Ohio; and two daughters, Mrs. B. H. DeLille and Mrs. J. D. DeLille, both of 1431 Oak St.

Friends of the couple will be welcomed at the reception New Year's day.

Watch Service At Hillcrest

Woodcraft Girls Have Part In New Year Service at Baptist Church Sunday Night.

The evening service at Hillcrest Sunday will be changed from the usual 7:30 hour to 10 p. m. At this time a special Watch-Night Service will start and it will close promptly with the arrival of the New Year.

The Maddux Trio, which broadcasts on the radio each Sunday evening at 6:30 will give a musical recital during the first hour of the program. This trio consists of members of the faculty of the Capital College of Music and the three instruments are piano, violin and cello. Several solo numbers will also be given and Mr. Frank Meier will render several numbers on the organ.

Following the recital there will be a short worship program and sermon by the pastor on the subject, "Uncharted Paths." Following this there will be a celebration of the Lord's Supper to which all Christian believers have a most cordial invitation. Following the Lord's Supper, just at the close of the year, there will be a brief candle light service to usher in the spirit of the New Year. This will be under the direction of the Hillcrest tribe of Woodcraft Girls with a special ritual.

The public has a cordial invitation to this services.

School of Music to Have Open House

The Hilltop School of Music will hold "open house" at the school, 2842 W. Broad St., on New Year's Day, from 4 to 6. There will be a continuous program by the older pupils of the school and light refreshments for any Hilltop friends.

At 7 there will be a pot-luck supper for pupils of high school age and the evening will be spent playing games and in amusements of various kinds.

Chorus to Rehearse Monday, Jan. 8

The Hilltop Business Men's Male Chorus will resume its rehearsals on Monday evening, Jan. 8, according to an announcement of the director, W. Haydn Jones.

The annual Jackson Elsteddfod is the next event on the local chorus' program. It is scheduled for April. Last year, the Hilltop group won first place in the male chorus division.

New Year's Service

"Lighting the Pathway Into the New Year" will be the theme of the Candle Light New Year's service to be held at Glenwood M. E. church Sunday night. The various groups of the church will be represented in the formation of the lighted cross as a symbol of the goals and objectives of the unified program of the church for the coming year. A special feature of the service will be the candle light procession by the choirs.

Cage Race Close In Church Loop

Hillcrest Quintet, Champions Last Year, Downed By Strong Holy Family Team, 28-22.

Games in the West Church basketball league Tuesday evening at the Glenwood shelter house were, with but a single exception, of the lop-sided variety, with the favorites turning in easy victories. As a result of Tuesday's clashes, Gift St. M. E. and Holy Family went into a tie for first place with a pair of victories each.

Glenwood M. E. and Hoge Memorial Presbyterian, with West Park M. E. and Warren Nazarene, share second place honors with one win in two starts. Avondale U. B. with two losses and Hillcrest and Burgess U. B. with one less each, bring up the rear.

West Church League

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Gift St. M. E.	2	0	1.000
Holy Family	2	0	1.000
West Park M. E.	1	1	.500
Warren Nazarene	1	1	.500
Glenwood M. E.	1	1	.500
Hoge Memorial	1	1	.500
Hillcrest Baptist	0	1	.000
Burgess U. B.	0	1	.000
Avondale U. B.	0	2	.000

In Tuesday's tussles, Glenwood M. E. broke into the win column by swamping Avondale U. B., 27 to 7. Hoge Memorial hit its stride and took the measure of Warren Nazarene, 22 to 7. That concluded the victories of Hilltop teams.

In the other two games, Holy Family edged Hillcrest in the last game of the evening, 28 to 22. It was an unexpected setback for the champions and marked the winners as one of the outstanding quintets in the circuit. The finale found Gift St. M. E. walloping West Park M. E., 33 to 8.

Games are scheduled again next Tuesday at the shelter house at 7 o'clock.

Miss Raether and Mr. Hill Wedded On Wednesday

For her marriage to Mr. Raymond G. Hill, which took place Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 27, at St. John Lutheran church, Miss Elizabeth M. Raether wore a gown of old ivory satin, fashioned with a long train, and puffed sleeves which were tight from the elbows to the wrists. The yoke of her gown, which extended over the shoulders, was of net matching the veil which was worn by her mother at her own wedding 28 years ago. Her bouquet was made of cream-colored rosebuds, lilies of the valley and garlands.

Preceding the ceremony which was performed at 4:30, Miss Ruth Pearch, organist, presented a half-hour musical program. The church was decorated with silver bells and two seven-branch candelabra.

Mrs. George Melvin, 1811 King Ave., attended Miss Raether as matron of honor, and Miss Anne Raether, a sister of the bride, bridesmaid, wore dresses alike of Tangerine lace, made with high boat necklines. Epaulets were of stiff lace, and their turbans were of malline in a matching shade. They carried bouquets of Talisman roses and stevia.

Miss Lucille Raether, another sister, attended as maid of honor. She wore a dress of periwinkle blue, fashioned like that of the other attendants. Her bouquet included Johanna Hill roses and stevia.

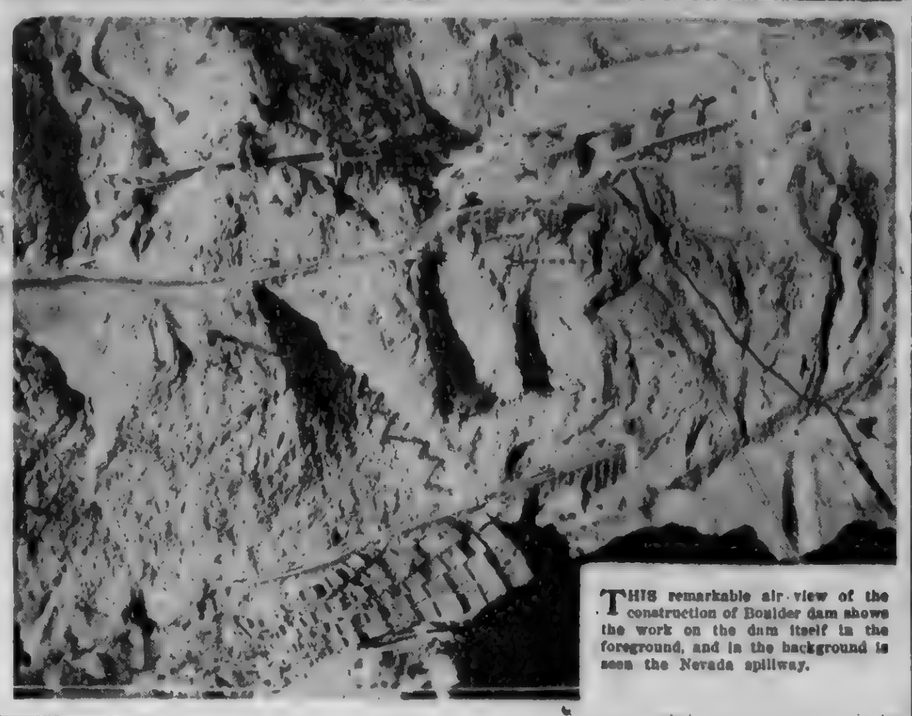
OUR JEWELS

Everyone has noticed the statue standing at the northwest corner of the Capitol, but we wonder how many young people stop to consider its significance.

The heroic figure made of bronze represents the statue of a woman looking down on the statues of seven Ohio statesmen and soldiers. Above them are inscribed the words, "These are my jewels." The story runs that Cornelia, a Roman lady of great wealth and distinction was one day entertaining a group of ladies in her home. It happened that the guests were speaking of their jewels. Each proudly displayed her rich jewels when it occurred to them that their hostess, the wife of a rich senator and daughter of Scipio, the conqueror of Africa, would surely have jewelry of great splendor and they asked her to show her jewels. She answered that she could not at that time but would do so a little later.



When her two small sons returned from school a little later, she placed her hands on the boys' heads and said, "These are my jewels." Well might the proud matron call them her jewels for they were Tiberius and Caius Gracus, afterward to become two of the greatest of Rome's heroes and martyrs for Roman liberty.

The figure looks down on the statues of Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Hayes, Garfield, Staunton and Chase,—Ohio's jewels. All except Sheridan and Chase were born in Ohio; all were Ohio men. No other state produced as many great men in the last generation as Ohio. Grant, Sherman and Sheridan were the three greatest commanders on the Union side in the Civil War. Staunton and Chase were the two ablest members of Lincoln's cabinet. Hayes and Garfield became presidents, as later did Harrison, McKinley, Taft and Harding. Note a few of Ohio's outstanding men: Governors, Hayes, Harmon, Foraker and McKinley; Senators, Wade, Sherman, Thurman, Pendelton and Hanna; Judges Waite, Chase, Taft, Swain.

Journalists, Murat Halstead, Whitelow Ried, Donn Pratt, Albert Shaw and many others. In science, Thomas Edison and the Wright brothers are the most outstanding. As civic leaders, Washington Gladden, Pres. Thwing and Rev. Gunsaulus come to mind. In literature, Howells and the Cary sisters are the leaders of a great host. In the business world, the history of the state is filled with the names of great men.

Ohio may well be proud of her jewels.

comes with championship football teams? —a flash in the pan, so to speak? And they're beginning to answer, "No!"

Not so long ago, there was sponsored by the Alumni, a Victory Dance in honor of the football team. And the affair was conducted with spirit and dispatch. Some have said that it was the finest dance ever held at West High. There was no rowdyism—which has marked too many Alumni-sponsored affairs; there was no segregation of graduates and undergraduates into distinct groups—such as might have been feared; and the program was grand.

It is refreshing to know that the association, as an organization at least, has cast off the habit of referring to the deeds and glories of other years, and looks forward to finer things for West High and its graduates. If that's the spirit of the re-born organization, and we have every reason to believe it is, then the alumni "are going places." Such an association will prove to be a distinct asset to the resources of West High school.

And so, we wish you success in your present membership drive and your plans for the coming year.

Yours,
The Lookout.

CITES ORDINANCE

Editor:
The Hilltop Record.

There have been numerous complaints against owners of dogs that are noisy, affecting the comfort and peace of neighbors. Our citizens should become familiar with local laws and ordinances covering such matters. I am citing a most important one.

Sec. 27, page 641, Codified Ordinance of 1930.

"No person owning, occupying or having charge of any building, stable or other premises, shall keep or allow to be kept thereon any fowl, dog or other animal which shall by barking or other noise, or by offensive kennel or other place of keeping, disturb the quiet or repose, or the purity of the air in living rooms of those thereon or in the vicinity thereof, to the detriment of the life, health or comfort of any person or persons."

This ordinance is broad, covering the matter of comfort, as well as health of people living adjacent to one owning a dog.

Psychical Research Society
The American Society for Physical Research was organized in 1855 as a branch of the British society and incorporated in 1904. The object of the society is the investigation of all types of psychic phenomena and the collection of material pertaining to them. It maintains a library and publishes reports and proceedings. The membership is 1,100. The members are not necessarily spiritualists.

Right Hand in Greeting
When you offer your right hand in greeting you are unconsciously following the lead of the knight who held out his empty hand as an indication that his sword was sheathed and that he had no intention of using it. And just as the courtly baron of the days of Crecy always removed his gauntlet before offering his hand to a lady so the polite man of today takes off his glove.

Feeding Br'er Rabbit Enlarges His Family

Ole Br'er Rabbit is at last coming in for his share of care in game conservation, according to a bulletin of the American Game association. Somehow, Br'er Rabbit, being so obvious, has been overlooked. Surveys show that Br'er Rabbit bears the brunt of all hunting; the largest number of shells are fired at his fleeing cottontail; the small boy "breaks in" on Br'er Rabbit, mounting from his back to wing shooting.

Now comes the Calumet County Sportsmen's club of Brillion, Wis., to set a precedent that conservation officials believe will spread throughout the United States.

Figuring that Br'er Rabbit needs to eat, they fed him. And what happened? He increased many fold and now affords good hunting without danger to the parent stock for not only the members of the club but hunters that come 40 or 50 miles to hunt on the 3,000 acres under feeding control. A shock of alfalfa hay was placed every half mile or so in good cover last January. It brought Br'er Rabbit through the winter in fine shape, resulting in vigorous and prolific litters, increasing the numbers many times despite the numbers taken in hunting during the winter.

This club is planning to feed Br'er Rabbit on 22,000 acres this winter, E. F. Behnke, secretary of the club, states in urging other sportsmen to follow his club's example in helping Br'er Rabbit to multiply.

Ducks Get Big Break from War Department

Ducks are getting a break from the War Department, according to a bulletin of the American Game association. More than 50,000 canvasback ducks have died in the last 10 years from eating poisonous phosphorous from shells fired at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds in Maryland in 1923. This phosphorous, lying in the mud at the bottom of Chesapeake Bay, would prove a deadly poison for many years to come, chemists declare. But now the War Department announces that it will remove it or else cover it over with dirt so that the ducks cannot pick it up. Elimination work is to begin soon as part of the Public Works program, it was said.

Face Should Be Familiar
It is stated that the portrait of King George of England has appeared on more than 2,500 different stamps.

World's Cotton Spindles
There are 102,000,000 cotton spindles in the world, of which 32,000,000 are in the United States.

First Silver Half-Dimes
Silver half-dimes were first coined in 1794. Five-cent pieces were first coined in 1800.

The LOOKOUT

By J. N. WOLFE

Wonder how and where of Carl Scheidt. Haven't heard of him in quite a spell. . . . Be it here recorded that bridge victim No. 1 (Fred Raether) fell to the tune of 1760 to 1140, and that after he led 701 to 0. . . . Gen. Owen complains that we misquoted him last wk—about that basketball statement. "I never use double negatives," he whispers. . . . A local school teacher thinks Jimmie Hasting's nose is "the cutest thing." . . . Every yr. I think I'll start an Xmas club. . . . Then never think of it again until approximately Dec. 20. . . . Norman Line always describing Rochester (a town in N. Y.) . . . Where's Freddy Gordence? . . . Well, Happy New Yr.

Speaking of birthdays: Lou Truman Dove's is Sunday, Jan. 7. . . . E. J. Hasting's is with Pres. F. D. R.'s on Jan. 30. . . . Jimmy Hastings is simultaneous with Herb Hoover (once a pres. of U. S.) on Aug. 10. . . . Henry Jones' sprang into the population on Ground Hog day. . . . Graceb'le Day, who was with the Greenwich Follies at an uptown theatre last wk., still has hair red as it was five yrs. ago, but not so brown as it was 10 yrs. ago. . . . George Melvin and wife (Edith Boyer) were schoolday sweethearts (W.H.S. '23 and '24). They celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary Xmas day. . . . Edith dislikes the word swell so much. . . . And she reads O. O. McIntyre every day. . . . David Ballard's first wife will be Betty Spangler, according to an announcement made this week. . . . The date of the hitchin has not been publicly set, but we'll have congrats ready for June. . . . That gang of crooks from the class of '28 WHS had a reunion (other eve—and unconsciously played the same games they played half a decade ago. What price progress. .

We're not overly enthusiastic about writing obituaries, but if those kewskoys at Hague and Broad persist in selling their papers to street car passengers in the midst of the busy corner traffic, we'll have to start a special column. . . . Millikin Seeks Improvements For Commuuity

Powell Ave. to Be Extended; Sullivant Ave. Ditch to Be Filled In, This Year.

Three community improvements of interest to the residents of the community are under way at the present time or will soon get under way, according to information received this week from Wyatt L. Millikin, the Hilltop's representative in city council.

According to Millikin, legal technicalities have been disposed of which will permit the extension of Powell avenue south past the Confederate cemetery on Sullivant avenue. The project will be completed this year, according to information.

Another improvement in the Sullivant avenue section is in the offing, according to the plans of the Hilltop solon. The ditch north of Sullivant avenue, extending from Hague avenue to the corporation limits, will be filled if Mr. Millikin's plans are carried out. This too, he hopes to have completed this year.

At the present time, more than 50 men are working on the Holton Park addition, purchased last year by the city. It is expected that one of the finest community parks in the city will be available to the public by next spring.

The creek winding through the broad ravine has been completely walled in with limestone and a dam constructed which forms a lake comparable to several in the city. During the recent winter weather, ice skating became a popular sport at the Holton Park. Brush and debris have been removed from the area adjacent to Eureka avenue, and the entire east

New Tax Payment Plan Inaugurated

Persons wishing to make installment payments on real estate taxes may now do so at any time of the year under the pass-book plan inaugurated by County Treasurer Henry Frank, Jan. 2, under authority of a recent legislative enactment. It is believed by Mr. Frank that this method of payment will prove a great convenience to taxpayers who find themselves in possession of funds for tax purposes between the closing and opening of the semiannual collections.

Mr. Frank calls attention to the fact that the plan is purely optional for the convenience of the taxpayer and is merely an adjunct to the customary system of semiannual collections which will continue to be the basic plan.

Other games on the program include: West Park M. E. vs. Warren Avenue Nazarene and Glenwood M. E. vs. Burgess U. B. Hoge Memorial draws a bye Tuesday evening.

Cowboy Cagers Slated To Meet Alumni Tonight With Central Pirates On Menu For Tuesday

Annual Alumni Association Dance to Be Held Following Games On West Hi Court Tonight; Membership Drive Scheduled to Close.

The West High School Alumni association will start the New Year off with a bang tonight and at the same time assist in inaugurating the 1934 cage campaign for the Cowboy varsity with a set of three court games and a dance at the school.

Final arrangements are complete, and the opening item on the four-way program is slated for 6 o'clock, with Gomell Layman's junior basketeers pitted against the West High sophomores. At 7 o'clock, the old timers from the ranks of the alumni will tangle with the reserve squad.

Promptly at 8 o'clock, the main attraction, featuring the recent Crimson basketball stars, against the 1934 Cowboys, will get under way. Probably the only star of the past few years not slated for action will be William "Bill" Schmidt, a member of the Ohio University team, which will have an engagement of its own.

Ray and Woodrow Wills, Lee Davis, John Florio, and a host of others have signified their intentions of being on deck, and with the men of Wise having a week of defensive drill under their respective belts, a whale of a game is expected.

Immediately after the melee, the Alumni association will sponsor a dance until the hour of 11:30 o'clock.

The annual membership drive of the organization will culminate tonight, and paid-up members will be admitted to the games and dance upon presentation of membership cards. Admittance to the game by non-members of the association will be 25 cents, with an additional tax of 10 cents for the dance.

The varsity which will face the alumni tonight, may be a rejuvenated quintet, according to word from the inner offices at West High. No definite statement as to the starting Cowboy line-up has been forthcoming but several changes have been made since the Newark game two weeks ago.

Saturday night, at Lancaster, the locals will meet the St. Mary squad of that city in the finale as far as preliminaries, go.

The men of Wise will stack up against Central Tuesday evening on the Pirate court in the initial scholastic set-to of the league season. The game is scheduled for 8 o'clock and will be preceded by the Reserve game between the two schools.

Central has played six preliminaries, three having been placed on the right side of the ledger. Kessler's men, from present appearances, have an excellent chance at the title, and an evening of hard work is cut out for the locals when the two teams meet.

The New Year—

at its very beginning, is the time to start thinking of housecleaning. And the best way to begin is to get rid of that attic full of unsalable furniture, but for which there is no room in the house.

It can be sold. And you'll be surprised at the little bit of trouble the process amounts to—and you'll be even more surprised at the results you get, financially. Jot it in a few lines in the Hilltop Record Want Ad columns. No other medium in Columbus reaches more potential buyers than your community newspaper.

Ohio's Educational System

The people of Ohio have always been deeply interested in education. The famous ordinance of 1787 declared that schools and the means of education should be forever encouraged. Many of the pioneers in the state came from New England, and they brought with them the New England zeal for education. The constitution guarantees a free public school education to every child in the state. The scattered population and the poverty of the people made this a difficult problem at first, yet log school houses appeared wherever settlements were formed. A general system of public schools was put in operation about one hundred years ago largely through the influence of Samuel Lewis, the first state school superintendent and Caleb Atwater, a member of the General Assembly. Marietta, Miami and Ohio University at Athens were the first colleges. In 1852 Horace Mann, possibly the greatest educator that America has produced came to Yellow Springs and established Antioch College. This was the first college to admit women on terms of equality with men and grant them degrees, although Oberlin adopted the same policy about the same time. Antioch also admitted colored students, something unheard of before. By his teaching, lectures and writings, Horace Mann may be considered the founder of universal free public education in the Mississippi valley. Antioch has never been a large college but its influence has been enormous, and today, under the guidance of Dr. Arthur Morgan, it is revolutionizing higher education by applying practical experience to academic education.

Ohio is said to have more small colleges than any other state in the union, but there has been a tendency in recent years to consolidate. We have six state-supported schools. Ohio State University with ten thousand students is one of the largest and best equipped state universities in the Union and is the head of the state's educational system. There are four state normal schools, Bowling Green, Kent, Miami and Ohio University. These schools are especially prepared to train teachers but they also offer the regular college courses. Wilberforce, near Xenia, is maintained for the education of colored students.

There are a large number of denominational colleges in the state. Almost every church maintains a school, but it is only fair to state that they are broad-minded and have very little of the sectarian spirit. Prominent among these schools, Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio Northern, Methodist; Wooster, Presbyterian; Otterbein, United Brethren; Dennison, Baptist; Wittenberg and Capital University, Lutheran; Wilmington, Quaker; Heidelberg, Reformed; St. Joseph and St. Xavier, Catholic; Muskingum, United Presbyterian, and numerous smaller colleges.

But the high schools are the people's colleges. The law requires that every school district in the state shall maintain a high school or pay the tuition and transportation of its pupils to a high school, thus giving to every boy and girl in the state the advantages of a high school education. These schools are rigidly inspected and are kept to a high degree of efficiency.

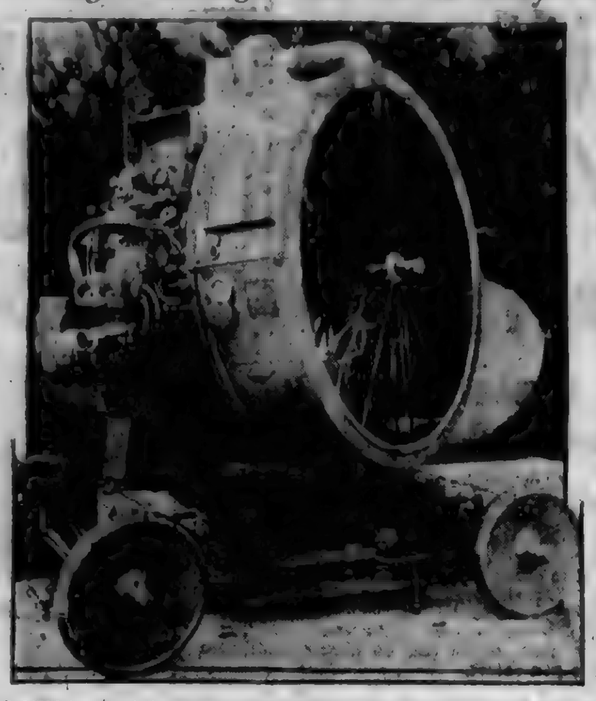
But after all, the elementary schools are the basis of the state's educational system. The state not only maintains these schools in every community, but transports the children if necessary, and requires that all children of school age shall attend, for even if parents are indifferent, the state does not dare to allow the children to grow up ignorant.

County supervision, centralization, teachers' training, free text books, school lunches, home economics, and manual training are a few steps in recent educational progress. Many of the poorer parts of the state cannot afford to pay for this elaborated school system, so the state is paying millions of dollars each year to help these weak school districts, thus giving to all school children equal educational opportunities. It was well said, "Education is the sheet anchor of the state."

The Liquor Problem

The everlasting liquor problem is with us again. In fact it has always been with us since Noah went on his first drunk. Many sincere people voted for the repeal of the 18th amendment hoping that some new plan might settle the prob'em. They had been assured by both the great political parties that the saloon should never come back, and they thought that some plan of restricted sale might be worked out that would be fairly satisfactory. The new deal is only partly in operation, but thoughtful people are already alarmed. Night clubs have sprung up everywhere and if uncontradicted reports are true, many of them would make the old saloon blush. In the old days no respectable woman ever entered a saloon, but the front page of our papers show the pictures of young girls drinking in the clubs and hotels, and it is commonly reported that hundreds of boys and girls crowd the night clubs until daybreak drinking and dancing and that in some of these clubs indecent shows that would have shocked the Babylonians in Belshazzer's time are nightly events. And the avalanche of legal selling has not yet commenced.

We were told that the return of liquor would make a market for the farmers' grain, although we were told that the amount of drinking would not be increased. It was to make a market for our grapes and other fruit and now the government is arranging to import wines from Europe. It was to pay at least two billion dollars of the national revenue, now we must not levy a heavy tax as it would encourage bootleggers. It would lessen drunkeness—well, were you up town New Year's night? There should be no saloons, no, never. Now the hotels, clubs and restaurants are to sell liquor by the glass, the groceries and drug stores in quantities. Shakespeare said something about a rose by any other name smelling as sweet. Guess a sa'oon by any other name will have the same old smell.



When we think of these promises and the results that are following, we are reminded of a story. A man and a boy were walking along the street and the boy said to the man, "I can give you a puzzle that you can't answer. You see that girl across the street—she is my sister and she isn't my sister." What is the answer?

The boy lied about it.

Huge Searchlight Built for the Army

THIS is one of the new 800,000,000 candle-power searchlights built for the United States army, which is capable of throwing a beam visible for one hundred miles. The new lights are built by the Sperry Gyroscope company under a contract awarded by the public works administration, and are the most powerful ever designed. At the present time 104 of these are being built to replace the now obsolete lights used by the army for anti-aircraft defense.

Calendar of NATURAL EVENTS

By JOHN S. WOLFE

INTRODUCTION

The observations set forth in the following "calendar" and in the 11 similar articles to follow, are based largely upon the field experience of the writer during the past five years, supplemented by the ornithological notes of Miss Mary W. Baker, biology instructor at West Jr. High school, and also records from the Botany department, Ohio State university, and from the Ohio State museum.

The reader must remember that a "nature calendar" cannot be interpreted in the strictest sense of the term, inasmuch as unusual weather conditions may affect the activity of wild life, contributing either to early or delayed appearance. In general however, the recorded observations are of the more common plants and birds, and barring extraordinary variations, the forms mentioned will make their appearance within a week of the date stated.

The "calendar," also, is primarily of a botanical and secondarily of an ornithological nature. It is hoped that it, even in its intentional narrowness, may prove interesting and useful to those who find no end of pleasure in the field.

January

1.—Now is the season of least activity in the wood and field, plant life, for the most part lying dormant under a blanket of snow or leaf mold, while amphibians and reptiles, in their winter homes deep in the mud, and some of the higher animals, in hollow trees and underground dens, sleep the winter through.

2.—The slender form of the tree club moss protrudes above the snow covered woodland floor.

4.—No winter scene quite matches the fantastic splendor of feathery hemlock branches laden with snow.

6.—An excellent time to start the study of woodland trees in their winter condition.

8.—In the shelter of the woods, and on its outskirts, Bluebirds in flocks, feed upon poison ivy berries.

9.—Song of running water under the frozen surface of the creek and the blowing of the wind through the defoliated branches of the trees, dominates the out-of-door symphony.

11.—Clumps of Shining Club Moss add a touch of delightful greenery to an otherwise drab woodland.

12.—Look on decaying logs and stumps for the fleck of red that denotes the presence of the little crimson-headed lichen, Cladonia cristatella.

14.—Winter's decreased temperatures have frozen the Big Lake and the bog, for the only time in the year, is solid.

17.—Tiny tracks in the snow indicate unseen activity of the Field Mouse, a seldom observed brown beauty, with pure white throat.

18.—A flash of scarlet as the brilliant plumaged cardinal flits by—into the secluded shelter of underbrush and briars.

20.—Woodland cliffs blanketed with the dark green of the Christmas fern, growing in the crevices.

21.—Flocks of Horned Larks feeding in barnyards; and goldfinches devouring weed seeds in the open field.

23.—The Brown Creeper spirals his way up the bole of a large tree, picking out luscious larvae and spider eggs, only to flit to the base of another and begin again.

24.—Juncoes chip and chatter as they feed among the evergreens.

28.—On a sunshiney day, the song sparrow might be heard from his perch in an elm, but his song is frozen and not long continued.

31.—A crow, in solitary flight, wings his way over the edge of the woodland.

Indecision

The sun rose; it rose upon no sadder sight than the man of good abilities and good emotions, incapable of their directed exercise, incapable of his own help and his own happiness, sensible of the blight upon him, and resigning himself to let it eat him away.

Wanderlust

Keen not standing, fixed and rooted
Briskly venture, briskly roam;
Head and hand, where'er thou foot I.
And stout heart, are still at home

We are gay whate'er betide;

OPINION DIFFERS

To the Editor:

Your rosy predictions as represented in the last issue of the Record have three thorns that must be removed before recovery can become a reality.

(1st) The present debt burden must be amortized—debtors and creditor must find common ground.

(2nd) Medium of exchange must have a fixed standard of value to establish the necessary confidence for long range commitments.

(3rd) Earning power of the masses must rise above mere household necessities.

I am sorry that I cannot share your immediate optimism, but time is a great corrective. That processing (plus the tax) holds the stage of action for the moment.

That foundation we spoke of one year ago has not been sufficiently completed to rear a superstructure.

Yours hopefully,
O. H. Craft.

Millikin Seeks Improvements

end of the park is being made ready for landscaping.

The elimination of the Big Four Railroad crossings at Eureka and Hague avenues, a resolution sponsored by Millikin and passed unanimously by Council in November, 1933, is now in the hands of the Public Utilities Commission. The latest report concerning the project states that the commission is conferring with Big Four authorities and information will be available in the near future.

According to the plans, the city will ask the railroad company to pay 65 per cent of the cost, the city paying the remainder either from its bond issuing fund inside limitations this year, or by a levy outside limitations, with a vote of the people.

"Creation Hymn"

The hymn known as the "Creation Hymn," is David Blapham's translation of "Die Gottes Aur Der Natur," by Christian Furchtegott Gellert, a German poet, who wrote the words in 1757. Beethoven wrote the music. Gellert is known for his sacred songs and fables, which have become classic.

New Tricks to Liven the Art of Cookery

In order to be a good cook you must have an adventurous spirit! You must possess the inquiring type of mind that is willing to experiment—even with a tried and trusted recipe. If you'll do this—who knows—perhaps you'll evolve a dish that will rival the concoctions of a famous chef.

Try studding your next lamb roast with garlic, for instance. It gives a new and unusual flavor to this bland meat. Make little cuts on the surface of the roast and slice garlic very thin and insert in the openings. Just before serving you may remove any bits of garlic that remain.

Or bake a thick slice of ham in grape juice with a hand-full of raisins and rejoice in the new and distinctive flavor that's created.

Another new trick in meat cookery is to spread horse radish (drained of its liquid) over the roast when salt and pepper are added.

Italian cooks know the secret of combining flavors as this recipe will attest.

Italian Meat Balls

1 bunch spinach.
2 medium size onions.
1 pound hamburger steak.
1 clove garlic.
3 tablespoons grated cheese.
1 egg, beaten.
¾ can tomato soup.
Salt and pepper.

Wash spinach, boil until tender, then chop fine the onions and clove of garlic and fry in oil. Add to these vegetables the hamburger steak, cheese, beaten egg and salt and pepper to taste. Form into balls and fry until brown. Remove balls to hot pan and make gravy from the drippings in pan by adding flour and stir until smooth. Add tomato soup and 3 tablespoons chopped parsley. Now put balls into gravy and let simmer slowly, one hour. They are nicer if cooked and left standing in the gravy a few hours and then reheated.

Savory Casserole

½ cup finely chopped green pepper
1 package wide macaroni.
1 small can tomato juice.
½ teaspoon salt.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.
¾ pound chopped pork.

Cut onion in very small pieces, fry in butter until brown. Cook macaroni until soft. Drain and pour cold water over it. Add all ingredients together mixing thoroughly. Bake in a slow oven about one and one-half hours or until meat is well done.

Meats are not the only foods that lend themselves to novel combinations of flavors. The most ordinary vegetable will take on appetite appeal if it is served with the culinary skill that suggests the following recipes:

Corn au Gratin

1 cup canned corn.
2 egg yolks.
½ teaspoon green pepper, minced.
2 tablespoons fat.
1 teaspoon salt.
⅛ teaspoon paprika.
1 cup cooked rice.
½ cup grated cheese.

Drain the canned corn. Add yolks of eggs which have been well beaten. Saute the green pepper and onion in fat until tender and slightly browned. Add to corn mixture with the salt and paprika. Add the rice, carefully folding it in with a fork. Turn into a greased casserole, sprinkling half the grated cheese on the mixture as a center layer and the remaining half of the cheese on top. Bake in a quick oven for 12 minutes.

Creamed Baked Lima Beans

2 cups cooked or canned lima beans.
½ cup pimentos, minced.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 cup grated cheese.
2 cups white sauce.
2 tablespoons tomato catsup.
2 tablespoons melted butter.
½ cup bread or cracker crumbs.

Mix the lima beans, pimento, salt, cheese, catsup and white sauce together. Pour into a casserole rubbed with shortening, then spread with the crumbs mixed with melted butter. Bake in a moderate oven for half an hour.

Scalloped Cabbage With Cheese and Nuts

Shred one firm head of cabbage and cook for 12 minutes in an uncovered vessel in boiling salted water. Drain, chop fine and arrange in layers in a baking dish interspersed with layers of grated cheese and chopped nuts. Cover with white sauce and top with crumbs, cheese and chopped nuts. Bake in a hot oven for about 15 minutes.

Tomato Souffle

1 can tomato soup.
2 tablespoons shortening.
1 teaspoon onion juice.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.
4 egg yolks.
¾ cup sifted dry bread crumbs.
⅝ teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon grated Italian cheese.
4 egg whites.

Combine the tomato soup, bread crumbs, shortening, onion juice, salt, pepper and cheese. Remove from fire. Beat the yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add. Cool. Beat the whites until dry and thick. Fold in. Grease a baking dish. Pour in the souffle mixture. Bake in a moderate oven for forty-five minutes. Serve at once.

Salads are another dish that will respond to originality in flavor combination. As you experiment you will create distinctive and inviting salads that will add greatly to the interest and variety of winter menus.

Deviled Egg and Cabbage Salad

Mash yolks of 6 hard cooked eggs very fine; add 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise salad dressing and blend. Mix thoroughly with chopped egg whites, 2 cups shredded cabbage and 4 tablespoons chopped preserved sweet gherkins. Chill and serve on crisp lettuce. Garnish with paprika.

Frozen Cheese Salad

1 cup evaporated milk.
¾ cup lemon juice.
2 packages cream cheese.
½ cup mayonnaise.
1 cup chopped dates.
1 cup crushed pineapple.

Scald the evaporated milk over hot water, chill and whip. Add lemon juice to the whipped milk and beat until very stiff. Cream the cheese until soft. Add the mayonnaise and mix thoroughly. Fold into the whipped milk with the dates and pineapple. Turn into a cold freezing tray and freeze very quickly (not more than 2 hours). Serve on lettuce or water cress.

Hearty salads of meat, fish and eggs are particularly suitable at this time of year and you may serve them in dozens of zestful, satisfying ways if you will create new and subtle combinations. Utilize left-overs in this way and the family will never guess that you are trying to economize.

SUNDAY NIGHT SUPPER

FOR a Sunday night supper just try this loaf; it can be made some hours before the time for serving:

Sunday Loaf.

Remove the crust from a loaf of bread and slice lengthwise in three pieces. Place one slice on a platter and spread with mayonnaise dressing to moisten, then cover with chopped, raw cabbage mixed with chopped pimiento. Use a loaf of sandwich bread, one and one-half cupfuls of chopped cabbage, one-half cupful of chopped pimiento, one-half pound of cheese or three cream cheeses. After covering with the cabbage and pimiento for the first slice spread the second with mayonnaise and cover with cheese relish with cream to make of spreading consistency. Mash the cream cheese, add salt, paprika and pepper with cream to make thin enough for spreading. Spread this on the third slice and put them together; cover all over, like frosting a cake, with the cream cheese. Place in the ice chest to chill. Garnish with stuffed olives, radish roses and watercresses. Serve in thick slices. A sliced tomato may be served with the sandwich if desired or thinly sliced tomato may be used in one of the layers as filling.

Spanish Beans.

Soak one cupful of dried lima beans over night. In the morning cook until tender. Melt six tablespoonfuls of shortening in a frying pan, add four sliced onions and cook until a light brown. Add one can of tomatoes, three-fourths of a teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and a teaspoonful of sugar. Cook slowly for an hour, then add the beans and serve very hot with green pepper rings.

Quick Hot Slaw.

Add to chopped cabbage that has been cooked in a very little water, butter, salt and a teaspoonful of sugar; serve with a very little vinegar, all piping hot.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

JERRY MUSKRAT HAS TWO CALLERS

IT WAS very, very early in the morning. It was so early in the morning that some folks would hardly have known it was morning. But it was. Jerry Muskrat, sitting on the Big Rock in the Smiling Pool, knew that it was. He knew that over behind the Purple Hills somewhere jolly, round, red Mr. Sun was kicking off his bed clothes and making ready to show his big red face above the edge of the Great World as he began his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky, which didn't seem blue now because of the darkness.

A silver line started out from one bank and made straight toward the Big Rock. Jerry Muskrat saw it. Also he saw a small brown head at one end of that silver line.

"How's the Little Worker Getting On With Filling His Storehouse?" Asked Reddy.

"Hello, Billy Mink. How's the fishing?" squeaked Jerry.

Billy stopped swimming and floated while he talked. "Hello, Jerry," he replied. "I thought I'd find you here. It wouldn't seem like the Big Rock not to find you sitting on it at this hour. Fishing is good, thank you. That reminds me that Reddy Fox happened along yesterday and seemed to be taking great interest in you."

"It's my new house," explained Jerry. "That's what Reddy is so interested in."

"Oh, is it?" There was something very like surprise in Billy Mink's voice. "I thought it was your food He didn't mention house to me. Well, I must go on. I think I'll go down to the Big River and see what is going on."

The silver line with the little brown head at the end of it moved swiftly across the Smiling Pool and vanished down the Laughing Brook. Jerry Muskrat thoughtfully pulled his whiskers. "That is funny," said he to himself. "That certainly is funny. Reddy never mentioned food to me. I wonder—"

But just what Jerry wondered no one will ever know, for who should appear on the bank of the Smiling Pool just then but Reddy Fox himself. "How's the little worker getting on with filling his storehouse?"

"Not as well as he is going to be in about two minutes," replied Jerry rather shortly, and with a splash dived from the Big Rock. He was gone for quite a while, during which time he dug up and carried to his storehouse three particularly fine roots. Then, being tired, he once more climbed out on the Big Rock and the very first thing he saw was Reddy Fox just where he had last seen him. Reddy didn't look as if he had moved.

"I've been waiting for you, Jerry. You were gone for a long time," said he.

"I didn't know you were waiting," replied Jerry. "I guess it wouldn't have made any difference if I had, because these days I have too much to do to gossip. Winter will soon be here and I've a lot to get done before then." To hear him you would have thought that he had so much to do that he couldn't sit still a minute.

"Oh, it doesn't matter," replied Reddy. "I have time enough to spare. I just waited to say to you that last night I discovered some of the finest carrots that ever I have laid eyes on, and knowing that you like them I thought of you right away and how perhaps you might like some to put away for the winter."

Right away Jerry was interested.

The LOOKOUT

By J. N. WOLFE

'ROUND ABOUT THE HILLTOP

Wonder whatever became of Roy Davis? . . . Ralph Rea and Billy Wiseman—steady again. That's an engagingfunguincouple. . . . Rudy Schmidt, who used to play fullback on our football team . . . Max McCarty, standing in the church vestibule, heard someone trying to gain entrance. Thinking it was Norman Line (The Rochester lad who is making good on the Hilltop), he cried out in that slangy way of his: "Swi-i-i-ng it!" and the door opened gently and Rev. Hutchison walked in. . . . Ty Thompson, who would like to see his name here once more while a single man. I doubt whether he gets his wish, inasmuch as there are three days yet, before distribution. . . . Stooge Reports from Alumni Basketball Game and Dance at West High: Newt Case's Perennial grin. . . . Clyde Moore paragrapher, and his WHS alumnae wife, Marguerite Carter Moore, on deck. . . . Ruth Beckwith, the brunet in green. . . . "Heine" Kounts, the "druggist-politician" and his lively youngster. . . . Willard Young, the banker . . . and his former contemporary in the business, Burd Miller, perfectly groomed as usual. . . . Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ferguson, a grand couple. . . . Rosemary Holt, or maybe it was Betty, her twin. . . . Coach Wise, cheerful, despite the Cowboys' triple defeat. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fulton (Helen Cunningham), Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Tanner (Marcella Thompson), Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roller, all of whom, despite their youth, rate as "old married fokes." . . . Tony Page, the lawyer. . . . Harry Monk, the reserved one. . . . Bob Jones, the tall one (Will he ever stop growing?) . . . Laura Gurley and Neal Russell. . . . Don Bruns, who wondered how old one must be to join the association. . . . Ted Green, whose wife was impatiently waiting at home for him to come after her. . . . Roger Gable. Remember when he sang in "Pickles." . . . Jim Shields, never saw him looking gloomy. . . . Roy Riggs, the baseballer. . . . Roger Mason the towhead. . . . Glenn "Joe Campus College" Howell. . . . John Florio, one of the most self-confident men we know. . . . Jim Cole, the official of the hour. . . . Ruth Hessenaur, smartly dressed as usual. She is working on a master's degree at Ohio State. . . . Woody Lluk and Jack Williams, buddies. . . . Tough on the treasurer's wife, Virginia Johnson Alford, who has to keep the Alumni accounts while the hubby sells cheese wafers and soft drinks. . . . Midge Hubbard Larkin, watching her husband Bob, who played as a student with the ranchmen in 1930. . . . Joe Thirtyacre, Evan Morgan and Pauline Shank, favorite people of this stooge. . . . High Pockets Marshall, who is no shorter. . . . Ed Van Scoy's boyish grin. . . . Harold Cramer and John Hardy, classmates of '24 and their wives, Viola Winnette Cramer and Thelma Ansel Hardy, classmates of '26. . . . When we see Marjie Marshall we want to say Marshy Marjie. . . . Random thot: How many people can use the word "swung" correctly? . . . Wonder how the pres. and v. p. Denton and Gibson will feel on Saturday. . . . Add also, Charles Peake and Frank Lueben. . . . Erule Richardson—we used to call him "Spence" and "Bass" after the character in "Boots." . . . John Bucky Schwartz, and his wife, nee Iris Gill. . . . Olive Grimm, whose goat we used to get with references to the fairy tales of the brothers Grimm. . . . Wayne Woodyard there, too. . . . Etc., etc. P. S. Saw Harold Denton on Sat. (after the basketball game) running along the street to get the kinks out—and he was groaning at every step. Rumor hath it that Howard Gibson spent most of the day in bed.

Cowboy Quintet To Meet South On Bulldog Court

Second Game of Scholastic to Get Under Way at Eight o'Clock Tonight at Ann St. Gym.

West High's scrappy little basketball team will once again leave the home domain tonight when South High's Bulldogs are met on the Southsiders' hardcourt. The game, the second of the season for the locals, will get under way at 8 o'clock, and will be preceded at 7 o'clock by a preliminary engagement between the reserves of the two schools.

Tuesday night, South's Bulldogs proved themselves to be a bit more than dopesters had figured, administering a 27 to 26 spanking to the favorite North crew. The Rossmen have a hard fighting team this year, as is indicated by the two brawls featuring games played thus far in the campaign. The Cowboys will meet tough opposition in their second league set-to.

Lose Scholastic Opener

Opening the city league season on Tuesday evening at Central High with the Pirates as opposition, the Cowboys went down to their sixth consecutive loss, the Keslermen taking a 20 to 23 decision.

Hilltop Quintets Trail In Cage Loop

Gift Street and Holy Family Continue Undefeated In Church League.

In games scheduled for Tuesday evening, Jan. 16, at the Glenwood shelter house, Hoge Memorial is given the edge over Avondale U. B.; Hillcrest Baptist should defeat the Glenwood M. E. quintet; Gift St. M. E. should experience little trouble with Warren Nazarene and Burgess U. B. should take another loss at the hands of West Park M. E., although the battle will be close. Holy Family will be idle.

Tuesday night, on the Glenwood courts, Gift St. M. E. and Holy Family continued their neck and neck race for the top rung of the ladder by turning in victories. The Catholics had things their own way in winning from Avondale U. B., 31 to 18, using second stringers throughout the first half.

Gift St. M. E. disposed of last year's champions, Hillcrest Baptist, in easy fashion, handing the Hilltoppers a 27 to 18 walloping without extending itself.

Glenwood M. E. continued in the race, in second place, by trimming the Burgess Ave. U. B. squad, 37 to 19. In the closest fray of the evening, Warren Nazarene lost to West Park M. E., 13 to 11.

Seventeen Sextets Form Girls' Court Loops at Glenwood

Independent League Gets Under Way On Wednesday; Church Leagues Play on Monday.

Seventeen girls' basketball teams, composing three leagues under the supervision of Mrs. T. A. Freda, are waging campaigns this winter on the Glenwood shelter house basketball floor.

The West Church Leagues are composed of 12 teams, eight of which form the senior loop and four of which make up the junior circuit. Their games are played on Monday evenings. Five other independent teams form the Independent loop, games being scheduled every Wednesday night.

Enthusiasm runs high in all three leagues, with the church teams being especially well supported. On Wednesday evening, the Independent loop campaign got under way with the Speedmonts, last year's city champs and losers of but a single game in three years of play, defeating the All Stars, 46 to 5. In the other game, the Independent Six defeated Ramona, 40 to 8. The All Americans drew a bye in the opening round.

In the Senior Church League, the following games are slated for Monday evening: Avondale vs. Hillcrest at 7 o'clock; West Park vs. Hilltonia; Warren Nazarene vs. Burgess U. B.; Glenwood M. E. vs. Hoge Memorial. The intermediate teams will play at 6 o'clock, with Glenwood scheduled to oppose Burgess U. B. and Hoge Memorial on the ticket against Avondale U. B.

Six Local Schools To Graduate Over 400 In February

Thirty West High Seniors to Receive Diplomas at Mid-Year Exercises.

A check of six local elementary, junior high and senior high schools revealed this week that approximately 400 students would be graduated at the completion of the present semester at the latter part of January.

With four weeks of the term yet to be completed, the number of students is approximate and no definite announcements were forthcoming from the various principals.

At West High school, Otto B. Magly announced that 30 would in all probability receive diplomas. A special assembly program is being planned for the graduates, the program of which will be announced in the near future.

At West Jr. High, 195 will be promoted to the senior division, while at Starling Jr. High, 100 will get diplomas. A majority of the Starling graduates will continue their education at Central High, with a few matriculating at West.

Highland Avenue school will send 20 pupils to West Jr. and Starling Jr., while at John Burroughs, 75 are slated to be sent to one of the above junior highs. At West Broad St. school, Miss Harriett Judd had not completed a check-up of the class and would make no estimate. It is thought however, that the total for the community will pass the four hundred mark, with 334 graduates from the other five schools.

West Defeated Thrice Friday

Grads' Organization Completes Campaign for New Members With Program On Friday.

Winding up a two months campaign for new members, in which time over 200 West High graduates were added to the rolls, the West High Alumni association celebrated in a high, wide and handsome fashion Friday night with a dance at the Cowboy gymnasium, but only after "has-been" cagers had walloped everything the Crimson had in a basketball way.

Opening the program at 6:30, the West sophomores took on Gosnell Layman's Jr. High basketeers, losing to the West junior team, 14 to 9. Then came the old timers to trim the Cardinal reserves, 42 to 26. In the finale, the best attraction of the card, the varsity went down to defeat in a close game, 30 to 26.

Following the game, more than 300 attended the annual dance of the association.

Howard Gibson, chairman of the membership committee in charge of the drive, said that more than 200 new members had been added. Harold Denton, president of the organization, expressed himself as being well pleased with the results.

"Plans for the near future regarding the organization's activities are almost completed now," he said, "and every effort is being made to rebuild the Alumni association into an organization worthy of West High school."

Aside from social activities, Mr. Denton said that efforts are being made to assist in increasing the school library. The purchase of curtains to permit the use of a picture machine during class hours is also anticipated.

The first Wednesday night program will be sponsored by the men of the church and the official board; the second, by the women; the third by the young people, and the fourth by the Sunday school.

Special music will be furnished by the sponsoring group, and five-minute messages will be delivered.

Emergency Nursery At Local Baby Camp

Federal School, Recently Opened Under the Direction of Miss Helen Smith.

One of the Federal Emergency Nursery schools was opened recently at the Baby Camp, 1093 Sullivant Ave., under the direction of Miss Helen Smith, director of the Emergency Nursery schools. Children two to five years of age from families who income is $15 a week or less are cared for from 9:00 to 1:00. The children are examined for colds and other illness every morning by one of the district nurses. Cod-liver oil and tomato juice are given in addition to the noon meal which is planned by a trained dietician.

Besides these health measures, the children, through supervised free play and a well-rounded educational program, gain ideals of fair play, cooperation and respect for the rights of others, all bases of good citizenship.

As this is really a community project, its success depends upon the cooperation and patronage of the entire community. Parents will meet each week to study problems of child care and training. It may be desireable later for the parents to spend some time at toy-making and sewing.

An excellent trip was reported by Dr. Reighley who said that while Columbus was suffering from an intense cold wave and zero weather, the climate in Florida was cool, but comfortable. Further south, he said, it was actually uncomfortably hot.

Cowboy Quintet to Meet South

For West, Hoffman and Jividen led the attack with six points each. West's reserves, in a preliminary encounter, lost to the Red and Black, 28 to 9.

St. Mary's Wins

Saturday night, on the St. Mary court at Lancaster, Ohio, the local cagers sustained their fifth consecutive loss, dropping a low scoring game to the Catholics, 15 to 7. The game was peculiar in that but two points were scored after the second quarter, each squad bagging a free throw. At half time, the winners led 14 to 6.

Jividen and Spears counted the only crimson field goals while McCoy sank a pair of charity tosses. Link counted the other West point. Dick Francis, erstwhile grid star, and Dietrick, along with the five starters, saw action in Saturday night's game.

Lose to Alumni

LeRoy Davis' long range firing in the closing moments of the game sent the Wisemen down to defeat on the local court last Friday evening in the annual alumni-varsity set-to.

The final count was 30 to 26, and the squad looked good for the first time this year. Jividen's accurate tossing sent the Cowboys in the game, the diminutive guard scoring half dozen field goals and a quartet of charity tosses for 16 points. Davis led the good attack with 13 points.

The regular line-up will be composed of Hoffman at center, Jividen and Spears at guards, and Link and McCoy at forwards, according to Coach Wise, who expressed himself as being well pleased with the squads performance after the game.

Local Florist Tells How to Care For Xmas Gift Plants

Answering numerous inquiries as to how Christmas plants should be cared for, William Metzmaier, local florist, gave a Record reporter a few pointers this week.

"Poinsetta is perhaps the most popular Christmas plant," he said. "It is a native of the moist tropics, and therefore requires moisture in the air as well as at the roots. It thrives best in a warm temperature. It must never be chilled, or the leaves will fall from the stalk.

"The best way to keep it is to keep a pan of water on the register near the plant. Or spray it daily. Night temperatures should never be below 60 degrees."

After the flower (really red leaves, botanically) has finished blooming, cut the plant six inches above the top of the pot. The milky substance flowing from the severed stems should be treated by burning with a match or candle. Keep the plant on the dry side until May or June, as over watering will cause the plant to be sterile at the next season. Feed it with a good fertilizer."

The LOOKOUT

By J. N. WOLFE

Whew! It was a close call. Eveh had the obituary for the Lookout set up in type. And the thing revived itself. . . . So much discouragement, sometimes, when folkses feet are unintentionally trampled upon. . . Lon Saunders, sweeping out his and Jack's office, early in the a. m., afore FD had arrived. . . . So George Ruder is up and about agin. So the ad man hyar relates, for the detecktatif donated to him a calling card fer crashin a red light. Thanx, Geo. . . . Has Ty Thompson arrived home from Ky. yet? or has he started down? . . . Nothing is quite so amusing as the dead seriousness of that guy's picture on the American Legion ad on billboards. . . . Another display that gets my goat is that Coff Medicine, recommended by a woman in Chicago with a dozen or so kids. . . . Likewise that popular soft drink ad. One would off-hand think that that stuff was juice from the fountain of youth. . . . Add also, fashion ads, with the extremely long-limbed women. They just hain't bilt thataway. . . . If McCarty, whose nick names include Mickey and Maxine. . . . That sign in Fred Ruether's store winder was upside down all a. m. tother day, but Mr. Moss, almost blind, was in to tell him about it at noon. . . . It comes in here a dozen times a week: The such and such group or club or society held THEIR weekly meeting. Canchu make it IT'S? . . .

Bob Nichols, strolling down Brd. St. with a pint of oysters hooked on his finger (it doesn't sound as funny as it looked). . . . Ann McDonald goes for dogs in a big way. . . . Notice at West High school: "The Debating team needs your support," and some wag made it read "supporters." . . .

Earl Kline has always managed to stay out of the spotlight. First he was vice president of the '24 class at WHS and then he got married. . . . According to the WHS Occident, Heywood Broun and Will Rogers are the favorite columnists of the students. . . . Lotta requests, I'm told, for the male chorus to ring out "The Bells of St. Mary's," again at the minstrel. But Bill Haydn is afraid it has been used too much. Doncha believe it Bill. . . . Janice Booth abroad early, strolling. . . . and Don Smith, the lawyer-man, likewise out, and tip toeing down the steps from his office to the drug store. . . . Social note: Helen Hastings rambling down the street with a freshly purchased rolling pin. . . . Ah me. Coming events cast their shadows before.

The revival services which are in progress here, continue over Sunday. Rev. Neal Tolmachoff is conducting the (Students) . . . then, it was about five. . . . My favorite 70, Eugene O'Neil's "Beyond the Horizon." . . . I enjoy reading me after the hour of midnight. . . . Tain. R. K. Graves suggests that I use his the nom de plume "Heywood Wednesday, chellgyre." . . . And so, 1440 with and gentleman (let's hope there's some of each numbered among the Lookout Readers) this is Heywoode Winchellgyre, who learned somber, time back that the guy with fixtures, finest opinions has done the les' Mo thinking, signing off.

Local 5's Favored In Games Tuesday

Holy Family Can Take Undisputed Church League Lead By Defeating Glenwood M. E.

With Gift St. M. E. idle this Tuesday evening, Holy Family's rampaging basketball team can take undisputed possession of first place by coming out on the long end of the score in its game with the Glenwood M. E. outfit.

In other games, however, the Hilltop entries are favored to win, with Hoge Memorial opposing West Park M. E.; Warren Nazarene pitted against Avondale U. B. and the Hillcrest Baptists and Burgess U. B., both Hilltop fives, slated to meet.

Results in the games played Tuesday were: Hoge Memorial 36, Avondale U. B. 13; Hillcrest Baptist 16, Glenwood M. E. 14; Gift St. M. E. 21, Warren Ave. Nazarene 12. The West Park-Burgess U. B. game was played last Friday, the former winning easily.

Tuesday night, Holy Family, on leader with Gift St. in the league, took on the city champion St. Ludislaus squad in an exhibition game at Schiller Park, the West Church entry losing in the closing moment of play, 12 to 11. Failure to connect for free tosses lost the game for the West Siders.

Dr. Sophia Rogers Agrees That "Life Begins At Forty"

Dr. Sophia Rogers, who aids O. S. U. students in planning their schedules of studies and who also is a practicing doctor of medicine, reviewed the book, "Life Begins at Forty," at the John Burroughs P.-T. A. meeting last week.

"Up to the age of 40 the years of the individual's life should have been those of learning—learning how to live," she said. "The habits of the material side of life should have been so well organized that now the spiritual or mental side may come into full play or activity. The richer and fuller years are at hand and knowledge previously gained will give the poise of maturity.

"Childish things and attitudes should have been folded up and put aside.

"Not until after 40 is the individual developed socially.

"Then too, there is time for leisure—leisure with an aim. Plenty of jobs await women past 40—humanitarian which they alone can do well.

"One reason why adults, especially parents, will be free to enjoy the fuller life is because the training of the children in the family prior to that time should have been so effective that they are able to stand alone and take care of themselves.

"In the years ahead of this generation, the power of the mature person will be felt more than in the immediate past and the decline of the influence of youth upon mature nature will be noted."

Joseph Fichter, assistant to the state director of education, will be the speaker and will have a message of especial interest to fathers.

Cowboy Matmen, Swimmers Called

Coach Buchanan Working With Both Squads in Preparation for Annual City Meets.

Swimmers also were called this week, preparations for the city aquatic meet slated for Feb. 24, getting under way immediately. The squad will rehearse twice weekly, probably at the Central Y. M. C. A. pool.

Moyer, a winner in Jr. High, Jack Parker, Bob Carson and last year's star, John Stevens, are likely to be regulars, with the remainder of the squad yet in doubt. The Cowboys placed second in the 1933 meet.

Local Auxiliary In Legislative Study This Month

The month of January has been set aside as legislative month by Unit to Camp Chase Post No. 98.

A study of all legislative matters pertaining to the veteran, his widow and orphans will be made.

At the next regular meeting which will be held Friday, Jan. 19, the subject for discussion will be Fidac.

The Fidac auxiliary was organized in Rome in 1925. Its purpose was to bring together the women of all the allied and associated countries, who had a personal connection with the World War through services of the men of their families, in a great international organization to forward the cause of peace and to promote the welfare of disabled veterans and other victims of war.

It is the idea of Fidac to study the allied countries, enabling us to have a better understanding of the peoples, government and customs, which bring about a closer friendship with one another.

Correction

In an advertisement of the Matsonia Restaurant appearing in the Record last week, the lunch price should have read 35 cents instead of 40 cents. The 35c price for lunches prevails at all times.

Iky Back

Philosopher of "Four Corners" Announces Return.

"Iky," Four Corner's most prominent citizen, will return to public life next week, when the first of a series of comment will be published in the Hilltop Record.

In a letter to the editor this week, Iky stated that the word has "jist cum thru that a feller named Roosevelt had bin elected president." He wanted the information verified.

North Hi Five At West Tonight

Cowboys, After Seven Consecutive Defeats, to Try Again On Home Floor.

North High's strong basketball quintet will invade the home of the Cowboy tonight in a game slated to get under way at 8 o'clock, preceded an hour earlier by a preliminary engagement between the reserves of the two schools.

Following the seventh consecutive defeat for the Crimson at the hands of South last Friday night, Coach Wise has sent his proteges through intensive defensive drills this week in preparation for the invasion of the sharp shooting Northmen.

In last week's game, lost to the Bulldogs by a 36 to 20 score, the locals found the Blue and Gray defense too difficult, while the fast passing attack of the winners functioned beautifully to send the Cowboys down to defeat.

In the reserve game, West's second stringers lost to the Ross-coached squad, 21 to 7.

Tonight's game, despite the fact that the Polar Bears are overwhelming favorites to win, may prove closer than expected. The present Cowboy squad is shot with ineligibility and some apparent dissention. The correction of these two flaws, by the boys themselves, will probably do more toward producing an organized and smooth offense and defense than all the rehearsing Coach Wise can send the squad through.

Athletic Association In Basketball Game

Junior and Senior Boys' Leagues Organized at Shelter House.

The Hilltop Jr. Athletic association under the direction of C. N. Page with the cooperation of the recreation department opened its basketball season Saturday at Glenwood shelter house. Two leagues have been formed, a junior league for boys under 14 years of age and a senior league for boys under 17 years of age.

In the opening of the first round, the White Swastikas defeated Reeve's Shoe Repair to a tune of 12 to 9.

The feature of the junior league was the second encounter in which the Owls defeated the Spartans 9 to 8 in one overtime period.

The first game of the senior league found the Red Wings winning over Dolder Bros., 12 to 9.

In the second fracas the Hilltop A. C. defeated John's Lunches, 33 to 2. With the losers failing to register a field goal.

The feature of the senior league brought together Shorty's Gang and Sunoco Oil with the former team winning 13 to 10.

In the finals of the day the Hilltop Aces disposed of Ritz Theatre, 13 to 3.

Royal Neighbors to Hold Installation

Glenwood Camp No. 7083, R. N. A., will hold their installation service Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, Jan. 26, at 2354½ W. Broad St.

The installing officer will be Bina Martin; ceremonial officer, Metta Gottschall. Other officers to be installed are: Oracle, Clara Zerbe; vice oracle, Mamie Rhoades; past oracle, Bonnie Kelley; marshall, Ida Beadle; chancellor, Ruth Zetty; inner sentinel, Martha Naun; outer sentinel, Adelina Monaco; receiver, Metta Gottschall; pianist, Helen Marshall, and recorder, Marcella Williams. Interlocutor, End Men, And Director Named for Minstrel Tom A. Lewis, Former Middleport Minstrelman, to Have Charge of B. M. Show.

Great strides forward in the preparation of the 1934 Hilltop Business Men's Minstrel show were taken this week by the committees in charge, who announced that Tom A. Lewis, 144 W. Ninth Ave., would be the director.

Mr. Lewis, for many years in charge of similar shows at Pomeroy and Middleport, comes to the Hilltop highly recommended and with a reputation for directing excellent productions. Indications at the present point to another huge success.

End Men Named

According to information released Wednesday of this week, George Painter, William Coulthard, Lon Saunders, and Cliff Rice will be the end men in this year's performance, with Floyd Green, interlocutor for the past two years, again filling that post.

The LOOKOUT

By J. N. WOLFE.

Purely Personal Fish Fosh: Few things so fascinating as the umbrella man with his bell. . . . An example of rugged individualism: A 180-lb. chap trying to sit down on a 1-foot space between a couple people on the street car. . . . Mr. Mowrey, the fireman, scanning the Lookout desk, looking for fire hazards. . . . If we see the intelligent men in the next war, opines Henry Jones, there just won't be any war. Can't get them to the front. . . . And Henry is one of the Amer. Leg. chaps who actually saw action in the last big fuss. . . . This department's suggestion for the elimination of pseudo-any drivers (women) would be for each one to take a test requiring the candidate to drive a half mile in a closed car with a lumbie boy boxing about inside. . . . For most women it would be preferable to have the testing track on the open prairie, or at least in a large-sized pasture. . . . If she makes the distance with the same composure and placidity with which she generally bungles up traffic under ordinary conditions, she will have passed the test.

Wonder whatever became of Herman Boyer? Never saw the lad perturbed. . . . And Johnny Hull, of whom little has been heard in quite a spell. . . . Bill Eckle, of the defoliated pate. . . . They always draw litters and pigs-bee regardless of the source,—these cracks, we mean, about hog hunters and plant diggers, trapsin around over the countryside. . . . Haven't heard from F. (Butch) Howard, in the meatpacking biz there's past four wks. . . . Add memories: "Spiking" tops in Eureka Ave. yrs. ago, I remember. I had saved a nickle and but a ball bearing spinner, and Bob Fairchild spiked it and split it asunder the very fobz time I got it in spin. . . . N. W. Kent doesn't like people who use the pronoun "I." . . . I always do. It doesn't sound half as uppityup as we." . . . None so easygoing as John Geyer; unless it be John Fisher. . . . I (we to them that prefers) have never seen aught of Clyde Moore (the morning funny-bone tickler) but his foto. . . . Harry Keys, the chap who does "The Week In Review" for the Col's. Citizen, complains of marvels about that want ad appearing in the Record a few weeks back. But he doesn't read as well as most of those who use the Want Ad Columns. The ad read: "75 year-old laying hens," and not: "75 year old laying hens." But things, big time paper, for the publicity. . . . Max (Maxine, Mickey) McCarty, is enroute to New Orleans. Dya spose he couldn't "take it" and with him is Fred Shephard, for whom they held a farewell party tothet ere, and he never showed up. He was out looking for a suitcase. The boys are motoring thru, but using other people's motors.

Add meaningful sentences: That local lass, who wanting a date with a fine piece of Hilltop manhood, asked a girl friend of hers to speak with the lad. She did, and says he: "Don't tell her that you said anything to me about it." . . . Smoke from his fired heart (over Janice Booth) is blinding Bill Knox. . . . A bunch of his boy friends are trying to find a feather for Opie Reed, so's he can do a fan dance. . . . Purely personal pish posh: I intend to read "Anthony Adverse" and "Les Miserables" (pronounced Lay Meez-air-ible, dopes) within the next two yrs. . . . While hiking alone, I generally talk to myself, or, stir up an imaginary conversation, with me taking both parts, . . . while driving I feel off bits of poetry and other lines that come to mind. . . . My sickest moment came when I snitched some of Uncle Tom's Mail Pouch (a variety of catin tobaccer, to you women students) . . . I didn't get sick then, it was about five (5) minutes later. . . . My favorite play is Eugene O'Neil's "Beyond the Horizon." . . . I enjoy reading most after the hour of midnight. . . . H. K. Graves suggests that I use the nom de plume "Heywood Winchellfyre." . . . And so, ladies and gentleman (let's hope there's some of each numbered among Lookout Readers) this is Heywood Winchellfyre, who learned sometime back that the guy with the most opinions has done the least thinking, signing off.

A Friend

ETHEL TITUS WORTHEN

A friend is one who smiles with you,
When all is well and skies are blue.
Who will rejoice to see you win,
And fortune's tide come flowing in.

A friend is one who stays by you,
When clouds obscure your skies of blue.
Who shares your woes, both great and small,
And somehow understands it all.

Wisemen to Tangle With Green On Aquinas Court Tonight; Lose Nine Straight.

Tonight, at 8 o'clock, the West High basketball team will make a final effort to keep clear of the cellar in the local scholastic league when it meets Aquinas on the Terrier court.

Loser of nine consecutive games, the Crimson quintet is coming along at a great pace and is due to throw surprises right and left in the second round when a majority of games will be played on the home floor.

Coach Wise said this week, in brief but emphatic fashion: "We've just about arrived. You can look out for West."

Loss Thriller

Meeting the high flying North High team on the home floor last week, the Cowboys dropped a heartbreaker by a 19 to 18 score. Doped to be the loser by many points, the locals gave tooth for tooth and nail for nail and but for the failure of Ljuk and Burr to make good on a pair of foul tosses with but a couple of minutes to play, the Crimson might have emerged victorious.

The game, witnessed by a capacity crowd, found Spears, Hoffman and McCoy starring for the Cowboys, while Roan, Maroon forward, tallied six points for the winners.

In the reserve preliminary, North won by a score of 22 to 12, despite the fact that the Cowboys led at half time, 10 to 5.

East Wins, 41 to 17

Gaining a bit of revenge for the loss at the hands of the Cowboys in the football finale for the city title, East's Tigers clawed and tore at a hapless Cowboy quintet on the Bengal court Tuesday evening, and took a 41 to 17 decision.

The game was rough, 24 personal fouls being called, 14 of which were chalked up against the locals. It marked the ninth consecutive defeat for the Hilltop squad.

Why want Ad Columns of the Hilltop Record are read. The Record, through 17 years of its existance, has proved itself to be a thoroughly reliable medium of advertising and community news. Regularly, once each week, 8500 Hilltop homes receive a copy of the Record.

Through it, the news of the merchants and the news of activities in the community, is carried to the people of the community. Such a record of achievement has proven to readers and users that Want Ad pay for themselves many times over.

It's the best investment of a few cents you can make. Use a Want Ad in the Hilltop Record.

Broadview Mules Beat Haguenbroad Bronchos 1-0

It was one hilarious evening at West Broad Street school the other evening when the "Dads" held sway and reverted back to boyhood days and boyhood enthusiasm. And featuring an evening of indoor athletics, was a grand polo game, in which an hour or more of more or less bloody battle found the Broadview Mules emerging victorious over the Valleyview Ridgerunners, the Broadenhague Bronchos and the Westgate Centaurs.

It was a seriously fought set of games, with each of the dads astride a kindergarten chair, equipped with a broom, swinging lustily at an indoor balk in an effort to send it between the legs of a full grown chair for a point. Only a single casualty was reported, Byron Redman, goalkeeper for the Ridgerunners sustained a bruised shin in a valiant effort to ward off impending defeat. Several of the riders on all teams pulled Prince of Wales stunts by falling more or less gracefully from their impetuous steeds, but none were mangled seriously in the scramble.

In the initial game, the Mules trimmed the Centaurs, 1 to 2. Then in an overtime battle, the Bronchos took the Ridgerunners, 3 to 2. In the grand finale for the championship, the Broadview Mules outlasted the Haguenbroad squad, winning one to nothing.

All in all, it proved to be a grand evening, and it was decided to make the Dad's Night an annual affair. Other features of the Tuesday meeting included an address by Joseph Fichter, assistant director of education for Ohio; and music by a double quartet of fathers composed of W. H. Jones, D. L. McCready, Frank P. Brown, J. T. More, P. L. Ellison, C. H. Campbell, D. G. Lear, C. E. Johnston, accompanied by Mrs. C. E. Johnston.

February to Close Athletic Career of 10 Cowboy Stars

No less than 10 Cowboy athletes will officially close their respective athletic careers at West High school with the completion of the present semester late this month. Three will receive diplomas with the remaining seven slated to get their sheepskins in June, although their sports activities will cease in February, all having rounded out their allotted six semesters.

Capt. Cliff Boye, star quarterback on the championship 1933 football squad, and two other [illegible] gridder; three years a shortstop on the baseball team and two years a performer on the hardcourt, leads the list of June graduates whose athletic careers terminate the first of next month.

Denver Jividen and Lawrence Michaelis, halfback and tackle respectively, will also become alumni in June, and will be sorely missed when Coach Wise rounds the 1934 grid cell. Both were mentioned on all-high teams the past fall and both have served three years on the grid team. Jividen also played basketball and was a member of the track team, while Mike was a weight man on the latter squad.

Allen Mathews, crack guard for three seasons, will also leave the Cowboy institution in June.

Three other gridders graduate this semester, all of whom could be used to advantage on the 1934 eleven. "Buss" Richards, all-high fullback, heads the list, which includes Bobb Harper, center, and Johnny Latham, whose injuries kept him out of the game the entire season.

Two aces from the track squad will be lost by graduation in June, and will be ineligible for competition this spring, namely Bob Marsh and George Ward, the latter city champ cross-country runner. Both lads have served three years on the squad, and both are harriers of the first water.

But one baseballer will be lost to the 1934 squad, Marvin Southworth having finished his third year last spring. He was an outfielder.

Charity Newsies In 3rd Annual 'Shindig'

Event Slated for February 13 at Memorial Hall.

All callers of square dances and bands playing the "old time" music are invited by the Charity Newsies to enter their third annual "shindig" to be given at Memorial Hall, Columbus, on the evening of Tuesday, Feb. 13. The Newsies will give a first and second silver cup prizes for the callers, as well as some prize to every "old time music" band. Entrance to both contests is free.

Callers and bands should register at once with Howard Poley, store manager for the Newsies at the Newsies' store, 49 E. State St. The public is invited to this dance, which is the square dance carnival of the year, and a popular price of a quarter is made, all proceeds going one hundred per cent to the Charity Newsies. One hundred door prizes will be given away.

West Grads to O. K. Constitution Feb. 9

Important Meeting to Be Held at School Building.

The West High School Alumni association will hold an important meeting at the school on Friday evening, Feb. 9, according to an announcement made this week by Harold Benton, president.

The new constitution will be presented for discussion and plans for spring social activities laid. A special community event is being planned, the announcement of which will be made about Mar. 1.

The association, cooperating with the Columbus Show Case Co., presented the school library this week with a museum case. M. V. Hoover is chairman of the library committee.

All paid-up members of the Alumni association are urged to attend the meeting on Feb. 9.

ATTENDS CELEBRATION

While attending the four-day celebration of the 50th anniversary of the General Baptist church of Duluth, Minn., which is being held this week, Rev. J. W. Loughridge, 45 N. Powell Ave., former pastor of the church, addressed one of the sessions.

GIRL SCOUT TROOP 34

Hettie Douglas, Mildred Sayre, Stacel Sayre, Ann Caffery, Florence Cowgill, Jeanette Flora, and Mrs. Tompson, the captain of Troop 34, were present at the observatory last week when the girls looked through the telescope at the nebula in Orion's sword.

CAMP FIRE NEWS

The Whiteka Camp Fire group held their regular meeting at West High school Monday, Jan. 22, at the close of school. At this meeting it was decided that each girl should choose a hobby and work for the requirements. Mrs. George J. Mitchell is guardian of the group and Juanita Reynolds is the scribe.

The LOOKOUT

By J. N. WOLFE

They still have words with each other up to the pale parlor. The fellyahd boys, they tell me, are arguing about how many words there are in the Eng. language. One chap was so bold as to estimate 5000. Well, chappies, he missed it by more than 450,000. . . . Shakespeare is reputed to have had the largest vocab, of anyone, and Woodrow Wilson, in this country, with 75,000 words at his command. . . . The Barg of Avon is supposed to have made use of 100,000. . . . Apple pie is the favorite American dessert, by far, according to a census taken recently. . . . Cherry pie ranks 10th. . . . And that female who writ this dept. this week,—she must re-write the epistle so it can be read, correct the spelling, and sign the thing. It started in this fashion: "J. N. 'Wolfe' (in sheeps clothing ha ha pish Posh) Well Bright Eyes do you always . . ." . . . Now be a good little lady, and do your work correctly then I shall read you a bed-time story and answer your questions. . . . And listen, sunshine, we don't mind being referred to as one of the "75 yr-old hens" or "you nasty man," but for goodness sake, don't "dare you to print this as is." . . . It makes us stubborn. And so.

It actooly happened when a local girl was invited to a pot-luck supper. They told her to fetch a covered dish, and she, not saying anything to her mother—took a dish with a lid on it and nothing in it. . . . The "boss" here says he'd rather see a duck-race (not a duck race) than a basketball game. . . . It wasn't the umbrella sons, mentioned last week, that rang the bell—but the scissors grinder. . . . Add memories: The old coffee grinder, I used to turn. . . . The grab-bags the grocer gave to the kids each Sat. when the bill was paid. . . . Digging in the cracker-jack box, which Uncle Nic fetched home each Saturday night, for prizes. . . . Arguing with the neighbor boy about who owned the pears that fell from his father's tree on our lot. . . . The dullness of Sunday afternoons in summer and the stillness of the evenings.

Larry Minshall, on Friday last, noted without a tic. Forget not, Larry, that biblical injunction, "Be sure your sins will find you out." . . . Several gold footballs out toward the big ranch have been discussed of and are being placed temporarily at least) under the care of feminine watchfulness. . . . A. Mathews, frinstance, after all he did to help rope the big Tiger, has entrusted his charm (the football) in the care of Betty Cunningham, former East High femme. . . . Always look at the St. John bul. board, and often it has catching notes. Last wk. 'twas: "All experience goes to show—no mud can soil but the mud we throw." . . . Leonard Ruhl, strolling on Hi st. They used to call him "Squeaky." . . . A fortnite back was C. C. Barney's birthday, huntchaknow, bizz was so heavy hyar that we're a trifle back on out of town dope.

And so dear folks, this is the Lookout, which is learning fast that a swat on the back is worth two kicks in the pants and a grin is a three-to-one shot over a tear.—

Offering Over $1400

The Jonah Chest offering at Glenwood church last Sunday netted over $1400 cash and also some additional pledges.

Iky Says:

Thar is no newspaper down hyar at 4 Corners and gossip, accordin to a definishun, results whin nobuddy did sumpthin an sombuddy told it. Down hyar at 4 Corners, Kate McGillicuddy serves the purpose. But her efficiency has bin cut down 50% because her next dore naybor bilt a 10 foot bord fence along side the 2 properties.

But that hain't done no good. The tale gits clean about the village from the other fence and time it gits back to Bill Bill Will (he's the naybor) it's purt nigh a new story.

Gossips is sumpthin like a watch what hain't got no hands. Hain't no good nohi and hain't no good nogadn. Jest gotta letters run down.

Central Pirates Oppose Cowboys In 2nd Round Opener

Locals Scheduled to Meet South on Home Court Next Friday; Games Moved Up.

Having completed the first round of the Columbus Scholastic Basketball League just a step out of the cellar, West's battered Cowboy quintet went into the second round last night on the home court in an effort to make a better showing.

With graduation exercises scheduled for this evening at Memorial Hall, the Pirate battle was moved back one night, having previously been scheduled one week earlier. As a result of the change, South will be met on the home floor next Friday night. The Bulldogs set a hot pace in the first round, but the Wisemen are slated to give them a close game in next week's game.

High Standings

First Round

Team	W.	L.	Pts.	O.P.	Pct.
Central	4	1	142	108	.800
South	4	1	156	118	.800
East	3	2	155	115	.600
North	3	2	125	112	.600
West	1	4	104	147	.200
Aquinas	0	5	92	179	.000

Three weeks later, the District Tourney at Delaware will mark the close of the season. Coach Wise has not yet announced whether or not the Crimson will be represented in the annual affair.

Jividen Lost

While most of the squads of the loop will be hard hit by graduation, West's loss of Denver Jividen will be especially fatal to the Cowboys, who thus far, have not fared so well. Jividen, who will graduate in June, has completed his allotted six semesters of sports participation—and in a great style.

Jividen, known best for three years of service as a gridder, also has two years of basketball to his credit as well as a year of track. He was mentioned as all-high timber in the grid campaign of last fall.

Break Losing Streak

The Cowboys, on their home floor last Friday night, broke a nine-game losing streak and emerged from the league cellar, defeating Aquinas 26 to 22.

Leading at the half, 13 to 11, the locals always managed to keep in front, although a fighting terrier squad pressed until the finish. Hoffman was the scoring high light of the fracas, with five field goals for 10 points.

Called to Old Job, Local Man Injured At Plant Monday

When James Armour, 90 S. Ogden Ave., received a call to work at the Buckeye Steel Castings Co., Monday morning, it was the first call to steady employment he had had in a period of more than a year.

He had been called back to duty at his old place, in his old capacity. It felt good to go to work again, and it was in a happy frame of mind that he set out to start again at the old job.

But it was not to be so, for before the morning was out—before he had actually started to work, he fell over some machinery in a dark passage at the plant, sustaining a fractured rib, a severely cut leg and a lacerated hand. Now he'll be confined to his home for two weeks. His condition was better Thursday, it was reported.

Rev. MaGann to Preach On Bible Study Game

Rev. S. Talmage MaGann, pastor of the Hillcrest Baptist church, announces this week that his Sunday evening sermon would deal with the Bible Study contests sponsored by two Columbus daily papers.

Rev. Mr. Magann is in favor of the contests and plans to point out their value as well as suggest some points that will help contestants save time in finding desired passages. His subject will be: "God's Rule in the Bible Game."

Clash For League Cage Championship

Holy Family and Gift St. Quintets in Feature Attraction Tuesday Night.

In a game, the result of which will in all probability decide the championship of the 1933-34 cage season in the West Church League, slated for Tuesday evening at the Glenwood shelter house, Holy Family and Gift St. M. E. will clash in the feature attraction.

Both teams have emerged thus far in the campaign unscathed in six games. The results, according to close observers, is a toss-up as far as pre-game prognostications are concerned. A capacity crowd is expected to watch the melee.

Other games on the program for Tuesday include: Hillcrest Baptist vs. Avondale U. B.; Glenwood M. E. vs. Warren Nazarene; Burgess U. B. vs. Hoge Memorial; with West Park at the bye post. The regularly scheduled league games will close with games played one week from Tuesday, on Feb. 13.

Dr. Robert Geist to Speak to Nature Club

Capital U. Professor to Talk of Birds and Bugs.

The recently organized Hilltop Nature Club which meets for its second time at West High school Thursday afternoon, Feb. 8, at 3:15 o'clock, will hear Dr. Robert Geist, Capital University biologist, give an illustrated lecture on birds and insects, according to an announcement made early this week by Miss Mary Baker, advisor for the group.

At the initial meeting of the club, 43 members were registered and more are expected next week. Several field trips, under the leadership of expert naturalists will feature the spring program, according to the plans, with lectures scheduled for the winter assemblies.

Officers named at the organization meeting are: Tom Kimmel, president; Dale Jenkins, vice president, and Virginia Haley, secretary. Advisors for the group, all from the faculty at West Jr. and West Sr. High schools are: Mary Baker, Ellen Van Dyke, and Earl Reed.

WEST ALUMNI HAVE NEW CONSTITUTION

To Be Read at Meeting at School Next Friday Night.

The new constitution of the West High Alumni association will be read at a meeting of the group at West High school next Friday evening at 7:30, according to an announcement of W. E. Ferguson, chairman of the constitution committee.

Three classes of members will be recognized if the present plan is accepted, namely: active, associate and honorary.

Associate members will be composed of those who have not graduated but have attended West High two years.

All paid-up members of the association are urged to attend the meeting, where plans for the spring "mystery event" will also be discussed.

Prof. Harvey Walker to Speak to Auxiliary

At the regular monthly meeting of the Camp Chase American Legion Auxiliary Friday evening (tonight), Feb. 2, at the Legion headquarters, Prof. Harvey Walker of the Political Science department at the Ohio State university, will be the speaker.

Prof. Walker returned this fall from a trip to England and in his address he will tell of the attitudes and differences of the people of that country in government. The public is invited to attend.

Have Important Roles In Minstrel Show

L. E. SAUNDERS

W. H. JONES

These two gentlemen have important parts to play in the forthcoming minstrel show by the Hilltop Business Men's association. Mr. Saunders is one of the end men and also performs the secretarial duties for the organization. Mr. Jones will again direct the male chorus which will be featured in the show. The group is also preparing for participation in the Annual Jackson Elsteddfod in which competition it won first place last year.

Semester Closes At Local Schools

Second Term Starts Monday, Feb. 5; Senior High Exercises to Be Held Tonight.

Graduation ceremonies will close the first semester of the school year in six Hilltop schools today. Graduation exercises for the 29 West High graduates, along with more than 400 from other schools of the city, will be held at Memorial Hall tonight at 8 o'clock. Attorney General Bricker will give the address.

Junior High graduation will be held this afternoon, also at Memorial Hall. West Jr. and Starling Jr. Highs will graduate 220 students, most of whom will be enrolled at West High at the beginning of the new semester, Feb. 5.

The program this afternoon will get under way at 2 o'clock. Hugh Martin, former commander of the American Legion in Ohio, will be the speaker.

Elementary graduation exercises were held Thursday of this week at Highland, West Broad and John Burroughs. Information concerning the number of new students enrolled was not available this week.

'Knockemcold' Winter Favored In Annual Scrap With Woodchuck

King (Knockemcold) Winter's annual tussel with John Q. (Sleepyhead) Groundhog is scheduled for today. The long awaited-for battle, upon which hinges the fate of the coal supply, fruit cellar, etc., according to rural tradition, will be held between the hour of sunrise and sunset today.

According to advance notice, the furry gentleman is slated to observe his shadow, which means that he will sustain a knockout blow from the icy mitts of Mr. Winter, who will then rule for a period of six weeks.

Although many are of the opinion that the winner is a toss-up, close observers are familiar with the favorite's deception. It was pointed out that often his frigidity is hidden by a bright smile and a ray of sunshine. Inwardly he is a raging monster.

Following two weeks of pleasant pasturing, the old goat returned early this week amid roaring wind and flying snow, sending thermometers bounding downward, radiators up, and coal bins down. Mr. Winter is the heavy favorite to win today's fracas.

Funeral Today for Asa Manchester

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon from the residence for Asa Manchester, aged 63, of 2637 Parkside Dr. He had been ill for the past year and a half, a victim of nephritis. Burial will be in Woodlawn cemetery, Dayton, O., by Spears & Born.
